HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 6, 1884.

POLICE COURT.

THE LICENSE LAW.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 6.—Joseph Young was charged by C. Leary, Provincial Inspector, with having sold liquor on Sunday, August 3rd. Mr. W. H. Moore appeared for the defendant and entered a plea of not guilty. One witness testified that on Sunday he had got a glass of soda water with liquor in it from Mr. Young. Mr. Young was called and denied that there was liquor in the soda water. He said that the witness had been drinking and he told him that he had put liquor in it, to gratify him, but that he had not done so. He was fined $40 and $4.35 costs.

Joseph Brault was charged by Mr. Leary with the same offence. Mr. R. E. Wood appeared for him. He pleaded guilty and was fined $20 and $2.80 costs.

ABUSIVE LANGUAGE.

John Mason charged Mr. Cressel with having used abusive language. She was convicted and a fine of $2 and $3.45 costs was imposed.

"OUR INDUSTRIES."

A True and Impartial Statement Correcting the Globe's Slanders.

We continue our republication of the report of the Monetary Times refuting the foul attack of the Globe upon the manufacturers and mechanics of Canada:—

OSHAWA.

As to the statement about Oshawa industries which appeared in last Saturday's Globe to the effect that "yet here depression exists as it never existed in years before the National Policy," that in the Malleable Iron Works "the number of hands employed is smaller now than in the last years of the old tariff, and the wages, which are now on an average 15 per cent. lower than two years ago, are quite as low as in the last depression," and that the Cedardale Implement Works "find their English trade has been wholly cut off; they have fewer hands than in 1878, and 20 per cent less than two years ago, while wages have fallen at least to the figures which prevailed in the last year of the last depression." We have heard from the President of the first named Company, Mr. John Cowen, "that sales of castings made by this Company are larger than during any time since the Company began in 1871. This increased output has given employment to a force of workmen, earning in the aggregate a large gross sum in wages. Although it is true that a reduction of ten per cent. in wages has been made in some departments. Even now, however, we pay moulders one-third more than we formerly did.

It is not true that my brother and myself have so little confindence in the N.P., that we have withdrawn all the capital which we had formerly invested in shares in the leading Malleable Iron Works. So far from that being the case, as the Globe's frantic attack upon our manufacturing industries makes out, our investment therein has steadily increased, and will likely continue to increase as the business expands."

As respects the Whiting Manufacturing Company, or Cedar Dale works, we have a letter from one of the stockholders, stating that the sales during fiscal year, ending July 31st, 1884, will represent more than an average of the last ten years operations, and the management on reasonable grounds expect an increase thereupon to the extent of 16 to 20 per cent. for ensuing year. Owing to an enhanced home demand for its product, as also the slaughtering of surplus stock in England by three American houses, it was not deemed prudent by the Whiting Company to continue to incur the heavy fixed expenses incident to the holding of stock and maintaining a warehouse in Britain. Two years ago the Whiting Company closed its premises in Liverpool, but still export goods in limited quantity to Europe, through a commission arrangement which serves their purpose. This company employs at present a staff equal it within about 5 per cent. of its maximum labor list. And I may add that $5,000 of its capital stock changed hands a few day since of 10 per cent. premium, exclusive of dividend, 5 per cent., accruing 31st inst.—20 per cent.

LONDON.

As to the Globe's intelligence under date 25th inst. from London, which mixed up slackness in building and the non payment of dividend by a loan society with reduction of wages, overproduction and the decline of shares in financial companies, in a determined effort to blame everything upon the "N.P.," we wrote as follows to our correspondent there: "How about the truth on the statement that your manufactures are all depressed? none fully employed except biscuit factories and stove works, and not more than one-half the number of hands employed in the various industries that there was two years ago." Here is his reply:

"There is no such depression in London industries as the Globe has described. It is all neatly magnified. There is little building going on in comparison with the booming period of 1881 and 1882; but the mechanics in that line have a fair average run of employment at good wages. Work in the various factories is up to the highest average. The 'Globe Agricultural Works' have done an immense business this season, and are shipping machines constantly, of which there is reported to be more demand than they can supply. Only a day or two ago one of the directors was heard lamenting that they could sell fifty more of a particular machine than they could make in the time at their disposal. Yates' Foundry and Machine Shop, employing thirty men or more, is so busy that an offer of work has been positively refused from a bidding firm. The shoe business is fairly brisk. The Merritt failure in that line lately was due to other causes than depression of trade. The business had been mismanaged, as everyone knows, and formed no index whatever of the general state of trade. That business and collections are slow in mercantile affairs is true enough, but this is a season of dulness. There is no weakness pointed to anywhere on the sheets. The clothing houses—wholesale and retail—are doing exceedingly well. The hat and cap factories are doing a large trade and employing a full staff of hands. The telegraph company's receipts I am told indicate a much larger general business doing than at any time during the past six or twelve months."

GUELPH.

Having asked a trustworthy person in the town of Guelph the following question (which embodies the gist of the Globe's statement of July 23rd.) viz:—'Is it true that manufacturing in Guelph is duller this year than for thirteen years, and that mechanics are not now on an average earning more than they were in 1879 to 1879. Also, that the carriage shops find business dull, and every one had reduced the number of hands?" We yesterday received the reply 'subjoined:—"To a certain extent only. Some of the factories are running with only one-half of the staff that they had last year. The organ factory is about the only one that is running full time, and a full staff. I cannot say positively as to wages, but I think they are about the same as they have been for the last three or four years, only the men are not getting so steady work."

GALT.

In the description of the state of various manufactures in Galt, given by Monday's Globe, an evident effort at fairness of statement is made, and it is admitted "that the continued activity of the iron foundries leaves the town in a condition of comparative prosperity, approached by few places in the Dominion." But, as if this were a dangerous admission to make, and as if the picture must have a shadow thrown in somewhere, it is gravely stated, under the heading: Decline of the Carriage Business, that "a considerable carriage business was at one time done in Galt, and only a few years since scores of men were employed, and there was a large export to various parts of the Dominion. There are now but a few men employed, and not one-sixth as large a business is done." The reply received from a gentleman we commissioned to enquire into the truth of this, is as follows:—"I have personally interviewed all the carriage manufacturers in Galt, and they state that business has not decreased, that on averaging the different departments I had instead a slight increase over former years. There has been no reduction in the number of employees."

THE DUBLIN SCANDAL.

DUBLIN, Aug. 5.—The Dublin Commission opened to-day. The trial of Cornwall and seven others, was fixed for Aug. 19. French's counsel asked for a jury to try the question of French's sanity.

WITHDRAWAL FROM EGYPT.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Earl Granville is preparing a note to the powers indicating resistence to the French proposals for the government of Egypt and renewing his declaration that England will withdraw from Egypt when the prosperity of that country was assured.

DYNAMITE AT NOTTINGHAM.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Three packages of dynamite wrapped in the Irishman and stamped "British Dynamite Company, Glasgow," were found in a letter box of the Nottingham post office on Sunday night. The packages contained a pound of dynamite and were furnished with fuse and cap. It is supposed they were intended to explode by their fall or when they were stamped. The quantity of dynamite was enough to wreck the building.

ENGLAND AND EGYPT.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—In the Commons to-day Mr. Gladstone annouced that the Earl of Northbrook has been appointed to go to Egypt to report upon the condition of affairs, and advise the Government as to what counsel should be given to the Egyptian Government in the present circumstances. The annoucement of Earl Northbrook's mission is received with little favour. He is not considered to be able to cope with the difficulty.

THE GORDON RESCUE VOTE.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Mr. Gladstone, in moving the credit of £300,000 to provide for the expedition to the Soudan, in the Commons, said the purpose of the expedition was merely to relieve Gen. Gordon, not to crush the Mahdi. It would be sufficient to secure good government in the Soudan. The evacuation of that country was now out of the question. England was bound to protect Gen Gordon. Mr. Gladstone intimated that he was asking the members to vote rather on the principle involved than on the exact figure which he anticipated the expedition would cost. His intention was to obtain authority to redeem the pledges already made. It was undesirable to enter into details at present.

Mr. Labouchere objected to the vote asked for. He believed it was a mere sop. Next year the House would be asked to vote £3,000,000 to carry on the work.

The credit was agreed to by 174 to 14. The minority was composed of Parnellites and a few Radicals. No Conservatives were among the number.

REINFORCEMENTS FOR DONGOLA.

CAIRO, Aug. 5.—Mayor Kitchener telegraphs that war-steamers and reinforcements are urgently required at Dongola, to protect the inhabitants, who appear to be loyal.

THE LANGSON AFFAIR.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—A Foo-Chow despatch says the city is quieter.—China has offered to pay an indemnity of $700,000. which the French Minister has refused. Twelve Chinese gunboats have been placed in position at Foo-Chow. Admiral Courbet is furious, and has done his utmost to provoke war.

CHOLERA IN FRANCE.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—One death occurred at Toulon from cholera to-day, the last three deaths these have been among returned fugitives. There are now 103 cases under treatment at the hospital. Three deaths occurred at Marseilles between noon and 6·30 this evening. There were ten deaths during the day ending at 9 o'clock to-night.

THE CHOLERA.

AT TOULON.

TOULON, Aug. 4.—There were four deaths from cholera last night. The physicians fear that the return of the people to unhealthy lodging houses will cause a fresh outbreak, and possibly an outbreak of small-pox and typhoid fever.

AN IMPURE ATMOSPHERE.

MARSEILLES, Aug. 4.—The fact that the swallows which emigrated at the out-break of the pestilence have not yet returned and that there are no sparrows in the city, are adduced as evidence that the atmosphere is still vitiated. The migration of the birds has led to a demand for the purification of the atmosphere by bonfires.

A STEAMER IN QUARANTINE.

CARDIFF, Aug. 4.—The steamer Rishanglys from Marseilles is anchored in Penarth roads. Before leaving Marseilles five cases of cholera were sent to the hospital from the vessel. The physican, however, promises her perfectly healthy.

THE CHOLERA IN ROME.

ROME, Aug. 4.—Several cases of cholera were reported from various parts of Italy yesterday. There have been many disorders at Bargo, San Dalmazzo, the inhabitants believing that the doctors and chemists poisoned a girl who died from cholera. The Pope has presided at several conferences of the clergy, called to decide what relations they should maintain with the civil authorities in case of an epidemic.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 6, 1884.

WHOSE THE VICTORY, MOWAT'S OR MEREDITH'S?

Our readers need not to alarmed. We do not propose to trouble them with a lengthened review of the sayings and doings of Mr. Mowat and Mr. Meredith anent the Boundary question. They as well as the general public must be well nigh tired of the whole subject, and were it not that Mr. Mowat's friends are claiming for him, as we conceive unjustly, a famous victory, we should not trouble our readers fur ther on the subject. As it is we propose to content ourselves with simply placing in juxtaposition, for the convenience of the reader, the more prominent and indisputable facts bearing upon the claim now set up on Mr. Mowat's behalf.

It will be remembered that it was during the session of 1882 that Mr. Mowat and Mr. Meredith parted company as to their position on this matter. During the session of 1881 they both joined in declaring that they "agreed with His Honour that it is much to be regretted that the Dominion Government have taken no steps to obtain, and have hitherto shown no intention of seeking to obtain, from the Parliament of Canada legislation confirming the award" and again just before the close of the same session "That this House deeply regrets that—notwithstanding the unanimous award made on the 3rd August 1878 by the arbitrators appointed by the joint and concurrent action of the Government of Canada and the Government of Ontario to determine the northerly and westerly boundaries of this Province—no legislation has been submitted by the Government of Canada to the Dominion Parliament for the purpose of confirming that award" and "its determination to give its cordial support to the Government of Ontario" in asserting and maintaining "the just rights and claims of the Province."

Between the sessions of 1881 and 1882, the situation underwent considerable change. The Dominion authorities had made it plain that so far as the existing Dominion Parliament was concerned, it would not ratify the award, and the Dominion Government had asked the Ontario Government to agree to a new reference of the matter in dispute, with provision for the government and management of the territory in the meantime, upon terms which would not give one of the litigants an advantage over the other, while the Ontario Government in reply had taken the ground that unless they (the Ontario authorities) were at once placed in full and practically sole possession of the territory in dispute it would be better for Ontario to "wait for the confirmation of the award" by "another Parliament."

In accordance with the position already taken, Mr. Mowat during the session of 1882 submitted a series of resolutions to and for the approval of the Legislature, which among other things declared that it was "Most unjust for the Federal authorities to entangle this Province in a second litigation."

That "an immediate reference to the Privy Council" could only be consented to "on the condition * * that pending the reference, the territory, its population and lands shall * * be subject in all respects to the laws of this Province, including the jurisdiction of its Legislature and Government."

That "it has become the duty of this Province to assume without further delay the full government and ownership of the territory, without reference to the claims of the Federal Government."

And that "if the authorities of the Province should, in the discharge of their constitutional functions be resisted by the Federal authority, the responsibility is to be left with the Federal authorities, and the remedy to the people whom the Federal and Provincial authorities respectively represent."

With these as the declaration of the policy which Ontario should, under existing circumstances, pursue, Mr. Meredith could not agree, and he accordingly put his views on record by moving a series of resolutions in amendment to those of Mr. Mowat, which among other things asserted "that the award made by the arbitrators being, as it now is, by reason of the premises (i. e. the refusal of the Dominion authorities to ratify it) wholly nugatory and inoperative, the whole question remains undetermined, and the parties to the negociations are remitted to their original rights and position, and it is now * * in view of the grave difficulties and inconveniences arising from delay, of paramount importance that an early settlement of the questions in dispute should be come to."

"That * * it is the duty of the Government of Ontario * * to take steps for the immediate submission of the matters in dispute between the two governments for decision by * * a reference to the judicial committee of Her Majesty's Privy Council," and also "to enter into immediate negotiations with the Dominion Government with a view to effecting suitable arrangements" for the government and management of the territory pending the settlement of the dispute, and which, in his opinion the Government of the Dominion had expressed a willingness to do.

And "that to pospone action * * in the hope that the electors of the Dominion will reverse the decision of the Parliament of Canada, will be to incur the risk that the questions as to the territory in dispute may be overshadowed by other issues, which in Dominion politics divide parties, and in the very probable event of the Dominion Government being sustained, it will then be necessary to resort to the means now proposed for the settlement of the matters in dispute, and the valuable time intervening will have been thrown away."

Thus at the close of the session of 1882, Mr. Mowat's policy was an appeal to the people of the Dominion to order their representatives, in the elections about to take place, to ratify the award, while that of Mr. Meredith was an immediate reference to the Privy Council, with a joint Government and management of the territory in the meantime. That was the position on the 9th March, 1882. In June, 1882, the Dominion elections took place and Mr. Mowat's appeal was either "rejected" or "overshadowed," not only by the people of the Dominion as a whole but by those of the Province of Ontario. Such being the fact, there was certainly no victory there for Mowat, while it looked very much like one for Meredith seeing that his predictions had been fully realized.

We now come to the session of 1882-3—the one following the Dominion and preceding the Provincial elections. Mr. Mowat notwithstanding the rejection of his appeal in the Dominion elections and in the face of the resolutions passed by the House of Commons in April, 1882, apparently proposed, as he afterwards did, to go to the electors of the Province, on the second part of the policy announced during the preceding session, namely, that of taking forcible possession. Mr. Meredith placed his views and his policy before the electorate by moving a resolution declaring:—"That this House * * regrets that no steps have been taken by the Government of Ontario for the final determination of the boundaries in dispute by means of a reference to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council of England, although the Federal authorities continue to urge upon them a settlement by that method, and evince a willingness to agree to just arrangements for the administration of justice and the management and disposal of the lands in, and the Government of the territory in dispute pending the reference." This resolution was voted down by more than two to one—or a majority of 28—and Mr. Mowat went to the people asking them to give him an increased majority so as to strengthen his hands in assuming "the full Government and ownership of the territory without reference to the claims of the Federal Authorities." The reader knows full well that instead of giving Mr. Mowat the increased majority he asked for, the result was that his majority in the Legislature was decreased by fully one half while the vote recorded at the polls showed no preponderating majority in his favour. In view of the result the victory of the campaign was certainly rather with Meredith than Mowat.

Notwithstanding however the doubtful approval of his policy obtained by Mr. Mowat at the polls, he in the course of 1883 attempted to assume "the full Government and ownership of the territory" in dispute, and we all know how the collision thus brought about resulted in the twice rejected "immediate reference to the Privy Council, without his obtaining for this Province, "pending the reference" that control of its "territory, its population and lands" which he had previously declared to be a necessary "condition" precedent to the reference.

Here again Mr. Mowat was compelled to take back-water, and adopt the very policy which Mr. Meredith had advocated. Surely if there were any victory here, again that victory belongs to Meredith not to Mowat!

But we have been told that while Mr. Meredith's proposed reference did not provide for testing the validity of the award—involved in fact an abandonment of the award, as an authoritative and binding decision—that the reference agreed to, made the question of the validity of the award the first one to be decided by the Privy Council. This in quite true, but what has been the result? Mr. Meredith declared in 1882 that by reason of the action or rather want of action by the Federal authorities the award was "wholly nugatory and inoperative" and what again has been the result of Mr. Mowat's appeal to the Privy Council on this point? We shall let the Globe's London correspondent tell the result, as he tells it in the daily Globe of the 29th July last:—"I may remind your readers that the questions actually submitted to the committee were three: First, whether the award of 1878 is or is not binding? * * * In opening the case for Ontario on Tuesday Mr. Mowat first dealt with the first of the three questions given above. But comparatively early in the day their Lordships INTERPOSED and after a short consultation in private, informed the counsel that their decision was that the award of 1878 COULD NOT BE BINDING" or in other words without even waiting for the conclusion of the argument said precisely what Mr. Meredith had told Mr. Mowat more than two years before, that the award was wholly nugatory and inoperative. And yet we are told that Mr. Mowat has gained a "famous victory" before the Privy Council Could even Grit cheek go further?

But some may be disposed to say that it is not for any of these things that a 'famous victory' is claimed for Mr. Mowat, but because he has succeeded in securing for this Province practically the same boundaries as those assigned us by the award. Well if that be so, when, where and how did Mr. Meredith ever question our rights to every inch of territory assigned us under the award? And if he did not and we challenge his opponents to produce a single jot or tittle of proof that he did, then the victory all along the line has been that of WILLIAM RALPH MEREDITH, Leader of the Opposition in the Legislature of Ontario, and NOT that of Oliver Mowat.

Why the only time in which the foregoing facts prove Mr. Mowat to have succeeded in his contention is when he was in the same boat with Mr. Meredith. In every issue raised by Mr. Meredith with Mr. Mowat anent this Boundary question Mr. Mowat has come out second best, and despite all the shouting in which Mr. Mowat's friends are now indulging the sober-sensed people of this Province see, that the real victory is with Mr. Meredith, and that had his advice been taken we should have stood two years ago just where we are to-day. For the loss of time and means which the Province has sustained in this matter Mr. Mowat and his colleagues are wholly and solely responsible, and will be so held by the intelligent and discriminating electorate of Ontario.

SEWERS REQUIRED.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—Will you kindly allow me space in answering questions put to me regarding the construction of a sewer. The petition which I have been instrumental in bringing before the Council met with such encouragement from the property holders as well as ratepayers that out of one hundred and four solicited, I met with but one refusal, which speaks aloud for the necessity of such an undertaking. Since then I have been asked many questions by many, how the same is to be constructed, whether by local or general tax, this question, as well as the rest, is not difficult in solving. I do not think there is anything more important affecting our health than proper drainage, and this remains for all the time coming a living question not to be lost sight of, as the difference between water works and sewerage, although closely connected and conducive to health, differs materially, the former may be local, whereas the latter must eventually become general. As for the construction, I am of the opinion, that whether undertaken as local or general, it will amount to the same thing, as for our principal streets where property is heavier taxed, their share of expense will be greater, and the advantage will be with the less taxed ratepayers. How much different would it be, if constructed on the system of frontage, this might be very expensive to some of the property holders and objectionable. Should it be decided to have sewerage constructed by a local tax which must later on become general, it cannot be expected that those in that portion of the town where the main sever is built, should bear the whole expenses to the outlet. As a good number of people are under the impression that Peterborough possesses drainage, I may mention the fact that there is a sewer, constructed some 30 or more years ago' commencing somewhere near Adam Hall's, on George street, and ending somewhere near Mr. Denne's mill, at the river, which, as the Waterworks Co. assures me, is in such a state as to be utterly inadequate for present requirements, and may cave in at any time, and otherwise creating a nuisance where it empties itself, mingling with the sawdust in the not too swift current, to deposit in the Little Lake, becoming a pest-breeding establishment. This idea of many that Peterborough had sewerage has had, no doubt, a great deal to do with the fact that none, not even the guardians of our town, ever advanced such an important question for consideration, and the public will watch with interest whether it will receive the notice it deserves. I do not think there will be a difference in opinion as to the place of disposal for the sewage, which should be below the locks, where the swift current of the river would dispel any idea of a nuisance.

As the time for borrowing money at a low rate of interest is a favorable one now, no time should be lost for obtaining an Act of Legislature for the issuing of debentures for say 30 or 50 years, for the construction of a good system of drainage.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,
I am yours, &c.,
WM. LECH.

COBOURG.

CRICKET MATCH.—At Cobourg on Saturday the Toronto Cricket Club were defeated by six wickets, the score at the close standing, Toronto 26 and 81 and Cobourg 44 and 67 for four wickets. The crease was not of the best, and the out-field poor. The Toronto fielding was also poor. For Toronto, Vickers got 3 and 20, Ray 0 and 31. Collins 10 and 0. Cooper 1 and 14. For Cobourg, L. A. Kennedy got 11 and 9, C. Fairbanks 0 and 15, and C. E. White 0 and 20, not out.

Religious News from Rome.

The Papal Consistory has been officially fixed to meet in September. Probably twelve Cardinals will be created. The Superior of the Francescan brothers of Brooklyn, is making a tour of Ireland, to obtain recruits for the mission in America. Saved from a Horrible Death.

Up to May last I had spent at least five hundred dollars for treatment by many of the best medical men without any benefit. My mouth and throat became badly ulcerated, sores breaking on my neck and legs. I also suffered excruciatingly with rheumatism, grew very despondent, and my best friends advised me that the icy hand of death was fast approaching. I caught at Shaker Blood Syrup like a drowning man at a straw. After taking two bottles I could feel a change for the better. The sores begun to discharge freely, and rheumatism to abate. When I had taken six bottles every sore had healed and my skin began to assume a natural appearance. I persisted until I had taken twelve bottles, and there is not a symptom of the disease remaining, and I feel as well as I ever did. I have gained twenty-one pounds in flesh, and my friends wonder at my improved condition. I have recommended it to many, and in every instance with complete success. I believe that Shaker Blood Syrup has saved me from a horrible death.

T. S. CANNON,
Boston, Mass.

In 1878 I was the victim of a terrible blood poison, and after being treated by three physicians was confined to my bed, not being able to raise my hand to my head, spitting up clots of blood, and reduced in weight from one hundred and eighty-five to one hundred and thirty pounds. I then began the use of Shaker Blood Syrup, and in less than three months I was entirely well, weighing one hundred and ninety-six pounds, and have never had a symptom of the disease since. If it had not been for Shaker Blood Syrup I believe I would have been in my grave.

If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. Its value is incalculable It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system, Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the perscription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough it never fails. This explains why more than a million bottle were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's porous plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

CHOLERA
—IS—
COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

A LIVELY DISCUSSION ON THE APPOINTMENT OF INSTITUTE TEACHERS.

The Staff Filled—Two of the Old Teachers Retained—The Salaries Named—Communications and Accounts.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held on Tuesday evening.

PRESENT—Messrs. Stevenson (Chairman), Dumble, Errett, Weir, Kendry, Denne, Rutherford, Sawers, Wrighton, Sproule, Millar, Stratton, Cox and Burnham.

The minutes of the last regular meeting, and of a special meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Dr. Tassie, in reply to a notification of his appointment as Principal of the Collegiate Institute.—Received.

Similar communications were read from Messrs. J. H. Long and L. E. Horning.—Received.

From B. Earle, in reference to certain objections urged against his reappointment as a teacher, and stating that in future their would be no grounds for them.—Received.

Accounts were read from W. J. Robertson, $12, and E. Odlam, $20, and were ordered to be paid.

APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. DUMBLE read the following report of the Committee on Appointments :—

The Committee on Appointments beg to report:

That the better to enable them to select a staff of teachers from amongst the forty applicants it was thought prudent to request Dr. Tassie to attend before the Committee at the expense of the Board.

This he did, and Your Committee on his advice now recommend to the Board that Mr. Horning be appointed Mathematical Master, and Mr. Long Modern Language Master, at salaries of $900 a year respectively.

Your Committee, at the request of Dr. Tassie, recommend that a teacher be appointed for the primary department of the High School at a salary of $ a year.

Respecting the appointment of an English Master and a teacher for the primary department, your committee have not been able to agree upon any one whom to recommend.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

D. W. DUMBLE,
Chairman.

August 5th, 1884.

AN AMENDMENT MOVED.

Mr. RUTHERFORD moved that the portion of the report referring to a primary class teacher be struck out. He thought four teachers sufficient, and the Board had, by a report adopted, decided to have only four teachers. The Committee had no right to take up that subject, as it was not referred to it.

Mr. DUMBLE said that the Committee comprised the whole Board. Dr. Tassie had appeared before the Committee and asked for this teacher, and the Committee had unanimously agreed to appoint one. It would not be right to back on that pledge now.

Mr. COX said that Mr. Rutherford was consistent in opposing the appointment of a fifth teacher, and if other members wished to be consistent they should also oppose it.

Mr. ERRETT said that this teacher would do public school work.

The report was adopted on the following division :—

YEAS.—Messrs. Dumble, Burnham, Weir, Errett, Denne, Millar, Cox, Stratton, Sproule, Sawers and Wrighton.

NAYS.—Messrs. Rutherford and Kendry.

THE SALARIES.

Mr. COX moved, seconded by Mr. STRATTON,—That the blank in the report (salary of teacher for primary class) be filled with $600.

Mr. KENDRY moved that it be filled with $700.

Mr. DUMBLE said that they had numerous applications from competent teachers, and there would be no difficulty in filling the position with the salary at $600.

Mr. WEIR stated that Dr. Tassie said this was a difficult class to teach, and he thought, in that case, that they should pay a good salary.

Mr. RUTHERFORD charged some members with inconsistency in increasing the amount paid for salaries.

Mr. DENNE believed that the appointment of the fifth teacher for the primary department would increase the number of pupils, and it was on that ground that he supported it.

Mr. ERRETT moved in amendment that the salary be not fixed until the teacher is appointed.

Mr. ERRETT'S amendment was put and carried on the following division :—

YEAS.—Messrs. Burnham, Errett, Denne, Weir, Sawers, Wrighton and Kendry.—7.

NAYS.—Messrs. Dumble, Cox, Millar, Stratton and Rutherford.—5.

FILLING THE STAFF.

Mr. SPROULE moved, seconded by Mr. SAWERS,—That Mr. Earle be appointed English Master in the Collegiate Institute.

Mr. COX moved in amendment,—That Messrs. Earle and Burt be appointed teachers.

Mr. KENDRY moved in amendment to the amendment, seconded by Mr. ERRETT,—That Messrs. Earl and McKee be appointed.

Mr. MILLAR believed that the Board would make a mistake if they did not appoint Mr. Burt to some position.

Mr. WEIR said that the Board would have to admit that Mr. McKee was a successful teacher. If there had been any intention of appointing another instead of him, he should have had notice before.

Mr. DUMBLE said that they were not dismissing Mr. McKee now; he was dismissed some months ago along with all the teachers in the school. Mr. Campbell, who also had a family, and who was a most successful teacher, was dismissed, and there was no sympathy shown for him. Mr. Campbell had not button-holed anyone, nor got on his knees to any person. There had been difficulties in the school for years, and they were caused by two teachers in the school, who had slandered and had stooped to falsehood. Mr. McKee had slandered teachers and given people a wrong impression. He had given trouble to the former Mr. Dixon, and he had been undermining. Although he said nothing against Mr. McKee's teaching, he was an element of discord. He opposed keeping him on the Board, and advocated having an entirely new staff of teachers, and not having a man who, although notified last fall, would only give up a bad habit when he considered it his only salvation, as was the case with Mr. Earle. He asked that no man be appointed or rejected because he was a Methodist. They should not consider what church a man belonged to, and not appoint teachers on account of personal considerations.

Mr. SPROULE said that the trouble had been in the Board a long time. Mr. O'Connor was an efficient teacher, but he did not carry out his own ideas, and when he did try to do so he was sat on.

Mr. SAWERS said that he had admitted that Mr. O'Connor had not enough vim, and what he meant was that he had not enough vim to match Mr. Dumble. He was the man who wanted to run the school.

Mr. COX said that no one could question what Mr. Dumble had said. It was well known throughout the town, and it should not be perpetuated.

Mr. ERRETT said that Mr. Campbell was not an applicant. Dr. Tassie was not appointed because he taught classics, as Mr. Dumble stated, as he could teach other branches, but he was selected because they considered him the best man for the position.

Mr. SPROULE said that he had been asked to vote for Dr. Tassie because he would displace Mr. Campbell. He (Mr. Sproule) had been for a clean sweep of the teachers, but Mr. Earle's letter had staggered him. He did not wish to give a man a shove downwards when he was going up.

Messrs Cox and Kendry withdrew their amendments.

MR. MILLAR moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Rutherford,—That Mr. Burt be appointed English Master.

MR. RUTHERFORD said that he seconded the motion, because he wished to be guided by what the Principal said. If they wished for the success of the school, they should appoint a new staff of teachers.

MR. KENDRY moved in amendment to the amendment, seconded by MR. ERRETT,—That Mr. Earl be appointed English Master and Mr. McKee preparatory teacher.

A point of order was raised and the amendment ruled out.

Mr. RUTHERFORD said that the members who supported Dr. Tassie so strongly should support him in the appointment of teachers.

Mr. MILLAR said that he had not been long on the Board, but he had seen nothing but warping between the Board and the teachers, and he had come to the conclusion that the best way to establish pleasant relations was to have an entirely new staff.

Mr. MILLAR'S amendment was put and lost, and the original motion, for the appointment of Mr. Earl, was carried on the following division :—

YEAS.—Messrs. Burnham, Errett, Denne, Weir, Sproule, Sawers, Wrighton and Kendry.—8.

NAYS.—Messrs. Dumble, Millar, Cox, Stratton and Rutherford.—5

Mr. SPROULE moved, seconded by Mr. STRATTON,—That Mr. Earl's salary be fixed at $900 per annum.

Mr. DUMBLE moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. RUTHERFORD,—That the salary be $800.

Mr. COX said that if Mr. Earle was worth $900 before, and was worthy of being reappointed he should receive the same salary.

The amendment was lost and the original motion was carried on the following division.

YEAS—Messrs. Sproule, Sawers, Kendry, Stratton, Cox, Millar, Weir, Errett.—8.

NAYS—Messrs. Rutherford, Wrighton, Denne, Dumble and Burnham.—5.

Mr. ERRETT moved, seconded by Mr. WEIR, —that Mr. McKee be appointed to the preparatory form.

Mr. STRATTON moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. SPROULE,—That a lady teacher be engaged for the preparatory form.

Mr. RUTHERFORD contended that since Mr. Earl was reappointed, Mr. McKee should also be reappointed.

Mr. DUMBLE urged that it was desirable to have a lady teacher in the school.

The amendment was lost and the original motion carried on a division.

Mr. COX said that he felt it his duty to the town, school and pupils to vote for a clean sweep of the teachers. Those who now happened to be in a majority might boast of having kicked out a methodist, for Mr. Errett had boasted of breaking up that Methodist clique, but he declared that he had never voted for or against a man because he belonged to any particular church.

Messrs. Errett, Sawers and Stratton rose to speak, but were ruled out of order.

SALARIES AGAIN.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. STRATTON,—That the salary of the teacher for the preparatory department be $600 a year.

Mr. KENDRY moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. WEIR,—That the salary be $700 a year.

The amendment was put and carried.

Mr. Errett said that Mr. Cox charged him with electioneering against Methodists. He said that he had not commenced that, and persons made statements during election times that they did not wish mentioned afterwards. He had been opposed because he was not a Methodist, and he had a right to fight fire with fire. He then submitted tenders for seating rooms, but the matter was left to the Property Committee to decide.

The Board then adjourned.

THE CHOLERA AND THE TIMBER TRADE.

We have in previous numbers shown that the formerly despised timber-carrying trade, was now attracting shipping of the highest class, and in fact was getting into more esteem than the corn trade, which used to take all the good-class ships away from it. What then will be the natural consequence of this Mediterranean scare? Why, that the timber trade, from its wholesome and totally unsuspicious character from a sanitary point of view, will become more popular among owners and commanders than ever it was before, the only trade almost that it will be safe to charter in, to be sure of escaping quarantine, and the result will probably be that, low as freights are now, it will be next to impossible to establish any rise between this and next spring. That they cannot be lower we have evidence in the quantity of shipping laid up for want of employment, and a very uncumfortable fact it is to reflect upon. In the northern shipbuilding and loading ports it is stated that "the streets are crowded with unemployed men, who are gradually falling in that listless way of standing about which is so significant to those who have lived much in induatsial centres during times of depression." In Middlesbrough also, which was such a thriving place even two years ago, thousands are said to be out of employment, and sailors in every port are looking for berths in vain.—Timber Trades Journal.

THOS. KELLY'S

My midsummer sale during the past week has created such an excitement among the Ladies of Peterborough and vicinity that I have decided to offer INCREASED INDUCEMENTS to all customers during the next three weeks in

STAPLE GOODS,
SUMMER FABRICS,
SILKS,
DRESS GOODS,
WHITE GOODS,
LINENS,
LACES,
HOSIERY

Etc., Etc., Etc.

which will be offered at prices unparalleled in the history of the Dry Goods trade.

Ladies who fail to take the benefit of these SWEEPING REDUCTIONS in values will miss an opportunity that will surely not offer itself again this season, and perhaps not in years to come.

Patrons will please call early in the day, as there is sure to be a rush in the afternoons and evenings, which will not make it so convenient for purchasing.

I would respectfully state that the prices I have decided to sell at are for the SPECIAL BENEFIT OF THE PUBLIC rather than for my neighbouring competitors, who will, no doubt, commene ticketing their goods for the purpose of selling at prices largely in advance of mine.

One Hundred Pairs of White Wool Blankets,

slightly soiled, must be sold at this sale. Splendid Bargains.

Daily Evening Review

The rapid growth in public favor of THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW becomes more apparent every week. To advertisers it offers unexceptional advantages as a means of reaching a large section of the purchasing public of the town and surrounding suburbs not heretofore attained. Business men will please note this fact.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 6, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Excursion.

The annual excursion of Carswell Lodge I. O. G. T. was held to-day, to Lakefield and Burleigh Falls. It was well attended.

The Fire Brigade.

The members of the fire brigade turned out on Tuesday evening for a hose practice. They intend entering for the competition in Toronto in September and are practising with that in view.

The Art Exhibition.

Everything has been prepared for the opening of the Art Exhibition in the rooms over the Post office this evening. The committee have secured a very fine collection of paintings, &c., and no doubt the attendance will be large.

Cricket at Uxbridge.

A team of the Peterborough Cricket Club played a match with the Uxbridge Club yesterday. The match was decided on the first innings, the score standing 101 for Peterborough to 60 for Uxbridge. We will publish the score to-morrow.

Baptist S. S. Picnic.

The scholars and teachers of the Baptist Church, Peterborough, will hold their annual excursion and picnic at Campbelltown on Friday, August 8th. The Golden-Eye will leave her wharf at 8 a. m., returning early in the evening.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh south and west winds, fair weather, with a few local showers in the northern portion.

Fall Driving Gloves in Buck, Antelope and Dogskin, at the Gentlemen's Furnishing Establishment, George Street.

A Runaway.

On Tuesday afternoon a bolt fell out of Mr. Stock's bakery delivery and the frightened horse sped away with the two front wheels. It ran from the corner of McDonald and Reid streets to the creek near Bethune street, where it got caught in a tree and was captured. The gearing of the waggon was damaged somewhat.

Grand Concert.

A grand vocal and instrumental concert will be held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Monday next, August 11th, at 8 p. m. The best amateurs of Peterborough have kindly consented to be present, and they will be assisted by Miss Ermatinger, of St. Thomas, well known as an excellent and thoroughly trained vocalist. Admission 25 cents. Proceeds for St. Luke's Church.

The Band Competition.

The Fire Brigade Band are practising nightly for the band competition at Bowmanville which comes off there this month. The music to be played will be a quickstep, set of waltzes, an operatic selection and perhaps a piece at sight. If a fixed determination on the part of the members to uphold their already first-class reputation and diligent practice combined with good musical ability go any distance towards securing the best prize, the Fire Brigade Band will, we feel confident, "get thar."

Don't Stay at Home.

This is a poor method of enjoying a holiday. You had better determine to join the excursion over the O. & Q. Road on Tuesday next. A train will leave Peterborough for Toronto at 7.45 o'clock a.m. Fare to Toronto and back $1.25, splendid coaches, admirable arrangements, fast time, a glorious outing. Secure your tickets at Sailsbury's. Owing to changes consequent on opening of road through to Ottawa, the train will leave Peterborough for Toronto at 7.45 a.m., on Civic Holiday, instead of 7 o'clock, as previously advertised.

Bass' English Ale.

Another large shipment of Bass' Ale, October brewing, just arrived at W. Chamberlain's Restaurant. Imported direct.

CHEESE FAIR.

The Fortnightly Meeting of Buyers and Salesmen from Various Districts.

The fortnightly cheese fair was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday afternoon. There was about the usual attendance. Messrs. J. Flavelle, Lindsay, J. Brower, Belleville, W. Cluxton and W. H. Wrighton, dealers in cheese, were present. The market was conducted, as usual, by Messrs. Drummond and Taylor. The cable price of cheese at the time the fair opened was 51s. The following is a list of the factories represented and the number of boxes offered, "c" standing for colored and "w" for white:—

PETERBOROUGH.

Reaboro	110c
South Ops	25c	22w
Bobcaygeon	75c
North Ops	112c	3w

DURHAM.

Perrytown	175c

The total number of boxes offered for sale was 2,180. Mr. Brower purchased the South Dummer cheese at 10½ cents. Mr. Cluxton bought 557 boxes at 10¼ cents, and 50 at 9⅞ cents, all of the Peterborough district. Mr. Brower bought 63, also of the Peterborough district at 10 3-16 cents. The remainder of the salesmen declined to accept the bids made for the cheese of the factories which they represented.

The next fair will be held on Tuesday, August 19th, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and at it buyers will be asked for bids for contracts.

UNDERTAKING.

Mr. A. Clegg's New Enterprise—A Fine New Hearse—Other Requisites.

Mr. A. Clegg has added to his furniture business that of undertaking, and for that purpose has had a new hearse made and has procured a supply of those goods necessary for a first-class undertaking establishment.

The hearse is one of the finest in the Province. The sides of the body instead of being ornamented with heavy moulding, are adorned with heavy glass set in the sides and ornamented by representations of flowers. There are large plate glass lights in the sides and the ends are of bent plate glass. The body of the hearse is surmounted by silver plated railing with gold standards and tips, and gold plated arms with silver hands and napkins. In the interior, the mound (or table) is of black walnut, oil finished, with silver plated trimmings and concave sides of Italian burl walnut veneer lightly polished. The drapery is of black broadcloth, trimmed with gold fringe and heavy gold tassels, and white drapery, trimmed in the same manner, is provided for the funerals of young persons. The seat is covered and draped with heavy black hammercloth. The gearing of the hearse was made at Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger's carriage factory, where the painting was also done, and the work is very creditable to that establishment.

Mr. Clegg has also a supply of caskets and coffins, and the manner in which he has them arranged in the show rooms deserves a word or two. They are enclosed in a large case, which is ornamented with carved work. The doors are lowered from the top, and the caskets are fastened to them, so that when a door is lowered the casket is in view. Thus this part of the business does not interfere with Mr. Clegg's furniture show room, as the funeral requisites are not exposed to view except when they are required. He has a fine collection of caskets and coffins now in the show room. Mr. Clegg has also a stock of trimmings, robes and all such articles, and he has now a well furnished establishment.

Fruit Jars.

Every person putting up fruit should give the the jars the first-attention; without a perfect sealing jar, it is useless going to the expense and trouble of canning fruit, China Hall is the only store in Peterborough selling the improved perfect fitting "Crown Jar" in firsts. Every jar warranted. It costs no more to have the best as the enormous quantities, we handle enables us to sell our jars as low as any house in the trade and give a better jar, Stone Jars and Jelly Cans all sizes at CHINA HALL.

The Troubles of a Camping Party.

A camping party which left town for the northern lakes in the first part of the week met with a misfortune, according to a report which has reached the town. They sent their provisions to Young's Point on the evening previous to their departure, and it was there locked up in a barn. During the night the barn was entered and all their cigars, fancy meats, &c., were carried away. Vigorous detective measures led to the arrest of several of the parties suspected of having committed the robbery, but one of them escaped.

New Business.

Mr. A. Clegg has just completed all his arrangements for the new branch of business. His splendid new hearse (there is only one other as good in the Dominion), is now finished. His show rooms have been fitted to receive the stock of caskets, coffins, &c., of which he has the best assortment ever offered in town. Those who require the services of an undertaker will find everything needed in that line, including shrouds, robes, and all funeral requisites. Mr. Clegg has spared neither pains nor money in fitting out this department. Funerals in both town and country will receive careful and punctual attention in every case by a fully competent man.

The DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to subscribers at ten cents per week.

Personal.

Mr. M. Porteous, who for some time has pleased the public at various musical entertainments with his delightful singing, is, we regret to learn, about leaving Peterborough.

Huckleberries.

A fine supply of choice ripe Huckleberries, fresh from the pickers, just received at CARTON BROTHERS', opposite the Market square. Selling at very reasonable prices.

Coal Oil.

Owing to a "combination" having been formed among the refiners, coal oil is advancing every week. Consumers therefore should take their cans to "China Hall" at once and have them filled, and thereby save money. China Hall has the best quality of oil in town. Try it once.

Daly the Dynamiter.

Daly, the convicted dynamiter, says he was one of four conspirators whose movements were directed from America. The bombs found at the time of his arrest were handed him on a street in Liverpool by a fellow-conspirator who hastened away. The bombs were not for use in Birmingham but in London, where Daly would have handed them to another conspirator. Daly suspects that one of the conspirators turned informer. The members of the society who have arrived from America have their eyes on the man and will "interview" him.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

UNANIMOUS APPROVAL OF MEDICAL STAFF.

Dr. G. T. Comstock, physician at Good Samaritan Hospital, St. Lopis, Mo., says: "For years we have used it in this hospital, in dyspepsia and nervous diseases, and as a drug during the decline and in the convalescence of lingering fevers: it has the unanimous approval of our medical staff."

It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box For sale by Taylor & Macdonald.

WIFE.—What's the matter now John.
HUSBAND.—Oh, that neuralgia and toothache nearly kills me.
WIFE.—Why don't you go to John McKee's Drug Store and get a bottle of Fluid Lightning, you know it cures all such things as toothache, neuralgia, headache, lumbago, earache, sore throat etc. It gives instant relief.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE
AS
GOODNESS
Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

The Greenwich Manuf'g Co's
Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indespensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

"MAY DEW"
The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubborn red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness: Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any address on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

Giroux & Sullivan.

The Banner Week

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Where these Silks are procured, or why they are sold so cheap is no affair of the customers'. It is enough for them to know that they can buy here about 25 per cent. less than the pervading prices throughout the town. Do not fail to ask for our Summer Silks at 42½c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. See our Black Dress Silks at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, warranted pure silk both filling and warp. No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you,

SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system.

For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh,

CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. THURSDAY, AUGUST 7, 1884.

A MARK OF MERIT.

MR. THOMAS WHITE, M. P. whose successful career has been watched with pride by his friends in Peterborough, with which he has been so closely connected, has just received another proof of the high estimation in which his character and abilities are held. The testimonial to his merits is in the shape of a two column attack in the Globe, which under the pretence of giving his history, indulges in a tissue of misrepresentation and ribald abuse, which will be read with disgust by many, even of Mr. White's political opponents. The fact is that Mr. White has distinguished himself and has make his mark, so as he cannot see with the Globe's eyes he incurs its animosity. That is the regular practice of the leading Reform journal, and there need be no surprise that Mr. White comes in for his share of hostility inspired by envy.

The immediate cause of this outbreak of the Globe is that it thinks that Mr. White is likely to succeed Sir L. Tilley as Finance Minister. We must confess that Sir John Macdonald does not consult with us as to how he should fill portfolios whether vacant or not in his cabinet, as he appears to do with the Globe staff, but if the belief of Mr. Blake's organ is well founded, we can only say that should the country have the misfortune to lose Sir L. Tilley's services, we are convinced that a worthy successor to him will be found in the Conservative ranks, and that, for instance, the Globe's nomination of Mr. Thomas White is undoubtedly a good one. Mr. White has risen by his energy and ability to a proud position already, and there is every prospect of his continuing to rise.

The Art Exhibition.

The Committee has decided to keep open the exhibition on Saturday evening instead of closing it Saturday afternoon, as was at first announced.

The Dominion Express.

Mr. Alex. Elliott, agent for the Dominion Express Company, is fitting up an office in the store south of Mr. H. Rush's, where business will be commenced on Monday.

Sheep Killed.

Several residents of North Monaghan, including Messrs. Collins, Armstrong and Grady, have had sheep worried by dogs. Both owners of sheep and of dogs should be careful to prevent such occurrences.

See our new style Collars to arrive this week. Names and particulars on arrival. Habiliment Hall.

The Ontario & Quebec.

Mr. W. Whyte, Superintendent, and Mr. H. Lumsden, Chief Engineer, passed through Peterborough at noon to-day on an official tour over the road to see that everything was in perfect readiness for the opening on Monday.

A Sad Sight.

On Monday afternoon Constable Adams found a boy about nine or ten years of age lying on Queen street, who was, to use a common phrase, "dead drunk." He had him placed in a passing delivery waggon and sent home.

The Sportsman's Pride.

The pride of the sportsman is a good gun, one on which he can depend, and Mr. G. Allen, Hunter street, has for sale a number of just such articles. This week he received a consignment from England of guns of the best makes, which, having imported direct, he can sell at the lowest figures. He has in his shop a fine collection of double-barrelled breech loaders, manufactured by Clarboro Bros., James & Co., H. Richards & Co., Winchester and other rifles, and a variety of other makes, beside a fine stock of revolvers. No sportsman, however fastidious he may be, could fail to select a gun to please him from Mr. Allen's stock. The prices range from $100 down, and the articles have all the latest improvements for guaranteeing accuracy and safety and for fine finish.

THE ART EXHIBITION.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION PROVIDE A TREAT.

A Fine and Large Collection of Paintings, Engravings, etc.—A Room Filled with Interesting Curiosities.

The exhibition of works of art and curiosities, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, was opened on Wednesday evening. They have secured a large collection of these articles, which are exhibited in the rooms over the post office. Three of these rooms are used for the display, and the Committee have shown considerable taste and care in arranging the articles. On Wednesday evening the Fire Brigade Band furnished some of their excellent music.

The attendance on the first evening was not so large as might be expected, or as the nature of the exhibition would warrant.

THE OIL PAINTINGS.

As might be expected these present a most mixed variety, from the carefully executed production of the master down to the crude attempt of the novice. They are on the whole well hung and the best possible advantage has been made of the light.

The first picture to attract one's attention is Normandy Cattle (No. 1), by W. H. Howe. This is a painting before which one could sit for half an hour. The artist has apparently tried to show what he could do with the simplest materials: The sky is of a uniform color, so is the field in which the cattle stand, and his distances are most unobtrusively marked. The interesting question why it is that cattle alone so intensify the effects of a landscape, this picture admirably answers: They present a variety of color, a variety of form, and convey the general theme of the painting better than mere inanimate objects.

Jealously (No. 3) is not so good. The colouring is brilliant, the conception bold; but the treatment is not as good as the materials could easily have warranted.

In J. W. Barnsley's Old Bridge at Grie (No. 4), the perspective is excellent; the foreground also merits attention.

The next pictures on the list deserving of mention, Numbers 9 to 14, are amongst the best in the collection, especially the two portraits (Nos. 10 and 14). A Farm Yard (No. 24) by T. A. Ramsay, is an exquisite little bit of painting.

To Nos. 25 and 31 (Fairy Lake and Plaques), no doubt much attention will be paid—and deservedly. Fairy Lake the public have seen before; the Plaques are exquisite. They are by E. Roper.

Our local artists have contributed their share to the collection. T. Workman exhibits two portraits; Miss A. Hamilton two pictures of Canadian scenery and a pair of Plaques; Mrs. Fife sends five landscapes; the name of J. W. Tate, sr., is seen twice; and B. Hudson shows a crayon.

THE WATER COLORS.

No. 44, Dutch Fishing Boats (A Cassies) labours under the disadvantage of being placed in the worst light in the room. It is however, well worth study. In the painting of the sea the artist has been most successful, and the way this success has been attained is highly interesting. If we may be allowed to hint a change of place for this picture would be appreciated.

No. 30, Indian Scene by Verner one could look at with pleasure for a long time.

The same may be said of Nos. 51 and 52, Cattle by T. Lockhart, even with the recollection of No. 1 in our mind. An Irish Face (No. 32), E. Nicoll, R.A., is admirable. This little study again enforces the fact that simplicity is very often more effective than elaboration of detail—a hint which amateurs should impress upon their minds.

Road at Marlotte (No. 43) by Paul Rossert is another example of this. The bold, free touch shows an experienced hand.

ENGRAVINGS.

The excellent taste shown in the engravings is commendable. They are almost without exception after the best artists—Alma Tadema Maclise, Holman Hunt, Rosa Bonheur, Gustave Dore, etc. It is unnecessary to make any comments on them as doubtless they are one and all well known. No. 65 one of the first Steel Engravings ever printed is highly interesting.

We will give a further notice of the display in another issue. It is to be hoped that the attendance during the remainder of the time that the exhibition will be open—this evening, to-morrow afternoon and evening, and Saturday afternoon—will be much larger. This is an opportunity of viewing a really fine collection of works of art that our citizens may not have again for some time, and they should, if they wish to enjoy a rare treat, visit the exhibition before it closes.

NOTE.—By a notice in another column it will be seen that the exhibition is to be on view on Saturday evening also.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate winds, shifting to north-west and north; fair weather; with lower temperature to-night.

Mothers.

If you are failing, broken, worn out and nervous, use "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists.

New Trouserings, West of England and other noted makes, in stripes, checks and other Fashionable Patterns, at Andrew McNeil's, George street.

MR. MILLS' CHANGE.

Why does the Globe not attack Mr. McMAHON, Q. C.? Mr. McMahon was employed by the Grit Government of Mr. Mackenzie to do before the Boundary Arbitrators in 1878 what Mr. McCarthy did before the Judicial Committee in 1884. He was engaged professionally, by Mr. Mackenzie, to fight the Dominion case against the Ontario case. If Mr. McCarthy is a "traitor to Ontario," for opposing Mr. Mowat before the Judicial Committee, was not Mr. McMahon a "traitor to Ontario" when he accepted a fee from Mr. Mackenzie to oppose Mr. Mowat before the Arbitrators? But Mr. McMahon is a good Grit; and therefore there was nothing wrong in his doing what the Tory Mr. McCarthy did.

Perhaps it might be as well to remind the Globe that Mr. Mills was a member of the Mackenzie Government when, in 1878, it paid a fee to Mr. McMahon to conduct the "robbery of Ontario," case before the Boundary Arbitrators. As a member of the Grit Government of the day, Mr. Mills was a party to the "robbery" proposal. But Mr. Mills is lauded to the skies to-day because he happens to be in the pay of the province, while Mr. McCarthy is abused for accepting a professional fee from Manitoba.—Ottawa Citizen.

CROPS.—The crops in this section are in a favorable condition. The fall wheat and early barley are nearly all harvested; spring wheat will be ripe in about a week. The late barley oats and peas promise well.

SCHOOL SECTION.—The school of Section No. 4, which has been kept closed this year, owing to dissatisfaction of the ratepayers and trustees, is going to be reopened on the 15th of August. Miss Chase has been appointed teacher.

DEER.—Last week Mr. Thomas Nicholls saw two fine deer running through his farm. Mr. Nicholls says that hounds were after them, people should keep their hounds at home as it is not lawful for them to run at large at this season of the year,

CORRECTION.—Your correspondent made a slight mistake in your last week's issue, It was Mr. John Telford who lost his farm buildings by fire, instead of Mr. Tedford.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Harvey Council met at the Clerk's office on Monday the 4th day of Aug. 1884.—All the members present—The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. A By-law was passed, levying the rates and taxes for 1884:—County purposes $662,30;—Township purposes $597;—Trustees Requisitions, S.S. No. 1 $270;—S.S. No. 2 $250,—S.S. No. 3 $220,—S.S. No. 4 none S.S. No. 5 $325,—S.S. No. 6 $120 and S.S. No. 7 $220—A By-law was passed re-appointing Wm. Irwin Esq., collector of rates for 1884. The Clerk was instructed to remove Lot No. 4 Con. 1 from the assessment of of John Carnegie, M.P.P., as it belonged to the Dominion Government at the time the assessor was assessing. The Clerk was also instructed to notify the County Treasurer to remove from his books the two days of statute labour charged against W½ lot 23 Con. 11 Harvey for 1883 and accept the balance of the taxes from M. McConnell the present owner. The Council accepted an offer made by Mr. Steele to make an underdrain to draw the water from the pond hole on the public highway opposite lots 18 in the 16th and 17th Concessions for the sum of $5. the Council adjourned to meet at Scott's Mills on Monday the 6th of October next.

MIDLAND.

BULL KILLED.—A wife of a farmer near Vasey had an encounter with a year old bull the other day. The woman was standing with pitch-fork in hand when the bull approached for an attack. The farmer's wife acting on the defence plunged the fork into the vicious animal's heart. With an eye to business her husband bled the bull and prepared it for the Midland market where everything that is good in the surrounding country is sold. The lady being a country woman of our own we cannot but admire her pluck and remark that the Irish stew served at one or two of our hotels during the past week as one of the regular boarders remarked, (when asked how he liked it) was bully.

ACCIDENT.—On Sunday afternoon, July 27th, as Mr. James Humphrey, of Scarboro, his daughter and Mrs. M. Gladstane, of this village, were returning from Penetang, they met with a very serious accident. When coming down the steep hill on the bush road south of West's brick yard, in some unaccountable way the shaft became loose and the horse becoming frightened all three were thrown out of the buggy among a lot of stones. Mr. Humphrey received some very nasty cuts about the head and face, Miss Humphrey was but slightly injured, but Mrs. Gladstane was severely bruised about the body and her nose was broken. It was feared that she had received internal injuries, but we are pleased to be able to state that such is not the case, and that she is getting along nicely.—Free Press.

The Bartholdi Statue.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The work of getting the corner stone of the Bartholdi statue in position was finished this morning. The large base of the statue was covered with American and French flags, shields, and streamers; above this floated large American and French flags. A United States army band was in attendance and played popular selections. The guests began to assemble shortly after one o'clock, and an hour later the ceremonies began.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 7, 1884.

AN UNWARRANTABLE SCHEME.

A SUGGESTION is being insidiously made by a reckless portion of the Reform press that should be discountenanced by any honest man. Mr. Mowat who is now strutting in borrowed plumes, pretending to have been victorious because at last compelled to accept the policy of Sir John Macdonald, Mr. Meredith and the Conservative party, and resort to the Privy Council to secure by the only legal means our rightful territory, is also, it seems, to shield himself under the wing of the Hon. George Brown. It is proposed that the reception of Mr. Mowat and the inauguration of the statue of Senator Brown should be combined.

To say nothing of the impertinence and conceit of such an aspiration it would be grossly dishonest. Many Conservatives contributed to the erection of the statue, to honor George Brown personally, but not as a party leader. Some gave because George Brown had been a power in the land, one of our men of note and renown. Some gave because at one crisis in our history George Brown laying aside his personal feelings consented to join hands with his great opponent to establish our grand Dominion, and thus deserved well of Canadians, even if he did not long adhere to this patriotic course. Some gave because George Brown had been the leading journalist of Canada, and had to the credit of the country es tablished a great newspaper, which has so greatly deteriorated since it has left the strong hands of himself and his brother. Others gave from acquaintance with him, and appreciation of many personal good qualities and capabilities in him, without any sympathy with his politics or some of his words and actions. Many of these who contributed for these and other reasons had no wish to identify themselves with the Hon. George Brown's party politics, and still less would they be willing to be ranked among the supporters of Mr. Mowat. George Brown was at least a man; he masqueraded in no dead lion's skin; he was not led by the nose by his supposed lieutenants; he did not ask for praise for himself and censure for his opponents because after twelve years of obstinate refusal he found himself obliged to adopt the policy of those opponents. Now that he is no more he should not be insulted by unsavoury comparisons. Let the two things be kept distinct—a statue for the Hon. George Brown, and his little theatrical exhibition, his burlesque triumph for the little premier, who was pushed into his Rubicon—and floundered out again.

WHAT ARE QUEBEC'S BOUNDARIES?

On the supposition that the Northern line of the arbitrators should be confirmed by the Privy Council, the Province of Quebec hopes to benefit by the decision. The Height of Land has hitherto been considered the northern boundary of Quebec; but if Ontario is to extend beyond the Height of Land, as far as James' Bay, Quebec, it is contended, must extend as far north. In case the award of the arbitrators be confirmed, as to the northern boundary of Ontario, the Government of Quebec will not be long in putting in a claim to the effect that that province extends to James' Bay. In view of this contingency, the Quebecois as not disposed to weep over the extension of Ontario as far as Albany River. And the French-Canadians are not disposed to sit with folded hands and see the country north of Lake Superior colonized exclusively by English-speaking people. "The future," says one of their leading journals, "depends upon the sort of colonists who go into the territories north of Lake Superior, and our present opinion is that a fair proportion of them will be of French origin." When Mr. Mousseau protested against the extension of Ontario, on the north and north west, he had not studied the question or grasped the geographical significance of the decision which he dreaded. The confirmation of the award, in its entirety, would give Ontario more territory than is comprised in what have been usually considered to be the limits of Quebec, bounded on the north by the Height of land. But the argument is now used that if one province extends beyond the Height of land so does the other. This would be a question between Quebec and the Dominion, and it may sooner or later have to be ajudicated upon by the same tribunal that is shortly to give a formal decision on the boundaries of Ontario.—Monetary Times.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

BLAKE DESCRIBED.

A half and half policy, a tariff-for-revenue and incidental prohibition policy is as ridiculous as it is ineffective. People turn away from it instinctively as a sham.—Montreal Witness. (Ref.)

NOT A GLOBE.

The Raymond sewing machine manufactory, which is one of the largest industries in the city, promises this year to be more busy employed than ever before, which will be welcome news to the citizens in general. It is understood on the best authority that Mr. Raymond has at the present time orders on hand for machines which will take about a year to fill.—Guelph Mercury (Reform,)

A JUST REBUKE.

Is it wise, then, to portray, as the Globe has been doing, the condition of Canada in the gloomiest, most sombre colors. Is it calculated to advance the best interests of our country to publish to the world, as the leading journal of the Dominion has been doing, that a stagnation of business exists? Such a state of things is to be lamented, but can it be remedied by proclaiming it upon the house-tops, when the policy which the Globe is endeavouring to discredit can only, according to the journal's own confession, be charged with a part of the evil which has overtaken Canada. St. Thomas Journal. (Reform.)

A PARTISAN OFFICIAL.

If it is true as alleged by the Port Arthur Sentinel that Mr. Lyon knew from the first that he had not a valid claim to his seat and yet took part in divisions, he certainly does not deserve the honor of re-election. He seems to have suffered from the undue zeal of the partisan returning officer, who, thinking the contest would be a close one, purposely delayed sending ballot boxes to Fort Frances, Rainy Lake and Algoma Mills, which were reputed to be Conservative strongholds. Mr. Lyon will be a weak candidate if renominated.—Winnipeg Sun (Ind. Reform.)

A QUEER ROAD.

Judging from the sanctity which is invariably exhibited on the scaffold it would appear as though the surest way to reach Heaven is to commit murder.—Ottawa Sun.

BAD REPUTE.

The Ottawa Free Press which as we understand has lately changed editors bids fair to gain for itself the same reputation of odious meanness and dishonesty which so markedly attach a few years ago to the Ottawa correspondence of the Globe.—Montreal Star (Indep.)

METHODICAL MADNESS.

It will be noticed that as far as the Toronto World is concerned, there is a method in its madness. It does not attack Toronto industries. Its writers do not care to injure their immediate patrons and principal advertisers. they desire the country generally to be injured; but their Toronto selfishness forbids them to injure that city.—Hamilton Spectator

ILL BIRDS.

The World has no party purpose to serve in calling attention to these facts. We take our position on the well-worn ground that it is an ill bird which fouls its own nest. Were all that the organ has published against our industries true, the truth could serve no good or patriotic end. When it is false the morality as well as the policy of such a course becomes obnoxious to criticism. If not as patriots, they are partizens, the leaders of the reform party should enter some sort of practical protest against the employment of tatics which must drive the manufacturing and artisan classes in a more bitter opposition to a party that is struggling for a share of the manufacturing and artisan vote.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

A CHALLENGE.

We challenge the free traders to name a single article save flour which enters to any considerable extent into the ordinary consumption of the common people, which has been increased in price by the National Policy.—Hamilton Spectator.

GLOBE INSOLENCE.

The Globe talks to the toiling masses as though they were a parcel of ignoramuses who might be trusted to believe anything provided they hear it often enough.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

MESSRS. BLAKE AND WHELER.

The Globe has not yet discovered the position of emolument which Mr. Blake informed the Reformers of West Ontario Mr. Wheler had accepted under the Ontario Government.—Ottawa Citizen.

PROUD OF THE C. P. R.

"The people of Toronto are proud of the Canadian Pacific in spite of all political troubles connected with the enterprise."—Montreal Witness (Ref.)

TO GO ON.

It is understood that the trial of the Algoma election case will go on irrespected of the resignation of Mr. Lyon. It would doubtless point a pretty powerful moral to reveal the "tricks and manners" of Messrs. Parce, Burden, Boston O'Brien & Co., on general principles.—London Free Press.

A FALSE PROPHET.

Sugar was never so cheap in Toronto as it is at the present moment. When the National Policy was under discussion, Sir Richard Cartwright told us that the price of our sugar would be increased by the exact amount of the duty. But, instead of an increase taking place, there has been a very great decrease. Sir Richard should be careful not to prophesy until after the event. He is more at home in abuse then in prediction.—Toronto Mail.

THE GLOBE'S MALIGNITY.

In our editorial remarks on Saturday last upon the unmanly and unfair attacks by the Globe upon Sir John Mcdonald, we distinctly disavowed any intention to defend Sir John. We simply protested against malignant accusations being made against Sir John or any other public man by innuendo, and defended the people of Canada against the Globe's insulting charge of condoning in the Prime Minister faults such that even the Globe refrained from defining them too strictly. It is just a little "cheeky" on the part of our esteemed contemporary to accuse us of championing Sir John who is now on trial, it is the Globe.—Montreal Star (Indep).

WHY MR. EDGAR?

What the World would like to find out is why Mr. Edgar should be paid six thousand dollars for work which Mr. Lenihan had to 'complete?' Also why Mr. Edgar should be favoured with a nomination in West Ontario, to the prejudice of local men, after failing to "complete" the job for which he was paid six thousand dollars.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

Washington Hotel Collapse.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The coroner began an inquest to-day in the case of the victims of the United States hotel disaster. The jury rendered a virdict that the building had been unsafe for a long time, that its condition was well known to both owners and lessees, and that they, particularly the owners, should be held responsible, and the attention of the district attorney was called to the matter for such legal proceedings as the case demands. The owners of the building are Judge Cox, of the Supreme Court of the district, before whom Guiteau was tried, and the Tolinabee family.

Truth Bible Competition

NO. ELEVEN.

THE FINAL ONE!

Closing September 15th.

A NEW PLAN.

For Persons Residing Anywhere in the World Outside the City of Toronto.

The Largest List, and Most Valuable Ever Offered by any Publisher.

RESIDENTS OF TORONTO INADMISSABLE.

A SMALL FARM FREE.

SPECIAL CLUB OFFER!

Four Pianos, Three Organs, Silver Tea Sets, Sewing Machines, Gold Watches, Silver Watches, and Innumerable other Valuable Rewards

DON'T DELAY SENDING IN YOUR ANSWERS.

At the solicitation of many friends Truth announces one more—the final—Bible competition. Owing to the fact of so many valuable rewards going to citizens of Toronto, this competition will be open only to persons living outside the city of Toronto. Any one residing in any other part of the habitable world will be eligible to compete for these magnificent rewards. The questions—which are supplied by an eminent Presbyterian minister—are very difficult, but the rewards are valuable. We hope the publisher of Truth will meet with the success his enterprise so richly merits. Everything he has offered in previous Bible Competitions has been promptly and cheerfully handed over to the successful ones the moment they are known. We most heartily commend the paper to our readers. They will find it all it is represented to be. Full and complete lists of all those who gain rewards are given in Truth the week following the close of each competition. There will be no change, and no postponement in any way; everything will be carried out exactly as stated.

HERE ARE THE QUESTIONS.

1.—Where is Gold first made mention of in the Bible?

2.—Where does it first state in the Bible that there was only one language and one speech on the whole earth?

3.—When is Inn first referred to in the Bible? by the word inn is meant a place of rest and refreshment, commonly known now as an hotel).

Everyone competing must send one dollar with their answers, for six months subscription to Truth. And aside from the rewards themselves they will find that they have made the best investment of one dollar they ever did. Truth is full and big value for the money. Bear in mind that you pay nothing extra for the privilege of competing for these costly rewards, as you will get Truth for six months in any case for your one dollar, which is the regular subscription price, and will also get one of these rewards, provided you answers are correct, and reach Truth office in time. Don't delay.

Read the great list of

201 to 252—Fifty-two elegant Triple-plated Butter Knives	52 00

The above magnificent list of awards will be given to the first two hundred and fifty-two persons who send in correct answers to each of the three Bible questions given above. Then follows the big list of

MIDDLE REWARDS.

1.—FIVE ACRES OF BEAUTIFULLY SITUATED LAND, adjoining the corporation of Niagara Falls, free from all encumbrance, clear title, splendidly situated for fruit raising, sloping gently towards the south, overlooking the town, and within sound of the great cataract; not a stump nor an uneven foot of ground in it; land on opposite side of road held at $1,000 per acre	$3,000
2.—One beautiful Square Grand Rosewood Piano, by Stevenson & Co	$550 00
3.—One elegant Cabinet Organ, by the celebrated firm of Bell & Co	250 00
4.—One beautiful Silver Tea Service, best made, quadruple plate, 6 pieces	100 00

60 to 111.—Fifty-two volumes Chambers' Etymological Dictionary	156 00
112 to 359.—Two hundred and forty seven Ladies' Solid Rolled Gold Brooches, new and elegant designs	494 00
360 to 505.—One hundred and forty-five silver-plated Butter knives	145 00

These five acres of land above described will be given to the persons rending the middle correct answer of the whole competition, from first to last. The five hundred and four costly articles beginning with the piano, that follow No. 1 of these middle awards, will be given to the five hundred and four persons who send the next correct answers following the middle or centre reward that takes the farm. The land mentioned above could be divided up into building lots and sold to great advantage, as there are no vacant houses in the town of Clifton or Niagara Falls, as it is now called. Then, that even the last ones may not feel that they are to be left out, Truth will give a series of

CONSOLATION REWARDS.

—Beginning with another of those fine pianos, by Stevenson & Co., which have been received with so much satisfaction by the prize winners in previous competitions	$550 00
2.—Then follows another Bell Organ	250 00
3.—Another Silver Tea Set, 6 pieces, best quadruple plate	100 00
4.—Gentleman's Solid Gold Genuine Elgin Watch	100 00
5.—Lady's solid gold genuine Elgin Watch	95 00
6.—One celebrated "New Home" Sewing Machine	65 00
7 to 11.—Five beautiful heavy Black Silk Dresses	250 00
12 to 29.—Eighteen Solid Coin Silver Watches	450 00
30 to 41.—Twelve Ladies' Solid Coin Silver Hunting-case Watches	240 00
42 to 57.—Sixteen solid Nickle Silver Watches	240 00
58 to 71.—Fourteen renowned Waterbury Watches	70 00
72 to 209.—One hundred and thirty-eight elegantly bound volumes of Universal Cyclopedia	424 00
210 to 311.—One hundred and two Ladies' Fine Rolled Gold Pins or Brooches	204 00
312 to 401.—Ninety Solid Triple Silver-plated Butter Knives	90 00

The further you live from Toronto the better you can compete for these last or consolation rewards. Bear in mind that it is the last correct answer received at the office of Truth that gets number one in these consolation rewards. The offer is open only to the 15th September, and as long as your letter bears the post mark, where mailed, of the date of 15th September, it will take its place in the order received at Truth office Fifteen days after date of closing will be allowed for letters from distant points to reach Toronto, but don't forget your letter must not bear a later post mark than September 15. All competing must send with their answers one dollar for six months' subscription to Truth, which will be sent to any desired address for the twelve months. Wherever you live, outside Toronto, you can compete at any time between now and the closing day for either the first or middle rewards, and as well as, of course, for the consolation rewards. Some one will get those five acres of land—why not you? Look up your Bible now, and see if you can find the answers to these questions. It will do you good, apart from the opportunity you have of obtaing a valuable reward in addition to Truth

SPECIAL CLUB OFFER.

If twenty-five persons join and send $50 each one of the twenty-five whose answers are correct will get their choice of a solid rolled gold brooch, new and elegant design, worth at retail two dollars; a Chambers' Etymological Dictionary, worth about same amount; a World's Universal Cyclopædia, or a volume elegantly bound of Shakespeare's Complete Works. Of course, each of the club will have the same opportunity of gaining one of the rewards in the regular list (in addition to the certainty of one of the prizes aforesaid), as though they had sent in singly. This is simply an extra inducement to clubs.

The rewards in last competition were very widely scattered over Ontario and Quebec. In fact every Province was represented in the last, not excepting British Columbia. A great many also went to the States.

No information will be given any one beyond what has above been stated. So don't waste time by waiting, but send in your answers and money now. If you happen to be too late for the first, you may be fortunate enough to obtain a middle reward, and that is where the biggest ones are. Truth directs special attention to the fact that clergymen are not permitted to compete, neither are persons who in previous competitions won prizes exdeeding one hundred dollars in value. This we think exceedingly fair, and as no Torontonians are allowed to compete, the field is now open for a fair and square race for these rewards to any one, as Truth says, on the habitable globe, outside Toronto. No money will be received by telegraph or in any way but through the post-office or by express. One dollar only required Try your skill. You are sure of good value for your money anyway. Address S. Frank Wilson, Truth office, 33 and 35 Adelaide street, Toronto, Canada.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

The Housewife.

A popular domestic journal for American homes, will be sent for one year free to every lady who will send at once the names and address of 10 married ladies, and 50 cents (no stamps taken). Best paper for either young or old housekeepers in existence. This offer is made only to secure names to whom to send sample copies, as we know every lady who once sees THE HOUSEWIFE will subscribe for it at once. Regular price $1 per year. Address, the HOUSEWIFE, Rochester, N. Y.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough it never fails. This explains why more than a million bottle were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's porous plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

How to Make Candy.

This book gives full directions for making all kinds of plain and fancy candy. The receipts for making caramels, chocolate drops, French mixed and all other kinds of candies contained in this book are the same as used by the leading city confectioners. Any one can have these candies at home at less than one third the usual cost. Sent post paid for 50 cents (no stamps taken). INFELICE.

By AUGUSTA J. EVANS WILSON

Author of "St. Elmo," "Beulah," "Micaria," etc.

CHAPTER XXVII.

During the protracted illness that ensued, Olga temporarily lost the pressure of the burden she had borne for so many years, and entered into that Eden which her imagination had painted, ere the sudden crash and demolition of her Chateaux en Espagne. Her delirium was never violent and raving, but took the subdued form of abeatified existence. In a low voice, that was almost a whisper, she babbled carelessly of her supreme satisfaction in gaining the goal of all her hopes, and dwelt upon the beauty of her chalet home, the tinkling music of the bells on distant heights where cattle browsed—the leaping of mountain torrents just beyond her window—the cooing of the pigeons upon the tall peaked roof—the breath of mignonette and violets stealing through the open door. Now she sat on a mossy knoll beside Belmont, reading aloud Buchanan's "Pan," and "The Siren," while he sketched the ghyll; and anon she paused in her recitation of favorite passages to watch the colours deepen on the canvas.

Jealously Regina concealed all that had occurred on the evening of her return, and though Mrs. Palma briefly referred to her daughter's unfortunate attachment to an unworthy man, whose marriage had painfully startled her, she remained unaware of the revelations made by Olga. Although she evinced no recognition of those about her, the latter shrank from all save Regina, whose tender ministrations were peculiarly soothing; and clinging to the girl's hand, she would smilingly talk of the peace and happiness reaped at last, by her marriage with Belmont Eggleston, and enjoin upon her the necessity of preserving from "Mamma and Erle Palma," the secret of her secluded little cottage home.

On the fourth night, Mrs. Palma was so prostrated by grief and watching, that she succumbed to a violent nervous headache, and was ordered out of the room by the physician, who requested that Regina might for a few hours be entrusted with the care of his patient.

"But if anything should happen? And Regina is so inexperienced?" sobbed the unhappy mother, bending over her child, who was laughing at the gambols of some young chamois, which delirium painted on the wall.

"Miss Orme will at least obey my orders. She is watchful and possesses unusual self-control, which you, my dear madam, utterly lack in a sick-room. Besides, Olga yields more readily to her, than to any one else, and I prefer that Miss Orme should have the care of her. Go to bed, Madam, and I will send you an anodyne that will compose you."

"If any change occurrs, you will call me instantly?"

"You may rest assured, I shall."

Mrs. Palma leaned over her daughter, and as her tears fell on the burning face of the sufferer, the latter put up her hands, and said:

"Belmont, it is raining, and your picture will be ruined, and then mamma will rediculе your failure. Cover it quick."

"Olga, my darling, kiss mamma good-night."

But she was busy trying to shield the imaginary painting with one of the pillows, and began in a quivering voice to sing Longfellow's "Rainy Day." Her mother pressed her lips to the hot cheek, but she seemed unconscious of the caress, and weeping bitterly, Mrs. Palma left the room. As she passed into the hall, a cry escaped her, and the broken words:

"Oh Erle, I thought you would never come! my poor child!"

Dr. Suydam closed the door, and drawing Regina to the window, proceeded to question her closely, and to instruct her concerning the course of treatment he desired to pursue. Should Olga's pulse sink to a certain stage, specified doses must be given; and in a possible condition of the patient, he must be instantly notified.

"I am glad to find Mr. Palma has returned. Though he knows no more than a judge's gavel of what is needful in a sick-room, he will be a support and comfort to all, and his nerves never flag, never waver."

The announcement of Mr. Palma's return vividly recalled all that beclouded her future, and she began to dread the morrow that would subject her to his merciless bright eyes, feeling that his presence was dangerous. Perhaps by careful manœuvering she might screen herself in the sick-room for several days, and thus avoid the chance of an interview, which must result in an inquiry concerning her answer to Mr. Lindsay's letter. In this room she would ensconce herself and should he send for her, various excuses might be devised, to delay the unwelcome interview.

Olga had grown more quiet, and for nearly an hour after the doctor's departure she only now and then resumed her rambling incoherent monologue.

At last, she began to cry—softly at first, like a fretful, weary child; and while Regina held her hands, essaying to soothe her, a shadow glided between the gas globe and the bed, and Mr. Palma stood beside the two. He looked pale, anixous and troubled, as his eyes rested sorrowfully on the fevered face upon the pillow, and he saw that the luxuriant hair had been closely clipped, to facilitate applications, to relieve the brain. The parched lips were browned and cracked, and the vacant stare in the eyes told him that consciousness was still a long way off.

But was there even then a magnetic recognition, dim and vague, of the person whom she regarded as the inveterate enemy of her happiness? Cowering among the bedclothes, she trembled and said, in a husky, yet audible whisper:

"Will you hide us a little while? Belmont and I will soon sail, and if Erle Palma and mamma knew it, they would tear me from my darling, and chain me to Silas Congreve—and that would kill me." Oh! I only want my darling, not the Congreve emeralds, only my Belmont, my darling."

Something that in any other man would have been a groan, came from the lawyer's granite lips, and Regina, who shivered at his presence, looked up and said hastily:

"Please go away, Mr. Palma; the sight of you will make her worse."

He only folded his arms over his chest, sighed and sat down, keeping her eyes fixed on Olga. It was one o'clock before she ceased her passionate pleading for protection from those whom she believed intent upon sacrificing her, and then turning her face to the wall she became silent, only occasionally muttering rapid indistinct sentences.

Nearly a half hour passed thus, and his gaze had never wandered from the restless sufferer on the bed, when Regina rose and renewed the cold clothes on her forehead. She counted the pulse, and while she still sat on the edge of the bed, Olga half rose, threw herself forward with her head in Regina's lap, and one arm clasped around her. Softly the girl motioned to her guardian to place the bowl of iced water within her reach, and dipping her left hand in the water, she stole her fingers lightly across the burning brow. Olga became quiet, and by degrees the lids drooped over the inflamed eyes.

Fearing to move even an inch lest she should arouse her and knowing the physician's anxiety to secure repose, the slight figure sat like a statue, supporting the head and shoulders of the sleeper. The clock ticked on, and no other sound was audible, save a sigh from Mr. Palma, and the heavy breathing of Olga.

So they watched until three o'clock, and then Mr. Palma saw that the girl was wearied by the constrained, uncomfortable position.

He knew from the pailing of her lips that she was faint and tired, but he realized that she could be relieved only by the sacrifice of that sound slumber, upon which Olga's welfare was so dependent. If she stirred even a muscle, the sleeper might awake to renewed delirium.

The next hour seemed the longest he had ever spent, and several times he looked at his watch, hoping the clock a laggard. To Regina the vigil was inexpressibly trying, and sitting there three feet from her guardian, she dared not lift her gaze to the countenance that was so dear.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

DEATH.—Mrs. Walter Renwick, Jr., died on Friday last at the age of 24 years. Mr. Renwick has the sympathy of all in his sore affliction.

CROPS.—The crops are far above the average in this locality. The heavy rains have interfered with the harvesting to a great extent, but the farmers are satisfied with the prospects. A large number of farm hands are wanted but cannot be procured.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—The new church is progressing very slowly for want of brick layers, Mr. Wein being so far unable to procure the number he requires.

SAVED ARMY.—The services were small last week, owing to the press of work on the farms. The meetings, however, were very enthusiastic and Lieuts. Billings and Boyler are becoming very popular.

LONGEVITY.—There are in this township an unbroken family of ten whose average age is sixty four. Where can this be beaten?

ORANGE.—There will be an important meeting of L.O.L. 494 in Keene on Thursday next (Aug. 14th.) at 7.30 p. m. As the business is important all brethren are requested to be present at the hour named.

PERSONAL.—Dr. A. Gillespie L.R.C.P. Edin, has been visiting his relatives east of Keene since his return from Scotland. His friends are pleased at his return and also at his success at the Edinburgh University.

ALLANDALE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SAVED ARMY.—A large congregation attended the services on Sabbath evening. Mr. L. Glover read a portion of Scripture and gave some excellent comments. Quite a reinforcement came from Lakefield. There is a good attendance at each meeting and the interest is maintained; but only a small measure of success has, at present, attended the movement, when compared with some other places.

I.O.G.T.—The following officers have been elected and installed for Lodge No. 372 to serve during the present quarter:—

D. Nelson	W.C.T.
Mrs. K. Mark	W.V.T.
Mrs. J. Shearer	L.H.S.
Miss A. Reid	W.V.G.
Jas. Shearer	W.T.
Hy. Bevis	W.F.S.
W. Dinsdare	W.S.
Miss Isa Hope	W.A.S.
Geo. Shearer	W.M.
Miss M. Mark	D.M.
W. Nelson	W.C.
Miss S. Hope	I.G.
Robert Esson	V.G.
K. Mark	L.D.

This Lodge has now 84 members. Saturday is its night of meeting.

APSLEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

GOOD TEMPLARS.—The following officers were duly elected in Maple Leaf Lodge, number 373, I. O. G. T., for the present quarter:—

Bro. John Hales	W. C. T.
Sis. M. Anderson	W. V. T.
Bro. T. J. Anderson	W. S.
Bro. James Henry Ratcliff	W. F. S.
Bro. J. Welsh	W. T.
Sis. A. Brown	W. Chap.
Bro. Duncan Brown	W. M.
Bro. James H. Clifford	W. O. G.
Sis. E. Clifford	W. I. G.

This Lodge is at present in a very prosperous condition.

PERSONAL.—The Rev. Mr. Moran, Methodist minister, has taken up his residence here.

MEDIDAL.—Dr. Bell, of Lakefield, paid a flying visit (professionally) to this part of the country last week. A good doctor is badly needed here and would no doubt have a large practice.

INVALUABLE TO EVERY LADY.
"MAY DEW"
The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubborn ly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any address on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

Daily Evening Review

The rapid growth in public favor of THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW becomes more apparent every week. To advertisers it offers unexceptional advantages as a means of reaching a large section of the purchasing public of the town and surrounding suburbs not heretofore attained. Business men will please note this fact.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 7, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

A Reward Offered.

The Post Office department have offered a reward of $250 for the arrest and conviction of the thieves who recently burglarized the Peterboro' Post Office.

Base Ball.

It must be remembered that the base ball match between the Silver Stars and the Uxbridge Club will be played at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the Civic Holiday.

Take a Trip on the Water.

If you wish for a pleasant day's outing, go down the river on the Golden-Eye with the Baptist Excursion to-morrow. The boat leaves at 8 a. m. and will return early in the evening.

New York Pioneers.

The York Pioneers, of Toronto, will visit Peterborough, on the annual outing, on August 26. As the Pioneers embrace many of the leading citizens of the Queen City, we would suggest to the Mayor and Council that some steps be taken to accord the visitors a hearty welcome.

Civic Holiday Excursion.

Tickets for the grand excursion to Toronto on Peterborough's Civic Holiday, August the 12th, can be had at the shops of Messrs. Ormond & Walsh, W. A. Sanderson, Sailsbury & Co, J. McClelland's or at A. L. Davis & Co's. The route is via the Ontario & Quebec Railway. Train leaves at 7.15 a.m. and will reach Peterborough again about 10 p.m., giving passengers eight hours in Toronto. Return fare only $1.25.

Fall Driving Gloves in Buck, Antelope and Dogskin, at the Gentlemen's Furnishing Establishment, A. McNeil's, George Street.

Grand Concert.

A grand vocal and instrumental concert will be held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Monday next, August 11th, at 8 p. m. The best amateurs of Peterborough have kindly consented to be present, and they will be assisted by Miss Ermatinger, of St. Thomas, well known as an excellent and thoroughly trained vocalist. Admission 25 cents. Proceeds for St. Luke's Church.

Printers' Notes.

Mr. Robert Craig, of the Fergus News Record, at one time employed in the Peterborough REVIEW, is in town visiting friends.

We learn from the Rochester Post Express that at a meeting of Typhographical Assembly 1735, Mr. George A. Perry, at one time an employee of this office, was elected delegate to the State Working Men's Convention, to be held at Utica on August 11.

Personal.

Mr. Hugh Ross, who has lately been a resident of Belleville, has agent become a resident of Peterborough, having arrived on Wednesday evening to take up his abode in this town. Mr. Ross will shortly open a dry goods store in the premises formerly occupied by Mr. O. G. Langford.

Dr. Barnardo will address a meeting for young men only to be held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Saturday afternoon next at four o'clock. All young men are invited to attend.

A Child in Danger.

On Wednesday afternoon a small child stood on the Grand Trunk Railway track at the London street crossing while a freight train was backing up towards it. The child was unconscious of its danger and waved its tiny arms in glee as it watched the train. The mother saw her child's peril, but she would have been unable to rescue it. Herbert Morgan, son of Mr. Geo. Morgan, was riding on a velocipede on the street, and with coolness and promptitude hardly to be expected for one of his age, ran across the track and carried the child out of danger. The mother was so pleased to receive her child uninjured that she carried it into the house without taking time to thank the young deliverer.

CRICKET MATCH.

Peterborough and Uxbridge—The Former Lead by Forty-one Runs.

The Peterborough Cricket Club went to Uxbridge on Tuesday morning to meet the Uxbridge Club. The match was not played out and was decided on the first innings. Peterborough made 101 runs and Uxbridge 60, Peterborough thus winning by 41 runs. A very fine wicket was played by the home club.

The Peterborough captain, with his usual good fortune, won the toss and elected to go first to the bat. Grundy, (the first man in), Norley, Smith and Davis made 20, 10, 23 and 13 respectfully in good style. The Peterborough bowling was very good, as also was the fielding, except in one or two instances.

The Uxbridge team is considered a very strong one. Last year Peterboroug met them twice, and were beaten the first time by 30 runs and played a draw the second.

The following is the score :—

Preparing for Pleasure.

The preparations for the pic-nic in Wallis' grove on the civic holiday are well advanced. A grand programme of sports is being prepared, music and platform will be provided for dancing and one of the principal features will be an open air concert by well-known local vocalists.

On Pleasure Bent.

The annual excursion of Carswell Lodge I.O. G.T. was held on Wednesday. The party, which numbered about 125, went to Lakefield on a special Grand Trunk train, and proceeded on the steamer Cruiser and scow to Burleigh Falls. About four hours were spent pleasantly at that place. One young man while there showed his skill as a marksman by firing with a revolver at a mink in the water, about 50 yards distant. The bullet entered its head and killed it. The return trip was a very pleasant one, and the excursionists arrived home at about 9 o'clock. The annual picnic of the Charlotte Street Methodist Sunday School is being held to-day at Chemong Lake Park.

Lacrosse Notes.

The team which will contest with the Beaverton's to-morrow for the District Championship will be chosen from the following players :—

J. Joyal	R. S. Kelly
P. Myles	R. H. Fortye
M. Tierney	W. J. Scott
J. Henderson	C. Rutherford
J. Howden	W. Rudkins
M. Halpin	G. Giroux
J. J. Sheehy	J. Coughlin, Captain.

The "Brewery Cup," presented by Mr. Calcutt, and held by the Peterborough Juniors, is on exhibition in the window of Mr. J. Hackett's store, where Jimmie Sheehy, who captained the juniors, takes pleasure in showing it to all who visit the store.

Entrance Examination.

There were 92 candidates at examinations for entrance into the Collegiate Institute. The total number of marks obtainable were 560 and 280 were required to pass. Thirty-nine candidates obtained over the required number of marks, but twenty failed in dictation and may be rejected by the department. The following is a list of those who obtained the required number of marks, those who have passed absolutely being marked by an asterisk :—

REVIEWS.

KITTY KENT.—The July volume of "The Young Folks' Library," will be as welcome as its predecessors to the youthful reader. "Kitty Kent," by Julia A. Eastman, is very interesting and has a thoroughly wholesome tendency, as indeed is ever the case with the publications sent out by D. Lothrop & Co., of Boston.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.—The August number of Harper has for a frontispiece a beautiful engraving from T. W. Dewing's painting, "A Prelude." G. H. Boughton, A.R.A., continues as pleasantly as ever to portray by pen and pencil "Artist Strolls in Holland." Mrs. Harrison, in "Some Work of the Associated Artists," describes with the aid of illustrations the Wheeler tapestry and other modern specimens of art decoration. The present season of the year has its effect in the numerous papers appropriate to the tourist in city or country ; Mr. W. H. Rideing describes "The Gateway of Boston," Mr. G. D. Shields, "Antelope Hunting in the Mountains," and Mr. Ernest Ingersol, "Salt Lake City," with an abundance of illustrations in each case. The first number of a series of papers which promised to be of great interest is contributed by the Rev. Treadwell Waldon, who interweaves with a graphic account of "The Great Hall of William Rufus," the historical episodes connected with Westminster Hall and its neighborhood. Julian Hawthorne, in "The Building of the Muscle,' warmly advocates amateur athletics. Dr. Nott describes the medicinal virtues of "Richfield Springs" in New York State. W. Sharpe continues his very pleasing "Transcripts from Nature" with a charming illustration by Alfred Parsons. There are other poems of high merit and short tales of unusual interest. The continued stories progress in a lively manner ; "Judith Shakespeare" reaches a new stage in her adventures, but—well, we will not anticipate the reader ; and in "Nature's Serial Story" some new characters are introduced, who will evidently assist in a satisfactory denoument. The "Easy Chair" and "Drawer," with the other editorial miscellanies, are as bright as usual.

Persons desiring to try the Herbs of Joy, which were sold on this market, at advertised prices can purchase them from John O'Neil, sole agent for this Province, by calling at M. C. O'Neil's Grocery Store, George street, Peterborough.

Special to Gentlemen.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. have received a large consignment of boys' and Gents' English Fur Felt Hats (intercepted on transit to Winnipeg.) The styles are most recent and the prices so very low as to warrant a speedy sale. Go early for first choice.

The Sweeping Remnant Sale

still going on at the "Golden Lion." All ends marked very low in order to clear, and make room for their large importations of new fall goods daily arriving. Fair, VanEvery & Co purpose shewing the largest and most unique stock ever presented to an appreciative public in this town.

Arrived and opened out, an unusually choice selection of Canadian Tweeds in Fall weights, at Habiliment Hall, George street.

Smith's Market,

Peaches, Green Apples, Cherries, Huckleberries, Muskmelons, Watermelons, Garden Raspberries, Oranges, Lemons, Bananas, Tomatoes, Beans, Peas, Cucumbers, Beets, Onions, Lettuce, Radishes, Cabbage, &c., &c. Huckleberries by the quart or basket. Orders for any kind of fruit, either in or out of season, will be promptly filled by giving reasonable notice.

New Business.

Mr. A. Clegg has just completed all his arrangements for the new branch of business. His splendid new hearse (there is only one other as good in the Dominion), is now finished. His show rooms have been fitted to receive the stock of caskets, coffins, &c., of which he has the best assortment ever offered in town. Those who require the services of an undertaker will find everything needed in that line, including shrouds, robes, and all funeral requisites. Mr. Clegg has spared neither pains nor money in fitting out this department. Funerals in both town and country will receive careful and punctual attention in every case by a fully competent man.

WIFE.—What's the matter now John.
HUSBAND.—Oh, that neuralgia and toothache nearly kills me.
WIFE.—Why don't you go to John McKee's Drug Store and get a bottle of Fluid Lightning, you know it cures all such things as toothache, neuralgia, headache, lumbago, earache, sore throat etc. It gives instant relief.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time ; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE
AS
GOODNESS
Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportuuity, and can use it if you need.

The Greenwich Manuf'g Co's
Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indespensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

VOL. XII.—No. 33. PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, AUGUST 8, 1884. PRICE TWO CENTS

Giroux & Sullivan.

The Banner Week

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Where these Silks are procured, or why they are sold so cheap is no affair of the customers'. It is enough for them to know that they can buy here about 25 per cent. less than the pervading prices throughout the town. Do not fail to ask for our Summer Silks at 42½c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. See our Black Dress Silks at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, warranted pure silk both filling and warp. They are heavy in texture, beautiful in finish and quality, surpassing anything in the town at 25 per cent. higher in price. Don't fail to see them at

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you, SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system.

For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh, CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

"Hutto, Tex., Sept. 28, 1882.

ULCEROUS SORES "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore.

SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results.

Yours truly, B. F. JOHNSON."

THE ART EXHIBITION.

A SECOND NOTICE OF THE DISPLAY OF PICTURES AND OTHER ARTICLES.

The names of the Contributors to the Display—A List of the Curiosities—A Collection of Old and Fancy Articles.

The attendance at the fine art exhibition, held for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association, was larger on Thursday evening, and the display was appreciated.

In our last issue the principal pictures were noticed. It might be mentioned here that the articles were lent to the Association by their owners, for the exhibition, and the number which the committee succeeded in collecting together showed the kindness of the citizens and a general desire to assist the Association. The names of those persons who thus kindly contributed towards the success of the undertaking are now given.

OIL PAINTINGS.

Thirty-seven oil paintings adorned the walls of the rooms, including some very fine ones indeed. Of these five were contributed by W. Scott & Son, of Montreal. Mr. George Stethem sent one, Mr. M. Millar three, Mr. John Carnegie, M.P.P., forwarded one by Sir H. Rayburn, R.A., the Rev. V. Clementi a fine portrait, Mr. Valentine Best a fine portrait by T. Workman, Mr. Workman a portrait, Mr. C. S. Dudman the "East Indiaman," Mr. S. Dixon a "Scene on the Otonabee." Mr. W. Hamilton three paintings by Miss A. Hamilton, Mr. D. W. Dumble two paintings, Mrs. F. W. Haultain a portrait by Sir Joshua Reynolds, Mr. G. M. Roger a "Farm Yard" scene, Mr. J. H. Roper "Fairy Lake" and "Plaques" (pair) by E. Roper, Dr. Fife five paintings, four of them by Mrs. Fife, Mrs. J. W. Tate five paintings, two of them being by J. W. Tait, sr., Mrs. John Brown one painting by Miss Ainsley. These made an excellent collection well worth seeing.

THE WATER COLORS.

Of water color pictures there were twenty six, contributed by the following:—The Rev. V. Clementi (three), Messrs. W. Scott & Son (nine), Mr. J. Carnegie (three), Mr. M. Millar, Mr. G. Stethem, Mr. C. S. Davidson (two), Mr. D. W. Dumble (five), two by J. H. Dumble, and one by A. Dumble; Dr. Fife a "Winter Scene" (crayon) by Mrs. Fife, and Mr. B. Hudson a crayon picture drawn by himself.

ENGRAVINGS.

The engravings were lent to the Committee by the following:—Mr. Snider, Mrs. Barlee, Mr. Geo. Stethem, Mr. J. Carnegie, Mr. W. W. Johnston, Mr. G. M. Roper, Mr. A. P. Poussette, Mr. J. F. Jeffers, and Mr. A. Clegg. Messrs. D. W. Dumble, A. Clegg and Geo. Stethem also contributed a number of oleographs.

CURIOSITIES.

The collection of curiosities and articles of vertu was a very interesting one. It would require considerable space to give a detailed description of even the most interesting of them, but we will mention them briefly to give an idea of the extent of the collection, giving the names of the lenders:—Northwest Indian dress, pouches, belt and axe, by the Hon. R. Hamilton. Northwest Indian pipes, sea cabbage, sponge coral, wings of flying fish, South Sea stone goblet, necklet, hair, bark, cloth and idol, Chinese tinder, Indian arrow heads, Madeira fibre mat, vegetable ivory (Australia), Emeu's egg, and South American playing cards by Mrs. Hay. Pipe 500 years old, by Mr. Snider. Old documents of the time of William and Mary, &c., Mr. J. Carnegie. Ancient tapestry, inlaid mother of pearl portfolio and music book of 1737, by the Rev. V. Clementi. Old China, old snuff box, coral, Robinson Cruso in French (136 years old), and a glass dish used by George III., by Mrs. Barlee, South Sea Island fishing line and hook, cocoanut cup, hair and basket, woman's dress and man's dress, by Mr. T. W Nisbet, Sarnia. Bronze Chinese gods, China (Chinese), China (Worcester,) Stalactite Bermuda, rhinoceros drinking horn, Chinese carvings and miniature painting, and coral (Mediterranean), by Mr. C. S. Dudman. Spanish lace 300 years old, and Chinese whisk makers, by Mr. D. B. Gardner. Shark's jaw and sword fish by Dr. Fife. South American humming birds, Brazilian ladies' head dress, beetles' wings, &c., Canadian minerals and black mice, by Mr. J. M. Irwin. Pair silk samplers, ravelled crape samplers, Lake Superior minerals, Chinese fan (ivory), and Brazil nuts, by Mr. A. C. Dunlop. Indian pipe of peace, Mr. H. Grundy. Bracelets (South Sea Islands) and Indian work, by Miss Sanderson. Japanese tray, Scinde boxes, Turkish slippers, Chinese slippers and ladies shoes, Hindu officer's despatch, Chinese enameled copper box, West India seed pod, sponge and coral (Bermuda), Buddhist idol, Burmese god-Maori club, and Moorish pot, by Mrs. F. W. Haultain. Ptarmigans and Australian quail, by the Rev. V. Clementi. Old book, by Mr. W. Beattie. Turkish praying carpet embroidered by hand in the Sultan's harem, Turkish art needle work, and Chinese needle work, by Mr. S. H. C. L. Sheldrake, Lakefield. East Indian needle work, by Mr. W. H. Law. Cage of small birds, wood-drake, deer head and owls, by Mr. B. Hudson. Chinese shoes, by Mr. D. W. Dumble. China and painting on satin, Mr. F. Wilson. Water bottle and other curiosities, Mr. G. M. Roger. Old silver, Mr. J. H. Lefevre, Lakefield. Japanese needle work, Mr. D. W. Dumble. Chinese ivory balls, Miss Dudman. Chinese shoes and stockings, Miss C. S. Dudman. China, Mr. Templeton Brown. Paintings, cabinet of Queen Charlotte, and Tippoo Sahib's cane, Miss Heathfield-Russian paper, Mr. Harry Rogers. Book 220 years old and card of invitation to the coronation of George IV., Mr. J. H. Roper. Model of steam engine, Mr. J. R. Smith. These articles made a collection among which any person who took any pleasure in viewing antique articles and curiosities might spend hours.

In the centre of the room containing the paintings there was a fine specimen of natural flowers, contributed by Mrs. Geo. Stethem, which assisted not a little in beautifying the place. Mr. F. Mason also lent a number of plants.

The exhibition will remain open this evening and to-morrow afternoon and evening.

FIRE PROTECTION.

We are glad to see that the people of Lakefield are taking steps to protect themselves against fire before it is too late. We should be be sorry to see a second Port Perry in our county. It is very expensive economy to make a comparitively small saving by neglecting the proper precautions against fire, at the cost of a destructive conflagration. It is evident that the people of Lakefield are in earnest about securing their property, and no doubt the Council will take the necessary steps to carry out the wishes of the inhabitants.

SCIENTIFIC FORESTRY.

The growing attention that is being paid to the scientific conservation and reproduction of forests is shown by the frequency of the publications upon the subject that are now constantly issuing from the press. We have just received from the Rev. John Croumbie Wood, one of the most fertile and instructive writers on this subject, a copy of his new work "Forestry in Norway," published by Oliver & Boyd, of Edinburgh. The holding of the International Forestry Exhibition in the Scotch capital is certainly being productive of good results.

This volume is the more interesting to us in Canada because the situation in Norway somewhat similar to that of our Dominion. It has been commonly supposed that the forests of both Canada and Norway were practically inexhaustible, at all events within any period that could concern the present generation. It appears evidently however that this has been taken for granted too readily. We learn from Mr. Brown that not only the farmers, but even the lumbermen, of Norway are now lamenting the wholesale destruction of the forests. In some old forest districts the climate has been deteriorated, and timber has to be imported instead of being exported as formerly.

But the most instructive portions of this work are the concluding chapters, which show that the Government has become awake to the extent of this evil. Forests are being taken under Government control, experimental plantations are being systematically made, and a complete staff of forest officials has been established. Still more instructive for us in Canada is the fact that the Agricultural School at Aars has been utilized for the teaching and study of forest science.

When will we in Canada learn by the example in this matter of the leading nations of Europe?

HUDSON'S BAY.

Some of the Reform agitators, who masquerading as farmers endeavoured to check the settlement of Manitoba and the North West Territories of Canada, placed upon their heterogeneous list of imaginary or exaggerated complaints a supposed unwillingness of the people of the old Provinces to see the Hudson's Bay route opened up for commerce. These "ill birds" of course will refuse to be convinced, but the great mass of the people of the Nort-West must now be certain, if they ever doubted it, that the older Provinces, under a Conservative regime, are not so selfish or unpatriotic as to object to the development of the country as a whole.

Not only were two charters granted to railways to Hudson's Bay, but liberal appropriations of land at a low price were offered to aid these enterprizes. Subsequently the amalgamation of these two companies was encouraged, and the grants of land promised to both bodies were continued to the one, and converted into a free gift. A considerable sum was also appropriated for the survey of Hudson's Bay and the adjoining waters, and for a thorough investigation into the period for which they are navigable.

This expedition has started in a suitable vessel acquired for the purpose, and under officers well fitted for their important duties. A number of stations are to be established and maintained throughout the winter, extending from Hudson's Strait to Churchill, so that full knowledge will be obtained of the length of the navigable season and of the movements of the ice. The experience of one winter would hardly suffice to settle these questions, and we anticipate no difficulty in these operations being prolonged till their object is accomplished. It is to be hoped that the result will be satisfactory. Probably the truth will be found to lie between the extreme opinions of those sanguine individuals who represent these northern waters as navigable all the year round, and those who would have us believe them to be impracticable for a commercial route. Even if the season is limited, it may suffice for the transport of a great portion of the grain of our extensive prairies, and if so the shortness of the route would make it of great value.

The older Provinces have no need to fear for the consequences. Canada will be great and productive enough to tax the capacity of all its available routes, and whatever conduces to the welfare of the North West must be beneficial to the country as a whole.

SHAKSPERE.

We continue Mr. Earl's questions on the plays of Shakspere:—

MACBETH.

1. Discuss the character of Macbeth, and trace the influence of circumstances in developing the innate tendencies of his nature.
2. When was Macbeth first printed? Refer to any internal evidence which will assist in determining the date of its composition.
3. From what source did Shakspere derive the historic facts that form the basis of this tragedy?
4. Show in what respects the Macbeth of history differs from the Macbeth of the drama.
5. What does the poet represent as the chief impelling motive to the murder of Banquo?
6. Sketch the character of Lady Macbeth.
7. Why was the murder of Kings a very prominent subject in Shakspere's Tragedies?
8. Mention the allusions to James I. in this play.
9. Explain the relative positions of Macbeth and his wife before the murder of Duncan, and illustrate the change which afterwards takes place.
10. Why is the character of Banquo represented in so favorable a light by the dramatist? Contrast the Banquo of the drama with the Banquo of history.
11. Name other plays into which Shakspere introduces supernatural elements.
12. Did Shakspere intend to depict Macbeth as naturally prone to be the subject of illusions with regard to supernatural appearances, or as having been brought into such a state of mind that he was disposed to become the subject of such illusions; or did he intend to represent the various appearances as real? Discuss fully.
13. "The interest of Macbeth is not an historical interest. It matters not whether the action is true, or has been represented as true; it belongs to the realms of poetry altogether." Explain.
14. Should the Ghost in the banquet scene be represented on the stage? Give the arguments on both sides.
15. Sketch the characters of Macduff and Malcolm.
16. "The theme of the drama is the gradual ruin through yielding to evil within and evil without, of a man, who, though from the first tainted by base and ambitious thoughts, yet possessed elements in his nature of possible honour and loyalty." Discuss this.
17. "The witches are the supernatural beings of terror, in harmony with Shakspere's tragic period, as the fairies of the M. N. D. are the supernatural beings of his days of fancy and frolic, and as Ariel is the supernatural genius of his latest period." Explain. Name plays belonging to each of these periods.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Robbery.—A daring robbery was committed at Young's Point on Sunday night last. Late on Saturday night or early on Sunday morning a livery rig from Peterborough drove into Young's Point with a load of supplies, &c., belonging to the Syndicate camping party, which was going so camp on Stoney Lake on Monday morning per steamer Cruiser. To accommodate the party, Mr. Costello, hotel keeper at the Point, allowed the goods to be left in his stable until the arrival of the steamer and party on Monday. Some time during Sunday night a large quantity of cigars, ales, tobacoo, &c., &c., was stolen from the stable notwithstanding they were under lock and key. On Monday information was laid before Squire Hall and sheriff of Lakefield. Warrants were issued for a couple of persons who were arrested and taken before the Court. The evidence seemed to be clear against one of the prisoners, called John Carroll, who while the investigation was going on managed to get away from the Lakefield constable and cleared out. The Court consequently adjourned until Saturday next, when it is expected the investigation will proceed. Some strange revelations are expected as several are supposed to be compromised in the affair.

A Second Robbery.—Another robbery was committed at Mr. Costello's hotel on Tuesday morning. The bar room was entered through a window over the door and some bottles of brandy and some cigars were taken from the bar. A number of other thefts have been committed recently at the Point. Young's Point is just now acquiring a very unenviable reputation and it is necessary in the interests of the place that all good and law-abiding citizens should do all in their power to bring the guilty to justice as speedily as possible. Every one should feel that his own reputation is at stake. The old residents of the Point are noted for their honesty and straightforwardness, and are no doubt above suspicion. Recent additions should be watched.

Water Works.—A public meeting was held in the Council Room on Wednesday evening last for the purpose of discussing fire protection and received a report of a special Committee thereon.

The report of the Committee was received and a vote of thanks tendered them. A lengthy discussion took place. The principal speakers were Mr. Geo. Tanner and Mr. John Isbister, the former in favor of water works and the latter against. The result was that people were satisfied that fire was a very bad thing as a matter, but that being heavily in debt was worse, and that the Council should submit a By-law when two thirds of the Ratepayers asked it to do so. So ends chapter No. 1 in the water works of Lakefield.

Foresters' Meeting.—The regular meeting of Court Lakefield No. 43 C.O.F. will be held in Union Hall Lakefield, on Thursday evening next the 14th at 8 o'clock.

Council Meeting.—The regular monthly meeting of the Lakefield Village Council will be held in the Council Room on Monday evening next the 11th Aug. at 7.30.

Young's Point Dam.—The eastern half of the new dam at Young's Point is nearly completed. Many difficulties have been encountered in the prosecution of this work principally through the necessity of having to go deeper than was expected to get a good foundation together with the back water. Mr. Rubridge, the Engineer in charge, seems so desirous of having an everlasting dam constructed that he steadily adhered to his determination of placing the base of this dam upon the rock bed. The base is 40 feet in width and will be a fine substantial work—a credit to the Engineer as well as to the contractor. It is expected that the Lakefield dam will be begun in a couple of weeks.

Excursion.—The Good Templars of Peterborough had an excursion to Stony Lake per Steamer Crusier and scow on Wednesday last. The excursionists came to Lakefield by special train and passed through Young's Point a little after ten in the forenoon and returned to Lakefield a little before seven in the evening, having had a long and pleasent day on the lakes.

One Freight Train Runs Down Another.

London, Aug. 5.—At about 4.40 this morning as the freight train No. 26 bound east was entering Ingersoll it ran into a special freight which had preceded it, and which was standing on a siding, but had not cleared the main track. The train hands of No. 26 say the semaphore was not visible owing to a fog, and the man who was sent to flag them did not get far enough down the track to enable them to stop the train before its engine struck the caboose of the special. A moment or two prior to this one of the couplings in No. 26 broke, but the detached cars continued in motion. When "down brakes" was whistled, the front part of the train was quickly slackened, so that the collision was not serious and the engineer and fireman escaped uninjured, as did brakemen Rich and Bartie. Conductor Alex. Johnston, of No. 26, who was on the rear section of the train, ran out on the front platform of the caboose to apply the brake, and was thown down to the track and instantly crushed to death. This afternoon his remains were brought to his home on Grey street in this city. He leaves a wife and one daughter and five sons. One of the latter is a brakeman on the road. He has been in railway life for fifteen years past, and for four years has been a conductor. The authorities speak of his services, at all times, in the highest terms of commendation. He was a member of the G.T.R. Provident Society.

Saved from a Horrible Death.

Up to May last I had spent at least five hundred dollars for treatment by many of the best medical men without any benefit. My mouth and throat became badly ulcerated, sores breaking on my neck and legs. I also suffered excruciatingly with rheumatism, grew very despondent, and my best friends advised me that the icy hand of death was fast approaching. I caught at Shaker Blood Syrup like a drowning man at a straw. After taking two bottles I could feel a change for the better. The sores begun to discharge freely, and rheumatism to abate. When I had taken six bottles every sore had healed and my skin began to assume a natural appearance. I persisted until I had taken twelve bottles, and there is not a symptom of the disease remaining, and I feel as well as I ever did. I have gained twenty-one pounds in flesh, and my friends wonder at my improved condition. I have recommended it to many, and in every instance with complete success. I believe that Shaker Blood Syrup has saved me from a horrible death.

T. S. CANNON,
Boston, Mass.

In 1878 I was the victim of a terrible blood poison, and after being treated by three physicians was confined to my bed, not being able to raise my hand to my head, spitting up clots of blood, and reduced in weight from one hundred and eighty-five to one hundred and thirty pounds. I then began the use of Shaker Blood Syrup, and in less than three months I was entirely well, weighing one hundred and ninety-six pounds, and have never had a symptom of the disease since. If it had not been for Shaker Blood Syrup I believe I would have been in my grave.

CHAPTER XXVII.—CONTINUED.

At four o'clock he took a pillow and lounge cushion, and placed them behind her as a support for her wearied frame, but she dared not lean against them sufficiently to find relief, and stooping, he put his arm around her shoulder, and pressed her head against him. Laying her cheek on hers, he whispered very cautiously, for his lips touched her ear:

"I am afraid you feel very faint; you look so. Can you bear it a little while longer?"

"The fire ought to be renewed in the furnace; will you go down, and attend to it?"

Shod in his velvet slippers, he noiselessly left the room.

How long he was absent, she was unable to determine, for her heart was beating madly from the pressure of his cheek, and the momentary touch of the arm.

She felt numb, sick, giddy, and her heart—ah! how it ached as she tried to realize fully that some day he would caress Mrs. Carew!

Olga slept heavily, and when Mr. Palma returned, he brought his warm scarlet-lined dressing-gown, and softly laid it arround Regina's shoulders. She look up to express her thanks, but he was watching Olga's face, and soon after walked to the mantelpiece and stood leaning with his elbow upon it.

At last the slumberer moaned, turned and after a few restless movements, threw herself back on the bolster, and fell asleep once more, with disjointed words dying on her lips. It was five o'clock, and Mr. Palma beckoned Regina to him.

"She will be better when she wakes. Go to her room, and go to sleep. I will watch her until her mother comes in."

"I could not sleep, and am unwilling to leave her until the doctor arrives."

"You look utterly exhausted."

"I am stronger than I seen."

"Mrs. Palma tells me that you have been made acquained with the unfortunate infatuation which has evershadowed poor Olga's life for some years at least. I should be glad to know what you have learned."

"All that was communicated to me on the subject, was under the seal of confidence, and I hope you will excuse me, if I decline to betray the trust reposed in me."

"Do you suppose I am ingorant of what has recently occurred?"

"At least, Sir, I shall not recapitulate what passed between Olga and myself."

"You are aware that she considers me the author of all her wretchedness."

"She certainly regards your and Mrs. Palma's opposition to her marriage with Mr. Eggleston as the greatest misfortune of her life."

"He is utterly unworthy of her affection; is an unscrupulous, dissipated man; and it were better she should die to-day, rather than have wrecked her future by uniting it with his."

"But she loved him so devontly."

"She was deceived in his character, and refused to listen to a statement of facts. When she knows him as he really is, she will despise him."

"I am afraid not."

"I know her better than you do. Olga is a noble high-souled woman, and she will live to thank me for her salvation from Eggleston. Her marriage with Mr. Congreve must not be consummated; I will never permit it in my house."

"She believes you have urged it, have manœuvered to bring it to pass, and this has enhanced her bitterness."

"Manœuvring is beneath me, and I am unjustly accused of much, for which I am in no degree responsible. Poor Olga has painted me an inhuman monster, but her good sense will ere long acquit me, when this madness has left her and she is once more amenable to reason."

He walked softly across the floor, leaned over the bed, and for some minutes watched the sleeper, then quietly left the room.

Day broke clear and cold, and when the sun had risen, Regina saw that the flush was no longer visible in Olga's face, and that no delirium had succeeded stupor.

About seven o'clock Mrs. Palma went down to dinner, leaving Regina alone with the sufferer and scarcely five minutes later she heard a low moan from the figure that had not stirred for many hours.

Brightening the light, she peered cautiously at the face lying upon the pillow, and was startled to find the eyes wide open. Trembling with anxiety she said:

"Are you not better? You have slept long and soundly."

Mournfully the hazel eyes looked at her, and the dry brown lips quivered.

"I have been awake some time."

"Yes."

"Dear Olga—is your mind quite clear again?"

"Terribly clear. I suppose I have been delirious?"

"Yes you have known none of us, for five days. Here drink this, the Doctor said you must have it, the instant you waked."

"To keep me from dying? Why should I live? I remember everything, so vividly, and while custom made you all try to save me, you are obliged to know it would have been better, more kind and merciful, to have let me die at once. Give me some water."

After some seconds she wearily put her hand to her head, and a ghostly smile hovered over her mouth.

"All my hair cut off? No matter now, Belmont will never see me again, and I only cared for my glossy locks, because he was so proud of them. Poor darling."

She groaned, knitted her brows, and shut her eyes; and though she did not speak again, Regina knew that she lay wrestling with bitter memories. When her mother came back, she turned her face towards the wall, and Mrs. Palma eagerly exclaimed:

"My darling—do you know me? Kiss your mother."

Olga only covered her face with her hands and said wearily:

"Don't touch me yet, mamma. You have broken my heart."

At the expiration of the fifth day of convalescence, Olga was wrapped in warm shawls and placed on the couch which had been drawn near the grate where a bright fire burned.

At Mrs. Palma's suggestion her step-son had not visited the sick-room since the recovery of Olga's consciousness; and being closely confined to the limits of the apartments, Regina had not seen her guardian for several days. About three o'clock in the afternoon, when she had finished brushing the short tangled hair, that clung in auburn rings around the invalids forehead, Olga said:

"Read me the 'Penelope.'"

Regina sat down on a low stool close to the couch, and while she opened the book and read, Olga's right arm stole over her shoulder. At the opposite side of the hearth her mother sat, watching the pair; and she saw the door open sufficiently to admit Mr. Palma's head.

HOW PIPES ARE MADE.

The short clay pipe formerly used by smokers has of late years been to a great extent supplanted by the wooden pipe the manufacture of which is now an important industry. Some interesting information respecting these pipes is given in Consul Inglis's trade report on Leghorn, whence the material for making wooden pipes is now largely exported. Similar works are also to be found at Siena and Grosseto. Selected roots of the heath—preference being given to the male variety—are collected on the hills of the Maremma, where the plant grows luxuriantly, and attains a great size. When brought to the factory the roots are cleared of earth, and any decayed parts are cut away. They are then shaped into blocks of various dimensions with a circular saw set in motion by a small steam engine. Great dexterity is necessary at this stage in cutting the wood to the best advantage, and it is only after a long apprenticeship that a workman is thoroughly efficient. The blocks are then placed in a vat, and subjected to a gentle simmering for a space of twelve hours. During this process they acquire the rich yellowish-brown hue for which the best pipes are noted, and are then in a condition to receive the final turning; but this is done elsewhere. The rough blocks are packed in sacks containing forty to one hundred dozen each, and sent abroad, principally to France (St. Cloud), where they are finished into the famous G. B. D., or "pipes de bruyere," known to smokers in England under the name of "briarwood" pipes. The production of this article is considerable, four hands turning out about sixty sacks per month. Consignments are also made to England and Germany; but, the Anti-tobacco Association will be glad to hear that at present the demand is said to be rather slack.—Timber Trades Journal.

TREATMENT OF OLD TREES.

Old trees, writes Dr. Halstead, are not always profitable trees. The soil of the orchard may be rich, deep and mellow, and the trees remain unproductive. It is difficult to make a whistle out of pig's tail. Some fruit trees are not fruit-bearing, and have little use as foliage plants. A farmer cannot afford to grow wood in the orchard, the wood lot is the only proper place for such a crop. All unproductive trees either need to be cut down and cast into the wood pile or engrafted with new blood and new life. Much may be done in an old, run-down orchard, by a thorough trimming out of the dead branches and scraping the bark free from all insect pests. But a tree that is thoroughly bad, which is known by the poor quality of fruit (or its entire absence) needs to have its nature changed by grafting. This work is a simple one, which any farmer may do. He needs to know that grafting is the planting of a piece of one plant in a part of another. The cion is a cutting set in a tree instead of in the soil. The cions should be cut from healthy trees of the best varieties. Cut only twigs of last year's growth, a foot or so long, and tie them up in bundles with labels. These twigs should be obtained before any signs of spring life is seen in the trees, and the grafting should begin when the buds are swelling. The operation is a simple one. The writer grafted successfully when seven years old, and any person can do as well. It is more of an art than anything else, and although not easy to describe it can be easily understood by watching an expert graft a few stocks, and a little practice will soon give the knack.

Effects of a Theory on Trade.

When, a few years ago, the rapid extinction of the American forests was persistently insisted on, till people began to believe in it, a great stimulus was given to the timber trade here, as shown by the larger importation of 1876 and 1877, bnt when it became apparent that the more buyers were willing to extend their orders the more sellers arose to compete for them, they lost faith in the doctrine, and the trade soon shrank even within the orbit of its customary dimensions, and 1879 was as much below as 1877 was above an average year of importation. Since then the trade has gone on more evenly; but this year the cheapness of freight may possibly, to some extent, cause market cargoes to disturb its equilibrium.—Timber Trades Journal.

Wood Ashes as a Manure.

Ashes improve all soils that are deficient in the principles which they contain, and are especially adapted to root crops, grains and grasses. When applied in connection with bone dust, they produce, says a contemporary, excellent results on turnips, potatoes—all the roots, in fact clover, peas, beans and the grasses. Ashes and gypsum mixed form an admirable dressing. Ashes are applied in variety of ways. They may be drilled in the soil, sown broadcast, or mixed with the muck heap. Repeating the dressing of ashes without a sufficient amount of vegetable or yard manure will in time prove detrimental, but there is not much danger of this mistake. Coal ashes are decidedly inferior to those made from wood, and depend largely on their mechanical influence for value. They are better adapted to heavy than to light soils.

"MAY DEW"
The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubbornly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the check to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any address on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

Tickets (limited to 50) for sale at the station.

Make a Note of It.

Owing to the change in time table on the O. & Q. R. R. the excursion train on the Civic Holiday will leave Peterborough station for Toronto at 7.45 instead of 7.15 as previously advertised. Parties should secure their tickets in good time. For sale at Salisbury's, A. L. Davis' & Co., Ormond & Walsh's, J. McLelland's and W. A. Sanderson's. Return fare only $1.25. Splendid coaches. Excellent arrangements.

Grand Excursion and Regatta.

On Tuesday next, August 12th, the Civic Holiday, there will be at Faucher's Park a Regatta free to all. The following prizes will be offered for competition:—

SCULLING CUP, $50.—For single scullers (amateurs). Best and best of boats. Mile heats, best 2 in 3.

CANOE CUP, $50.—For single paddlers. Hunting canoes. Mile heats. Best 2 in 3.

The winner of the cups three times to become the owner. Should the winner not be able to attend the next race, this heat will stand to his credit, and he may compete at any time before the cups are finally won. The steamer Golden-Eye will run an excursion to the above regatta, leaving the Peterborough wharf at 8 a. m. and 1.30 p.m. Returning will leave the Park at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Hot water and tables provided at the Park. Meals at the hotel. A quadrille band in the hall for dancing. Fishing or picnic parties left off at any point of the river. Return tickets, 25c.

Personal.

Mr. H. W. Kent, of Lindsay, who succeeds Mr. A. T. Smith in the charge of the telephone station in Peterborough, arrived here this morning. Mr. Smith has been promoted to the much larger station at Halifax, N.S., and his many friends, while regretting his departure from Peterborough, will be pleased that he has received a promotion which he has earned by his diligence in attending to the affairs of the company. When Mr. Smith came to Peterborough about two years and a half ago, there were thirty-five instruments in use in the town, and the number has since increased to seventy-six. He has always been found courteous and obliging by those who have had business dealings with the company, as well as a favourite with his acquaintances. Mr. Smith leaves Peterborough on Tuesday, and he takes with him many hearty good wishes for his prosperity in which we join. His successor is said to be an efficient manager, and the affairs of the company will no do doubt continue to prosper in the town under his management.

At Faucher's Restaurant.

Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

Herbs of Joy.

Persons desiring to try the Herbs of Joy, which were sold on this market, at advertised prices can purchase them from John O'Neil, sole agent for this Province, by calling at M. C. O'Neil's Grocery Store, George street, Peterborough.

Special to Gentlemen.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. have received a large consignment of boys' and Gents' English Fur Felt Hats (intercepted on transit to Winnipeg.) The styles are most recent and the prices so very low as to warrant a speedy sale. Go early for first choice.

The Protestant Home

The weekly meeting of the Peterborough Protestant Home will take place on Monday, the 11th inst., instead of Tuesday. A large attendance is requested, as business of importance will be brought before the meeting:—J. G. Hall, Secretary.

Excursion from Beaverton.

An excursion party arrived from Beaverton at 11.30 o'clock to-day. The excursion was under the auspices of the Lacrosse Club of that town, and was accompanied by the team which came to play for the District Championship. The party numbered about one hundred and ten.

Cricketers Excursion.

An excursion down the river on the Steamer Golden Eye, was held on Thursday afternoon under the auspices of the Cricket Club. It was fairly attended. Music was provided by the the City Band orchestra, and dancing was enjoyed on the trip down and on the return. At Faucher's summer resort the party disembarked and had tea. The excursion was a very pleasant one.

Grand Concert.

A grand vocal and instrumental concert will be held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Monday next, August 11th, at 8 p. m. The best amateurs of Peterborough have kindly consented to be present, and they will be assisted by Miss Ermatinger, of St. Thomas, well known as an excellent and thoroughly trained vocalist. Admission 25 cents. Proceeds for St. Luke's Church.

Fall Driving Gloves in Buck, Antelope and Dogskin, at the Gentlemen's Furnishing Establishment, A. McNeil's, George Street.

Lily Lake Swamp.

Mr. T. Hay, Assistant Engineer of the Midland Division of the G.T.R., took out a number of men at noon to-day to commence the work of deepening the canal in the swamp at Lily Lake. This is a portion of the work projected to provide against the water rising as high as it did last spring at the sinkhole. The canal will be deepened two or three feet, and a force of fifty men will be engaged at the work.

A Narrow Escape.

We learn that a man working in the gravel pit of the O. & Q. Railway in the 6th Con. of Otonabee, had a narrow escape for his life on Thursday last. It seems a car was being shunted into the pit unobserved by the man in question, and that in some way or another the break-rod caught him by the thigh tearing the flesh fearfully, but neither injuring the bone or arteries. The wound was attended to by Dr. Harrison, and the man is doing as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

Methodist Sunday School Picnic

The annual picnic of the Sunday School of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church was held at Chemong Lake Park on Thursday. There was a very good attendance and a very pleasant day was enjoyed in the usual pic-nic style. Races were arranged for the children, for which suitable prizes being awarded to the winners, and they were greatly enjoyed. These pic-nics are got up especially for the children, but the older people enjoyed themselves as well, and all who attended appeared to be well pleased with the day.

Cricket Notes.

Mr. Wm. Ross has offered a bat as a prize for the member of the Peterborough Club who makes the best batting average during the season. The winner must take part in at least two-thirds of the matches played during the season. The club also offer prizes for the best bowling average and for the best fielding displayed.

The Peterborough club will go to Toronto with the excursion on Tuesday to play a return match with the Toronto club.

A match will be played here on August 19th between the Peterboroughs and East Torontos. When these clubs met here last year the Peterboroughs won by nine runs.

How to Have a Loving Wife.

The following from an exchange is a fine bit of practical advice on a tender subject:—If you would have a loving wife, be as gentle in your words after as before marriage; treat her as tenderly when a matron as when a miss; don't quite make her the maid of all work and ask her why she looks less tidy and neat than when you "first knew her;" don't buy cheap, tough beef, and scold her because it does not come on the table "porterhouse;" don't grumble about squalling babies if you cannot keep up a "nursery," and remember that baby may "take after papa" in his disposition; don't smoke and thus shatter your nerves, and spoil your temper, and make your breath a nuisance, and then complain that your wife declines to kiss you; go home joyous and cheerful to your wife, and tell her the good news you have heard, and not silently put on your hat and go to the club or lodge, and let her afterward learn that you spent the evening at the opera or at a fancy ball with Mrs. Dash. Love your wife; be patient; remember you are not perfect, but try to be; let vulgar company alone; spend your evenings with your wife, and live a decent, Christian life, and your wife will be loving and true—if you did not marry a heartless beauty, without sense or worth; if you did, who is to blame if you suffer the consequences?

$10,000.00
IN LADIES' JOURNAL
Bible Competition No. 7.
Closing September 11th,
OPEN TO THE WORLD
GREAT CLUB OFFER.

The Leading Rewards are Lot 50 x 150 at Toronto Junction, Pianos, Organs, Sewing Machines, Gold and Silver Watches, Silver Tea Sets, &c.

The proprietor of the Ladies Journal now announces a magnificent list of rewards for correct answers to Bible questions. It is surprising how little is known of the Bible. The questions are not so difficult this time as last, and we should be glad if there was a hearty response so as to encourage the proprietor of the Journal to persevere in his good work. It was announced in the June issue of the Ladies' Journal that the competition which closed last month would be the last for the present, but it has been decided to try one more.

All money must be sent by post office or express. No information will be given to any one more than is stated here. So send on answers, and don't waste time writing. Do not send postage stamps unless six cents is added for the discount. Remit by postoffice order, scrip or small coin.

THE BIBLE QUESTIONS:

1.—Is Diamond referred to in the Bible? If so, state first reference.
2.—Is Emerald made mention of in the Bible? If so, state first reference.
3.—Is Sapphire spoken of in the Bible? If so, state first reference.
These all refer to the precious stones.

Now, any one having a knowledge of the Scriptures ought to be able promptly to answer these questions with a little study, and so secure some one of those rewards. Bear in mind every one competing must send FIFTY CENTS with their answers for which the Ladies' Journal will be sent one year to any address. If you answer each of the questions correctly and your answers are in time you are sure to secure one of these costly rewards.

THE FIRST REWARDS.

1—One Elegant Rosewood Piano, a magnificent instrument	$525 00
2—One Fine Cabinet Organ, by Bell & Co., Guelph	250 00
3—One Beautiful quadruple plate, finely chased Silver Tea Service, six pieces	110 00

112 to 179—Sixty-eight volumes of World's Cyclopedia—a library in itself	194 00
180 to 227—Forty-eight solid rolled gold brooches, elegant patterns	144 00

The above two hundred and twenty-seven costly rewards will be given to the first two hundred and twenty-seven persons who send correct answers to the Bible questions given above. Then come the

MIDDLE REWARDS.

1—A lot 50 x 150 in excellent position at Toronto Junction; clear title and will shortly be worth double or treble its present value	$250 00
2—A very fine Cabinet Organ, by Bell & Co.	235 00
3 to 10—Eight celebrated Williams Singer Sewing Machines	520 00
11 to 13—Three Ladies Solid Gold Hunting Case genuine Elgin Watches	300 00
14 to 20—Seven fine heavy Black Silk Dresses	720 00
21 to 37—Seventeen solid quadruple plate Ice Pitchers	480 00
37 to 58—Twenty-two Ladies Fine Coin Silver Hunting Case watches	550 00
59 to 81—Twenty-three beautiful heavy Silver-plate Cruets	315 00
82 to 211—One hundred and thirty volumes Chambers' Cyclopedia	325 30
212 to 479—Two hundred and sixty-eight Solid Gold Rolled Brooches, beautiful patterns	670 00
480 to 532—Fifty-three Triple Silver-Plate Butter Knives	53 00

The lot at West Toronto above described will be given to the person sending the middle correct answer of the whole competition from first to last, and the five hundred and thirty-one rewards following the middle one will be presented to the five hundred and thirty-one persons sending the next correct answers following the middle one. So you can compete any time, and be almost sure to get something in addition to the Ladies' Journal, which is great value for the half dollar subscription. Then follow the

CONSOLATION REWARDS.

1—One gentleman's solid gold stem-winding and stem-setting genuine Elgin Watch	$100 00
2—One fine quadruple plate, Silver Tea set, 6 pieces	100 00
3—One ladies' solid gold stem-winding and stem-setting genuine Elgin Watch	95 00
4 to 7—Four fine, heavy Black Silk Dress Patterns	240 00
8 to 19—Twelve quadruple plate Ice Pitchers, finely chased	390 00
20 to 31—Twelve genuine coin silver hunting case ladies' Watches	360 00
32 to 50—Nineteen fine black cashmere Dress Patterns	380 00
51 to 69—Nineteen fine quadruple Silver Plate Cake Baskets	328 00
70 to 100—Thirty-one beautifully bound volumes Hood's Poems	93 00
101 to 167—Fifty-seven fine rolled gold Brooches	171 00

This list of consolation rewards will be given to the last one hundred and fifty-seven persons who send correct answers to the Bible questions given above. But bear in mind, your letter must bear the postmark where mailed of 11th September, the closing day of this competition. Fifteen days will be allowed after closing day for letters from distant points to reach the Ladies' Journal office. But you can, of course, send in any time between now and the 11th of September, and your letter will take its place at the publication office in the order it arrives there. All letters are carefully numbered as they arrive, and there can be no mistake. If your answers are correct, and they reach there in time, you will surely get some reward in addition to the Ladies' Journal, which alone is big value for the half dollar. If you don't get anything but the Journal you will be well pleased with your investment, as it consists of 20 pages of fashions illustrated, short and serial stories, poetry, newest music, household hints, etc., etc.; in fact, just the paper to suit every lady.

By subscribing in a club with your neighbors you will secure some considerable advantage—that is, there must be at least thirty of a club, and all who send correct answers to the Bible questions may have their choice of a handsome ring, heavily gold-plated ladies' gold brooch, which retails at about one dollar and a half, or a triple-plated butter knife. Either of these you may wish will be sent postage paid. You will thus secure to a certainty one or other of these two presents, and in addition will have as good an opportunity of gaining some one of the other large rewards in lists given above just as well as though you had sent in singly. This is simply an inducement to get up clubs. We are sure our readers could not do better than to try their skill in hunting up these questions and competing for these rewards. Everything will be carried out exactly as promised.

Prizes in last competition went all over Canada and to many parts of the United States.

Can't Be Beaten.

It is a fact that Nerviline cannot be surpassed by any combination for the relief of pain. The reason is a good one. Nerviline contains the best, most powerful, and the latest discovered remedies. It is a magic pain cure. Rheumatism, stiff neck, cramps, neuralgia, colic, in fact all pain, internal, external, and local, are subdued in a few minutes. Go at once to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and get a trial bottle. It will only cost you 10 cents, and you can at a small cost test the great pain cure, Polson's Nerviline. Large bottles only 25 cts.

Itching Piles—Symptoms and Cure.

If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. Swayne's ointment is a pleasant, cure. Also for Tetter, Itch, Salt-Rheum, Scald-Head, Erysipelas, Barbers' Itch, Blotches, all scaly, crusty skin diseases. Box, by mail, 50 cts.; 4 for $1.25. Address, Dr. Swayne & Son., Phila., Pa. Sold by druggists.

Young Men?—Read This.

The Voltaic Belt Co., of Marshall Mich., offer to send their celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and other Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and manhood, and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred as thirty days trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet free.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

$500.00 Reward.

For any testimonials recommending McGregor's Speady Cure for dyspepsia, indigestion, costiveness, etc., that are not genuine; none of which are from persons in the States or thousands of miles away, but from persons in and around Hamilton Ont. We give trial bottles free of cost, so that you cannot be deceived by purchasing a worthless article, but know its value before purchasing. Trial bottles and testimonials given free at John McKee's Drug Store

The Quickest thing on Record

Is Fluid Lightning for neuralgia, headache, toothache, etc. It does not blister or discolor the skin; requires but one application to banish all pain magically without using any greasy liniment or carrying your head in a poultice for two weeks. Try a twenty-five cent bottle from John McKee's druggist.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Pretty Women.

Ladies who would retain freshness and vivacity don't fail to try "Wells' Health Renewer."

Never Give Up.

If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility disordered blood, weak constitution, headache or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery will cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Taylor and McDonald.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE
AS
GOODNESS
Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

The Greenwich Manuf'g Co's
Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indespensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

Giroux & Sullivan.

The Banner Week

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Where these Silks are procured, or why they are sold so cheap is no affair of the customers'. It is enough for them to know that they can buy here about 25 per cent. less than the pervading prices throughout the town. Do not fail to ask for our Summer Silks at 42½c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. See our Black Dress Silks at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, warranted pure silk both filling and warp. They are heavy in texture, beautiful in finish and quality, surpassing anything in the town at 25 per cent. higher in price. Don't fail to see them at still going on at the "Golden Lion." All ends marked very low in order to clear, and make room for their large importations of new fall goods daily arriving. Fair, VanEvery & Co purpose shewing the largest and most unique stock ever presented to an appreciative public in this town.

Smith's Market.

Peaches, Green Apples, Cherries, Huckleberries, Muskmelons, Watermelons, Garden Raspberries, Oranges, Lemons, Bananas, Tomatoes, Beans, Peas, Cucumbers, Beets, Onions, Lettuce, Radishes, Cabbage, &c., &c. Huckleberries by the quart or basket. Orders for any kind of fruit, either in or out of season, will be promptly filled by giving reasonable notice.

The Excursion to Ottawa.

As will be seen by a notice in another column, there is to be a cheap excursion to the capital next Monday, August the 11th. Those who have not seen Ottawa should certainly take the good opportunity of doing so; and even those who know it would do well to renew their acquaintance with this beautiful city. The grounds about the houses of Parliament, the buildings themselves, and the Parliamentary library—access to all of which is absolutely free—are certainly well worth the small sum of $3.50.

Careful attention given to mourning orders at Turnbull's. Miss Iron's taste in millinary makes Turnbull's showrooms a favorite resort.

New Business.

Mr. A. Clegg has just completed all his arrangements for the new branch of business. His splendid new hearse (there is only one other as good in the Dominion), is now finished. His show rooms have been fitted to receive the stock of caskets, coffins, &c., of which he has the best assortment ever offered in town. Those who require the services of an undertaker will find everything needed in that line, including shrouds, robes, and all funeral requisites. Mr. Clegg has spared neither pains nor money in fitting out this department. Funerals in both town and country will receive careful and punctual attention in every case by a fully competent man.

The Pic-nic at Wallis' Grove.

The pic-nic in Wallis' Grove on the Civic Holiday will no doubt be a great success. Messrs. Martin and Doucet's quadrille band is engaged and the admirers of choice music and a harmless pastime cannot but be gratified. Do not miss this pic-nic as the attractions offered are sure to delight. A varied programme of sports,—open to all, with valuable prizes to be given. New features will be introduced, and the programme will be published on Monday. A splendid platform with good music for the votaries of the mazy dance. A magnificent spread of eatables that will please the most fastidious. And a real and unique attraction that is worth the price of tickets itself, in the shape of an open air concert by the best amateur talent obtainable, besides the healthful pleasure of a day away from the dust and foul air of the city, in beautiful woods. Everyone is cordially invited.

RAILWAY TRAINS.

The Canada Pacific Time Table—A Change in the Grand Trunk Card.

The time table for the running of the Ontario Division of the trains has been issued. The following is the time at which the trains will pass through Peterborough.—Going West, the Pacific express will depart from here at 6.03 a.m. arriving at North Toronto at 8.45 and at the Union Station at 9.15; the express departs at 7.45 a.m., and arrives at North Toronto at 10.05 and at the Union Station at 10.35; the Toronto express departs at 7.30 p.m., and arrives at North Toronto at 10 and the Union Station at 10.30. Going East, the limited express departs at 11.40 a.m., and arrives at Perth at 4.54 p.m., Ottawa at 6.55 and Montreal at 10.55 p.m.; the express departs at 7.30 p.m., and reaches Norwood at 8.07; the Montreal express departs at 10.45 p.m., and reaches Ottawa at 4.50 a.m., and Montreal at 8.25 a.m.

CANADA PACIFIC

THE GRAND TRUNK.

A new time table comes into effect on the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway on Monday. The changes, so far as they effect the arrival and departure of trains at this station are as follows:—The Toronto evening train arrives at 8.30, instead of 8.35; the morning Belleville train leaves at 7 o'clock and arrives in Belleville at 11.10, and the afternoon train departs at 2 o'clock, and reaches Belleville at 5.30; the morning train from Belleville leaves that city at 6.45 and arrives here at 10.15, and the afternoon train departs from Belleville at 6 o'clock and arrives at Peterborough at 10.10.

Just received a choice lot of prints, entirely new designs in dark colors, at Turnbulls'.

ENNISMORE.

From our own Correspondent.

FROST.—On Saturday morning, August 9th, there was a sharp frost. The thermometer went down to 40°.

BELLEVILLE.

IMPRISONED IN THE CABIN OF A STEAMER.—A lad named White, who was supposed by the captain of the steamer Hero to be one of those raising a row on board returning from a picnic at Simcoe Island on Wednesday night, was put off at Bath, but boarded the steamer again. He was then handcuffed by Captain Craig, and chained to a post in the cabin till Picton was reached when White was handed over to the police. Some of the passengers say White was innocent, and grossly abused. They raised a subscription on board for White's defence.

KILLED.—A boy named Rollins, aged eleven years, was killed Thursday afternoon on his uncle's farm near Madoc by a blow on the head from a hay fork, which he was assisting in working.

THE GREELY HEROES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The Arctic relief vessels steamed up to the city this morning. The funeral escort was drawn up in line on Governors Island at an early hour. When the vessel came in sight a funeral salute of 21 guns was fired.

There were 1,000 visitors on the island and the New York shore was crowded with spectators. The mayor's representative was in attendance. Shortly after noon the bodies were transported from the Bear to the dock by the steam tug Catalpa. Following came the barges of General Hancock, and Commodore Fillebrown and the steam launchers Despatch and Minnesota. The flotilla was commanded by Lieut.-Commander Hitchcock.

Minute guns were fired from Castle William during the ceremonies. As each body was taken from the barge the soldiers presented arms, the officers raised their swords, and the band played a dirge. As the bodies were carried to the caissons, Secretary Lincoln, Gen. Sheridan, and Gen. Hancock and staff stood at the head of the wharf with uncovered heads.

At the hospital a great throng was gathered, and, with uncovered heads, watched the transferring of the remains to the room where they will lie in state, watched by a guard of honour, until taken away by friends. People were permitted to pass through the building and view the caskets. Each casket was wrapped in the American flag and ticketed with the name of the dead man within. All day visitors flocked over from the city to view the bodies.

The Arctic steamers Thetis and Bear have proceeded to the Brooklyn navy yard. The Government has decided to bury the unclaimed dead of the Greely expedition with military honours in Cypress Hill cemetery to-morrow.

Lost Bank Capital.

According to the article in Bradstreet's, $14,000,000 in bank capital have been lost in Canada since 1871. This does not include the "rests" that had been made and then lost in the same operations. It is over a million dollars a year by unsound banking.

The Angra Pequena Question.

England and Holland offer to raise the blockade of Tenom, and give the Rajah one hundred thousand rupees, if he will release the crew of the British steamer Nisero, which was wrecked on his coast last autumn. If the Rajah refuses he will be punished.

Arrived and opened out, an unusually choice selection of Canadian Tweeds in Fall weights, at Habiliment Hall, George street.

THE FRENCH CONSTITUTION.

PARIS, Aug 8.—The congress of the two Houses to-day discussed the committee's report on the bill for the revision of the constitution. The Monarchical deputies urged that the Parliamentary system only is possible under a Monarchy. The Radicals demanded the abolition of the Senate. M. Andreux declared that the Congress was omnipotent, and that the Government had no right to submit to the limited revision bill

THE EGYPTIAN POLICY.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 8.—The Government has issued a circular to the principals of schools announcing the latter will be held responsible for the Nihilistic sentiments of the scholars.

EGYPTIAN AFFAIRS.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—A blue book containing the correspondence relative to Egypt is published. In May Col. Moncrieff wrote that the condition of Egypt was so serious that a prompt measure of relief, which the people would feel, would be of sufficient political value to counterbalance any financial loss which it might involve. He suggested addition of taxes on the Nile and canals, and a general reduction of taxation. On June 27th. Mr. Edgar Vincent advocated the reduction of 20 per cent, in Lower and 5 per cent. in Upper Egypt.

THE CHINESE AT FOO CHOO.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—A Foo-Choo despatch says that the American Minister arrived at Shanghai to-day. The Chinese remain firm. Further concessions by the French will alone secure peace.

NOT PARALLEL.

An attempt is being made to show that the nomination of Mr. Blackstock for Lennox is a parallel case to the attempt to foist Mr. Edgar on West Ontario. We are not aware that Sir John Macdonald purchased from Mr. Roe at the public expense the vacancy in Lennox; nor that Mr. Meredith forced Mr. Blackstock into the vacancy thus corruptly made for him; nor that Mr. Roe sold himself and his position to carry out this plot of the party chiefs, nor that Mr. Blackstock was forced upon the constituency. If the circumstances were such as we have described above, then Sir John Macdonald Mr. Meredith, Mr. Roe, Mr. Blackstock and Lennox would parallel the position of Mr. Mowat, Mr. Blake, Mr. Wheeler, Mr. Edgar and West Ontario. We believe that the circumstances are very different, and that therefore there is no such parallel as is suggested.

THE ALGOMA FRAUD.

The Toronto corespondent of the Reform Montreal Witness has some remarks upon the fraudulent Algoma election which are suggestive. It is very certain that members of the Mowat Administration would find publicity in regard to their doings remarkably unpleasant. The correspondent has no other foundation than Globe falsehoods for saying that the incriminating telegrams were stolen, unless indeed it is the recollection of the thefts by his own friends. The Witness correspondent says:—

"To-morrow morning the Election Court (including judges, counsel, witnesses and other parties), starts for Port Arthur to try the Algoma election case. By the recent action of the judges at Osgoode Hall, striking out irrelevant particulars, the issue has been narrowed down to one of alleged personal corruption on the part of the respondent Lyon. Whether this can be established remains to be seen, but in any case public interest in the matter is for the time on the decline. Had the Conservatives succeeded in their attempts to get an enquiry into the movements and doings of the members of the Government, though they might have failed to establish anything improper, they would have given unpleasant publicity to some things which the friends of the Government would just as soon keep quiet, as, e.g., the telegrams stolen last year from the office at Rat Portage during the crisis there. As it is certain that the seat for Algoma will be declared vacant, and as it matters little who may be the next candidate on either side, the trial, which comes off next week, will now be watched with equanimity on both sides."

FALSE AS WELL AS FOUL.

If a factory closes these Reform papers gleefully record the fact; if a new one is opened or an old one increases operations, they are silent and sad. We ask every thinking man in the country if this statement is unfairly made or overdrawn.

But Reform journals are not content with doing these things. They add falsehood to unfairness. We will take two cases as examples. The account of which we complain said that at the malleable iron works at Oshawa, "the number of hands employed now is smaller than in the last year of the old tariff," that "wages are as low as in the last depression;" that the presidents of two banks have withdrawn their capital from them, and so on. Every statement is an untruth. The president of the malleable company writes that this year its sales are larger than in any previous year of its history; that it has increased its force of workmen; that orders are so large the men cannot take their usual summer holiday; that additions to the company's plant have been necessary; that workmen are earning one-third more than they formerly were; and that so far from the bank presidents in question having withdrawn their capital, their investment in the works has steadily increased. It was said of the Dundas Tool works, of Messrs. McKechnie & Bertram, that they were "lying idle one-half the time" giving employment to the men only three days in the week." That also is false. The Dundas Tool Works are working full time, and the men employed are double in number the force employed in 1876 77-78, while wages are higher than then. The like story can be told of many other establishments.

The statements complained of, then, would be unfair if they were true, but in fact are false as well as foul.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE WORLD OVER.

An Interesting Collection of News of what is Happening Throughout the World.

ROME, Aug. 7.—Four earthquake shocks were felt this morning a few miles south east of Rome.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 7.—W. B. Durnbell & Co., and C. H. Probst & Co., sugar dealers have failed. The total liabilities are £17,000. Probst has fled to America.

NAPLES, Aug. 8.—Eva Mackay, daughter of the Californian millionaire, is betrothed to M. Colonna, a representative of the well-known family of Colonna.

SEBASTOPOL, Aug. 7.—By a hurricane and rain storm here to-day twelve persons were killed and an immense amount of damage done.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 7.—The Waskhod, a Hebrew journal, has received warning from the authorities for violation of the press laws.

ROME, Aug. 8.—Capuchin Father Massaga, Archbishop of Vienna and Seville, and six Italian prelates, will be created cardinals at the Consistory in September.

VIENNA, Aug. 7.—The anarchist, Stellmacher, will be hanged to-morrow. When asked to sign the usual protocol, Stellmacher stamped his foot and refused.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 7.—This city is a total wreck financially. The treasury is empty, and many employees have had no pay for three months. The banks refuse further advances.

NAPANEE, Aug. 7.—Mary Carson, 15 years old, daughter of Mr. John Carson, harness maker, fell off the swing bridge this evening and was drowned.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 7.—The depression in the iron business is greater at present than for a number of years; fully 7,000 men less are required to perform work than a year ago.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—Nineteen lepers were returned to China to day by the steamer Oceanic. One escaped before sailing, but was recaptured.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 7.—A Dunmore, N. W. T. special says wheat cutting commenced to-day on the Canadian Pacific Railway experimental farm. The crop is very heavy, and is in splendid condition. This is the first cutting in the Canadian North West this season.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7—Six persons belonging to three different families have been dangerously poisoned by eating toadstools, which they mistook for mushrooms. The supposed mushrooms were gathered by a railroad man in the drive yard.

HAMILTON, Aug. 7.—A servant girl named Ella Montgomery, employed in the city, but whose parents live at Renfort, in Ancaster township, is reported missing. She was last seen on the Sunday following the Great Western picnic, which she had attended.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS IN ASPHODEL.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—It is not often that I see any account of the municipal affairs of Asphodel discussed in the columns of the REVIEW, I will therefore give your readers a short account of the way the Assessment Act is enforced here. In January last the Council appointed to the very important office of assessor a person wholly incompetent for the position, giving as their reason that his offer was the lowest. When the roll was returned to the Clerk there was about one thousand acres of land omitted from the same. The roll was not completed: there were no additions made nor the recapitulation page was not filled; in fact the assessor could not read his own roll. The roll was appealed against. The Court of Revision adjourned in order to have the roll corrected. They employed a former assessor to correct the roll. He made a new roll, and the assessor of 1884 certified to the correctness of the same. This roll was finally passed by the Court of Revision as being correct at their third meeting. There was an appeal against the assessment of a member of the Court of Revision as being too low. He is the owner of several farms, deals largely in stock; stated on the hustings last January that he had ninety head of cattle, yet sir he made an affidavit at the Court of Revision that his personal property, deducting his indebtedness, only amounted to thirteen dollars, the Court of Revision struck his personal property off the roll. The appellant appealed against the decision to the county judge. The case was tried by the judge in his chambers on July 17th. The apellant had two witnesses, both brothers-in-law of the respondent. Both swore that they owed pretty large sums of money to the respondent but he again by his own sworn evidence escaped paying taxes on personal property; the appeal against the correctness of the Roll was withdrawn on account of the Appeal and other papers that were necessary not being produced at the trial by the Deputy Clerk of Asphodel, the Clerk being sick and unable to attend. I think, Sir, it is about time for the electors of Asphodel to give up their strife between the east and the west sides of the township and try to get competent men to fill the offices of Reeve and Councillors, men that will try to work for the interest of the municipality instead of working during the whole year to secure votes at the next election. By inserting the above you will oblige.

The Jersey City Fire.

NEW YORK, Aug 5.—The fire at the Pennsylvania depot, Jersey City, was got under control about 3 a. m. The depot and ferry slips are entirely destroyed; loss, half a million. The depot was one of the largest and finest on the river, and had recently received a thorough overhauling. It was a wooden structure, 300 feet wide, and 1,200 feet long, provided with spacious waiting rooms and restaurant, and containing the offices of the superintendent of the road-masters, and other employes. The fire was caused by the explosion of a huge gas tank in the ferry house. A number of barrels were stored there, and the flame spread with great rapidity. The roads affected by the fire are the Pennsylvania, West shore, and New York, Susquehanna, and Western.

No lives were lost by the fire. Passengers are being landed at Adams' express pier, and trains are running as usual. The depot will be rebuilt on an enlarged scale.

Reforming the Lords.

The advanced Liberals held a meeting and resolved to established a league to labour for the reform of the House of Lords. They wish to deprive the Peers of their power of legislative veto and abolish the hereditary peerage altogether. A committee was appointed to take the matter in hand.

Destruction of Fish by Dynamite.

Thousands of dead fish have been floating down Niagara River of late; among them have been large sturgeon, handsome maskinonge, black bass and catfish. On the beach, also, from Bay View to Dunkirk, the dead bodies of fish have been washed ashore. All appeared to have died within a short time. This wanton destruction is believed to have been caused by a party of reckless young men who sailed about in a steam yacht and now and then lowered into the water dynamite cartridges, which were exploded by electricity.

American Cattle for England.

In discussing Mr. Frewen's project for transporting Wyoming cattle to the old country, recently submitted to the Imperial authorities, the Times asserts that such cattle are freely purchased and received in the Dominion, and sent thence to England. The Department of Agriculture denies the statement in toto, cattle from the Western States only being allowed to cross the Canadian territory on their way to the Eastern States, under the strictest possible regulations.

A Run on a Drug Store.

CHOLERA
—IS—
COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.
J. M. JOHNSON,
Missionary to Swaton, China.

Beware of counterfeits and imitations. Ask for the enuine Perry Davis' Pain-Killer and take no other.

"MAY DEW"

The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubbornly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any address on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

CHAPTER XXVII.—CONTINUED.

Quickly she waved him back—with a warning gesture; but he shook his head resolutely, advanced a few steps, and stood in a position which prevented the girl from discovering his presence. As Regina paused to turn a leaf, Olga began a broken recitation, grouping passages that suited her fancy:

"Yea, love, I am alone in all the world,
The past grows dark upon me where I wait.
* * * *
Behold how I am mocked!
* * * *
They come to me, mere men of hollow clay,
And whisper odious comfort, and upbraid
The love that follows thee where'er thou art.
* * * *
And they have dragged a promise from my lips
To choose a murderer of my love for thee,
To choose at will from out the rest one man
To say me with his kisses!"—

She groaned, and gently caressing her hand, Regina read on, and completed the poem.

When she closed the book, Mr. Palma came forward and stood at the side of the couch, and in his hand he held several letters. At sight of him a flush mounted to Olga's hollow cheek, and she put her fingers over her eyes. He quietly laid one hand on her forehead and said pleadingly:

"Olga, dear sister, if you had died without becoming reconciled to me, I should never have felt satisfied or happy, and I thank God you have been spared to us; spared to allow me an opportunity of explaining some things which, misunderstood, have caused you to hate me. Regina, let me have this seat a little while, and in half an hour you and Mrs. Palma can come back. I wish to talk alone with Olga."

"To gloze over your deeds and machinations, to deny the dark, cowardly work that has stabbed my peace forever! No—no! The only service you can render me now is to keep out of my sight! Erle Palma, I shall hate you to my dying hour; and my only remaining wish, prayer is, that she whom you love—may give her pure hand to another; that you may live to see her belong to other arms than yours, even as you have helped to thrust Belmont from mine! Because you love her, as you never yet loved even yourself, may you lose her forever!"

She had struck off his hand, and while struggling up into a sitting posture, her eyes kindled and her voice shook with the tempest of feeling that broke over her.

Mr. Palma crimsoned, and motioned Mrs. Palma away, and Regina exclaimed:

"In her feeble state this excitement may be fatal. Have you no mercy, Mr. Palma?"

"Because I wish to be merciful to her, I desire you will leave the room."

Mrs. Palma seized the girl's hand and drew her hastily away, and while the two sat on the staircase near the door of the sick room, Regina learned from a hurried and fragmentary narration, that her guardian had for years contributed to the comfort and maintenance of Mr. Eggleston's mother and sister, that his influence had been exerted to induce a friend in Philadelphia to purchase the artist's "California Landscape," and that his persistent opposition to Olga's marriage had been based upon indubitable proofs that Mr. Eggleston had deceived her; had addressed three other ladies during the seven years' clandestine correspondence, and had merely trifled with the holiest feelings of the girl's trusting heart. In conclusion Mrs. Palma added:

"Erle was too proud to defend himself, and sternly prohibited me from acquainting her with some of his friendly acts. Even those two helpless Eggleston women do not dream that their annual contribution of money and fuel comes from him. She stubbornly persists that my step-son is weary of supporting us, and desires to force this marriage with Mr. Congreve; whereas he has from the beginning assured me he deemed it inexpedient and dreaded the result."

"Mrs. Palma, she insists that she will never marry anyone now, and intends to join one of the Episcopal Church sisterhoods in a western city."

"She certainly will not marry Mr. Congreve, for Erle called upon him, and requested him to release Olga from the engagement, alleging among other reasons, that her health was very much broken, and that she would spend some time in Europe. This sisterhood scheme, he declares he will not permit her to accomplish."

It seemed a long time since they sat down there—and Regina was growing restless, when the front door bell rang. The servant who brought up a telegram addressed to Mr. Palma, informed Mrs. Palma that Mr. Roscoe was waiting in the dining-room to see her.

"My dear, knock at the door, and hand this to Erle. I will come back directly."

She went down stairs, and glad of any pretext to interrupt an interview which she believed must be torturing to poor Olga, Regina tapped at the door.

"Come in."

Standing on the threshold, she merely said:

"Here is a telegraphic despatch which may require a reply."

"Come in," repeated Mr. Palma.

Advancing, she saw with amazement that he was kneeling close to the couch, with Olga's hand in his, and his bowed head close to her face. When she reached the lounge she found that Olga was weeping bitterly, while now and then heavy sobs convulsed her feeble frame.

"Mr. Palma, do you want to throw her back into delirium by this cruel excitement? Do go away and leave us in peace."

"She will feel far happier after a little while, and tears will ease her heart. Olga, you have not yet given me your promise."

"Be patient! Some day you will learn, perhaps, that though the idol you worshipped so long has fallen from the niche where you set it, even the dust is sacred; and you want no strange touch to defile it. Oh, the love, the confidence, the idolatry, I have so lavishly squandered! Because it was wasted, and all—all is lost, can I mourn the less?"

"At least give me your promise to wait two years, to follow my advice, to accede to my plan for your future."

He wiped the tears from her cheek and after some hesitation she said brokenly:

"How can you care at all what becomes of me? But since you have saved me from Mr. Congreve, and contrived to conceal the traces of my disguise and flight from Albany, I owe you something, owe something to your family pride. I will think over all you wish, and perhaps, after a time, I can see things in a different light. Now—all is dark, ruined—utterly"—

She wept passionately, hiding her face in her hands; and rising, Mr. Palma placed some open letters on the chair beside her. He walked to the window, opened and read the telegram and Regina saw a heavy frown darken his brow. As if pondering the contents he stood for more than a minute, then went to the door and said from the threshold:

"The papers, Olga, are intended for no eye but yours. In reviewing the past, judge me leniently, for had you been torn my own sister I should have no deeper interest in your welfare. Henceforth try to trust me as a brother and I will forgive gladly all your unjust bitterness and aspersion."

He disappeared; and almost simultaneously Mrs. Palma came back, and kissed her daughter's forehead.

With a low, piteous wail, Olga threw her white hands up about her mother's neck and sobbed:

"Oh, mamma! mamma! take me to your heart! Pity me!"

THE LOSS OF THE AMSTERDAM.

From the third officer and passengers of the Amsterdam the following story of the disaster was elicted:—The steamer sailed from Amsterdam on Saturday, July 10th, with two hundred and twelve steerage and twelve cabin passengers and a crew of fifty-four men. The weather was unusually foggy for the season during the run across, there being but two clear days, and the sea also was rough. On the day before the occurence of the disaster the sky was clear, and the captain obtained good observations. Next morning, however, broke thick, and the weather continued foggy throughout the day with the exception of one short period. About fifteen minutes to ten the ship suddenly grounded on an unseen bar. No land or lighthouse was visible in any direction, and, as it was afterwards discovered, the island was 15 miles distant, the steamer when she struck being some 85 miles out of her course. The shock on striking was a very slight one, but caused great excitement on board the crowded vessel, the passengers becoming greatly excited, and requiring all the exertions of Captain Lucas and his officers to dispel their fears. The command was given to open the hatches and jettison the cargo, which wa commenced at once, and a number of the passengers joined in and assisted the crew. This continued until noon the following day, but, though no water had yet shown below, without success. At that hour, the commander of the ship finding his efforts unavailing, ordered the boats to be got in readiness for launching. The weather becoming clear enough for those on boards to make out the land, which was observed to the southwest. No water began to enter the hold until about six o'clock, when the night being favorable as far as the weather was concerned, though the sea was very rough, the captain decided to lower the boats. All on board were crowded into six small crafts and headed for the shore. The first reached the beach with out accident at three o'clock in the morning. The second one, however, was not so fortunate, being swamped just as she was grounding safely. Three men on board her, two steerage passengers, one of them named Dix, and a fireman belonging to the steamer, were drowned, but the rest were picked up by the other boats or dragged ashore.

HALIFAX, Aug. 7.—The Government steamer Newfield sailed this evening for Sable Island to revisit the scene of the steamer Amsterdam's wreck and render any help required at once. She was accompanied by the agent of the line to which the Amsterdam belonged and a Customs officer. All the passengers and crew who arrived in the Newfield last night remained awaiting instructions from the owners of the ship as to how they are to be sent on to their distinations.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The agent of the Netherland, Steamship Company says the steamer Amsterdam cost between £50,000 and £60,000. Her cargo is chiefly telegraph wire and was valued at $300,000. Nearly all the cargo was thrown overboard. The steamer will not be at total wreck,

The French Constitution.

The French Congress re-assembled at Versailles. The extreme left refused to vote for the appointment of a committee to consider the revision bill, and reproached the majority with exercising undue pressure. The committee to which the proposed amendments to the Constitution were referred has accepted M. Andrieux's amendment, declaring that all monarchic pretenders are ineligible to the presidency. M. Gerville, Reache, amid violent interruptions from the extreme left, read the Committees Report, or the bill for the revision of the constitution. During the sitting M. M. Clemenceau & Laguerre asked whether gendarmes would be employed to tear them from the tribune.

Importing Spirits.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Information has been received at the Treasury Department that the International Distillery Company of Des moines Iowa. is shipping distilled spirits into Canada under export bond, and, without unloading it from the cars, attempting to bring it back to the United States at more eastern ports. The laws of the Dominion of Canada do not permit the importation of distilled spirits in packages of a less capacity than one hundred gallons, and as domestic spirits are put up in packages of less than that size, the foreign Custom House certificate necessary to cancel the export bond could not be procured. Bond and clearance are to be refused in such cases.

Etc., Etc., Etc.

which will be offered at prices unparalleled in the history of the Dry Goods trade.

Ladies who fail to take the benefit of these SWEEPING REDUCTIONS in values will miss an opportunity that will surely not offer itself again this season, and perhaps not in years to come.

Patrons will please call early in the day, as there is sure to be a rush in the afternoons and evenings, which will not make it so convenient for purchasing.

I would respectfully state that the prices I have decided to sell at are for the SPECIAL BENEFIT OF THE PUBLIC rather than for my neighbouring competitors, who will, no doubt, commene ticketing their goods for the purpose of selling at prices largely in advance of mine.

One Hundred Pairs of White Wool Blankets,

Daily Evening Review

The rapid growth in public favor of THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW becomes more apparent every week. To advertisers it offers unexceptional advantages as a means of reaching a large section of the purchasing public of the town and surrounding suburbs not heretofore attained. Business men will please note this fact.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 9, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Personal.

Mr. Donald Menzies, who for the last two years has been living in Aitkin, Minn., is at present in Peterborough on a visit to his friends.

Base Ball.

The Silver Stars have secured the cricket grounds for three nights in each week, and are preparing for their match with the Uxbridge club on Tuesday afternoon.

To the Central.

Bailiff English on Friday arrived in town and took away with him Joseph Maffie, the Italian who stabbed a countryman, to serve out a sentence of six months in the Central Prison.

Preserve Your Fruit.

The Genuine "Gem" Fruit Jars to be had at lowest prices at the Giant T. Store. A large variety of bird cages (brass and japanned), always in stock. Iron bedsteads—just what are wanted. ADAM HALL, the Giant T. Store, George street.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Variable winds; fine weather, slightly higher temperatures; fine, with increased temperatures to-morrow.

Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Barnardo will address the young men's meeting in the Young Men's Christian Association rooms on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. All young men are cordially invited. The address will doubtless be very interesting. The usual Bible class will be held at 2 p. m. and the gospel meeting at 8.30 p.m. to-morrow. No meeting will be held this (Saturday) evening.

See our new style Collars to arrive this week. Names and particulars on arrival. Habiliment Hall.

The Art Exhibition.

As the attendance is increasing every day the committee has thought it wise to keep the exhibition open till Tuesday evening next, in order to give every one an opportunity of seeing it. As Tuesday is the Civic Holiday, this will afford those who have not made other arrangements, a pleasant way of spending a couple of hours. The rooms will be open both days from 10 a. m. to 10 p.m. Admission will be 10 cents up to 6 p.m., and 15 cents in the evening. We are instructed to state that Tuesday evening will certainly be the last opportunity of seeing this fine collection of works of art and curiosities.

All-Night Moonlight Excursion.

An excursion party left the wharf on the steamer Golden Eye shortly after 8 o'clock on Friday evening and went down the river to Faucher's Point. Music was provided and dancing was kept up on the way down. At the Point the same amusement was continued and Mr. Faucher furnished an excellent spread. The City Band enlivened the proceedings with music. At about one o'clock the party set out on the return trip, but soon had to come to a stop on account of a dense fog. The boat made little or no progress for about three hours and reached her wharf at twenty minutes to eight this morning.

The Pulpit.

The services in the George Street Methodist Church to-morrow promise to be very interesting. The sermon in the morning will be preached by the pastor, Rev. I. Tovell, preceded by a fellowship meeting, and followed by the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. In the evening the pulpit will be occupied by Dr. Barnardo.

The Rev. Alex. Bell, of St. Andrew's Church, having returned from his voyage across the Atlantic, will occupy the pulpit of that church to-morrow.

In the morning Dr. T. J. Barnardo will preach in the Opera House. This will be his first public appearance in Peterborough.

LACROSSE MATCH.

The Peterboroughs Defeat the Beavertons and Retain the Championship.

On Friday afternoon the Checker Lacrosse Club, of Beaverton, made an attempt to wrest the championship of Central Ontario from the Peterborough Club. The Checkers arrived at 11.30 o'clock, with an excursion party. At about two o'clock they proceeded from the City Hotel to the grounds, marching to the music of the City Band. A large number of spectators had assembled to witness the match, and the band furnished good music.

Mr. Fred. H. Brennan, of Norwood, was chosen referee, and the teams took their positions on the field as follows:—

PETERBOROUGHS.		CHECKERS.
J. Joyal.....	Goal	.... J. McLean
P. Myles	Point	...D. McKinnon
M. Tierney.....	Cover Point	....K. Davidson
J. Henderson....	Defence Field	....D. McMillan

At ten minutes after 3 o'clock the ball was faced by Sheehy and Rose, and was drawn out by Sheehy. Kelly secured it, and, carrying it down the field, gave it to Scott, who made a throw on the goal. The Checker defence were on the alert, and the rubber was seen flying over the field to the vicinity of the Peterborough goal, where there was some lively play. The ball was sent out to centre, and Kelly passed it on, only to be returned, however, and Henderson again sent it over the field. It was soon seen that the Checkers had improved greatly since they played here before, more than the changes in the team would alone account for. They played a much better team game, and the sport was lively, but the visitors took the first game in eleven minutes. There had been a contest for the possession of the ball in centre and the defence was open, Joyal alone defending the goal, when W. K. Cameron got the ball and made a good shot on the flags. Joyal raised his stick, but the rubber passed through the net, and the Checkers had won the first game.

In the second game the Peterboroughs checked closer and did better play. This soon began to tell and the Checkers were kept more on the defence. Rutherford's dodging carried the ball several times in close proximity to their goal, and Rudkins made good play, while Giroux showed up in good style, but the Checkers' defence withstood the attacks for some time. Fortye received applause for his runs down the field and Scott made several shots on the goal. Sheehy was seen in centre, near home and on the defence side, wherever he went doing good work, while the Peterborough defence players, who were not allowed to remain idle long at any time, showed that they knew what they were there for and could do it. Kelly played well, although he has shown better play on the same field, and Howden's neat catches (his specialty) were frequent. Henderson and Tierney played as usual, a good game, and Myles seldom failed to send the ball across the field when he went after it. Joyal proved he had not forgotten how to play lacrosse and play it well. The visitors worked hard and played well, but after twenty-four minutes of play Rutherford gave the ball to Rudkins, who made a drop shot, and Scott passed it through the stakes, winning the second game for Peterborough.

The third game, which proved to be the last, was the shortest. The Checkers, though they played well and put the Peterborough goal several times in danger, spent more time in defence than in attack, as in the second game. Finally Giroux got the ball near their goal and gave it to Rudkins, who passed it between the stakes. Time ten minutes. The Checkers, however, claimed that a foul had been called before the game was taken. The referee, who had not heard the Checkers' captain call foul, and had not called time, heard the statements of the the captains and of the players on each side who were close to the goal, and decided that the Peterboroughs were entitled to the game.

When the referee called on the teams to take their positions to commence the fourth game, the visitors' captain could not get all his men into the field, and the whole team finally went to the dressing room. The referee then announced that the Peterboroughs had won the match. The home team then gave three cheers for their opponents in the contest, who were hurrying to the train, and for the officials in the match. The Checkers, all but three, who were too late, departed on the 4.40 train.

The result of the match is that the Peterborough Club still holds the championship of Central Ontario. They might, however, draw a lesson from the first game of this match. The Beaverton boys showed that, since their last visit here, they had practised to such an extent that they had improved their playing considerably, while one would hardly take them to be the same club that played here with the Norwood club last year. The Peterborough boys want to practice enough, not only to keep up to their present standard, but to improve their playing, and if they do so they can and will hold the lead and retain the honors they now have.

Important to Pleasure Seekers.

On the Civic Holiday, Tuesday next, join the grand Excursion over the Ontario & Quebec Railway to Toronto if you wish to enjoy the day. The train leaves Peterborough station at 7.45 a.m., not too early to start for any one. Passengers will reach the Union Station, Toronto, in less than three hours. If you want to remain over two days, you can do so by paying $1 extra at the Peterborough Station before you leave. You can then leave Toronto on the evening express at 8 p.m., and in the meantime visit Niagara Falls or anywhere else you choose. Fare to Toronto and back $1.25. No crowding; ample accommodation for all who come.

At Faucher's Restaurant,
Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

Huckleberries.

A fine supply of choice ripe Huckleberries, fresh from the pickers, just received at CARTON BROTHERS', opposite the Market square. Selling at very reasonable prices.

Special to Gentlemen.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. have received a large consignment of boys' and Gents' English Fur Felt Hats (intercepted on transit to Winnipeg.) The styles are most recent and the prices so very low as to warrant a speedy sale. Go early for first choice.

Coal Oil.

Owing to a "combination" having been formed among the refiners, coal oil is advancing every week. Consumers therefore should take their cans to "China Hall" at once and have them filled, and thereby save money. China Hall has the best quality of oil in town. Try it once.

Sunday School Excursion.

The annual pic-nic of the Sunday School of the Baptist Church, at Campbelltown, on Friday was a very pleasant affair. The attendance was good, and the trips down the river and in the return were enjoyable. At the pic-nic ground the usual amusements were carried out, and the party arrived home at about seven o'clock in the evening, all apparently well satisfied.

Sanitary Matters.

The Sanitary Inspectors (Constables Pidgeon and Adams) are at present engaged in making house to house visits and preparing reports for the Provincial Board in accordance with blanks furnished. This work entails considerable labor. Dr. Clark, Medical Health Officer, has also commenced an inspection of water in the wells in the town, and has found several in which the water was not as pure as it should be.

A Painful Accident.

John Flannery, a young man who boards at a house on Stewart street, met with a painful accident on the Ontario and Quebec Railway at Cavanville, on Friday afternoon. While shunting cars Flannery, who is a brakeman, got his arm caught between two cars, and it was badly crushed, the bone being broken in two places. Dr. Pigeon and Dr. Kincaid are attending to the injury.

Grand Concert.

A grand vocal and instrumental concert will be held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Monday next, August 11th, at 8 p. m. The best amateurs of Peterborough have kindly consented to be present, and they will be assisted by Miss Ermatinger, of St. Thomas, well known as an excellent and thoroughly trained vocalist. Admission 25 cents. Proceeds for St. Luke's Church.

Fall Driving Gloves in Buck, Antelope and Dogskin, at the Gentlemen's Furnishing Establishment, A. McNeil's, George Street.

Ottawa.

The first excursion by the Ontario & Quebec Railway to Ottawa, by the fast express train, will be run on Monday next August 11th. Train will leave the station George street, at 10.40 p.m. arriving in Ottawa about 5 o'clock a.m. morning of the 12th. Return tickets only $3.50 good to return up to the evening of the 13th. Tickets (limited to 50) for sale at the station.

Fruit Jars.

Every person putting up fruit should give the the jars the first attention; without a perfect sealing jar, it is useless going to the expense and trouble of canning fruit, China Hall is the only store in Peterborough selling the improved perfect fitting "Crown Jar" in firsts. Every jar warranted. It costs no more to have the best as the enormous quantities, we handle enables us to sell our jars as low as any house in the trade and give a better jar, Stone Jars and Jelly Cans all sizes at CHINA HALL.

Another large shipment of goods just received at Turnbulls', comprising new designs in dress goods, mantle and ulster cloths, feather trimmings, cut plushes, etc. If you hear of anything new in the dry goods line look for it at Turnbulls'.

Grand Excursion and Regatta.

On Tuesday next, August 12th, the Civic Holiday, there will be at Faucher's Park a Regatta free to all. The following prizes will be offered for competition:—

SCULLING CUP, $50.—For single scullers (amateurs). Best and best of boats. Mile heats, best 2 in 3.

CANOE CUP, $50.—For single paddlers. Hunting canoes. Mile heats. Best 2 in 3.

The winner of the cups three times to become the owner. Should the winner not be able to attend the next race, this heat will stand to his credit, and he may compete at any time before the cups are finally won. The steamer Golden-Eye will run an excursion to the above regatta, leaving the Peterborough wharf at 8 a. m. and 1.30 p.m. Returning will leave the Park at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Hot water and tables provided at the Park. Meals at the hotel. A quadrille band in the hall for dancing. Fishing or picnic parties left off at any point of the river. Return tickets, 25c.

New Trouserings, West of England and other noted makes, in stripes, checks and other Fashionable Patterns, at Andrew McNeil's, George street.

Fluid Lightning

Cures Toothache and Neuralgia quick as flash, relieves any pain instantly, the quickest and cheapest application known, why suffer with toothache, neuralgia, headache, Rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, Sore throat or acute pains of any kind when you can go to John McKee's drug store and get a perfect and instantaneous cure for 25 cents.

JOHN VERT, Hamilton, says: McGregor's Speedy Cure for dyspepsia and indigestion is cheap at fifty times the price asked for it. I am a commercial man, and travel continually, and would no more think of leaving home without a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure in my valise than I would of leaving my team at home and going on foot. Free trial bottles at John McKee's drug store. Regular size 50c. and 1.

POLICE COURT.

THE HEALTH ACT.

SATURDAY, Aug. 8.—Michael Lavery, James Murray, Thos. Parrington and John McDonough were charged by the Sanitary Inspectors with not complying with the rules of the Public Health Act. They were each fined $1 and $2.10 costs.

WAGES AND ASSAULT.

John Johnston was charged by James Boyd with having assaulted him. The assault arose out of a dispute about wages. Johnston was fined $2 and $5.50 costs.

Boyd also brought a suit against Johnston for $12.50, which he claimed to be due him as wages. The defendant put in a statement making the balance due Boyd $10.87½, for which amount judgment was given.

A Fine Beverage.

Dowe's India Pale Ale, the best ale made in Canada, on draught at the Little Windsor Hotel, the proprietor of which is sole agent for Peterborough.

Can't Be Beaten.

It is a fact that Nerviline cannot be surpassed by any combination for the relief of pain. The reason is a good one. Nerviline contains the best, most powerful, and the latest discovered remedies. It is a magic pain cure. Rheumatism, stiff neck, cramps, neuralgia, colic, in fact all pain, internal, external, and local, are subdued in a few minutes. Go at once to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and get a trial bottle. It will only cost you 10 cents, and you can at a small cost test the great pain cure, Polson's Nerviline. Large bottles only 25 cts.

Itching Piles—Symptoms and Cure.

If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. Swayne's ointment is a pleasant, cure. Also for Tetter, Itch, Salt-Rheum, Scald-Head, Erysipelas, Barbers' Itch, Blotches, all scaly, crusty skin diseases. Box, by mail, 50 cts.; 4 for $1.25. Address, Dr. Swayne & Son., Phila., Pa. Sold by druggists.

Young Men?—Read This.

The Voltaic Belt Co., of Marshall Mich., offer to send their celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and other Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and manhood, and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred as thirty days trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet free.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

The Quickest thing on Record

Is Fluid Lightning for neuralgia, headache, toothache, etc. It does not blister or discolor the skin; requires but one application to banish all pain magically without using any greasy liniment or carrying your head in a poultice for two weeks. Try a twenty-five cent bottle from John McKee's druggist.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

"Rough on Pain."

Cures colic, cramps, diarrhœa; externally for aches, pains, sprains, headache, neuralgia, rheumatism. For man or beast. 20 and 50c.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE
AS
GOODNESS
Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indespensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

Giroux & Sullivan.

The Banner Week

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Where these Silks are procured, or why they are sold so cheap is no affair of the customers'. It is enough for them to know that they can buy here about 25 per cent. less than the pervading prices throughout the town. Do not fail to ask for our Summer Silks at 42½c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. See our Black Dress Silks at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, warranted pure silk both filling and warp. They are heavy in texture, beautiful in finish and quality, surpassing anything in the town at 25 per cent. higher in price. Don't fail to see them at

DR. BARNARDO'S VISIT.

On Sunday morning Dr. Barnardo, the Principal of the orphan's homes of London, Eng., which bear his name, and of which Hazel Brae home is a branch, preached to the congregation of St. Paul's in the Opera House. There was a very large attendance, the seats all being occupied and extra ones brought in. The Rev. Mr. McBain assisted in the opening services. Dr. Barnardo chose for his text Revelations xix. 9: "And he saith unto me, write, blessed are they which are called into the marriage supper of the Lamb." He delivered an earnest and practical discourse.

In the afternoon Dr. Barnardo addressed a meeting in the Young Men's Christian Association Rooms, which were filled to overflowing, the audience consisting of young men, with a few more elderly. He took for his subject the words "I am the door." He considered the subject under four divisions, taking one of the above words as the key-note of each division. He spoke very powerfully, and it was evident that a deep impression was made. Dr. Fife occupied the chair and conducted the opening exercises, and the Rev. Mr. McBain closed the meeting with prayer.

In the evening Dr. Barnardo preached to another large congregation in the George Street Methodist Church, the Rev. I. Tovell assisting in the opening exercises. His text was from Matthew xxvii, 22:—"Pilate saith unto them, What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ?" He discussed the character of Pilate, the reasons that made him hesitate in condemning Christ, and referred to his history afterwards and his death by suicide, and applied the question which Pilate asked in the text to each one personally.

On Thursday evening Dr. Barnardo will lecture in the Opera House on "Rescue Work among Waifs and Strays."

Cattle Disease.

DESMOINES, Iowa., Aug. 8.—Cattle disease has appeared at Lemars, and 17 head died in 24 hours.

Champion Trick Bicyclist.

D. J. Canary, champion trick rider of America was married on Wednesday, at Meriden, Conn. Canary is only 20, but is said to be under engagement to give fancy riding exhibitions at $125 per week for some time to come.

Pauper Immigrants.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The Scotia arrived here to-day with a large number of Italian laborers who were sent here by an Italian padrone to work on a railroad. The contract entered into by them shows they are nothing more than white slaves. They are detained at Castle Garden.

War Preparation in Canton.

It is stated in Paris that the Canton Viceroy is superintending the laying of torpedoes, and the preparation of the barrier to obstruct the river. He has also ordered twelve tons of dynamite. Insults to foreigners have been forbidden. The town is quiet, although a strong war feeling prevails. A steamer is held in readiness to remove foreigners if necessary.

Anglo-American Cable Co.

At the half-yearly meeting of the Anglo-American Cable Co. The report showed a decrease in the receipts to the amount of £13,377, compared with the first half of 1883. The chairman remarked that the company was about to meet with another baleful competition, but its property was in good order. The decrease in earnings was owing to the depression in trade.

Indians Starving.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 8.—Leading citizens and the Board of Trade have wired a petition to the Secretary of the Interior, urging immediate action for the relief of 300,000 Piegan Indians at Black Feet Agency, who despite contrary reports, are actually starving. The death rate is great. The supply of provisions at the agency is almost exhausted. The rations issued are so scant they would be insufficient to sustain life except for the plenteousness of wild berries. Stock men reports many cattle killed by the starving Indians.

EARTHQUAKE IN NEW YORK.

Intense Excitement Created—Two Decided Shocks—No Fatalities.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—A few minutes after 2 o'clock this afternoon this city and vicinity was startled by an earthquake lasting ten seconds. A universal panic seized the population. The first impression which took possession of the people was that the houses were about to fall. They ran in the streets terror stricken. The shock was felt as far eastward as Portland, Me. At that point it was slight.

The first intimation of the earthquake was a low rumbling sound, followed by a shock like that of a violent explosion, which caused buildings to quiver. The rattling continued about eight seconds. The effect of the jar was much more perceptible in houses of light structure. In many instances a clearly defined rocking movement was felt, and dishes were shaken from the shelves. No damage of any kind has been reported. As far as ascertained, the shock was entirely imperceptible on the water, and no tidal wave was observed here.

At 2.15 a second shock was felt at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., but was less violent than the first. The severest shock was reported from Seabright, N.J., where the depot was shifted to one side, shaking up the contents and alarming the inmates. At Long Branch the jars of the battery in the telegraph office were overturned and communication interrupted.

Coney Island was thoroughly shaken, the fright in some cases amounting to a panic. Philadelphia was the southern limit of the shock. At Cleveland the shock was plainly but slightly felt.

At Port Jarvis there were two shocks in quick succession, and lasting about half a minute. Waterbery, Conn., reports that the shock was felt in that vicinity at 2.10 on Sunday afternoon, lasting about half a minute. At Peekskill the shock was felt distinctly twice. At Nyack the earthquake shook that section violently. Mount Vernon reports that the houses were shaken and the contents rattled, creating great alarm among the occupants. The chimney of a house at Hamville was shaken down and the walls badly shattered.

From reports from Long Island it appears the earthquake visited that region with greater severity than in Brooklyn. From Rockaway to Long Beach the shock was very violent and the vibrations seemed to increase in power as they travelled eastward. In Jamaica the vibrations lasted ten seconds, and the chimneys on several houses toppled over. In Long Island City, Flushing, Whitestone and College Point the trembling of the ground was distinctly felt.

Despatches from Albany, N.Y., Wilmington, Del., Lancaster, Easton, Reading, Allentown, Lebanon, Pottsville, Phœnixville and Pottstows, Pa., and various places in New Jersey and New York States report distinct shocks this afternoon.

THE CHOLERA.

STUDYING THE MICROBE.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Prof. Reitsch, who has been experimenting on dogs with Microbes at Marseilles, has discovered a method by which he can study the microbe alive in the microscope and has also found a method of determining the real gravity of the disease as it shows itself in any patient.

CHOLERA IN RUSSIA DENIED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 9.—The Journal denies that there is cholera, or any other epidemic in Russia.

SANITARY CONDITION OF ITALY.

ROME, Aug. 9.—It is officially declared that the sanitary condition of the country is everywhere improved. Only one fresh case of cholera is reported.

SPANISH QUARANTINE.

MADRID, Aug. 9.—Spain has decided to establish a quarantine of ten days against the Italian ports infected with cholera and of seven days against other Italian ports.

The Artillery Competition.

His Excellency the Governor-General has announced his intention of being present at the forthcoming artillery competition between British and Canadian teams at Quebec, and will also contribute to the prize fund. Lady Lansdowne will present the winners with their medals.

Rational Dress Association.

It is announced that Mrs. King, secretary of the English Rational Dress Association, has intimated her intention of being present at the meetings of the British Association for the Advancement of science. She invites the ladies of Montreal to interest themselves in the movement. She will probably lecture in some Canadian cities during her stay in the country.—Ottawa Citizen.

Crops in the Northwest.

The condition of the crops throughout the whole Canadian North-West is most gratifying. The yield of wheat will be the largest yet known in that portion of the Dominion, the amount available for export being estimated at five million bushels. The Canada Pacific experimental farms have proved abundantly successful, and have placed the suitability of the region for cultivation and settlement beyond dispute.

Railway Pool.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—It is said the Trunk line arbitration committee will shortly advance the percentage of the Grand Trunk road in the passenger pool, taking the increase from the percentages heretofore allowed to the Michigan Central and Lake Shore roads. Should the concession not be accepted by the Grand Trunk, it is said that an alliance will be made with that Company with the West Shore road.

A Foresters' Demonstration.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The Canadian Order of Foresters indulged in a demonstration and picnic to-day in Queen's Park, London East. The various trains brought about 1,500 visitors, among them being Courts Brant and Glen from Brantford, with the Brantford Band, Beaconsfield Court from Woodstock, and the Ingersoll and Beachville Court. The procession included about 300 Foresters. Games, sports, and music were the features of the day, which was passed in a most pleasant manner.

Arrived and opened out, an unusually choice selection of Canadian Tweeds in Fall weights, at Habiliment Hall, George street.

CHOLERA IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—English cholera has appeared in several districts of Lancashire. Over 200 persons have been stricken, and 5 deaths have occurred. The doctors attribute the outbreak to excessive heat and the use of improper food.

THE FRENCH CONSTITUTION.

VERSAILLES, Aug. 8.—The Congress to-day continued the discussion of the bill for the revision of the constitution. M. Danphin was obliged to leave the tribune. The discussion was declared ended, and a show of hands called for, when the tumult increased. M. Jolibois attempted to speak, but was prevented by the President. The uproar was then renewed. The members formed a semi-circle on the floor of the House, and amid intense excitement the President suspended the sitting. Congress afterwards resumed its session, and commenced the discussion of the articles of revision of the bill. M. Barodet's amendment for the convoking of a constitutional assembly was rejected by 493 to 286. Thereupon M. Barodet and six partisans quitted the session, after having read a protest against the action of the Congress. The sitting was then adjourned. Two amendments proclaiming the sovreignty of Congress were defeated by a large majority.

MONDAY, AUGUST 11, 1884.

THE COMING PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

READERS of the REVIEW should not forget that this year's Provincial Exhibition is to be held in Ottawa during the week beginning the 22nd September next, under circumstances which can hardly fail to render it the best exhibition of the kind ever held in Canada.

The facilities for reaching Ottawa from all directions are now second to those of no other city in the Dominion, while a special grant of $5,000 by the Dominion authorities has enabled the directorate to make the present year's prize list the largest which has ever been offered for competition. For instance :—Over $2,400 in cash besides five gold and six silver medals are offered for competition in horses alone, and of this sum no less than $330 goes to horses to be shown either in harness or under the saddle; in cattle there are ten classes with cash prizes ranging from $40 down to $5 besides medals, while in all the other classes of stock the prizes are equally tempting. Then coming, as this exhibition does, just after the Toronto and Montreal exhibitions, there is little doubt, with such valuable prizes to contend for and such facilities for reaching the place of competition, but that visitors to Ottawa will possess the great advantage of seeing the prize winners of both these exhibitions contending for a first place at Ottawa, and as a consequence of seeing the very best animals of their kind which the two Provinces can produce.

But to those who have not already seen Ottawa the exhibition will be, by no means, the only attraction. The Parliamentary and Departmental Buildings would of themselves amply repay the time and expense now involved in a visit to the Canadian Capital. Then there is the fishery exhibit which did Canada so much credit a year ago in London, besides several other objects of an interesting and instructive character.

FOREST CONSERVATION.

THE almost universal complaints heard on every side, from the Malay Archipelago to the Western States of America, of the general apathy in regard to the vital question of forest conservancy should urge Canada to more vigorous efforts in this direction. Her forest wealth may be considered almost limitless, and a good start in the right direction might, in not very many years, be provocative of untold direct benefit, by enabling her, with greater facility, to cull such timber for the world's market as in quality and quantity should far more than rival that of countries who fail as yet to recognize the supreme importance of so legislating for the preservation of their forests, and of so enforcing these regulations as that, not only shall their present value be enhanced, but bountiful crops be ensured for the future.

Much has been done; much remains to do.

The general public has been stirred by speeches, blue-books, pamphlets, lectures and newspaper articles, to give this subject their earnest consideration. But, from the general public, consideration is perhaps the most that may be expected. Forest conservancy is outside the sphere of any but those who have to do directly with the production and exportation of raw material. It is to our lumbermen, therefore, to whose advantage, indeed, more than to that of any other class, such enhanced value of forest lands and forest productions will redound, that we should look for the urging on of that interest which, we are glad to notice, has already been begun in Canada.

But let us not waste time. Already Germany is outstripping us—at all event theoretically—by her forest schools. Russia, too, and Austria, are not far behind. Not a few in the United States are powerfully agitating this subject; to say nothing of France, India, Norway, Sweden, etc. Nevertheless there is nothing to fear in the lead they have gained. It is at present chiefly merely experimental. Germany has but lately undertaken experiments which will require 50 years for their thorough investigation and proof. Forestry is as yet an infant science. We cannot yet have lost very much ground, and we may, at all events, console ourselves with the thought that the theoretical knowledge gained by European nations may, by us, be practically applied. The differences of growth, variety and climate, must, of course, be taken into consideration, but with already obtained data as a basis, there should be no difficulty in progressing rapidly in the most beneficial direction possible.

PORT HOPE.

FOREPAUGH'S CIRCUS.—Forepaugh's circus is not coming to Port Hope this year, they have cancelled this engagement and go to Peterborough instead, because they could not get a place to exhibit, we understand.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—As a special was being let down the grade into the Midland yard on Friday evening a car loaded with lumber jumped a frog and rode the ties about fifty yards before it was brought to a standstill. The yard was blocked about three hours.

NEW STATION.—We hear it from the best authority that the Grand Trunk Railway Company have it in contemplation (as an offset to us of the loss of the town station) to build a new station here, and remove the dining rooms from Cobourg to Port Hope; also to make this a coaling station.—Guide.

BELLEVILLE.

YACHTING.—The ninth annual regatta of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, which formed the third of the Yacht Racing Association, took place on Friday over the usual course of Big Bay. The wind was light, from the north-east, and variable, and the result was somewhat flucky sailing. There were four entries in each class, those in the first-class being Verve, Norah, Aileen, and Garfield. The result was an easy victory for the Norah by nearly an hour. The Verve was second on time and Aileen third. In the second-class there were also four starters, namely, the Iolanthe, Gracie, Laura, and Surprise. This was a very exciting contest, the Iolanthe leading by about one minute and thirty seconds on the first round, Surprise second, and Laura third. On the next and final round the Laura passed the Surprise and finished 1 minute 12 seconds behind the Iolanthe, Surprise 1 min. 29½ sec. behind the Laura. The actual sailing time was as follows:—Iolanthe 3 hrs. 31 min. Laura 3 hrs. 31 min. 47½ sec., Surprise 3 hrs. 32 min. 43½ sec. The result is so close that it cannot be told until the yachts are measured. It is probable, however, that the Surprise wins 1st, Laura 2nd, and Iolanthe 3rd.

NORTHWEST NOTES.

DUCKS.—Wild ducks are reported to be plentiful in the country.

THE C.P.R.—There is considerable freight moving over the C.P.R. at present, but not quite as much as at this time last year, however.

CATTLE.—The first consignment of cattle from Montana for the Chicago markets will arrive in Winnipeg this week.

WINNIPEG MARKET.—$935.25 was realized from the city market during the first half of this year. $72.70 was the revenue for July.

DESTROYED CROPS.—Jos. Lawrance, of Clearwater, who had eighty acres of grain destroyed during the recent hail storm, has ploughed up the ground where the crop stood. Others have cut down the damaged grain and will use it for fodder.

HARVESTING.—Barley and peas have been cut at Stair, Dunmore and Forres, and oats are now being cut at Dunmore, and at all points; on the experimental farms of the C.P.R. wheat and other grains are fast ripening. A large crop of all sorts of grain and vegetables is now assured all along the line.

BOGUS TIMBER INSPECTORS.—The Pilot Mound Signal says:—"Amongst other annoyances to which the settlers are subjected under present arrangements is the presence in the woods of imposters who pretend that they have authority to look after timber. It is not an unusual thing for several sharp men who may have discovered a good grove to appoint an inspector in their own private interests who will keep intruders at a distance until his friends have secured the best of the trees. Very often these fraudulently appointed officers make simple and suspecting men leave logs which they have cut, or unload their sleighs of timber, which is quickly appropriated by others who claim that they have bought it from the inspector. The insolent imposters even go further and sell or offer to sell permits, and put the money in their own pockets."

Vanderbilt's and Gould's Predictions.

Mr. Vanderbilt and Gould indulge in very optimistic views concerning the crop and business prospects the country over. Mr. Vanderbilt believes that "by November everybody will be satisfied that the panic we have had has been a good thing for the country, and is sufficient reason why people and corporations should live within their means." Mr. Gould is not so concise in the expression of his opinion, but he says practically the same thing. His advices led him to the conclusion that in both quantity and quality the country will be blessed with a phenomenal harvest, while the crop prospects in Europe are far from favorable. He says the present crop has been raised on a lower basis than was ever before known, as labor and all the necessaries of life are at bottom prices. As a result he believes that farmers can sell their products cheaper than before and still make a profit. Arguing from these conditions, he reaches the conclusion that banks, general business and railways will find themselves in better shape this fall than for many years. It is quite evident that Vanderbilt and Gould are no longer on the bear side of the market, but there are a good many thousand farmers in the West who will hesitate to believe that 60 cent wheat is the perfection of human prosperity.—Journal of Commerce.

Sheep's Horn for Horseshoes.

A new horseshoe has lately been experimented with at Lyons, France. The shoe is made entirely of sheep's horn, and is found particularly adapted to horses employed in towns, and known not to have a steady foot on the pavement. The results of the experiments have proved very satisfactory, as horses thus shod have been driven at a rapid pace on the pavement without slipping. Besides this advantage the new shoe is very durable, and though a little more expensive than the ordinary one, seems destined sooner or later to replace the iron shoe, particularly for horses employed in large cities, where, besides the pavement, the streets are intersected with tramway rails, which, from their slipperiness, constitute a source of permanent danger.—Scientific American.

Extensive Steel Manufacturers Ring.

A report from Sheffield states that it is confirmed beyond all doubt that the meetings held in London during the last few months, says the Pall Mall Gazette, have resulted in the formation of a federation of the steel manufacturers, and most of the firms in Belgium, Germany and Austria, and only one English firm is said to be outside the ring. If the ring is really as extensive as stated it will be one of the largest yet formed in the world.—Shareholder.

A Moot Question.

Mr. Swinton says it is better and cheaper to light small towns by means of electricity than by a coal-gas system. He compares the equal illuminating effects of gas and electricity in portions of the British Museum, and finds that, while the former is estimated to cost $1.22 an hour, the latter has actually cost $1.44 an hour for a total of 18,800 candle-power, using the pendulum arc lamps.

The Future of Our Streets.

A committee was appointed some time ago by the companies using electric wires in the city of New York to investigate all methods of putting these wires underground, and they have decided that the only plan likely to be at all successful is the construction of large subways, or what in New York is known as the arcade plan. For some time an arcade company has been endeavoring to obtain the right to transform Broadway into a two-story street by excavating the present road-bed to a depth of fifteen feet, and re-constructing the road-bed upon strongly built archways. This subway would not only accommodate all street cars, but all the electric wires, gas, steam and water pipes and every manner of things that now makes necessary the breaking up of the road-bed, and it would also relieve this crowded street of much of the traffic that sometimes blocks it. It is not unlikely that this will be the ultimate outcome of our present system of city life. The money now expended in digging up the streets to deal with drains and gas and water pipes would go a long way toward paying the interest upon the cost of construction, and such a scheme would solve the fast transportation problem and the electric wire question at once.—Montreal Witness.

Stimulants for Chrysanthemums.

Last year I was induced to try an experiment in chrysanthemum growing, and for this purpose I purchased one pound of sulphate of ammonia, which I bottled and corked up, as the ammonia evaporates very rapidly. I then selected four plants from my collection, and put them by themselves, and gave them a spoonful of ammonia in a gallon of water twice a week. In a fortnight's time the result was most striking, for although I watered the others with liquid cow manure they looked lean when compared with the ammonia-watered plants, whose leaves turned to a very dark green, which they carried to the edge of the pots until the flowers were cut. As a matter of course the flowers were splendid. The ammonia which is used is rather expensive, as I bought mine from a chemist's shop; this year I intend getting agricultural ammonia, which is much cheaper. I have also tried it on strawberries, with the same satisfactory result, the crop being nearly double that of the others; it is very powerful, and requires to be used with caution.—The Gardener's Chronicle.

Bicycle Tournament.

The Toronto Bicycle Club have decided to hold their third annual tournament at the Rosedale Athletic Grounds on Saturday, the 6th of September. As the interest in bicycling has grown in Ontario, and especially in Toronto, more during the last year than ever before, it is expected that this event will be one of special interest to the admirers of the wheel. The programme of races is very attractive, and it includes races of one, three and five miles, which are open to all. It is expected that a large number of visiting wheelmen will be present on this occasion, together with some of the leading fast riders in Canada. The tournament will be preceded by a parade through the city by the Club and visiting bicyclists.

Salvation Army Rows.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Great excitement was caused last night by the arrest of four young men in a disturbance between the Salvation Army and the crowd. Fifteen hundred men followed the prisoners to the police station, threatening to throw the officers into the canal. Threats were made to burn the army's barracks. There are fears of a riot to-night, and the police are taking precautions.

Coolness in Manitoba.

Yesterday's New York Herald has the following:—"In Southern Manitoba the remarkably low temperature of 38 degrees (sufficiently low to make light frost), was reported yesterday. This "cool wave" will probably make itself felt in this section by Friday afternoon and promises to give us on that day and Saturday a pleasant temperature.

The Italian Navvies.

Emigration from Italy to foreign countries is yearly increasing; in 1883 it reached, according to official statistics, 169,101, mostly peasants and the lowest lazzaroni. The two Americas receive a little over a third of all the emigrants, and latterly a drift from the Buenos coast to the United States has been noticeable.

Saved from a Horrible Death.

Up to May last I had spent at least five hundred dollars for treatment by many of the best medical men without any benefit. My mouth and throat became badly ulcerated, sores breaking on my neck and legs. I also suffered excruciatingly with rheumatism, grew very despondent, and my best friends advised me that the icy hand of death was fast approaching. I caught at Shaker Blood Syrup like a drowning man at a straw. After taking two bottles I could feel a change for the better. The sores begun to discharge freely, and rheumatism to abate. When I had taken six bottles every sore had healed and my skin began to assume a natural appearance. I persisted until I had taken twelve bottles, and there is not a symptom of the disease remaining, and I feel as well as I ever did. I have gained twenty-one pounds in flesh, and my friends wonder at my improved condition. I have recommended it to many, and in every instance with complete success. I believe that Shaker Blood Syrup has saved me from a horrible death.

T. S. CANNON,
Boston, Mass.

In 1878 I was the victim of a terrible blood poison, and after being treated by three physicians was confined to my bed, not being able to raise my hand to my head, spitting up clots of blood, and reduced in weight from 185 to 130 pounds. I then began the use of Shaker Blood Syrup, and in less than three months I was entirely well, weighing 196 pounds, and have never had a symptom of the disease since. If it had not been for Shaker Blood Syrup I believe I would have been in my grave.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Since the night of Olga's return Regina had taken her meals in the sick room, gladly availing herself of any pretext for avoiding the dreadful tete-a-tete breakfasts.

On the morning after the painful interview between Olga and Mr. Palma, the former desired to remove into her own apartment, and the easy chair in which she sat was wheeled carefully to the hearth in her room.

"Come close to me, dear child."

Olga held her companion for some seconds in a tight embrace, then kissed her cheek and forehead.

"Patient—true little friend; you saved me from destruction. How worn and white you look, and I have robbed you so long of sleep! When I am stronger I want to talk to you; but to-day I must be alone, must spend it among my dead hopes—sealing the sepulchres. Jean Ingelow tells us of 'a dead year' 'cased in cedar and shut in a sacred gloom,' but I have seven to shroud and bury; and will the day ever dawn when I can truly say:

'Silent they rest, in solemn salvatory?'

Go out dear, into the sunshine, you look so weary. Leave me alone in the cold crypts of memory; you need not be afraid, I have no second vial of poison."

She seemed so hopeless, and her voice was so indescribably mournful, that Regina's eyes filled with tears, but Mrs. Palma just then called her into the hall.

"Erle says you must put on your hat, wrap up closely, and come down stairs. He is waiting to take you to ride."

She had not seen her guardian since he left Olga's sofa the previous day, and answered without reflection.

"Ask him to excuse me. I am not very well, and—prefer remaining in my own room."

From the foot of the stairs, Mr. Palma's voice responded:

"Fresh air will benefit you. I insist upon your coming immediately."

She leaned over the railing and saw him buttoning his overcoat.

"Please Mr. Palma excuse me to-day."

"Pardon me, I cannot. The carriage is waiting."

She was tempted to rebel outright, to absolutely refuse obedience to his authority, which threatened her with the dreaded interview, but a moment's reflection taught her that resistance to his stubborn will was useless and she reluctantly went down stairs, forgetting her gloves, in her trepidation. He handed her into the carriage, took a seat beside her, and directed Farley to drive to Central Park.

The day, though cold, was very bright, and he partly lowered the silk curtains, to shut out the glare of the sun.

"What is the matter with your cheek?" he said at length.

"Why do you ask?" She instantly shielded it with her hand.

"It is of no consequence, and will soon disappear."

"Olga must indeed have struck you a heavy blow, to leave a mark that lingers so long. She told me how desperately you wrestled, to stay her suicidal course, and as a family, we owe you much for your firm brave resistance."

"I am sorry she betrayed what passed. I hoped you would never suspect the distressing facts."

"When a girl deliberately defies parental wishes and counsel, and scorns the advice and expostulation of those whom experience has taught something of life and the world, her fate—sooner or later is sad as Olga's. A foolish caprice which young ladies invariably denominate 'love,' but which is generally, merely flattered vanity not unfrequently wrecks a woman's entire life; and though Olga will rally after a time, she cannot forget this humiliating episode, which has blighted the brightest epoch of her existence. Her rash, blind obstinacy has cost her very dear. Here, let us get out; I want you to walk awhile.

They had entered the Park, and ordering the driver to await them at a specified spot, Mr. Palma turned into the Ramble. For some moments they walked in silence, and finally he pointed to a rustic seat somewhat secluded, and beyond the observation of the few persons strolling through the grounds. Regina sat with her muff in her lap, and her bare hands nervously toying with the white silk tassel. Her guardian noticed the tremulousness of her lips, and at that moment, the sun smiting the ring on her finger, kindled the tiny diamonds into a circle of fire. Mr. Palma drew off his gloves, put them in his pocket, and just touched the opal, saying coldly:

"Is that a recent gift from your mother? I never saw you wear it, until the night you bathed poor olga's forehead."

"No, sir."

Involuntarily she laid her palm over the jewels that were beginning to grow odious in her own sight.

"May I enquire how long it has been in your possession?"

"Since before I left the Parsonage. I had it when I came to New York."

"Why then have you not worn it?"

"What interest can such a trifle possess for you, sir?"

"Sufficient at least to require an answer."

She sat silent.

"Regina."

"I hear you, Mr. Palma."

"Then show me the courtesy to look at me, when you speak. Circumstances have debarred me until now, from referring to a letter from India, which I gave you before I went to Washington. I presume you are aware that the writer inclosing it to me, acquainted me with its tenor and import. Will you permit me to read it?"

"I sent it to my mother nearly a week ago."

She had raised her eyes, and looked at him almost defiantly, nerving herself for the storm that already darkened his countenance.

"Mr. Lindsay very properly informed me that his letter contained an offer of marriage, and though I requested you to defer your answer until my return, I could not of course doubt that it would prove a positive rejection, since you so earnestly assured me he could never be more than a brother to you. At least let me suggest that you clothe the refusal in the kindest possible terms."

Her face whitened, and she compressed her lips, but her beautiful eyes became touchingly mournful in their strained gaze. Mr. Palma took off his glasses, and for the first time in her life she saw the full, fine bright black eyes, without the medium of lenses. How they looked down into hers!

She caught her breath, and he smiled.

"My ward must be frank with her guardian."

"I have been frank with my mother, and since nothing has been concealed from her, no one else has a right to catechise me. To her, it is incumbent upon me to confide even the sacred details to which you allude, and she knows; but you can have no real interest in the matter."

"Pardon me, I have a very deep interest in all that concerns my ward; especially when the disposal of her hand is involved. What answer have you given 'Brother Douglas'?"

As he spoke, he laid his hand firmly on both of hers, but she attempted to rise.

"Oh, Mr. Palma! Ask me no more, spare me this inquisition. You transcend your authority."

"Sit still. Answer me frankly. You declined Mr. Lindsay's offer?"

"No sir!"

She felt his hand suddenly clutch hers, and suddenly grow cold.

"Lily! Lily!"

The very tone was like a prayer. Presently, he said sternly:

"You must not dare to trifle with me. You cannot intend to accept him?"

"Mother will determine for me."

Mr. Palma had become very pale, and his glittering teeth gnawed his lower lip.

"Is your acceptance of that man contingent on her consent and approval?"

For a moment she looked away at the blue heavens bending above her, and wondered if the sky would blacken, when she had irretrievably committed herself to this union. The thought was hourly growing more horrible, and she shivered.

(To be Continued.)

MEDICINES FOR FARM STOCK.

Professor Brown, in the Journal of the Royal Agricultural Society of England, tells the farmers how to make up a convenient "medicine chest" for the domestic treatment of animals. The following is his list of remedies, with the doses, arranged in alphabetical order:—

ACONITE, TINCTURE (FLEMING'S).—Action sedative. Allays fever and externally relieves irritation. Dose: horse and ox, 10 to 30 drops; sheep, 5 drops. Add water in proportion of a tablespoonful to each drop of tincture. For a lotion, use a tablespoonful of the tincture to a pint of water.

ALCOHOL, in the form of whiskey or brandy or strong ale, is useful for cases in which the system requires to be temporarily raised from a state of depression. Doses: horse or ox, whiskey or brandy, 4 to 8 tablespoonfuls; sheep 1 to 3 tablespoonfuls. Strong ale, horse or ox, 1 pint; sheep, ½ pint. Repeated two or three times a day.

ALOES.—A purgative for horse or ox. The ordinary aloetic mass and the solution should be kept at hand. Both preparations must be obtained from a druggist. Doses: horses, 4 to 6 drachms of the aloetic mass as an ordinary purgative; ox, ½ pint of the solution. Usually given in combination with linseed oil in cases of continued constipation.

AMMONIA LINIMENT.—Made by adding a strong solution of ammonia and oil of turpentine, ½ part, to soap-liniment. A pint bottle of it, carefully stoppered, should be kept at hand. The liniment is useful as an application for sore throat and for all cases in which an external stimulant is necessary. Must be applied with the hand, and well rubbed into the skin.

ARECA-NUT.—A useful worm-medicine. The nuts should be kept in a stoppered bottle, in a dry place. When required for use, the quantity should be grated by means of a nutmeg grater. Doses, horse or ox, ½ ounce to 1 ounce of the grated nut, mixed with the food (corn and bran); sheep, 2 drachms; dog, ½ to 1 drachm.

CALVES' CORDIAL.—A form of chalk-mixture for calves and sheep. To be prepared by a chemist as follows: Prepared chalk, 2 ounces; powdered catechu, 1 ounce; ginger, ½ ounce; opium, 1 drachm; peppermint water, 1 pint. Dose, calves, 2 to 4 tablespoonfuls; sheep, 1 to 2 tablespoonfuls.

CARBOLIC ACID.—A powerful caustic and antiseptic, ordinarily used, in combination with 50 to 100 parts of water, as an antiseptic lotion to unhealthy wounds, and for disinfection purposes.

CARBOLIZED COTTON AND GAUZE.—To be obtained of the druggist. Valuable antiseptic applications to wounds.

CASTOR-OIL, ALSO LINSEED-OIL.—Purgative. Doses, horse or ox, 1 to 2 pints; sheep, 4 tablespoonfuls.

COLIC MIXTURE.—Equal parts of laudanum and sweet spirit of nitre, and ½ part of chloric ether. A half-pint bottle of it to be kept at hand. Dose, horse or ox, 2 to 4 tablespoonfuls in 3 parts of a pint of water.

ELECTUARY.—A soft mass compounded with honey or treacle. Must be prepared by a druggist as follows: Camphor, 2 ounces; powdered myrrh, liquorice root and nitre, of each 8 ounces; extract of belladonna, 2 ounces; treacle, enough to make a soft paste. Dose: horse or ox, a portion, of the size of half a walnut, to be put at the back of the mouth two or three times a day, with a piece of stick. Useful in colds, sore throat and influenza.

GINGER.—Stimulant. Forms an essential part of all cordial powders for exciting appetite. May be given with strong ale in cases of prostration from overwork or disease. Dose: horse or ox, 1 to 2 teaspoonfuls of the powder in a pint of ale; sheep, one-fourth of the quantity.

MERCURIAL OINTMENT (BLUE).—To be purchased ready for use. Valuable to promote the growth of hair, and in some forms of skin-disease. Only small quantities may be applied.

MERCURIAL OINTMENT (RED).—Biniodide of mercury. A good form for blisters in cases of splint, or after sprain of tendons.

NITRE (NITRATE OF POTASH).—Diuretic and fever medicine. Dose: horse or ox, 2 tablespoonfuls daily in the drinking-water, or half the quantity in the food; sheep, 1 tablespoonful in the food.

SALTS (EPSOM OR GLAUBER).—Common purgatives for cattle and sheep. Dose: ox, 12 to 16 ounces dissolved in a wine bottle of hot water (a tablespoonful of ginger may be added); sheep, 4 to 6 ounces.

SALICYLIC ACID.—A valuable antiseptic, effective in the treatment of foot-and-mouth disease. Dose: 4 tablespoonfuls of the acid are to be put in an earthern vessel and dissolved in a quart of boiling water; hot water is then to be added to make a gallon. This solution is to be used to syringe the feet, and lave the mouth and nostrils, and also to wash the udder, and finally to sprinkle over the litter. Half a pint of the solution may be added to the gallon of drinking water every day. The dry acid (powder) may be sprinkled on the feet after they have been syringed with the solution.

SANTONINE.—Used to expel worms; one of the most effective agents for this purpose. Dose, horse, 15 grains, with 3 drachms of aloes; to be given in the morning before feeding, and repeated after two days.

SULPHUR, FLOWERS OF.—A very valuable alterative. Dose, horse or ox, a tablespoonful, with a teaspoonful of nitre, to be given in the food once a day; sheep, quarter of the quantity. Sulphur mixed with any common oil forms an excellent dressing for mange or surfeit in animals.

TURPENTINE, OIL OF.—Stimulant to the skin. Internally used to expel worms. Useful in "husk in calves." Dose, a tablespoonful daily in half a pint of a mixture of milk and eggs; lambs, one-quarter of the quantity.

VASELINE.—Emollient to the skin. Effective in irritation of the surface, chapped heels, mud-fever, especially if mixed with ¼ part of trisnitrate of bismuth or carbonate of lead (white lead), or oxide of zinc.

ZINC, CHLORIDE OF.—Mixed with 50 to 100 parts of water, it may be used for the purposes for which carbolic acid is employed.

"MAY DEW"

The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubbornly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any address on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

Daily Evening Review

The rapid growth in public favor of THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW becomes more apparent every week. To advertisers it offers unexceptional advantages as a means of reaching a large section of the purchasing public of the town and surrounding suburbs not heretofore attained. Business men will please note this fact.

MONDAY, AUGUST 11, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Birthday Cards.

A very choice selection of Birthday Cards just received at A. L. DAVIS & Co's.

A Very Fair Ride.

Last Wednesday Mr. C. S. Haultain rode from Port Hope to Napanee (about 80 miles) on his bicycle, with but three short stops for "grub." A very fair ride for an amateur without training.

A Watch Stolen.

A gentleman who came from Toronto on the afternoon train on Saturday, and was going north, had a gold watch stolen out of his pocket at Blackwater. He was in the lunch room, and afterwards missed his chronometer. It was not recovered.

Mischievous.

On Saturday morning a number of signs, gates, &c., were not found in their places. During the night some persons had made an attack upon them and changed the signs, and done other mischief, no doubt thinking it great fun. If they could be found out perhaps their spirit would be diluted a little with punishment.

See our new style Collars to arrive this week. Names and particulars on arrival. Habiliment Hall.

Railway Notes.

The locomotive engineers and firemen of the Belleville division of the Grand Trunk will hold their annual pic-nic at Johnston's grove at Hastings on Wednesday.

The Lindsay Warder says that business on all the lines of the Midland is reported very brisk. There are contracts made for timber which will require all available rolling stock for two full months. This, with the grain shipments, which begin in a month or less will insure a busy year.

Cricket.

The following team will represent the Peterborough Cricket Club in their match at Toronto with the Toronto Club to-morrow :—Messrs. Norley, Rutherford, Montgomery, Stratton, P. Cooper, LeRoy, Hamilton, Hatton, Grundy, W. Cooper and Rogers. The members will go up on the excursion train on Tuesday, returning the same evening. The match will be played at the Bloor street ground at the north of the University, and it is expected a large number of our citizens will take advantage of the excursion to view the match.

Lindsay "Sarcasm."

The Lindsay Post tries to be humorous at the expense of this town in the following manner :—

"Peterborough papers boast that about six hundred persons took in the "Forester's great excursion from that town to Orillia. Queer idea of greatness those Otonabee people have. Six hundred is the quota that Lindsay turns out to attend the usual local Sunday school excursions. Try again Peterborough."

We have seen six hundred people go to a Sunday school excursion from here this summer, and have seen a thousand people go out of town to witness a lacrosse match. But when did six hundred people go from Lindsay on an excursion to a town eighty-three miles distant? Try again, Mr. Post.

Personal.

The Lindsay Post says :—

"The many personal friends in Lindsay of Mr. A. Elliott of Peterborough will be glad to learn that he has been appointed agent in Peterborough of the Dominion Express Co., which runs in connection with the C.P.R., and its branches, including, of course, the Ontario and Quebec. Mr. Elliott's well-known business abilities and his combined energy and steadiness makes this an excellent appointment, and will insure the pleasantest relations between the company and its local customers."

The same paper, referring to Mr. W. H. Kent's removal from Lindsay to take charge of the telephone station here, says :—

"Mr. Kent, while a resident of Lindsay, has made business relations with the public of an exceedingly satisfactory character. The Peterborough agency is very justly looked on as one of the most important in the Dominion, and the advancement of Mr. Kent to its management is a recognization of his ability and business tact."

A SUNDAY BLAZE.

Hopkin's Livery Stable and Halpin's Hotel Stable Burned—Fire at the Drill Shed.

On Sunday night at about half past ten o'clock Mr. W. Hopkins' livery stable, on Chambers street, was discovered to be on fire. The loft contained a quantity of hay, and the flames spread very rapidly. However, the horses and vehicles were saved, together with the greater part of the harness and the grain. The stables in connection with Mr. M. Halpin's hotel were also ignited, and, being of wood, burned rapidly Sheds connected these stables with the blocks on Hunter street, and for a time Halpin's hotel was in danger. In fact, but for the valiant efforts of those men who handled the buckets it would also have been in flames. The firemen turned out promptly, and the steam fire engine, after it got going, threw two powerful streams on the flames and all danger to other buildings was past. If the waterworks could have been used at first valuable time would have been saved, but the fire was out of the limits, and the Chief Engineer received no permission from the officers of the company to use them until after the engine was going. The livery stable which was a brick building, was owned by Mr. W. Cluxton, and the loss on it was covered by insurance. Mr. Hopkin's lost a quantity of hay, parts of harness, forks, and other articles, on which he had no insurance. Mr. T. Darcy had six stoves and other furniture stored in the stable, and they were destroyed. His loss will run close to $300, and he had no insurance on them. Mr. Halpin's stable was totally consumed, and the sheds were damaged. He also lost a quantity of hay and oats. There was $200 insurance on the stable in the Imperial.

A SECOND FIRE.

At about 2 o'clock in the morning, when the firemen had about got to their homes from the first fire, the alarm again sounded. The fence and sheds on the north side of the agricultural grounds were burning, having evidently been fired by an incendiary. The firemen again turned out and extinguished the flames. When they had reeled the hose and were starting for the hall, a blaze was noticed in the sheds on the south side of the grounds, some one having collected a pile of boards, paper, etc., and set fire to it. This blaze was easily extinguished, but it would be in the interest of the town if the persons who thus purposely set fire to this place could be discovered and punished.

The Little Lake Cemetery.

The steady march of improvements in the Little Lake Cemetery compels frequent notices of that beautiful place. Among the most recent changes made by Mr. Kelly was the clearing up of the grounds along the lake shore and north-east of his dwelling. The underbrush has been cut out, some trees removed, and the ground raked over, making a great improvement in its appearance. Seats will be placed among the trees, and it will be a grand place to rest, in the shade and near the water, after a walk down to the cemetery or around the grounds. A building has also been erected near the Superintendent's house for storing the carts, &c., in, when not in use. A drinking tap near the entrance gate, which was put in last week, will be appreciated by each one of the hundreds who visit the cemetery every week. The water is taken from the waterworks. It is first drawn out of the river by the windmill, and is filtered through a screen when it is taken into the pipe. A filter has been built near the fountain, where the water is purified by passing through gravel and charcoal. Ice is kept in the filter to cool the water, which passes from there to the drinking tap. The grounds as a whole never looked better than they did on Sunday, and that is saying a great deal. The drives and walks had recently been all gone over and cleared up, the lots looked well, and the flowers were in full bloom. The number of visitors was large and the complimentary remarks on the way the cemetery was kept were frequent.

The Civic Holiday.

To-morrow the town of Peterborough will celebrate its civic holiday. The programme for the day is a varied one. At 8 o'clock the steamer Golden-Eye will run an excursion to Faucher's Park, and again at 1.30 o'clock p. m. At the Park there will be a regatta and races for the valuable cups offered by Mr. H. Calcutt as prizes. A celebration in commemoration of the relief of Derry will be held under the auspices of the True Blues. A large number of lodges are expected from a distance. They will be met at the station by the Peterborough brethren, and a procession will be formed, which will proceed to the market square. After dinner the procession will be reformed and will march through the principal streets to the drill shed grounds, where addresses will be delivered. The True Blue's celebration will conclude with a ball in the Opera House. A pic-nic will be held in Wallis' grove for the benefit of St. Peter's Cathedral building fund, under the auspices of the ladies of No. One Ward. A dancing platform will be erected, and good music furnished. There will be an open air concert by talanted amateurs, and refreshments will be provided on the grounds. A good programme of sports has been prepared, and those who attend the pic-nic may, with certainty, count on an enjoyable time. At 7.45 o'clock a.m. an excursion train will leave the Ontario and Quebec station for Toronto. No doubt many will take advantage of this opportunity of visiting the capital of our Province, as they will have several hours to view the Queen City. A team of the cricket club will accompany the excursion party, and will play a match with the Toronto club. In the afternoon a base ball match will be played on the cricket ground between the Silver Stars, of Peterborough, and the Uxbridge club, where a good exhibition of base ball will be given. The Silver Stars' nine will be chosen from the following players :—J. Callaghan, A. Seney, J. J. Lynch, W. H. Dayman, C. Rutherford, W. Lannin, W. Watson, T. Sanderson, D. Cushen, A. F. Reid and J. Armstrong. With this programme no one should have any difficulty in spending an enjoyable day.

At Faucher's Restaurant.

Special to Gentlemen.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. have received a large consignment of boys' and Gents' English Fur Felt Hats (intercepted on transit to Winnipeg.) The styles are most recent and the prices so very low as to warrant a speedy sale. Go early for first choice.

An Incipient Fire.

At about noon on Sunday the roof of the summer kitchen at Mrs. Chrowe's, on Smith street, took fire from the stove pipe. There was quite a blaze when it was discovered, but it was extinguished without calling out the fire brigade.

Grand Concert.

A grand vocal and instrumental concert will be held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Monday next, August 11th, at 8 p. m. The best amateurs of Peterborough have kindly consented to be present, and they will be assisted by Miss Ermatinger, of St. Thomas, well known as an excellent and thoroughly trained vocalist. Admission 25 cents. Proceeds for St. Luke's Church.

Fall Driving Gloves in Buck, Antelope and Dogskin, at the Gentlemen's Furnishing Establishment, A. McNeil's, George Street.

New Business.

Mr. A. Clegg has just completed all his arrangements for the new branch of business. His splendid new hearse (there is only one other as good in the Dominion), is now finished. His show rooms have been fitted to receive the stock of caskets, coffins, &c., of which he has the best assortment ever offered in town. Those who require the services of an undertaker will find everything needed in that line, including shrouds, robes, and all funeral requisites. Mr. Clegg has spared neither pains nor money in fitting out this department. Funerals in both town and country will receive careful and punctual attention in every case by a fully competent man.

Picnic in Wallis Grove To-morrow.

The rarest and happiest conditions of life is having "a sound mind in a sound body." To assist in attaining this supreme position your surroundings should be pleasant, exhilarating and healthy. You will not find such in crowded thoroughfares or dusty streets, but if you join the ranks thnt will swiftly form on the civic holiday in Captain Wallis' beautiful woods a chance is offered everybody to recuperate and have a delightful time besides. The attractions offered at this picnic are of the most pleasing character and cannot fail to delight. Come yourself and be sure to take your children, your sisters and your cousins and your aunts, they all want a holiday. Busses will run from the hotels to the grounds during the day.

The Mails.

The opening of the Ontario and Quebec Railway this time caused some changes in the time of closing and receiving the mails. Mails for the east (Montreal and intermediate points on the O. & Q.) close at 11 a.m., at 7 a.m. via the Grand Trunk and at 7 p.m. via the Ontario & Quebec. Mails for the west on the Ontario & Quebec are despatched at 6.03 a.m. (closing on the previous night), close at 7 a.m. and at 7.30 p.m. Mails are received per the Ontario & Quebec from the east at 6.03 a.m. and 7.30 p.m., and from the west at 11.40 a.m. and 10.45 p.m. The mails to Lindsay, Midland, points, on the Victoria railway, &c., close at 4 p.m. Mails are received per the Grand Junction at 10.20 a.m. and close at 1.30 p.m., a change having taken place in the time of this road this morning.

Final Notice.

To-morrow the excursion to Toronto, to which many of our readers have been looking forward, takes place. Train leaves the O. & Q. Station, George street, at 7.45 a.m., reaching Toronto within three hours. This offers an excellent opportunity for you to see your friends, and if you desire it, to do a stroke of business also. To prevent delay to-morrow, secure your tickets to-night at Sallsbury's or at Davis's book stores. The O. & Q. road runs through a splendid section of country, and the coaches will be simply first class, affording excellent accommodation. If you do not take advantage of this, Peterborough's pioneer excursion to the Queen City, you will, we are convinced, greatly regret it. On payment of $1 extra you ticket will be endorsed by the station master at Peterborough good for two days.

Grand Excursion and Regatta.

On Tuesday next, August 12th, the Civic Holiday, there will be at Faucher's Park a Regatta free to all. The following prizes will be offered for competition :—

SCULLING CUP, $50.—For single scullers (amateurs). Best and best of boats. Mile heats, best 2 in 3.

CANOE CUP, $50.—For single paddlers. Hunting canoes. Mile heats. Best 2 in 3.

The winner of the cups three times to become the owner. Should the winner not be able to attend the next race, this heat will stand to his credit, and he may compete at any time before the cups are finally won. The steamer Golden-Eye will run an excursion to the above regatta, leaving the Peterborough wharf at 8 a. m. and 1.30 p.m. Returning will leave the Park at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Hot water and tables provided at the Park. Meals at the hotel. A quadrille band in the hall for dancing. Fishing or picnic parties left off at any point of the river. Return tickets, 25c.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows :—Lakes—Moderate south and south-west winds; fine warm weather, with a few local showers or thunder-storms at night.

A split in the Boot and Shoe business.—SMITH'S MARKET.

Educational Examinations.

The following candidates for non-professional second class certificates, who wrote at Peterborough and Norwood, were successful:—Peterborough—Cowie B., grade B; Russell, C., grade A; Beal, A. W., grade A. Norwood—Anderson, H., grade A.; McLachlan, S., grade B.; Elliott M., grade B.; McNulty, M., grade B.; Scott, A. S., grade A.; Scott, T. B., grade A.; Lewis, K., grade B. In addition to these a further statement will appear respecting the candidates who presented themselves for both second and third-class standing, but their names are not included in the present list, which contains those who tried for second class only, the examiners not having completed their work. The present list is now published in order that candidates may apply at once for admission to the Normal Schools if qualified to attend.

Pencil Points.

—Three fires reported since Saturday.

—As to-morrow will be the civic holiday, the DAILY EVENING REVIEW will not be issued in the evening.

—There was a clean sheet at the Police Court this morning.

—The True Blues have erected a fine arch at the intersection of George and Hunter streets for their demonstration to-morrow.

—The art exhibition over the post-office will remain open this evening and to-morrow. If you have not seen it be sure to go, as it is well worth seeing.

—Will any person who knows where the board is that stood at the entrance to the art exhibition, with the posters on it, please return it to the rooms or leave word at this office?

—The first and second nines of the Peterborough base ball club will play a match to-morrow. The wooden prize they will contest for has a capacity of several gallons and will not be empty.

Toronto's Show.

The sixth annual show of the Industrial Exhibition Association, is advertised to take place on the grounds of the Association in Toronto beginning on the 10th of September and ending on the 20th. Unusual efforts have been made, in view of the semi-centennial character which this year confers upon the show, to have it the most attractive ever held here New buildings are being provided and various features are to be added. The Governor General and Lady Lansdowne are to open the Exhibition, and distinguished members of the British Association, shortly to assemble in Montreal, are expected to be present.—Monetary Times.

The Time to Cut Grass.

The report of the analytical chemist of the department of agriculture, summing up the results of analyses of nearly all the cultivated grasses, says: "It is apparent, then, that in most cases the time of bloom, or thereabouts, is the fittest for cutting grasses in order to obtain the most nourishment and largest relatively profitable crops, and for the following reasons. The amount of water has diminished, and the shrinkage will therefore be less. The weight of the crop will be largest in proportion to the nutritive value of its constituents. The amount of nitrogen not present as albuminoids will be at its lowest point; fibre will not be so excessive as to prevent digestion; and the nutritive ratio will be more advantageous. If cut earlier, the shrinkage is larger, although the fibre is less, and albumen is a little larger. The palatability may be increased; but the total nutriments to the acre will not be so large, and the nutritive ratio will be more abnormal. The disadvantages of late cutting are evident in the increase of fibre, destroying the digestibility of nutriments, and the falling off of the albumen by conversion into amides. This is not made up by the larger crop cut."

Fluid Lightning

Cures Toothache and Neuralgia quick as flash, relieves any pain instantly, the quickest and cheapest application known, why suffer with toothache, neuralgia, headache, Rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, Sore throat or acute pains of any kind when you can go to John McKee's drug store and get a perfect and instantaneous cure for 25 cents.

JOHN VERT, Hamilton, says: McGregor's Speedy Cure for dyspepsia and indigestion is cheap at fifty times the price asked for it. I am a commercial man, and travel continually, and would no more think of leaving home without a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure in my valise than I would of leaving my team at home and going on foot. Free trial bottles at John McKee's drug store. Regular size 50c. and 1.

A Fine Beverage.

Dowe's India Pale Ale, the best ale made in Canada, on draught at the Little Windsor Hotel, the proprietor of which is sole agent for Peterborough.

Can't Be Beaten.

It is a fact that Nerviline cannot be surpassed by any combination for the relief of pain. The reason is a good one. Nerviline contains the best, most powerful, and the latest discovered remedies. It is a magic pain cure. Rheumatism, stiff neck, cramps, neuralgia, colic, in fact all pain, internal, external, and local, are subdued in a few minutes. Go at once to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and get a trial bottle. It will only cost you 10 cents, and you can at a small cost test the great pain cure, Polson's Nerviline. Large bottles only 25 cts.

Itching Piles—Symptoms and Cure.

If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. Swayne's ointment is a pleasant, cure. Also for Tetter, Itch, Salt-Rheum, Scald-Head, Erysipelas, Barbers' Itch, Blotches, all scaly, crusty skin diseases. Box, by mail, 50 cts.; 4 for $1.25. Address, Dr. Swayne & Son., Phila., Pa. Sold by druggists.

A Run on a Drug Store.

Never was such a rush made for any drug store as is now at Taylor & McDonald's for a trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. All persons afflicted with asthma, bronchitis, hoarseness, severe coughs or any affection of the throat or lungs, can get a trial bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at the above drug store.

Young Men?—Read This.

The Voltaic Belt Co., of Marshall Mich., offer to send their celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and other Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and manhood, and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred as thirty days trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet free.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

The Quickest thing on Record

Is Fluid Lightning for neuralga, headache, toothache, etc. It does not blister or discolor the skin; requires but one application to banish all pain magically without using any greasy liniment or carrying your head in a poultice for two weeks. Try a twenty-five cent bottle from John McKee's druggist.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Not another Pill shall go down my throat again, said a citizen, "when I can get such a prompt and pleasant cure for my Bilious attacks, as Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It renders the Blood Pure and Cool and makes a splended Spring Medicine. Large Bottles 50 cents.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE
AS
GOODNESS
Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indispensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

DAILY EVENING REVIEW.

VOL. XII.—No. 36. PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 13, 1884. PRICE TWO CENTS

Giroux & Sullivan.

The Banner Week

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla and other blood-purifying roots, combined with Iodide of Potassium and Iron, and is the safest, most reliable, and most economical blood-purifier that can be used. It invariably expels all blood poisons from the system, enriches and renews the blood, and restores its vitalizing power. It is the best known remedy for Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin, as also for all disorders caused by a thin and impoverished, or corrupted, condition of the blood, such as Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, General Debility, and Scrofulous Catarrh.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Fresh Fish.

Trout, White Fish, Maskinonge, Black Bass and Finnan Haddies fresh at Carton Bros. grocery.

Bodega.

Fine Spanish wines, Ports and Sherries drawn from the wood, at William Chamberlain's Restaurant.

A Runaway at the Grove.

Mr. Mr. McFadden's horse, which was attattached to a buggy, got loose in Wallis' Grove on Tuesday and ran around among the trees. The vehicle was considerably damaged before the horse was secured.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Light winds, mostly south and east, very fine warm weather.

Personal.

Mr. N. D. Beck is home from the North-West on a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Walsh and Mr. and Mrs. M. Millar left town on Tuesday evening for old Orchard Beach to enjoy the sea breeze for two weeks.

The Golden Lion to the Front.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. are having their large plate front painted, silvered and beautified in order to display their magnificent new fall stock daily arriving. Their importations are large and well selected to meet the demands of their increasing trade. Every department is being filled to the ceiling, and every shelf contains a bargain.

Arrived and opened out, an unusually choice selection of Canadian Tweeds in Fall weights, at Habiliment Hall, George street.

He Jumped off a Train.

Harry Robinson, a step-son of Mr. T. Fitzgerald, got on a train at the Midland station to go to a field in the south part of the town where some boys practice lacrosse. He expected that the train would stop near where he wished to get off, but it did not do so, and while it was running at a fast pace he sprang off. He was thrown violently to the ground, and his face struck on some stones, cutting and bruising it badly. Harry was able to be around next day, but his face will be sore for some time.

Fruit Jars.

Every person putting up fruit should give the the jars the first attention; without a perfect sealing jar, it is useless going to the expense and trouble of canning fruit, China Hall is the only store in Peterborough selling the improved perfect fitting "Crown Jar" in firsts. Every jar warranted. It costs no more to have the best as the enormous quantities, we handle enables us to sell our jars as low as any house in the trade and give a better jar, Stone Jars and Jelly Cans all sizes at CHINA HALL.

Surrounded by Fire.

The fire on Sunday night at Montgomery's livery stable was thought at first by many to be Bellegham's Furniture Factory. It has been remarked this was the fourth time within a period of six or eight months which have led many to fear that his factory was in danger. So that Bellegham may well congratulate himself, for within the period mentioned he has had a fire on every side of him—north, south, east and west—in fact he has been surrounded with fires, and escaped them all. His friends will join with us in wishing for him a long continuance of the good luck he is now enjoying; both in immunity from fires and in his singular prosperity in business.

Heart Pains.

Palpitation, Dropsical Swellings, Dizziness, Indigestion, Headache, Sleeplessness, cured by "Wells' Health Renewer."

Mischievous.

We are informed by Mr. VanEvery, of the "Golden Lion," that on Tuesday some mischievous boys hacked and cut with a knife their newly painted front store windows and badly injured the silver finish which had been put on a few days ago. It is to be hoped that the police will find out the rascals and give them a lesson.

Your Urgent Demand Supplied.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. have just opened per express a large range of specialties, including Ladie's Gloves in Black and Colored Silk, Black and Tan Kid Gauntlets, Jersey and Mousquitaire in all shades, and many novelties in great demand at this season. The Golden Lion is worthy of your inspection.

See our new style Collars to arrive this week. Names and particulars on arrival. Habiliment Hall.

New Business.

Mr. A. Clegg has just completed all his arrangements for the new branch of business. His splendid new hearse (there is only one other as good in the Dominion), is now finished. His show rooms have been fitted to receive the stock of caskets, coffins, &c., of which he has the best assortment ever offered in town. Those who require the services of an undertaker will find everything needed in that line, including shrouds, robes, and all funeral requisites. Mr. Clegg has spared neither pains nor money in fitting out this department. Funerals in both town and country will receive careful and punctual attention in every case by a fully competent man.

The York Pioneers.

On Tuesday Messrs. W. H. Doel and W. Lea, a deputation from the York Pioneers, Toronto, were in town making arrangements for the excursion from Toronto on August 26th. They wanted to secure the Agricultural grounds and, if possible, make arrangements with Mr. Calcutt for the use of his steamers to take the party around the lake if they so desired. One of the deputation informed a REVIEW reporter that it was very probable they would enter into negotiations with the Peterborough Lacrosse club, and if possible arrange a match with one of the Queen city clubs to be played here on the afternoon of the above date. No doubt the match can be arranged. They will also be accompanied by a band from Toronto.

A Runaway and Collision.

On Tuesday evening a horse attached to a buggy containing Mrs. W. Lasher, two other ladies and two children, ran away on Brock street, east of the post-office. At the corner of George street the rig struck a buggy in which Messrs. Crevier and H. LeBrun were riding, and upset it. The gentlemen were thrown out into the dust, and although one would think that "great would be the fall," they escaped comparatively uninjured, Mr. LeBrun receiving some scratches and his clothes being torn. Mr. Crevier's horse, having freed himself from the buggy, sped west on Brock street, and has not been seen since. The other horse also continued to run on Brock street, but when going up the hill west of Bethune street one trace became loose, and the collar being pulled around and up on the animal's throat, forced it to stop. The ladies and children were not injured, but they were considerably frightened.

Evening Concert.

A concert was held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on the evening of Monday, the 11th instant. The hall was comfortably filled, and the local talent well represented. Mr. K. G. Lech commenced the proceedings by giving a vocal solo, "Best of All," and later in the evening distinguished himself in "The Bell Ringer." Miss Ermatinger sang three solos and responded to two encores. She possesses a powerful soprano voice. Miss Cottingham sang in the first part, "Caller Herrin'," and in the second part, "Barney O'Hea," which elicited rousing applause. The duets sang by Miss Johnson and Mr. Galletly and Mrs. Bowman and Mr. Galletly were well received. Prof. Doucet favored the audience with a piano solo and a violin solo in a manner which showed his ability to handle both instruments. Mrs. Bowman, always a favorite, sang, "Thou Art so Near." Miss Johnson rendered that beautiful solo, "Song of the Blind Flower Girl," and received well merited applause. Mr. Galletly sang very pathetically, "The Old Arm Chair." Mr. P. Cooper's recitation, "Modern Logic," called forth much merriment. The accompaniments were played by Misses Lech, Revel and Johnson with good taste and precision. The proceeds were in aid of St. Luke's Church.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

ACCUSATION OF ENGLISH INTRIGUE.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—It is asserted from French sources that the English Minister at Pekin is intriguing to annul the trading concessions made to France by China. M. Patenotre will insist upon the special rights of France under the Tien Tsing convention.

ENGLAND AND CHINA.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The British Embassy at Perkin advises Earl Granville that the Chinese Government is disposed to grant England equal trading concessions with France in the southern provinces, but will not enter into negotiations until peace with France is assured.

GAMBLING PUNISHED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 12.—Prince Borlantinsky, a leading member of St. Petersburg society has been dismissed from the command of the Czar's guard, because he squandered his fortune in gambling.

LIBERAL POLICY OF JAPAN.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—It is understood that Japan desires an immediate modification of the separate jurisdiction at the five treaty ports. If this is granted Japan offers to throw open the entire country and remove all restrictions upon foreign residences, travel and trade.

THE FRENCH CONSTITUTION.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The Congress at Versailles adopted by 602 to 165 the paragraph decreeing the Republican form of government to be immutable. The paragraph declaring monarchical pretenders to be ineligible for the presidency was adopted by 597 to 153. The Congress rejected the amendment abolishing the presidency, and the amendment enacting that the president shall be elected by universal suffrage. The whole of the second clause of the Revision Bill was adopted by 592 to 148. The amendment abolishing the Senate and the amendment forbidding Princes of former dynasties from residing on French territory, and confiscating their property was rejected by 482 to 212 votes.

NEW INFANTRY TACTICS.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The new system of military tactics issued by Generals Wolseley and Newdigate, the critics say, will revolutionize English infantry tactics. The scheme is said to be feasible.

AUSTRO-GERMAN CONFERENCE.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—It is reported that Prince Bismarck is urging an Austro-German conference.

FRESH OUTBREAK.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Cholera appeared in Manfrogne near Valence and is raging violently. Population 400. Six deaths in three days. Beziers also suffered severely.

MORTALITY IN MARSEILLES.

MARSEILLES, Aug. 12.—There were fifteen deaths during the day ending 8.30 this evening. The weather is very hot. There is a continuous decrease in the number of deaths in the outlying villages.

NO DEATHS FROM CHOLERA.

TOULON, Aug. 12.—There were no deaths from cholera last night, although many persons are under treatment.

THE DISEASE IN ITALY.

ROME, Aug. 12.—Five fresh cases of cholera have occurred at Castel Nuovo, two at Seborga, and one at Pancalviere. Three deaths have occurred.

Tossing the Caber.

The New York Scottish-American says:—"Tossing the caber, as practised in America, does not carry out the Scottish idea of the contest. There the winner was he who could toss the largest and thickest "stick," and when the caber furnished was too big for the athletes it was cut down until it suited them. He who threw the largest caber was the winner. The principle here introduced of letting all throw the same log, and measuring the distance thrown, is really of no use, merely as a feat of strength, for which purpose the game was introduced."

FACTS are stubborn things, and sufferers from chills and fever generally find their complaint a very stubborn fact, until they commence the use of Ayer's Ague Cure. That medicine eradicates the noxious poison from the system, and invariably cures even the worst cases.

RECHERCHE.—Not only the most exquisite thing for the teeth and breath extant, but Teaberry is a beautiful little ornament and and finish to the toilet.

A LADY writes: "I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family for years, and could not keep house without it. For the relief of the pains consequent upon female weaknesses and and irregularities, I consider it without an equal.

HONESTY.—It is commonly said that you can not make an honest man believe that white is black and vice versa, but those who have grey hair, by using the Cingalese Hair Renewer, will find that this apparent difficulty is easily overcome. Sold at 50 cents per bottle by J. D. Tully.

Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy.

A marvellous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth, and Headache. With each bottle there is an ingenious nasal Injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 50 cts. Sold by J. D. Tully wholesale, retail agent.

Answer this Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75c. we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Pimples and Blotches.

Call at John McKee's drug store and get a package of McGregor and Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It is composed of vaseline, carbolic acid and cerate, and has never failed to remove pimples, blotches, ulcerated sores, rough skin. It cures when all others fail. Try it.

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D., New York City.

THE PROVINCIAL ANNUITIES

THE Globe has at last deemed it necessary to to break silence anent the annuity scheme which was some time ago inaugurated by the Provincial Government, but although its article extents to nearly a column in length it is careful, very careful to say nothing definite as to the actual result of the tenders called for by the Provincial Treasurer last June. It is true that the Globe informs us "that all that was wanted was taken up at once", but it does not venture to tell us whether the price was one which pays the purchasers, four, four and a half or five per cent. on his investment—a reticence which is of itself significant. No doubt it is not all that was hoped or we should have had a flourish of trumpets over the event.

But let us examine the Globe's arguments on behalf of a scheme which, in its opinion, "is one of the most common sense and business-like proceedings that could be thought of," in the light of the returns laid before the Legislature last session and upon which the Globe bases its article.

In the first place the reader had better be reminded that under one of the Railway aid schemes of the Mowat Government, they, instead of paying certain bonuses by a single payment, gave the companies entitled thereto forty scrip certificates, entitling them to forty equal half yearly payments, of an amount which if sold to pay the purchaser six per cent. would net the Railway companies the amount they were promised. At the close of 1883, the total amount of this scrip outstanding was $2,862,144 falling due at the rate of $242,154 per annum up to and including the year 1891; for the next four years at the rate of $125,596 per annum, and then in steadily decreasing amounts until 1902, when a sum of $3,055 would wipe out this lot of scrip. And it is to meet this debt that a second scheme of terminable annuities is being floated by the Mowat Government.

Now let us notice some of the "taffy" with which the Globe seeks to sweeten this the second step in the Provincial debt inaugurated by the Mowat Government:—

"The triumphant and rather contemptuous question has been asked again and again, 'Why 'borrow to make such payments, when the 'Province, it seems, has such an immense 'surplus?' The reason is very plain and clear, one would think, to the meanest capacity. There is no part of the Provincial surplus that is at this moment yielding less than five per cent. of interest; some of it is bringing six. To convert any of this in order to pay the railway instalments as they fall due, when money can be had at 4½ per cent., would simply be to make the Province lose ½ per cent. per-annum, or 1½, according to the different securities disposed of. What sense would there be in that?"

And to still further impress its readers with the senselessness of such a proposition, we find further on the following:—

"Take an illustration which any one can understand. A farmer holds a mortgage or municipal debenture for $10,000, bearing 5 per cent. interest, running 10 years. This would bring him $500 a year.

"Suppose he wanted to build a house or barn, which he could not do without selling his mortgage. His neighbors offer him money on his note at 4½, and he makes $50 a year by letting the mortgage alone, and giving his own note for the amount wanted."

And the Globe asks with an innocence that is truly refreshing "would he not be wise to do so?" We venture to think not, and to suggest that any "business man," whether farmer, merchant or banker (except the present Provincial Treasurer), having a $10,000 security bearing five per cent. and wanting $10,000 for a permanent investment of any kind would, instead of borrowing, sell his security not for its face value but for its market value, which would be more than the former if money could then be had at 4½ per cent. while his security was bearing five. For instance, the financial authority who wrote this article, not improbably the Provincial Treasurer himself in view of the intimate relations evidently existing between the Globe office and the Ontario Departments, when he talks about losing 1½ per cent. per annum by realizing the $500,000 six per cent Dominion debentures now held by the Province were they turned into cash, conveniently forgets that for years past these same debentures have been placed at a premium of $30,000 in the Provincial financial statements, and that the present treasurer asserted during the last session that if now offered for sale they would bring a premium of from forty up to sixty thousand dollars. But be that as it may, no one, we venture to think, will dispute that if Ontario scrip will sell at a price which only pays the purchaser 4½ per cent, the Dominion debentures now held by the Province will also sell at the same time at a price which will only net the purchaser 4½ per cent. Or to use the Globe's own illustration, the man who is ready to lend another on his note money at 4½ per cent., will be equally ready to buy a good security from him at a price which will only pay him the same rate of interest on his investment. So much for that excuse for floating a new loan.

"The five per cent. and the six per cent. investments are in this way left untouched, and the old railway scrip is turned into terminable annuities on very favourable terms."

Indeed! To begin with the last assertion first, will the Globe kindly tell us wherein is the difference between the old and new scrip, except that the new is for a larger amount and has longer to run than the old? The old had twenty years to run and then terminated, and this is to have forty and then terminate—if it is not renewed by the issue of a third series, as the first is now being renewed by the issue of a second. The old consisted of equal half-yearly payments during its term, and this is to do the same during its term. There is really nothing "new" about it.

But we are told that five and six per cent. investments are to be "in this way left untouched." Are they? For how long?

Let us see: Under the existing scrip our present liability is $242,154 per annum, and is to be met by borrowing, as it could not otherwise be met without further trenching upon the little of the Sandfield Macdonald surplus still left. But the new borrowings create an immediate and ever increasing demand upon the Provincial Treasury. Assuming, as the Globe's article implies, that there was sold on the 1st July last enough of scrip to meet the Railway payments falling due this year, there will be to pay on this new account either on the 31st Dec. or 1st January next the sum of $6,552,; In June or July double that amount and so on increasing every six months by the sum of $6,552, until the amount payable in 1891, on account of this new loan will be $98,290, and in 1895 only eleven years hence will be $128,633, as against $125,596, on account of the old scrip. It is therefore not only absurd to say that our present investments will be left "untouched," but it is a deliberate attempt to deceive the people as to the true financial position of the Province, by increasing its future burdens by nearly five million dollars, in order to escape the payment of less than $1,600,000 during the 11 years beginning with 1884 and ending with 1894, and more than half of which accrues within the first four years named.

Another thing to be borne in mind in this connection is the fact, the alarming fact that notwithstanding the payments on accounts of Railways and surplus distribution together aggregated only $268,000 in 1883 the amount of interest decreased $600,000 during the year.

There are other points in the Globe's article to which we should like to refer, but this article is already sufficiently long.

The Wheat Crop.

The report of the Bureau of Industries for August gives a cheering account of the wheat crop of the Province. The fall wheat appears to have made steady improvement throughout the season, and in localities where it was regarded as hardly worth saving in May, good harvests have been reaped. The moderately cool weather and occasional rain-showers favored continuous growth and healthy maturity, and the grain is an excellent sample, being plump, hard and bright. In a few localities it was attacked by the midge and weevil, but the extent of injury by these pests is not appreciable on the aggregate crop. Reaping began in the south-western counties of the Province about the middle of July, and by the 1st of August the bulk of the crop was cut and much of it safely housed. The harvest weather being favorable, the grain has been gathered in first-rate condition. Accounts of the spring wheat are equally good, excepting for the northern and north-eastern counties, where its growth was checked by the drought of June. But even in these districts it promises a fair yield, while in the Lake Ontario, West Midland, Georgian Bay and Lake Huron counties it is reported to be better than for many years. It will be fully ripe about the middle of the month, and with a continuance of the present weather the quality will at least equal that of the fall wheat. The following table gives the area and the production of the crops of this year and last year—the production of the present harvest being based on the estimates of 1,150 correspondents:—

	1884		1883
	Acres.	Bushels.	Acres.	Bushels.
Fall wheat..	864,961	17,408,356	1,091,467	11,597,839
Spring wheat	720,632	13,224,341	586,410	9,726,063
Totals ..	1,585,593	30,632,697	1,677,877	21,323,902

The bad harvest of fall wheat last year and the comparatively good harvest of spring wheat accounts for the decreased area of the one crop and the increased area of the other this year.

United States Trade Statistics.

The balance of trade in favor of the United States for the last fiscal year was $75,676,000, against $100,658,000 in the previous year. The decrease in the value of exports during the past year was due chiefly to a falling-off of cotton, manufactures of cotton, wheat, flour, hops, tobacco and fruits. There was, however, a marked increase in exports of cattle, oils, provisions, copper, and manufactures of copper, rye and corn. The decrease in imports was largely due to a falling-off in the value of the imports of iron and steel and manufactures thereof, cotton manufactures, hides and skins, breadstuffs, tea and wines.

Strange Test of Incompatibility of Temper.

In former times it was the custom at Zurich, when a married pair applied for divorce on the ground of incompatibility of temper, for the magistrates to shut them up for a fortnight in a tower on the lake. The couple were given but one room, one bed, one chair, one fork and knife. If, at the expiration of the fortnight, they persisted in their resolution, the tribunal ordered a serious examination of the case, and, if possible, the divorce. But it was rare that the intervention of the tribunal was necessary, the quarrelsome pair being usually reconciled before the end of the fortnight.

The French Constitution.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—The congress at Versailles adopted by 602 to 165 the paragraph decreeing the republican form of government to be immutable. The paragraph declaring monarchical pretenders ineligible to the presidency was adopted by 597 to 123.

Truth Bible Competition

NO. ELEVEN.

THE FINAL ONE!

Closing September 15th.

A NEW PLAN.

For Persons Residing Anywhere in the World Outside the City of Toronto.

The Largest List, and Most Valuable Ever Offered by any Publisher.

RESIDENTS OF TORONTO INADMISSABLE.

A SMALL FARM FREE.

SPECIAL CLUB OFFER!

Four Pianos, Three Organs, Silver Tea Sets, Sewing Machines, Gold Watches, Silver Watches, and Innumerable other Valuable Rewards

DON'T DELAY SENDING IN YOUR ANSWERS.

At the solicitation of many friends Truth announces one more—the final—Bible competition. Owing to the fact of so many valuable rewards going to citizens of Toronto, this competition will be open only to persons living outside the city of Toronto. Any one residing in any other part of the habitable world will be eligible to compete for these magnificent rewards. The questions—which are supplied by an eminent Presbyterian minister—are very difficult, but the rewards are valuable. We hope the publisher of Truth will meet with the success his enterprise so richly merits. Everything he has offered in previous Bible Competitions has been promptly and cheerfully handed over to the successful ones the moment they are known. We most heartily commend the paper to our readers. They will find it all it is represented to be. Full and complete lists of all those who gain rewards are given in Truth the week following the close of each competition. There will be no change, and no postponement in any way; everything will be carried out exactly as stated.

HERE ARE THE QUESTIONS.

1.—Where is Gold first made mention of in the Bible?

2.—Where does it first state in the Bible that there was only one language and one speech on the whole earth?

3.—When is Inn first referred to in the Bible? by the word inn is meant a place of rest and refreshment, commonly known now as an hotel).

Everyone competing must send one dollar with their answers, for six months subscription to Truth. And aside from the rewards themselves they will find that they have made the best investment of one dollar they ever did. Truth is full and big value for the money. Bear in mind that you pay nothing extra for the privilege of competing for these costly rewards, as you will get Truth for six months in any case for your one dollar, which is the regular subscription price, and will also get one of these rewards, provided you answers are correct, and reach Truth office in time. Don't delay.

112 to 350.—Two hundred and forty seven Ladies' Solid Rolled Gold Brooches, new and elegant designs	494 00
300 to 505.—One hundred and forty-five silver-plated Butter knives	145 00

These five acres of land above described will be given to the persons rending the middle correct answer of the whole competition, from first to last. The five hundred and four costly articles beginning with the piano, that follow No. 1 of these middle awards, will be given to the five hundred and four persons who send the next correct answers following the middle or centre reward that takes the farm. The land mentioned above could be divided up into building lots and sold to great advantage, as there are no vacant houses in the town of Clifton or Niagara Falls, as it is now called. Then, that even the last ones may not feel that they are to be left out, Truth will give a series of

CONSOLATION REWARDS.

—Beginning with another of those fine pianos, by Stevenson & Co., which have been received with so much satisfaction by the prize winners in previous competitions	$550 00
2.—Then follows another Bell Organ	250 00
3.—Another Silver Tea Set, 6 pieces, best quadruple plate	100 00
4.—Gentleman's Solid Gold Genuine Elgin Watch	100 00
5.—Lady's solid gold genuine Elgin Watch	95 00

12 to 29.—Eighteen Solid Coin Silver Watches	450 00
30 to 41.—Twelve Ladies' Solid Coin Silver Hunting-case Watches	240 00
42 to 57.—Sixteen solid Nickle Silver Watches	240 00
58 to 71.—Fourteen renowned Waterbury Watches	70 00
72 to 209.—One hundred and thirty-eight elegantly bound volumes of Universal Cyclopedia	424 00
210 to 311.—One hundred and two Ladies' Fine Rolled Gold Pins or Brooches	204 00
312 to 401.—Ninety Solid Triple Silver-plated Butter Knives	90 00

The further you live from Toronto the better you can compete for these last or consolation rewards. Bear in mind that it is the last correct answer received at the office of Truth that gets number one in these consolation rewards. The offer is open only to the 15th September, and as long as your letter bears the post mark, where mailed, of the date of 15th September, it will take its place in the order received at Truth office. Fifteen days after date of closing will be allowed for letters from distant points to reach Toronto, but don't forget your letter must not bear a later post mark than September 15. All competing must send with their answers one dollar for six months' subscription to Truth, which will be sent to any desired address for the twelve months. Wherever you live, outside Toronto, you can compete at any time between now and the closing day for either the first or middle rewards, and as well as, of course, for the consolation rewards. Some one will get those five acres of land—why not you? Look up your Bible now, and see if you can find the answers to these questions. It will do you good, apart from the opportunity you have of obtaing a valuable reward in addition to Truth

SPECIAL CLUB OFFER.

If twenty-five persons join and send $50 each one of the twenty-five whose answers are correct will get their choice of a solid rolled gold brooch, new and elegant design, worth at retail two dollars; a Chambers' Etymological Dictionary, worth about same amount; a World's Universal Cyclopedia, or a volume elegantly bound of Shakespeare's Complete Works. Of course, each of the club will have the same opportunity of gaining one of the rewards in the regular list (in addition to the certainty of one of the prizes aforesaid), as though they had sent in singly. This is simply an extra inducement to clubs.

The rewards in last competition were very widely scattered over Ontario and Quebec. In fact every Province was represented in the last, not excepting British Columbia. A great many also went to the States.

No information will be given any one beyond what has above been stated. So don't waste time by waiting, but send in your answers and money now. If you happen to be too late for the first, you may be fortunate enough to obtain a middle reward, and that is where the biggest ones are. Truth directs special attention to the fact that clergymen are not permitted to compete, neither are persons who in previous competitions won prizes exceeding one hundred dollars in value. This we think exceedingly fair, and as no Torontonians are allowed to compete, the field is now open for a fair and square race for these rewards to any one, as Truth says, on the habitable globe, outside Toronto. No money will be received by telegraph or in any way but through the post-office or by express. One dollar only required. Try your skill. You are sure of good value for your money anyway. Address S. Frank Wilson, Truth office, 33 and 35 Adelaide street, Toronto, Canada.

CHOLERA

—IS—

COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

ADD THE BELLEVILLE ONTARIO.

Every calamity paper in Canada locates its imaginary evils elsewhere than in its own town. Except one. The excepted journal is the Hamilton Evening Times, which enjoys the proud distinction of being the foulest bird of the foul flock.—Hamilton Spectator.

BLAKE AND THE BLEUS.

The significant announcement is made that Mr. Blake is going to work up the Grit cause in the rural districts of Quebec. This will be quite in accordance with the Grit policy of last session when a determined, though somewhat too obvious and barefaced attempt was made to capture the Bleus.—Toronto News (Indep.)

THE RESULTS OF GRIT RULE.

Were the Tories in opposition in the Dominion now, what tales we should hear of the stringency of the times; of the bankruptcies and the idle factories; of the unemployed working men and the struggle for bread.—London Advertiser (Reform.)

MR. EDGAR AND SIR RICHARD.

What the people mark more narrowly is the circumstances that those men who are most championed by the Grit leader, and declared to be needful to him in the House, are the very ones in whom the people seem to have the least confidence, who in fact have been weighed over and over again in the popular scales, and found wanting every time.—London Free Press.

FIDDLING OVER BURNING ROME.

The employees of the Canada Tool Works, of McKechnie & Bertram, at Dundas, took their annual holiday on Tuesday at Burlington Reach. The merry-makers numbered, wives and children included, between five and six hundred. Is it not pitiful to see "starved and down-trodden" sons and daughters of toil enjoying themselves so when the iron industries of the country are, according to the Hamilton Times and the Globe's informants, in so ruinous a state of depression? It is like fiddling when Rome is burning! Messrs. McKechnie & Bertram should not allow anything so unseemly.—Monetary Times.

WEST ONTARIO.

Many old Reformers, especially about Ballantrae, Pine Orchard and White Rose, as well as in Newmarket, would vote for an out-and-out Tory rather than Mr. Edgar, if an opportunity were offered—at least they make no secret of thus declaring their sentiments. Of course, there are a few who feel disposed to accept the situation and support the Convention; but all attempts on their part, to persuade old political friends to forego expressions of dissatisfaction, for the sake of party and on expedient grounds, is a most miserable failure.—Newmarket Era (Indep. Reform.)

BRIEF BUT COMPREHENSIVE.

In the matter of treaties the dusky Africans are ahead of us. Our extradition treaties contain a great many words but cover a very few crimes. Here is a treaty between the King of Ethiopia and the Khedive of Egypt, which contains few words and embraces every criminal case. "His Majesty the Negoosa Negust and his Highness the Khedive engage to deliver up one to the other, any criminal or criminals who may have fled to escape punishment from the dominions of the one to the dominions of the other." This is brevity and simplicity, combined with thoroughness.—Toronto Mail.

THE PEOPLE WILL NOT, ANYWAY.

It will be interesting to observe if the Reform leaders will endorse the attitude of their chief organ on the land question. The Globe has come out squarely in favor of Henry George's plan for the nationalization of the land. What Henry George proposes is that all land should be taken over by the State without compensation, and then rented out to those who will pay the highest price per year for its use.—Toronto Telegram (Indep.).

BELLEVILLE.

BURGLARS.—On Friday night about two o'clock burglars forced an entrance into the residence of Mr. Alex. Robertson, M.P., and ransacked the lower part of the house. They were frightened away by Mr. Robertson before anything was stolen. Besides their visit to Mr. A. Roberts[illegible] they entered Mr. James Moon's residence a[illegible] $60 in money, and broke some furniture, effecting a hurried exit after Mr. Moon had fired a pistol. At Mr. Dodd's they failed to secure any booty. It is surmised that the two burglars are a negro and a white man who came in on the Grand Trunk on Thursday noon from the west.

AN ALMOST FATAL ACCIDENT.—A serious, if not fatal accident occured on the schooner Delaware on Friday afternoon, while lying at Downey & Preston's dock. The cargo of coal having been discharge W. Bartley, a son of the captain, and the mate were engaged sweeping the deck, when they began playfully striking each other with their brooms. Bartley's heels struck the comings of the hatchway, and he fell in the hold a distance of ten feet, lighting on his neck and shoulders in the bottom of the vessel. Dr. Willson was summoned and he gave it as his opinion that the spine had been injured. The wounded man was taken to his home in Napanee on the Deseronto. It was learned to-day that Bartley is better, but he is still it a very low state.

Details of the Earthquake.

NEW YORK, AUG. 13.—A number of walls ceilings were cracked by the earthquake. The shock was most preceptibly felt in the district bounded by 125th and 132nd streets and Third and Fourth Avenues. Men, women and children rushed screaming from their homes, coatless and hatless. Police Captain Petty says he noticed three distinct shocks. When the rumbling noise was heard the utmost excitement prevailed in the thickly populated tenement houses. The inmates blocked the stairways in their mad rush for the streets. Windows were broken, crockery smashed, the policemen were called to preserve order. The great towers of Brooklyn bridge oscillated visibly while the bridge rocked as if struck by a hurricane. At the iron steamboat pier the motion was so violent that the ticket takers rushed from the offices. Large crowds at Central Park were thrown into a state of violent excitement by the shaking and strange rumbling in the ground. The animals in the menagerie were frightened. There was a panic at the large hotels on Coney Island, the guests making a general rush for the open air.

During the shock in Brooklyn Sunday the people living or working about the oil works located on the shores of Newtown creek fled, thinking an explosion had occurred there. All the fire companies harnessed their horses in readiness to respond to an alarm of fire which they thought would follow. The sensat on experienced on the receiving ship Vermont, lying at the navy yard, was similar to that felt when a broadside was discharged. Many Sunday schools were in session at the time, and the teachers had, in some instances, great difficulty in allaying the terror of the children and preventing a panic.

The Cholera.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—Fifteen deaths at Marseilles to-day, two at Montfortargues, none at Toulon. Three new cases at Marseilles. The cholera has appeared in Manfrogue pear Valence and is raging violently.

PRESENTATION.

On Saturday evening last a number of the officers and teachers of the late Bible Christian Sunday School visited Mr. Robert Weir at his residence and presented him with a beautifully illustrated family Bible as a recognition of the services he had rendered the school. The address was read by Mr. I. Richardson, and Mr. F Browncombe, on behalf of the officials, presented Mr. Weir with the Bible. The address was as follows:—

Mr. Robert Weir:

DEAR SIR,—In view of the fact that the Bible Christian Sabbath School has been closed, we, the officers and teachers of the above school, desire to show our appreciation of your services so efficiently rendered for a period of over twenty years as superintendent and teacher.

We avail ourselves of this opportunity of presenting you with this copy of the Holy Bible as a token of our esteem and friendship.

We earnestly pray that you may be long spared to promote the spread of those truths which this blessed volume contains.

Signed on behalf of the school by

W. G. YELLAND, Superintendent. T. E. PRATT, Secretary.

Mr. Weir replied as follows:—

DEAR FRIENDS,—I cannot express the pleasure I feel in receiving this address which you have just presented to me, and in the receipt of this beautiful Bible. The address I will treasure for the expressions of Christian love and charity it contains. The Bible I will keep in remembrance, if anything was needed to remind me, of your kindness and respect. You have been pleased to make mention of my long services as teacher and superintendent, which services have been for a period of over twenty years. In reply to this I can only say I have endeavoured to do my duty as a Christian. I sincerely thank you for the prayers and good wishes you have expressed in this address, and for the beautiful gift you have been pleased to bestow, and also for the disinterested kindness and support I have always received from officers and teachers of the school.

Yours in the Lord,

ROBERT WEIR,
Late superintendent B.C.S.S.

At the conclusion of this pleasant ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Weir surprised their visitors by inviting them to partake of a splendid repast, which they did, and spent a very pleasant evening together.

A Strange Story.

The best dog story we have heard of for some time, and which is vouched for to be true in every particular, comes to us from Robertson County. A few nights ago, Mr. Williams, who resides about four miles west of Springfield, let a neighbor, Mr. Pettit, have the use of his dog, to assist and protect him from chicken thieves. About twelve o'clock on the same night, a burglar entered the stable of Mr. Williams, and stole a young bay mare, with a saddle and bridle, and was riding along the road past Pettit's house, when the dog commenced barking, and bounded over the fence and dashed after the horseman at full speed. The chase continued for four miles, when the horse stumbled and fell. The dog rushed up and attacked, it is supposed, the thief, who fired three shots at the animal, but missed him, as no marks were found upon him. Whether the dog closed in upon the thief, or whether the thief took to his heels across the country, has not been definitely ascertained, but the dog took hold of the bridle reins in his mouth and led the horse back three miles, where he was met by Mr. Pettit and his man, who were aroused by the furious barking and were following the dog. Mr. Pettit immediately recognized the horse and dog, and at once surmised what had happened. The whole four, the two men, dog, and horse returned to Mr. Williams, whom they found fast asleep, altogether ignorant of what had happened. The next day several people in the locality testified to hearing three distinct shots fired about the place where the dog brought the robber to bay, and one of the bullets was found on the road about four hundred yards from the spot. The dog is about four years old and weighs about forty-five pounds. Mr. Williams would not part with him for any money.—Nashville Union.

A Lack of "Homes."

Apropos of the recent movement in this direction here the following is interesting:—In conversation with a representative of the Pall Mall Gazette, Mr. D. L. Moody said:—"The great thing that you need in London is homes. Homes! there, that is your great lack. The great mass of your population is homeless. What you want to do is to give them a stake in the country. Let them feel that they have a fixed home out of which they cannot be turned by any one. At present your poor people shift aimlessly from place to place. A man may be in a room to-day and out of it to-morrow. There is no sense of permanence of ownership, such as we have in America, where nearly every man owns his own house and has his own bit of land. There are more people who live from hand to mouth in England than in America, and I sometimes wonder how you would pull through in the event of a prolonged period of depression. The home was founded before the church, and you in England stand more in need of homes than you do of churches. There are no homes in the world so well found and so beautiful as English homes; but, no the other hand, extremes meet, and there are none so destitute and squalid, or lacking in all that makes home homelike, as the homes of many, many thousands of your countrymen. . . . But the great thing that you are behind in is, after all, the home. Keep hammering away at the 'dwellings of the poor' question, and keep moving on against the drink.'

BE sure you get the genuine Murray & Lanman's Florida water. There are counterfeits, but if you will hold a leaf of the pamphlet, which is around each bottle, up to the light, you will see in faint letters, water-marked in the paper, the words, "Lanman & Kemp, New York," and where you cannot find this, you may be sure the article is not genuine.

THE ship Bury St. Edmunds, which arrived at Mantane, Quebec, Saturday, and which was reported to have had a contagious disease on board, has been thoroughly inspected by the medical authorities, who pronounced the vessel healthy. She was allowed to proceed to Metis to load.

ABOUT SICK-HEADACHE.—For years and years the writer had been having sick or nervous headaches after excitement, mental labor, noise or long rides. Zopesa cured me entirely. I now take about two teaspoonfuls about twice a week, enough to operate about twice, and never have a headache. I eat well sleep sound, my system is regular in every way. Zopesa is a grand thing for the liver, dyspepsia and general system. May everybody know it and try it. Ask J. D. Tully.

THE CIVIC HOLIDAY!

HOW THE DAY WAS CELEBRATED BY THE TOWNSPEOPLE.

Full Particulars of the Various Events at Home and Elsewhere as Given by our Own Reporters.

Tuesday, August 12th, was the day proclaimed a holiday by the Mayor this year in accordance with the usual custom of having a holiday each year that is not set down in the calendar, and which is known as the Civic Holiday. The weather was fine; the morning was clear and cool, and as the sun rose towards the zenith it became very warm.

There was a varied programme for the day, and each event in the town was witnessed by a large number of spectators, while the excursion and picnic were largely attended.

EXCURSION TO TORONTO.

A Large Attendance—A Pleasant Outing—Cricket Match in the City

The excursion to the city of Toronto on the Ontario and Quebec Railway, under the auspices of St. Luke's Church Temperance Society, was well patronized. At 8 o'clock a. m. the train left the station. It consisted of twelve coaches, containing 556 passengers, and was drawn by two locomotives. The run to the city was a pleasant one, and Toronto was reached shortly after eleven o'clock. The first care of the excursionists was to look after dinner, and then several hours were spent in viewing the sights of the fine capital of our Province. The train, on the return, departed from the north Toronto station at about 9 o'clock. The time made was slow, Peterborough not being reached until a few minutes after 2 o'clock a. m., which was the only drawback to an otherwise pleasant excursion.

THE CRICKET MATCH.

The excursion party was accompanied by a team of the Peterborough Cricket Club. The cricketers arrived at the Toronto grounds at 10.20 o'clock, and play commenced shortly after 11, with Peterborough at the bat. Each team played twelve a side. Strathey batted very steadily for his 12, and Benjamine for his 14, but the feature of the innings and match was the fine exhibition of cricket by Norley, who obtained his 76 with but one chance when he was well up in his score. Finer batting has never been seen in Toronto. His score consisted of 2 fours, 5 threes, 16 twos, and singles. Peterborough's innings closed at 3.30, with their score at 130. The ground, which had been fair at the beginning of the match, was now very spongy and slow. Toronto took the bat at 3.45, and ran up the large score of 184, their innings lasting until 6.30. Peterborough fielded well until the fall of the 2 first wickets, but afterwards several catches were "muffed" by men who were supposed to be above such a thing. The soft ground was very bad for bowling, only 5 wickets being bowled during the match. The want of time prevented the finishing of the match, and it was accordingly decided in favor of Toronto on the first innings. The Toronto team was the strongest put in the field by Toronto this year. It contained 3 of those chosen from the Dominion to represent Canada in the international match with the United States next September, and 3 others formerly on the international team.

The following is the score:—

TRUE BLUE DEMONSTRATION.

The Anniversary of the Relief of Derry Celebrated by a Procession.

The 12th of August being the anniversary of the relief of Londonderry, McWilliams Lodge of True Blues arranged for a celebration in commemoration of that event. They had sent out a number of invitations to Orange Lodges in various places, but the attendance of the brethren was not so large as had been expected, probably on account of this being the busy season with the farmers. There was, however, a large number of people in town and George street was crowded at the time the procession took place.

MEETING THE BRETHREN

At about ten o'clock the Douro Lodge arrived in carriages, and an hour later, they and the Peterborough brethren formed a procession at the Orange Hall and marched to the music of the City Band to the Midland station. The members of the Cavan Lodge first arrived and the Toronto train soon after came in with the Lindsay brethren and accompanied by the brass band of that town. These then proceeded to the Ontario & Quebec station, and at about 20 minutes to one o'clock the train arrived with the Orangemen from Manvers, The Lodges marched up to the market square and dispersed for dinner.

THE PROCESSION.

In the afternoon the Lodges re-assembled at the market square and a procession was formed. Bro. F. W. Weir acted as chief marshal and was assisted by Bro Kempt. The following was the order of the procession:—

There were also delegates present from Cobourg, Port Hope, Omemee, &c. The procession followed the following route:—George street to London street, London to Water, Water to Brock, Brock to Rubidge, Rubidge to Charlotte, Charlotte to Aylmer, Aylmer to Simcoe, Simcoe to George, and down George street to the market square, where the lodges dispersed. The True Blues had two arches erected in the route of the procession, a very handsome one at intersection of George and Hunter streets and another opposite the Canada Pacific Hotel. At four o'clock they again assembled and marched to the midland station, and gave the Lindsay brethren a rousing cheer as they departed. The Cavan and Manvers lodges departed on later trains.

THE BALL.

In the evening a ball was held in the Opera House under the auspices of the True Blues. It was very largely attended, there being present, we are informed, one hundred couples. The hall was handsomely decorated with flags, bunting, mottoes, &c. Music was furnished by the City Band and by the City Band Orchestra. Supper was provided at the Darcy House and the Commercial Hotel. The amusement was kept up until on in the morning, and the ball is pronounced a decided success.

IN WALLIS' GROVE.

The No. 1 Ward Picnic Well Attended and Successful.

The picnic at Wallis' Grove on Tuesday, for the benefit of the building fund of St. Peter's Cathedral, and under the auspices of the ladies of No. 1 Ward, considering the number of attractions in town, was a success in every respect. Hacks and 'busses commenced carrying the pleasure seekers to the grove at about 11 o'clock, and continued to do so till late in the afternoon, over 500 persons entering the grounds during the day.

The usual swings, lemonade stands, etc., were well patronized. A tent was spread where ice cream was dispensed, and a flower stand presided over by several young ladies, occupied a prominent place in the grounds. A long table, tastefully ornamented with bouquets and laden with almost everything good to eat, stood in the southern part of the grounds and did a good business throughout the afternoon.

The committee, with judicious forethought, had erected a dancing platform which was pretty well dusted before the afternoon's sport was ended. At 2 o'clock Prof. Doucet and his quadrille band entered the grounds and took their places on the music stand. When the Master of Ceremonies, Mr. S. Martyn, called for couples for a square dance, no one seemed willing to start the tripping. Mr. Johnnie Cronan, however, was not afraid to commence the sport, and after he had successfully introduced it the dancing went on uninterruptedly.

THE SPORTING EVENTS.

The sports were the next feature in the programme of the day. The following is a list of the events contested and of the prize winners:—

BOYS' RACE,—Won by J. Sovais, 11 entries. Prize, a pair of lacrosse shoes given by J. Griffin.

GIRLS' RACE,—Won by Nellie Hickey, 7 entries. Prize, a fancy doll.

MEN'S 100 YARDS RACE,—Won by S. Callaghan, 4 entries. Prize a box of cigars, given by F. Fairin.

THREE LEGGED RACE.—Won by Cockerin and Simons, three entries. Prize, a silk necktie given by J. Pecord.

OLD MEN'S RACE.—Won by Wm. Buck, 5 entries. Prize a gold pin given by P. Corkery.

POTATOE RACE.—Won by Harry Walsh, 5 enteries. Prize, a hammock given by J. Corkery.

RUNNING LONG JUMP.—Won by S. Callaghan, 3 entries. Prize, suit of gentleman's underclothing, given by Giroux & Sullivan.

STANDING LONG JUMP.—Won by S. Callaghan, 3 entries. Prize, a pair of dumb-bells, given by T. Hicky.

IRISH JIG.—Won by Miss Hyland and Mr. D. Simon, 2 entries. Prizes to the value of $2 each at T. Dolan's.

SECOND IRISH JIG.—Won by Miss Mary Hayes and Mr. Sid. Martin, 2 entries. Prizes, a pair of lady's slippers and a gentleman's dress shirt, given by Thos. Cahill and J. Sheehy respectively.

Messrs, J, McIlmoyl and T. Cahill acted as judges in the races, and M. W. Rudkins acted as starter.

At about half past six o'clock the hacks and 'busses began to re-appear, were soon loaded by the tired picnickers, and driven off to town.

BASE BALL.

The Silver Star and Uxbridge Match—The Visitors Victorious.

In the afternoon a base ball match was played on the Cricket Ground between the Silver Stars, of Peterborough, and the Uxbridge Club. The Uxbridge boys arrived on the 11.30 a. m. Midland train, and at about 2 o'clock the players proceeded to the grounds. Mr. L. Lowe, of Uxbridge, acted as umpire, and the teams were composed as follows:—

Silver Stars,		Uxbridge.
W. H. Dayman..	Pitcher	J. Breezer
J. Callaghan....	Catcher	J. Reid
A. Seney.....	1st Base	E. Weeks
T. Sanderson.....	2nd Base	C. Pearce
J. J. Lynch.....	3rd Base	D. Vickers
H. Evans.....	Right Field	B. Crosby
D. Cushen	Centre Field	E. Maguire
W. Lannin	Left Field	W. Jobbitt
C. Billings.....	Short Stop	D. Gladstone

The Uxbridge team went first to the bat and the Silver Stars showed some good field playing, but the batters got in two runs. The Stars made good play in their first innings and scored seven runs, but after that they weakened and the visitors had the advantage until the last innings, when the Stars did some good work. It was too late, however, to save the match, and when it was concluded the Uxbridge Club lead by 30 runs. The score by innings was as follows:—

Uxbridge....	2	4	8	3	3	7	4	10	6	—47
Silver Stars.	7	0	0	0	3	1	0	0	6	—17

Each club gave cheers for the other, and together for the umpire, and the teams returned to the town. The match was witnessed by a large number of spectators. The Uxbridge Club is a good one, and it was not expected that the Stars would equal them, as they are a new club, but it is by such practice with good clubs that they will learn more of the game.

ANOTHER MATCH.

An interesting base ball match was played in the forenoon between two nines of the Peterborough Base Ball Club. It was closely contested, the high scores being accounted for by the fact that the field was in a place where the ball was frequently knocked over a fence. The score at the conclusion stood 29 to 31.

DOWN THE RIVER.

The Excursion to Faucher's Park—A Suggestion to the Oarsmen.

About 8 o'clock a.m. the steamer Golden-Eye left her wharf with a number on board for Faucher's new summer resort at Wallace's Point. She left the park again at 11 o'clock and returned to the Peterborough wharf for a second party. The other attractions of the afternoon prevented many from attending the regatta, and the consequence is that on the second trip there were very few excursionists.

Mr. H. Calcutt with his usual spirit and enterprise, had offered two valuable cups for competition, one for a single scull race, mile heats, best two in three, and one for single paddlers in hunting canoes, best two in three, mile heat. For the single scull race there were, we understand, four or five entries, but for some reason or other none of those who did enter put in an appearance but Messrs. J. E. McIntyre and John Mercer. These two oarsmen pulled the whole way down the river in their shells, and, as may be imagined, were much disappointed on their arrival at the park to learn that there were no other contestants to measure blades with them. As there are quite a number of local oarsmen in Peterborough and one or two in Lakefield, there is certainly no excuse for the lack of spirit exhibited in this connection on Tuesday, for the valuable prize alone ought to be a sufficient inducement to bring out every man who has a shell in the town, to say nothing of the honor and other etceteras pertaining to aquatic dignity. Of course, as stated above, there were various attractions to deter many from attending the regatta, among other things the very largely attended excursion to Toronto on the O. and Q. Railway, the picnic at Wallis' grove, the base ball match between the Peterborough Silver Stars and the Uxbridge clubs, the Orange procession, and so on, and it was unfortunate that this day was picked upon for holding the regatta. No doubt if the donor of these cups sees his way sufficiently clear to offer them again on some future day, and runs a cheap excursion in connection therewith, those who were delinquent in attending on Tuesday will avail themselves of the opportunity of witnessing a good day's sport.

A SUGGESTION.

That we have in Peterborough several really good oarsmen is no longer a question, and among them may be mentioned the names of Messrs. John Mercer, J. E. McIntyre, G. Stevenson, A. Elliott, D. Cameron, G. Lech, T. J. Brydon, friend Drury, of gas house notoriety, and others, the majority of whom have shells of their own. Then again we have the whole of the Peterborough Boating Club to pick from for other events, such as double scull, four-oared, and other races. Then, with all these facts before us, why not go in for a grand regatta? Other towns of far less magnitude than Peterborough undertake and successfully carry out sporting events of a similar nature to this, and there is no reason why it could not be made a decided success here. Among other events that would take place at this proposed regatta would be a special race between Mercer, McIntyre, and Strickland, of Lakefield. This alone would be a sufficient attraction of itself to bring together an immense crowd of people, and we hope to see arrangements to this end consummated. In fact Mercer has expressed not only a wish to measure blades with Strickland, but respectfully requested a reporter of the REVIEW to publicly announce that he was anxious to arrange a match with him this present season, and with this end in view will probably open negotiations with him on his return home. Now, sports, go to work—and if this regatta is not a success with the above race included, the sporting editor of this paper will willingly forfeit his reputation as such, and seek some other calling. "I'll give you a 'pointer' on that," as "Hec." says.

C. O. F.
Mr. H. W. Watson, D.D.H.C.R., and John Fanning, P.C.R., of Peterborough, went to Port Hope on Tuesday and organized a Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters, to be known as Court Hope.

Picnic Parties.
A number of private pic-nic parties spent the civic holiday in a pleasant manner in various places. One party, numbering forty, picnicked at Crawford's grove, and another went to Sturgeon Point.

The Art Exhibition.
The attendance at the Art Exhibition on Tuesday was not very large. The exhibition closed on Tuesday evening. The committee deserve credit for the efforts in making the display a success.

Coal Oil.
Owing to a "combination" having been formed among the refiners, coal oil is advancing every week. Consumers therefore should take their cans to "China Hall" at once and have them filled, and thereby save money. China Hall has the best quality of oil in town. Try it once.

Excursion to Ottawa.
The excursion to Ottawa on Monday evening, over the Ontario and Quebec Railway, under the auspices of the Y.P.A. of St. Andrew's Church, was very well attended. The number of tickets was limited to fifty, and they were nearly all taken up. The trip was a pleasant one.

Run Over By a Cart.
A little boy about four years of age was run over on Monday evening by a cart on Aylmer street, near Hunter street. The wheel passed over his arm and head. Mr. D. Belleghem picked the little fellow up and carried him to his home, which was near by, and Dr. King was sent for. It was found that no bones were broken.

A split in the Boot and Shoe business.—SMITH'S MARKET.

New Trouserings, West of England and other noted makes, in stripes, checks and other Fashionable Patterns, at Andrew McNeil's, George street.

Auburn Sunday School Picnic.
Three busses and several other conveyances filled with Auburn Sunday School pupils and teachers went up to Chemong Lake Park about 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning. Swings were hung, croquet arches stuck into the earth, lacrosses and lacrosse ball introduced, which, together with other attractions, made the day a pleasant one for all present. Dinner and supper were served on the grounds and the pic-nickers returned to town about 9 o'clock in the evening.

Dandy Milk Express.
Mr. Hooper has come out with a fine new milk waggon, built at Messrs. Porter Bros.' carriage factory. It is a very convenient rig, and is made so that in turning the wheels lock under the body, which can be done quick and in a small space—Old Country style. The body is painted a handsome plum color, the work being done by Mr. Martin; the lettering in gold is executed by Mr. Watson. The Messrs. Porter Bros. have made a good job. Walter Hooper, who has driven the old rig for many years, says he "can afford to put on airs now for a while."

An Accident.
On Tuesday morning Mr. Frank White was driving his hack, filled with passengers, to the Ontario and Quebec station. He had a trunk on the front of the hack, and while driving rapidly over a street crossing near Mr. Hamilton's foundry was thrown violently to the ground. The trunk fell off and struck the horses and they started down street on a gallop. Mr. White held on to the lines, and succeeded in stopping the horses at the station. He then got on the hack and drove the horses home, when he began to feel something wrong with his leg. Dr. King was sent for and it was found that Mr. White had sustained a fracture of the fibula.

Another Bank Closed.
NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The Wall street National Bank, instead of opening to-day at 10 o'clock as usual, closed its doors and affixed a notice to the effect that irregularities on the part of the cashier would first be investigated.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE
AS
GOODNESS
Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indespensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Where these Silks are procured, or why they are sold so cheap is no affair of the customers'. It is enough for them to know that they can buy here about 25 per cent. less than the pervading prices throughout the town. Do not fail to ask for our Summer Silks at 42½c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. See our Black Dress Silks at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, warranted pure silk both filling and warp. They are heavy in texture, beautiful in finish and quality, surpassing anything in the town at 25 per cent. higher in price. Don't fail to see them at

BROWN BROS.

Manufacturing Stationers, Diary Publishers, Bookbinders, &c.

We take pleasure in copying the following notice from the Mail of a firm who have well earned the high respect in which they are held by their customers throughout Canada:—

"The now flourishing business carried on by Messrs. Brown Brothers, as stationers, account book manufacturers, bookbinders, &c., was established in Toronto by the father of the present firm in the year 1846, the latter assuming the control ten years later. Under their skilful management the business has increased in its proportions to such an extent until at the present time it ranks among the first of its kind in the Dominion. The premises the firm occupy are four stories high, with a frontage of 30 feet on King street east (Nos. 66 and 68) and run back 200 feet to Court street, where the frontage is 50 feet. In their manufacturing stationery department Messrs. Brown Bros. have one of the largest stocks in the city, and can supply every office requisite. The quality of their account books need not be referred to, the fact that there is hardly a firm in the province not using them is a sufficient indication that they are well and substantially made. In the bookbinding department the best materials only are used, while the workmen are thorough and efficient, and the class of work turned out will give satisfaction in quality, style, and price to all who patronize the firm. Messrs. Brown are extensive makers of wallets, pocket-books, and ladies' hand satchels. They also make a specialty of supplying binders' and printers' materials, which they obtain from the first producers of the world. For twenty-one years they have published the "Canadian Diary," not excelled by those of any other firm. The popularity of these diaries has become so extensive that each year the varieties have had to be increased. Of next year's diaries Messrs. Brown Bros. are turning out one hundred and sixty varieties, suited to every want. No expense or pains is spared to make them popular and in every way superior to others on the market. In the various departments the firm employ more than one hundred hands. The quality of work turned out is the very best. The members of the firm are reliable men to deal with, and it is a pleasure to point to theirs as one of the representative business houses of the city."

A. C. A. ANNUAL CAMP.

THE MEETING OF THE A. C. A. AMONG THE THOUSAND ISLANDS.

A Large Attendance and Great Success—Grand Canoe Parade—Canoes and Tents Illuminated—The Races.

The visit of the American Canoe Association to Stony Lake last year, the pleasant acquaintances made there, and the number of members who joined from our town and neighborhood, has excited much interest as to the Association in Peterborough, that headquarters of Canadian canoeing. The choice of the Thousand Islands for the camp this year was made largely from consideration of the members in Canada, and this courtesy is shown to be appreciated by the good attendance from the Canadian Club, Peterborough not being behind hand.

The site chosen, Delaney's Point on Grindstone Island, about a pistol shot from the international boundary, and easy of access from Gananoque and Clayton on the respective shores, is admirably adapted for the purpose. There is suitable ground for pitching tents, good sandy beaches for landing canoes, no current, and fine stretches of water for cruising or racing, while it is sufficiently landlocked to prevent a heavy sea.

Some of the principal officers were on the ground early to see that all the arrangements were perfected. During the first ten days the different clubs and unattached members came pouring in. Peterborough led the van as to numbers with over two dozen members, followed by the Knickerbockers with twenty. Among the other clubs represented are the New York C.C., the Michigans of Albana, Toronto C.C., the Lake George C.C., the Springfield, Hartford, Whitby, Deseronto, Brockville, Lakefield, Warren, Ottawa, Rochester, Buffalo, Royal Military College, Kingston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Rondout, Pittsburg, St. Louis of Lachine, Crescedt of Trenton, N.J., Lake St. Louis, Que., Harvard, Amsterdam, Ubique, &c., &c.

The officers were present in full force, Commodore Nickerson of the Springfield C.C., Vice Commodore Munroe of N.Y.C.C., Rear Commodore Harry Rogers P.B.C., Secretary Dr. Neide, Lake George Canoe Club, and the Executive Committee, Messrs. Nielson, Toronto C.C., Wackerhagen, Mohican C.C., Wickstead, Ottawa C.C.

The first week or ten days were occupied in preparations excursions, cruising, camp fire meetings, &c. On Friday the Gananoque Yacht Club gave a moonlight excursion to the A.C.A. to Alexandria Bay on board the steamer Puritan, a band being on board for dancing. On Sunday there was divine service, the Rev. Dr. Russel and the Rev. Mr. Buel, reading the morning prayers and the Rev. D. Hoffman preaching an excellent sermon.

On Monday there was a grand parade of canoes, when 78 canoes under sail and 40 under paddle passed along the shore under the command of the Commodore and other officers, and performed various evolutions, salutes being given to the officers and to the ladies' camp. We should say that a number of the fair sex attended the meeting and Squaw Point where the married couples and young ladies had their tents was one of the most attractive features of the meeting.

On Monday evening there was a grand illuminated parade, over 100 canoes being lighted with Japanese lanterns and the different club tents being also decorated. It was a beautiful scene as the fleet performed a variety of evolutions, a stop at the ladies' camp, where the Commodore presented his compliments to the ladies, being part of the programme.

To-day the races begin, and on Friday the election of officers and other business of the Association will conclude the meeting.

On Monday evening there was an incident which fortunately did not conclude so seriously as at one time appeared likely: one of the tents in the Deseronto camp caught fire from a Japanese lantern, but the fire was extinguished by the aid of some of their neighbors, a partially burnt tent being the result.

THE CHARGE OF CANNIBALISM.

A Subject on which Gen. Hazen Declines to be Interviewed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Gen. Hazen, in an interview with a Star reporter, while declining to open the subject, practically admitted that there was ground for the report as published. He said:—There are certain facts connected with this matter I am not at liberty to mention. There is a probability, though I do not say so officially, that they will be made the subject of a congressional investigation next winter. The story contains some inaccuracies, notably that in which reference is made to the devouring of the amputated limbs of those who suffered the loss of limbs and arms in order to preserve their lives. Only one instance of amputation occurred; that was on shipboard, while the party was on the way home. Being asked what truth there was in the statement that Henry had been shot and his body devoured, General Hazen replied, "That is a subject on which I must decline to be interviewed." A naval officer said there was nothing improbable about the story. The men were reduced to such a condition by gradual starvation that their moral faculties were blunted; they should not be considered responsible agents. Self-preservation was their only thought.

Washington Meridian Conference.

The French Minister of Public Instruction has appointed a committee to attend the Washington Meridian Conference. It includes M. Foye, Member of the Academy of Sciences, the President; Admirals Graviere and Monchez; Comte de Paris, M. de Lesseps, Sr., and several members of the Academy of Sciences.

The Canadian Cricket Team.

The Canadian cricket team, which will play in Philadelphia on September 15, 16 and 17, will be as follows:—A. C. Allan, M. Boyd, E. R. Ogden (captain), D. W. Saunders and W. W. Vickers, Toronto; J. C. Badgeley and J. Pinkney, Montreal; R. B. Ferrie and A. Gillespie, Hamilton; F. Harley, Guelph; G. W. Jones, Fredericton, N. B., and C. C. Luard, R. M.C., Kingston.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

UNANIMOUS APPROVAL OF MEDICAL STAFF.

Dr. G. T. Comstock, physician at Good Samaritan Hospital, St. Louis, Mo., says: "For years we have used it in this hospital, in dyspepsia and nervous diseases, and as a drug during the decline and in the convalescence of lingering fevers. It has the unanimous approval of our medical staff."

DEATHS ELSEWHERE.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—At Montfort, one death is reported; two at La Garde. At Gigean to-day there were two deaths. The situation there is improving. Cholera is raging in the department of the Basse Alps. At one village where there was no doctor twenty-one deaths occurred yesterday. A family of thirteen in the village died. Their bodies remained thirty hours unburied. The mayor is inactive and a panic exists. A doctor and a nurse have been sent.

THE PLAGUE IN ITALY.

ROME, Aug. 13.—There are three deaths from cholera at Catelnuovo yesterday, at Minneciano one, at Berceto four cases and two deaths, several cases are reported at other points.

Extraordinary Elopement.

A Liverpool paper reports what it describes as one of the most extraordinary elopements ever recorded. The runaways are the only daughter of a clergyman resident in South Wales and a groom who used to be employed in the establishment. The young lady, who is entitled to a fortune in her own rights, is a confirmed and diminutive cripple, and had to be wheeled about in a Bath chair. The groom was her attendant, and is said to be "a young fellow of rather prepossessing appearance." An affection appears to have sprung up between him and the young lady, and a few days ago the young man came to Liverpool, and hired rooms for himself and his wife at an hotel, informing the landlord that his wife would be there the next day. The landlord on the following day was astonished to find his lodger carrying in his arms upstairs what he, the landlord, took to be a child, and placing it in his room. He asked what "that" was, and his visitor said, "Oh, that is my wife," and explained that she being a cripple, had to be carried. She was also carried to the registrar's office, and married to the groom. She was thence conveyed on board an Allan steamer, lying in the Mersey, and the couple are now on their way to Boston.

Bible Christians and Methodists.

The Bible Christian authorities in England have accepted the proposals of the branch in Canada regarding the funds of the society in regard to the Methodist Union scheme.

FACTS are stubborn things, and sufferers from chills and fever generally find their complaint a very stubborn fact, until they commence the use of Ayer's Ague Cure. That medicine eradicates the noxious poison from the system, and invariably cures even the worst cases.

OH! how tired and weak I feel I dont believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning? Oh yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50 cents.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

The Quickest thing on Record

Is Fluid Lightning for neuralgs, headache, toothache, etc. It does not blister or discolor the skin; requires but one application to banish all pain magically without using any greasy liniment or carrying your head in a poultice for two weeks. Try a twenty-five cent bottle from John McKee's druggist.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

NOT POLITICAL.

ONE of the regular echoes of any falsehood that appears in the Globe is the Ottawa Free Press. The Reform journal at the Dominion capital says :—

"While having no particular love, in a political sense, for the Orange body, and recognizing the institution as the avowed opponent of the Liberal party."

Now, we have no hesitation in saying that this is a falsehood, for though we have no knowledge of the Orange institution from within, the action of the members as seen from without confirm their disavowal of being a political body. It is said, and may be true, that the majority of Ontario Orangemen vote Conservative, but this is by no means a general rule. In this county the majority of Orangemen vote with Reformers, some of their leading officials are and have been Reformers, and it is notorious that if any wire pulling has been done at election times among Orangemen, as such, it has been done by one or two of their Reform officers. We are told that similar cases may be found in other parts of Ontario. Only the other day Reformers were boasting that the Orangemen helped to elect Mr. Dill in Muskoka. But this Province, though the most important in the Dominion, is not the only one. In Quebec and the Maritime Provinces the great bulk of the Orangemen are well known to work and vote with the Reformers. Not being a political body exact statistics are not forthcoming, but it is probable that throughout the Dominion the majority of Orange votes cast are for Reformers, each member adhering to his own party.

This is in reference to the past ; what will be the case in the future is not easy to foresee. It is true that Mr. Blake and the great mass of the Reform members voted against Orange incorporation, but this was when Mr. Blake was —not trying to buy the Quebec members, of course he would not do such a thing—but letting the Globe do so in his name, while he stood by awaiting the result.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

APPROPRIATION BILL PASSED.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—In the Commons this evening the Appropriation Bill was passed.

Lord Randolph Churchill denounced the enormous growth of the outlay and attacked the management of Right Hon. Hugh Childers, Chancellor of the Exchequer. The grants under the consolidated fund during 1884 were £5,000,000 over the last year the Conservatives were in office. The present session had been scandalous. The Government had introduced bills with no intention of passing them. He instanced the Merchant Shipping Bill, the introduction of which was a low miserable election device, emanating from an ill-famed caucus. The Government was entrusting to two members of Baring Bros., Lord Northbrook, and Sir Evelyn Baring, almost unlimited control of Egypt. The Government might as well send the two Rothschilds. The Government steps for the relief of Gordon are obviously insincere and another transparent election device. He warned the Government that they were mistaken, if they expected to rivet the attention of Parliament during the autumn session on the Franchise question. Right Hon. Hugh Childers replied. He said Lord Randolph Churchill evidently thought he had inherited Disraeli's mantle. He advised him to adopt just criticism and abandon violent epithets and vulgar abuse. If the House supported policy of economy the Government would be only two willing to retrench. Earl Northbrook had no connection with the Barings.

A Revolution in Fishing.

'I saw some experiments in a European aquarium some months ago," said the fish authority, "that showed what fishing was coming to. The tank was darkened ; in fact, the whole room was, and a man in a diver's outfit entered, wearing one of the new electric lights on his hemlet. The effect was curious. The tank was perfectly illuminated, but the most remarkable feature was the effect it had upon the fishes. One and all they crowded about the light, seemingly astonished at the strange appearance. The man carried a small scoop net with him, and with the greatest ease caught all the fishes he wanted. If this could be used on the Grand banks in 200 feet of water there would be a revolution in fishing. The steamer of the United States fish commission has been trying some curious experiments with long fishing lines that had electric lights placed just above the bait. These were more or less successful. One trouble that is shown in the tanks at Fulton market is that the fish become habituated to the light, and after a while will not approach it, but in the open sea, where new fish are continually being met with, this would not be an obstable.—New York Sun.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

FREE TRADE NOT DESIRED.

Free trade, in fact, in the sense of the free importation into Canada of United States manufacturers is not desired by any appreciable portion of our people. On the contrary the whole recent policy of our Government has been in the direction of reserving the home market as much as possible for the Canadian manufacturer.—Montreal Star, (Indep.).

PREVENTION AND CURE.

The Province annually spends more than $40,000 to punish criminals or reform them, would it not be better to make some slight sacrifices to turn children exposed to ruin into good citizens by means of the industrial schools, rather than to chastise them when they have become criminals?—Courrier du Canada.

FACTS VERSUS THEORY.

On Jan. 1 the change came into force by which the old duty of 20 per cent. on cotton prints was raised to 27½ per cent. Now we shall have dear prints, said the free traders ; and all for the sake of sustaining one print factory in Canada. But what has happened, instead ? Ask any of your female friends, and they will tell you that the cheapness of prints in the shops is to-day perfectly phenomenal. And why ? Simply because, for the first time in the country's history, cotton prints of home manufacture complete are now in the market, in competition with the imported article. In discussion on the causes of cheapness and dearness respectively it would be better to have more hard facts and less theorizing.—Toronto World, (Indep.).

A HORSE THAT WASN'T A DUDE.

Mr. Biggar's faithful family horse died suddenly this morning of inflamation of the brain. He will be mourned by a small circle of friends.—Belleville Ontario,

THE DISCONTENTED GLOBE.

The Toronto Globe should understand that instead of exaggerating the discontent in the Northwest it is really inventing it ; there is no such discontent as the Reform organ alleges to exist. Among a small band of halfbreeds in the Prince Albert settlement there is a feeling of dissatisfaction with the conditions offered by the Government agents with respect to homesteads. Matters of dispute are now being discussed between them, and there is no reason to fear that any disturbance or disaffection will arise. Even if there should, it would not necessarily follow that the Government is in the wrong. It is surely within the limits of possibility that the demands of any class of people may be unreasonable, and that even a Conservative Government may not always be unjust. The trouble with the Globe is that it assumes the Government to be in the wrong, whatever takes place.—Winnipeg Times.

BICYCLES IN WAR.

The recent bicycle displays in Canada and the United States has illustrated one thing. It has shown that in the wars of the future the two wheel carriers will displace many cavalry horses. The bicycle will be the new war-horse. Imagine a regiment of bicycle riflemen, mounted on fleet and noiseless machines. Outposts and pickets also would prove a terror to the enemy. No forage would be necessary, and there would be no tramping of hoofs ; the wheeling soldiers would glide into the enemy's camp as silently as phantoms. A prominent officer says, "the bicycle in war will be a big thing, and it will figure largely in the next conflict."—Ottawa Free Press.

THE MATTER SETTLED.

The aristocratic gentlemen who occupy seats in the British House of Lords will be good enough to pack their gripsacks. The Sarnia Observer says, "The peers must go."—Hamilton Spectator.

MANITOBA AND THE TARIFF.

As long as we remain a part of the Dominion we must submit to such laws as are conceived to be in the interests of the country as a whole. Notwithstanding anything that has been said, either in the province or out of it, the Globe may rest assured that a great majority of the people of the Northwest are quite willing to accept that condition. This tariff cry is full of foolishness. Because it is supposed to appeal to the selfishness of the people the most is made of it ; but every intelligent man in the Province fully recognizes the impossibility of a change which does not embrace the entire Dominion.—Winnipeg Times.

AN INDEPENDENT OPINION.

Information is more plentiful than ever as to the decided "kicking" element in this constituency. Conviction has come to several experienced reformers that the kickers represent the general sentiment. The only difficulty alleged against the disaffection taking shape is the choice of a man. That can easily be settled. If there is a lack aspirants in the community there are enough elsewhere. Let a good requisition be got up and some vigorous and talented young man be given the chance and the deed is done and the machine smashed. An outsider coming in by request is a thousand times to be preferred to the outsider coming in on a deal. Now is the time to act if West Ontario wishes to have a representative of her own choice. Beware of the man who, reckless of the best interests of the party, has placed his leader in a false position.—Toronto World.

A BELL WETHER.

Mr. Mackenzie fell too readily under the influence of bad advisers. He was an unwary mortal, and easily "mesmerized" by the gang of grabbers who hovered continually about his path, and fell into their little schemes with fatal facility and completeness, like a moth into a flame. It was a sorry day for him when Mr. H. H. Cook came along with his "bar'l" and general suavity. It was his dealing with that gentleman and his friends that has now landed him where he is among the Scotch. Certain Glasgow capitalists feel that "sic a body" is no better than a gowk. In an evil hour he lent his name to certain ambitious timber projects in Muskoka. Mr. Cook had spent money for the pairty in elections, and he thought he had claims upon its chief. And when he wanted a name to conjure with in the Scotch money markets, that of Mackenzie readily suggested itself. Upon the strength of Mr. Mackenzie's name and public position, then, Mr. Cook succeeded in drawing large sums of money out of Scotland for investment in timber limits and saw mills in Muskoka. The result is well known ; the money has all been gobbled up in Canada, and the usually canny gentlemen who advanced it, in looking for a victim, have hit upon the unfortunate ex-Premier. It is said that their talk just now is both loud and deep, in virtue whereof Mr. Mackenzie's ears must tingle continually. In the midst of this, to be lost sight of by the brethren and warriors by whose side, and for whose public advancement he has fought during his best yeart, can hardly afford pleasant reflections. But such is life.—London Free Press.

LADIES' JOURNAL

Bible Competition No. 7.

Closing September 11th,

OPEN TO THE WORLD

GREAT CLUB OFFER.

The Leading Rewards are Lot 50 x 150 at Toronto Junction, Pianos, Organs, Sewing Machines, Gold and Silver Watches, Silver Tea Sets, &c.

The proprietor of the Ladies Journal now announces a magnificent list of rewards for correct answers to Bible questions. It is surprising how little is known of the Bible. The questions are not so difficult this time as last, and we should be glad if there was a hearty response so as to encourage the proprietor of the Journal to persevere in his good work. It was announced in the June issue of the Ladies' Journal that the competition which closed last month would be the last for the present, but it has been decided to try one more.

All money must be sent by post office or express. No information will be given to any one more than is stated here. So send on answers, and don't waste time writing. Do not send postage stamps unless six cents is added for the discount. Remit by postoffice order, scrip or small coin.

THE BIBLE QUESTIONS :

1.—Is Diamond referred to in the Bible ? If so, state first reference.

2.—Is Emerald made mention of in the Bible? If so, state first reference.

3.—Is Sapphire spoken of in the Bible ? If so, state first reference.

These all refer to the precious stones.

Now, any one having a knowledge of the Scriptures ought to be able promptly to answer these questions with a little study, and so secure some one of those rewards. Bear in mind every one competing must send FIFTY CENTS with their answers for which the Ladies' Journal will be sent one year to any address. If you answer each of the questions correctly and your answers are in time you are sure to secure one of these costly rewards.

This list of consolation rewards will be given to the last one hundred and fifty-seven persons who send correct answers to the Bible questions given above. But bear in mind, your letter must bear the postmark where mailed of 11th September, the closing day of this competition. Fifteen days will be allowed after closing day for letters from distant points to reach the Ladies' Journal office. But you can, of course, send in any time between now and the 11th of September, and your letter will take its place at the publication office in the order it arrives there. All letters are carefully numbered as they arrive, and there can be no mistake. If your answers are correct, and they reach there in time, you will surely get some reward in addition to the Ladies' Journal, which alone is big value for the half dollar. If you don't get anything but the Journal you will be well pleased with your investment, as it consists of 20 pages of fashions illustrated, short and serial stories, poetry, newest music, household hints, etc., etc. ; in fact, just the paper to suit every lady.

By subscribing in a club with your neighbors you will secure some considerable advantage—that is, there must be at least thirty of a club, and all who send correct answers to the Bible questions may have their choice of a handsome ring, heavily gold-plated ladies' gold brooch, which retails at about one dollar and a half, or a triple-plated butter knife. Either of these you may wish will be sent postage paid. You will thus secure to a certainty one or other of these two presents, and in addition will have as good an opportunity of gaining some one of the other large rewards in lists given above just as well as though you had sent in singly. This is simply an inducement to get up clubs. We are sure our readers could not do better than to try their skill in hunting up these questions and competing for these rewards. Everything will be carried out exactly as promised.

Prizes in last competition went all over Canada and to many parts of the United States.

Address, Editor LADIES' JOURNAL, Toronto, Canada.

POLICE REVOLVER COMPETITION.—The annual revolver competition of the police force commenced on Tuesday afternoon at Garrison Common. Forty competitors entered from the six stations of the city. The ranges were thirty and fifty yards.

SUPPOSED SUICIDE.—Between eight and nine o'clock on Tuesday morning a young man named Wm. New, traveller for the firm of Wm. New & Co., Montreal, of which J. H. New & Co., Colborne street, is a branch establishment, took a street car from the city and went out to Parkdale. After leaving the car he proceeded along Queen street to the lake shore road, and then entering on the railway track walked towards the Humber bridge. When a few yards east of the bridge the G.T.R. train due here at 8.40 appeared in sight. The engineer observed the man upon the track, and whistled to warn him of his danger. New took no notice of the signals, but when the train was within a few yards of him threw himself down in front of it. The engineer strove to reverse the engine, but the attempt was made too late. The unfortunate man, who apparently desired to take his own life, passed under the wheels, and when next seen was a frightfully mangled corpse. The remains were gathered up and removed to the morgue.

WEATHER NOTES.—July has been a very cold month, the thermometer seldom reaching 80° in the shade, but on several occasions at sun rise it went below 50°, the lowest of which was on the mornings of the 21st and 26th, being 46° and 44° respectively, with white frost on both mornings, which done some harm. Five times we had thunder during the month, and rain fell on 16 days, to the depth of 2 80-100th inches. The severest storm commenced at 11 p. m. of the 22nd, raining until 6 p. m. of the 23rd, namely, 19 hours, and falling to the depth of 1 inch and 2-100th. The average temperature of June was 65°, while that of July was only 58°. The effect of the July cold weather and rain has been to retard the ripening of our spring crops, thereby considerably reducing our prospect of an early harvest.

Kidnapped Sheldon.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The case of Sheldon, the Englishman, alleged to have been kidnapped in Kansas and held for ransom, was brought up in the Commons to-day. Mr. Arthur Arnold the Liberal member for Saleford, making it the subject of an enquiry. In reply Lord Fitzmaurice, Under Foreign Secretary, stated that the latest despatches from the British Ministry at Washington, Mr. West, received August 6th, brought the intelligence that all efforts up to that time to discover Sheldon had proved futile. Search, however, will be continued. Mr. Arnold then said the brother of the missing man had received letters from his friends in Kansas, which asserted that authorities were making no efforts to find him. Lord Fitzmaurice replied this was contrary to the information which the government had received. He asked to see the letters and promised every attention to the matter.

Saved from a Horrible Death.

Up to May last I had spent at least five hundred dollars for treatment by many of the best medical men without any benefit. My mouth and throat became badly ulcerated, sores breaking on my neck and legs. I also suffered excruciatingly with rheumatism, grew very despondent, and my best friends advised me that the icy hand of death was fast approaching. I caught at Shaker Blood Syrup like a drowning man at a straw. After taking two bottles I could feel a change for the better. The sores begun to discharge freely, and rheumatism to abate. When I had taken six bottles every sore had healed and my skin began to assume a natural appearance. I persisted until I had taken twelve bottles, and there is not a symptom of the disease remaining, and I feel as well as I ever did. I have gained twenty-one pounds in flesh, and my friends wonder at my improved condition. I have recommended it to many, and in every instance with complete success. I believe that Shaker Blood Syrup has saved me from a horrible death.

T. S. CANNON,
Boston, Mass.

In 1878 I was the victim of a terrible blood poison, and after being treated by three physicians was confined to my bed, not being able to raise my hand to my head, spitting up clots of blood, and reduced in weight from 185 to 130 pounds. I then began the use of Shaker Blood Syrup, and in less than three months I was entirely well, weighing 196 pounds, and have never had a symptom of the disease since. If it had not been for Shaker Blood Syrup I believe I would have been in my grave.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold. A few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1 00. If your lungs are sore, chest or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the stomach all the time ; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

You expect to ? That is right.

Take a week for it at least.

A Good Tent, one of English's Canoes and a complete Fishing Outfit.

A Gun ?

Certainly, if you are always careful to avoid accidents, otherwise better leave Lock, Stock and Barrel at home. But hunters' luck is proverbial, it does not always supply the wants of the Inner Man. For this important consideration I offer a full supply of Requisities :—

Canned Goods, in Meats, Soups, Sauces, Pickles, Vegetables and Fruits, and a Luxury in Condensed Milk.

Without which, once enjoyed, a man will leave his tea and coffee untasted.

Go then, by all means, but don't forget the Requisities while securing the Outfit.

Enjoy your trip and be happy.

He stooped close to her, and even then she noted how laboured was his breathing, and that his mouth quivered:

"Answer me; do you mean to marry him?"

"I do, if mother gives me permission."

Bravely she met his eyes, but her words were a mere whisper, and she felt that the worst was over; for her, there could be no retraction.

It was the keenest blow, the most bitter disappointment of Erle Palma's hitherto successful life, but his face hardened, and he bore it, as was his habit, without any demonstration, save that discoverable in his mortal paleness.

During the brief silence that ensued, he still held his hand firmly on hers, and when he spoke, his tone was cold and stern.

"My opinion of your probable course in this matter was founded entirely on belief in the truthfulness of your statement; that Mr. Lindsay had no claim on your heart. Only a short time since you assured me of this fact, and my faith in your candour must plead pardon for my present profound surprise. Certainly I was credulous enough to consider you incapable of deceit."

The scorn in his eyes stung her like a lash, and clasping her fingers spasmodically around his hand, she exclaimed:

"I never intended to deceive you. Oh do not despise me"

"I presume you understand the meaning of the words you employ; and when I asked you if I would be justified in softening your rejection of my cousin, by assuring him that your affections were already engaged, you emphatically negatived that statement, saying it would be untrue."

"Yes—and I thought so then; but I did not not know my own heart."

Her shadowy eyes looked appealingly into his but he smiled contemptuously.

"You did not know your affections had travelled to India, until the gentleman formally asked for them? Do you expect me to believe that?"

"Believe anything—except that I wilfully deceived you."

The anguish, the hopelessness written in her blanched face—and the trembling of the childishly small hands that had unconsciously tightened around his, touching him.

He put his right hand under her chin, and lifted the face.

"Lily, I want the truth. I intend to have it; and all of it. Now look me in the eye, and answer me solemnly, remembering that the God you reverence, hears your words. Do you really love Mr. Lindsay?"

"Yes, he is so good, how can I help feeling attached to him?"

"You love him next to your mother?"

"I think I do."

The words cost her a great effort, and her eyes wandered from his.

"Look straight at me. You love him so well you wish to be his wife?"

"I want to make him happy, if I can."

"No evasions if you please. Answer, yes or no. Is Mr. Lindsay dearer to you than all else in the world?"

"Next to mother's, his happiness is dearest to me."

"Yes—or no—this time; is there no one you love better?"

Earth and sky, trees and rocks seemed whirling into chaos, and she shut her eyes.

"You have no right to question me farther. I will answer no more."

Was the world really coming to an end? She heard her guardian laugh, and the next moment he had caught her to his heart. What did it mean? Was she too, growing delirious with brain fever? His arm held her pressed close to his bosom, and his cheek leaned on her head, while strangely sweet and low were his words:

"Ah Lily! Lily! Hush. Be still."

She wished that she could die then and there, for the thought of Mr. Lindsay sickened her soul. But the memory of the ring appalled her, and she struggled to free herself.

"Let me go! Do let us go home. I am sick."

His arm drew her closer still.

"Be quiet, and let me talk to you, and remember I am your guardian. Lily, I am afraid you are tempted to stray into dangerous paths, and your tender little heart is not a safe counsellor. You are sincerely attached to your old friend, you trust and honour him, you are very grateful to him for years of kindness during your childhood; and now when his health has failed, and he appeals to you to repay the affection he has so long given you, gratitude seems to assume the form of duty, and you are trying to persuade yourself that you ought to grant his prayer. Lily, love is the only chrism that sanctifies marriage, and though at present you might consent to become Mr. Lindsay's wife, suppose that if after years you should chance to meet some other man, perhaps not so holy, so purely Christian as this noble young missionary, but a man who seized, possessed your deep, deathless womanly love, and who you knew loved you in return? What then?"

"I would still do my duty to my dear Douglass."

"No doubt you would try. But you would do wrong to marry your friend, feeling as you do; and you ought to wait and fully explain to him the nature of your sentiments. You are almost a child and scarcely know your own heart yet, and I, as your guardian, cannot consent to see you rashly forge fetters, that may possibly gall you in the future. The letter to your mother has not been forwarded. Hattie, to whom you entrusted it, did not give it to me until this morning, alleging in apology that she put it in her pocket and forgot it. I have reason to believe that in a very short time you will see your mother; let this matter rest until you can converse fully with her, and if she sanctions your decision, I of course shall have no right to expostulate. Lily, I want to see you happy, and while I profoundly respect Mr. Lindsay, who, I dare say, is a most estimable gentleman, I should not very cordially give you away to him."

She rose and stood before him, clasping her hands tightly over each other; tearless, tortured, striving to see the path of duty.

"Mr. Palma, if I can only make him happy! I owe him so much. When I remember all that he did so tenderly for years, and especially on that awful night of the storm, I feel that I ought not to refuse what he asks of me."

"If he knew how you felt, I think I could safely promise for him, that he would not accept your hand. The heart of the woman he loves is the boon that a man holds most precious. Lily, you know your inmost heart does not prompt you to marry Mr. Lindsay."

Did he suspect her secret folly? The blood that had seemed to curdle around her aching heart surged into her cheeks, painting them a vivid rose, and she said hastily:

"Indeed he is very dear to me. He is the noblest man I ever knew. How could I fail to love him?"

He took her left hand, and examined the ring.

"You wear this as a pledge of betrothal? Is it not premature, when your mother is in ignorance of your purpose? Tell me, my ward, do ou not rather keep it here to stimulate your flagging sense of duty? To strengthen you to adhere to your rash resolve?"

"He wrote that if I had faithfully kept my farewell promise to him he wished me to wear it."

"May I know the nature of that promise?"

"That I would always love him, next to my mother."

"But I think you admitted that possibly you might some day meet your ideal, who would be dearer even than mother and Douglass. I do not wish to distress you needlessly, but while you are under my protection I must unflinchingly do all that honor demands of a faithful guardian. I can permit no engagement without your mother's approval; and I honestly confess to you that I am growing impatient to place you in her care. Do you still desire your letter forwarded?"

"If you please."

"Sit down. I have sad news for you."

He unbuttoned his coat, took an envelope from his pocket, and she recognized the telegram which had arrived on the previous day.

"Regina, many guardians would doubtless withhold this, but fairness and perfect candour have been my rule in life, and I prefer frankness to diplomacy. This telegraphic despatch arrived yesterday, and is intended for you though addressed to me."

He put it in her hand, and filled with an undefinable terror that chilled her, she read:

"SAN FRANCISCO.

MR. ERLE PALMA:—Tell your ward that Douglass is too ill to travel farther. If she wishes to see him alive she must come immediately. Can't you bring her on at once?

ELISE LINDSAY."

HASTINGS.

LACROSSE.—Last week another lacrosse club, to be called the "Eureka," was formed and the following gentlemen chosen as a provisional directorate, viz.:—J. Quigley, Pres.; H. Hill, Vice-Pres.; H. Tracy. Sec'y; A. Wilson, Treas.; T. Butler, Captain. The captain sent an order for a supply of the famous Caugnawauga sticks to equip his team, and whom he hopes to have in shape to challenge the "Trents" in two weeks.

OBITUARY.—Died at his late residence, lot 19, con. 8, Asphodel, on Friday, 8th inst., Timothy Murphy, aged 60 years and nine months. The deceased was one of Asphodel's oldest settlers, having resided in that township for a period of 53 years. Born in the county of Cork, Ireland, he was but five years old when he and his parents arrived in Quebec in the fall of 1829. After a stay of two years in that city the family finally located in Asphodel, undergoing all the privations incident to the early settlement of this locality, which was then a "howling wilderness," but the deceased had the pleasure of seeing the iron horse traverse a part of his farm, which was in his early days an impenetrable bush. In the spring of '64, attracted by the alluring tales of the marvelous wealth of the newly discovered gold fields of Nevada, he visited that country, and where he met with an adventure which maimed him for life, having been caught in a blizzard and his feet frozen so badly that the toes had to be amputated. It was August before Mr. Murphy returned home, and where he continued to reside and enjoy good health until last fall, when he was thrown from a buggy, which accident culminated in a paralytic stroke and from which he but partially recovered, when he was stricken again on Thursday last, terminating fatally. The funeral took place on Saturday, and, as an evidence of the esteem in which the deceased was held throughout the township, the procession comprising 150 vehicles, was the largest which ever took place in this neighborhood. Requiescat in pace.—Star.

Egyptian Affairs.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The English Government has ordered 1,000 row boats for the Nile expedition in passing the cataracts. Six thousand men and 1,000 tons of coal will be sent to Wady Halfa, which will be made the base of operations. Troops for Wady Halfa will be sent by rail to Sarrao, and thence by camels to Temneh. The Nile is rising rapidly. The Tenth Battalion of Egyptian troops has gone to Assouan.

ASSOUAN, Aug. 12.—Orders have been issued for the preparation of a camp for a British regiment at Wady Halfa. Forage for 700 horses has been sent there, and everything indicates an early advance from Cairo. Major General Earle, who has been in London on a furlough, had his leave shortened and will return immediately. It is believed that he will be assigned command of the Gordon relief expedition.

Manitoba's Crops.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 12.—Telegraphic reports from various points in the Province and Territories give very favorable accounts of the wheat crop. Barley is an average crop; oats is far below the average. Gretna, Morris, Gladstone, Neepawa and Portage La Prairie report that the wheat harvest commenced yesterday and today, many others will commence this week, and nearly all before the end of next. The barley harvest is going on generally; cutting is two or three weeks earlier than last year. The weather is splendid, and a bountiful harvest is practically secured.—Globe.

Killing Mormons.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 12.—A party of masked men attacked the Mormon meeting in Lewis County on Sunday. Two elders were killed and a third was taken into the woods and probably shot. The meeting was being held at the house of a man named Condor. Condor's son was knocked down with a gun and his skull broken. Mrs. Condor had her leg broken. One masked man, who proved to be David Hinson, a well known farmer, was fatally wounded. There is great excitement in Lewis and Hickman Counties.

Canada and Mexico.

Mercantile circles in Montreal view with great satisfaction the opening of negotiations for a commercial treaty between the Mother Country and Mexico, it being believed that the latter country offers a splendid field for the introduction of Canadian products and manufactures, and that a large and mutually profitable trade between the Dominion and the South American Republic will follow closely upon the successful consummation of the treaty.

Weston

Edward Peyton Weston, the pedestrian, was given a dinner in London the other day in honour of his approaching return to this country after his extraordinary task of walking 5000 miles within 100 days on temperance principles. The dinner was served in the vegetarian restaurant at the Health Exhibition, and was attended by a number of prominent people interested in temperance.

It is a fact that Nerviline cannot be surpassed by any combination for the relief of pain. The reason is a good one. Nerviline contains the best, most powerful, and the latest discovered remedies. It is a magic pain cure. Rheumatism, stiff neck, cramps, neuralgia, colic, in fact all pain, internal, external, and local, are subdued in a few minutes. Go at once to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and get a trial bottle. It will only cost you 10 cents, and you can at a small cost test the great pain cure, Polson's Nerviline. Large bottles only 25 cts.

INVALUABLE TO EVERY LADY.
"MAY DEW"
The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubborn ly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any address on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

Daily Evening Review

The rapid growth in public favor of THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW becomes more apparent every week. To advertisers it offers unexceptional advantages as a means of reaching a large section of the purchasing public of the town and surrounding suburbs not heretofore attained. Business men will please note this fact.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 14, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Ladies' Hand Bags.

The finest line of Ladies' Hand Bags ever brought to town at SAILSBURY & Co's.

Arch Removed.

The arch which was erected at the corner of George and Hunter streets for the demonstration on August 12th, was removed by the True Blue on Wednesday evening.

Peterborough at the A.C.A.

We clip the following from the Montreal Gazette :—

"The Peterborough camp contains twenty-one members of the Peterborough Canoe and Rowing Club, under the presidency of Mr. E. B. Edwards."

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows :—Light variable winds, fine, very warm weather.

Good Driving.

Mr. Charles Tighe, the driver of the Lakefield stage informs us that on Wednesday he drove from Burbee's Hotel, Lakefield, to the Commercial House, Peterborough, with seven passengers in the stage, in forty-five minutes. That was good time.

Lawn Tennis.

We understand, says the Lindsay Post, that lawn tennis is booming. Our young club are already talking up a tournament to be held some time early next month, when players from Peterborough, Whitby, Port Perry and other places will have an opportunity of giving our boys a few points.

Mr. A. Clegg

Has secured the services of a handsome team of black horses, which he will use as occasion requires, until he finds a suitable team for sale. As some people think that his charges will be larger than those of other undertakers because of his very expensive equipments, he wishes it distinctly understood that his charges will in no case be more than those of other responsible undertakers.

"Association Notes."

The Lindsay Post says :—

"We have received a copy of the first issue of "Association Notes," a neat little four-page sheet edited and printed by a committee of the Y. M. C. A., of Peterborough. The venture is one that legitimately comes under the work of the Association, and will be an excellent means of placing the claims of the institution before its friends and the public. The typographical neatness of the publication shows that it has been issued from the office of the REVIEW Printing Company."

Personal.

Charles Murter Rubidge, Esq., of Winnipeg, was married in Toronto on the 7th inst., to Miss Brendon, daughter and only child of Frederick Brendon, Esq., of Toronto. The newly married couple left on the 11.30 a.m. train en route for Winnipeg, vie the railway and steamers of the Canada Pacific. Many of Mr. Rubidge's relations were present at the ceremony.

Railway Pic-nic at Hastings.

A pic-nic was held in Johnston's grove, Hastings, on Wednesday, by employees of the Belleville division of the Midland Railway. A small number went down from here, and it required fifteen coaches to convey the excursionists from Belleville and intermediate stations to the grove. Quite a number from Madoc attended and it is estimated that their were 800 persons in the grounds. At the grove a pleasant day was spent in the usual pic-nic style.

Important Removal.

Smith's Market will open on Saturday, Aug. 16th, for the transaction of business, three doors north of his old stand, where he will be pleased to welcome all his old customs. Will have no grand opening ; no grand display, but will offer a large and more varied stock than heretofore, and will spare no pains in procuring all of the sweet morsels for the daily inspection of the epicure. Fresh Oysters every Wednesday. Game and Poultry during its season, also fresh Fish of all kinds, as usual.

SMITH'S MARKET.

New Premises Splendidly Fitted Up—A Fine Store.

The store three doors north of Mr. C. B. Smith's present premises is being fitted up by him, and he will carry on his business in that place on and after Saturday. One advantage gained by the removal will be a refrigerator, which is being built in the new store. It is 20 feet by 8 feet, and is capable of containing from four to five tons of ice. It has a glass front and separate compartments for fruit, vegetables and fish, when these articles will be kept cool and fresh. Mr. John Irwin, who is building the refrigerator for Mr. Smith, is doing a good piece of work. Mr. Smith's customers will appreciate the value of this refrigerator as much as he will himself.

The store has been newly decorated with paper and fresh paint, Mr. Watson's services having been secured for that purpose. The walls look pretty. and the front of the store is greatly improved. New show cases, handsome ones with nickel joints and stand, have been placed in the store.

Mr. Smith is determined to have all the advantages and conveniences available. The store is illuminated at night by electric light, and water service is being introduced from the waterworks. His establishment is connected with the telephone system, and orders received by that means of communication are promptly attended to.

On Saturday Mr. Smith will open with an unusually fine stock of home and foreign fruits, canned goods, vegetables and fish, the lines in which he deals. He will have, without doubt, one of the finest stores of this kind in the Province.

School Books.

Parents should see that their children get their books at SAILSBURY & Co's, as they will save money by it.

Notice to the Public.

T. A. McMurtry, dentist, has returned from his holidays, and is prepared to attend to all during the absence of the other dentists from town.

Deeds that are Dark.

If one may judge by the blood-bespattered sidewalk on Simcoe street, between Aylmer and Simcoe streets, this morning, the "moonlighters" held high carnival in this vicinity on Wednesday night. There was blood in more than one place on this street. Perhaps some unfortunate met with rough treatment.

Lacrosse.

The Lacrosse Club have two matches on hand for next week. On Monday they play with the Ætnas, of Toronto, who come with the Sons of Scotland excursion, and on Thursday they cross sticks with the Orillia Club for the championship of Central Ontario.

To-morrow evening a match will be played on the cricket ground between the first and second twelves of the home club, which will be an interesting contest. The band will be in attendance and five cents admission will be charged, the proceeds to be devoted to purchasing a new uniform for the second twelve. The ball will be faced at 6.15 o'clock.

A game of lacrosse will be played on the Ashburnham Cricket Grounds, on August 18th, between the "Cretes" and "Independents," two juvenile Peterborough clubs, for the cup presented for competition by Mr. W. Sanderson.

Doing a Good Business.

The Messrs. Porter Bros., the new firm who succeeded to the carriage building business of Mr. T. Fitzgerald, are doing a good trade. Their business has been lively during the summer, and their work has been disposed of about as fast as it was turned out. They have just finished a fine new express for Mr. C.B. Smith. It is a nobby vehicle. It is a four wheeled rig, with light yet durable running gear, painted wine color with vermillion stripes. The body is painted a beautiful dark green, and the sides of the seat are wine color striped with the same color as the gearing. The express is provided with a covered top on the seat and is comfortably cushioned, so that the driver will have a comfortable as well as a fine looking vehicle. The Messrs. Porter are engaged on other delivery rigs, and have just turned out a fine one for Mr. Hooper. We are pleased to learn that this young firm is succeeding so well, and that the prospects for a continuation of this good trade are bright.

Dr. Barnardo's Homes.

A preliminary meeting was held at Hazelbrae on Wednesday evening, where a large number of well known ladies and gentlemen of Peterboro' assembled to meet Dr. Barnardo, and to discuss the ways and means of carrying on the branch home so generously given by Mr. Cox.

The Dr. himself appealed to those present and urged upon them to endeavor to raise such voluntary subscriptions yearly as would make this branch home independent of the mother institution. It was pointed out, however, that at all events for the present, this was somewhat too sanguine a view to be held of the capabilities of our town. That there was not in Canada a fraction of the wealth that in England could be called upon at a moment's notice for charitable purposes. That such capital as was possessed by our townsmen it was necessary to utilize. Nevertheless the opinion was expressed that, at a not very distant date, this newly organized branch would, by spreading far and wide its benefits, rise highly in the estimation of all, and that then we might look to the Province itself for that help which, for the present, Peterborough was unable to give unaided. For the time being, therefore, it would be necessary to indent upon the income of the homes in the Mother Country.

During the evening the boys and girls now at Hazelbrae sang various songs extremely sweetly, testifying to the care and attention which has been expended on even this part of their training.

Dr. Barnardo took occasion also to combat the arguments promulgated by the Globe in a recent editorial on the subject of transporting destitute children to Canada.

POLICE COURT.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 13.—Alex. Ross was charged with having assaulted Constable Pidgeon on Monday night. He said that he threw a stone, but he did not know that the constable was in that direction. Constable Pidgeon said that he had moved Ross and two others twice out of yards after eleven o'clock, and then followed them to Park street. While he was walking along there Ross threw a stone and struck him on the side. He then arrested Ross, and the prisoner's brother attempted to rescue him, but he took him to the cells. The prisoner was fined $5 or 10 days in gaol.

At Faucher's Restaurant,

Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

Bass' English Ale.

Another large shipment of Bass' Ale, October brewing, just arrived at W. Chamberlain's Restaurant. Imported direct.

A Fine Beverage.

Dowe's India Pale Ale, the best ale made in Canada, on draught at the Little Windsor Hotel, the proprietor of which is sole agent for Peterborough.

Huckleberries.

A fine supply of choice ripe Huckleberries, fresh from the pickers, just received at CARTON BROTHERS', opposite the Market square. Selling at very reasonable prices.

Coal Oil.

Owing to a "combination" having been formed among the refiners, coal oil is advancing every week. Consumers therefore should take their cans to "China Hall" at once and have them filled, and thereby save money. China Hall has the best quality of oil in town. Try it once.

New Trouserings, West of England and other noted makes, in stripes, checks and other Fashionable Patterns, at Andrew McNeil's, George street.

Last Week.

This is the last week of T. Kelly's midsummer sale of Dry Goods, Hoisery and white wool Blankets. Ladies should not fail to take the benefit of the real bargains to be had at this sale. Mr. Kelly is offering some lines of dress goods at 12½ cents per yard, which was sold at 35 cents per yard a month ago. This is not a solitary example of the inducements offered to customers. Hosiery especially is marked down very low.

Final Canoe Parade.

The last illuminated canoe parade of the season has been arranged to take place on the Little Lake on the evening of Monday, the 25th of August, under the auspices of the Peterborough Boating Club. All canoe men, whether members of the boating club or not, are requested to be on hand with illuminated canoes at eight o'clock sharp on the evening of the 25th instant, to take part in the events. The committee have arranged for a display of fireworks, under the superintendence of Prof. Palmer, of Rochester.

CORRECTION.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—Your Lakefield correspondent on the Lakefield water works meeting of Wednesday evening last, makes incorrect and personal remarks, such as would not be expected. The committee of which your correspondent was a member called a meeting to take place at 8 o'clock in the council room, where a baker's dozen assembled. But by some mismanagement the report which contained a good deal of information was not received in the usual way, therefore there was no discussion on the pros and con's of the expenditure proposed, and as Mr. Tanner did not officiate either for or against water works he is undesirous of having his name mentioned in your correspondence. Had the gentleman only carried his usual amount of ballast he would have noticed Mr. T's remarks, with Mr. Isbisters, to have been pertinent, and in accordance with Mr. Isbister's views, and Mr. Tanner requests that his name should not be used in vain.

Yours truly,
A SUBSCRIBER.

Lakefield, August 12th 1884.

The Fashionable Sunshade

Strange to say, at the very moment when the heat of the sun would serve to justify the very large sunshades that have been used of late, fashion has ordained that very small ones shall supersede the more protective size. Some of the new ones are quite absurdly small, but have the advantage of being proportionately light, and in this respect afford a very pleasant contrast to some of the enormously heavy combinations of lace and satin that were in favour up to the middle of the present season. The handles and sticks of fashionable parasols are in themselves a quite important branch of trade. A taste has arisen for grotesque shapes in the handle, and the favorite sticks are made of the slender twigs of some kind of oak. A man in the south of France has made a comfortable fortune by supplying these to the Paris and London manufacturers. He has large plantations of these young oaks, and has contrived some means of twisting the handles into the requisite gnarled and knotted look which seems so completely to unfit them for a lady's hand, but is the correct "thing" just now. These sticks are, in colour, of a cold shade of grey, resemblidg the tint of virgin cork and harmonize fairly well with the much-favoured "mushroom" colour.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE
AS
GOODNESS
Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

The Greenwich Manuf'g Co's

Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indespensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

The Banner Week

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla and other blood-purifying roots, combined with Iodide of Potassium and Iron, and is the safest, most reliable, and most economical blood-purifier that can be used. It invariably expels all blood poisons from the system, enriches and renews the blood, and restores its vitalizing power. It is the best known remedy for Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin, as also for all disorders caused by a thin and impoverished, or corrupted, condition of the blood, such as Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, General Debility, and Scrofulous Catarrh.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

School Books.

Parents should see that their children get their books at SAILSBURY & Co's, as they will save money by it.

The Temperature.

Mr. G. W. Morgan's thermometer registered 96° in the shade this afternoon, between two and three o'clock.

Lecture.

Mr. Arnold Haultain intends delivering, next week, a lecture on DECORATION, on behalf of the Peterborough branch of Dr. Barnardo's Homes. The date will be fixed shortly.

Cricket.

A cricket mat will be played to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock between a team composed of the "Colts" of the Peterborough Club (young men under 21 years) and a team picked from the county.

The Two Twelves.

You can spend an interesting half-hour to-night looking at the lacrosse match on the cricket ground. The junior twelve of the Peterborough club are going to show the senior twelve how to play with the sticks. Go over and encourage the boys.

Your Urgent Demand Supplied.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. have just opened per express a large range of specialties, including Ladie's Gloves in Black and Colored Silk, Black and Tan Kid Gauntlets, Jersey and Mousquitaire in all shades, and many novelties in great demand at this season. The Golden Lion is worthy of your inspection.

Mr. A. Clegg

Has secured the services of a handsome team of black horses, which he will use as occasion requires, until he finds a suitable team for sale. As some people think that his charges will be larger than those of other undertakers because of his very expensive equipments, he wishes it distinctly understood that his charges will in no case be more than those of other responsible undertakers.

The Saved Army.

A business meeting of the Saved Army was held on Thursday evening, General Lindsay and other officers being present. It was decided to hold a pic-nic at Idyl Wild some time soon, and the advisability of establishing in Peterborough a training school of officers was discussed and the prospects are that it will be established. Tickets were given to the soldiers present, which are to be used to secure admission to the private meetings. Any soldiers or Christians wishing tickets may apply to the Secretary.

A Fire.

At about twenty minutes to three o'clock this morning persons residing near Mr. Kingan's hardware store were aroused by the cry of fire. Mr. Thomas Coe was first to arrive at the place, and he found a bright blaze in the eastern wall of a frame storehouse in the rear of Mr. Kingan's store. Others came to his assistance and, although the fire alarm was sounded, the flames were extinguished before the firemen could arrive. Very little damage was done. How the fire originated is unknown, but many believe that it was the work of incendiarism, while others think that it might have been caused accidentally by a cigar stub or something of that kind. It was discovered just in time to prevent a large fire.

Bass' English Ale.

Another large shipment of Bass' Ale, October brewing, just arrived at W. Chamberlain's Restaurant. Imported direct.

"Rough on Dentist" Tooth Powder.

Smooth, Refreshing, Harmless, Cleansing, Elegant, Preservative and Fragrant 15c. Druggists.

NIGHT WATCHMEN.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I have recently started business in your town on Hunter street, and within a few days I have been three times aroused by fire, twice very close to my place. Now, I would urge on the Council the importance of having a couple of night watchmen to protect our property, especially as I believe the fire last night was the work of an incendiary. If it necessary to pay them by a local tax, I am willing to pay my share. I hope the authorities will take immediate action in this matter. A town of the size of Peterborough surely ought to support one or two watchmen.

Yours truly, C. HARRIS.

Peterborough, Aug. 15, 1884.

Lakefield Train Service.

Until further notice is given a passenger train will leave Peterborough every Saturday at 7.30 p.m. on the Grand Trunk Railway for the village of Lakefield. Returning it will leave Lakefield at 8.15 p.m.

Lacrosse.

This evening, at 6.15 o'clock, a match will be commenced on the cricket grounds between the first and second twelves of the Peterborough Club. It will no doubt be an interesting one. The band will be in attendance and five cents admission will be charged, the proceeds to be applied to purchasing a uniform for the holders of the "Brewery Cup."

A meeting of Lacrosse Club will be held this evening.

St. Paul's Pic-nic.

The excursion of the school and congregation of St. Paul's church will be held on Wednesday, August 20th, over the Ontario and Quebec railway to the village of Norwood. A special train will leave the Peterborough station at 10 o'clock a.m., and on the return will leave Norwood at 7 p.m. Circulars containing full information to all interested in this pic-nic are being printed, and will be sent to the members of the church. See advertisement in another column.

More Than One.

The correspondent of the Ottawa Citizen, an "old journalist," is about right when, in a letter regarding the Ontario and Quebec, he says that Peterborough "is situated in the bosom of a rich agricultural country, and at which the new line crosses the Midland Railway of Canada, can hardly fail to become a place of considerable importance." But when he refers to Tweed as being "the only village occurring between Peterborough and Perth," he makes a mistake. He had previously mentioned Norwood station, and should have known that there was a flourishing village there.

Fall Exhibitions.

The following dates have been announced on which agricultural exhibitions will be held:—

Grand Dominion and 39th Provincial, at Ottawa, Sept. 22nd to 27th.

Industrial Exhibition, Toronto, on Sept. 10th to 20th.

Quebec Exhibition, at Montreal, Sept. 5th to 13th.

West Peterborough, at Peterborough, Sept. 30th and Oct. 1st.

East Peterborough, at Keene, Oct. 2nd and 3rd.

Lindsay Central, at Lindsay, Oct. 1st, 2nd and 3rd.

Port Hope, at Port Hope, Oct. 7th and 8th.

Asphodel, Belmont and Dummer, at Norwood, Oct. 14th.

The Electric Light.

Mr. M. Lee Ross, one of the managers of the Royal Electric Co. was in town yesterday, and completed the transfer of all the electric plant to the Peterborough Electric Light Company. The Peterborough Co. is paying in full, and are now the sole owners and have the exclusive right of use for the town and county of Peterborough. Mr. Hazlitt also obtained several valuable acquisitions for the Co. Mr. Ross expressed himself as highly pleased at the manner in which the lights are now running. The agent Mr. Boisfeuillet and the superintendent Mr. Mount are increasing the number of lights Mr. Ross received an order for one more 25 light machine, and lamps to be shipped here immediately, the incandescent or small house lights will also be introduced shortly. The negotiations between the companies have been entirely satisfactory to each other, and Mr. Hazlitt is to be congratulated upon such a vast improvement to our city.

CASEY'S CONFESSIONS.

DUBLIN, Aug. 14.—The Archbishop of Tuam has written to the Lord Lieutenant requesting the authorities to make a sworn inquiry into Casey's statements. He says Casey declared that the reason he did not speak before was because he was waiting for the visitation of the Archbishop, when he hoped to receive Church pardon. He was willing to suffer in the interest of justice any pain, even death, for swearing away an innocent life. A magistrate and inspector are making enquiries at Maamtrasna. It is reported Casey and his brother-in-law Philbin, were in receipt of a Government allowance, which stopped shortly before their confession.

AMERICAN.

THE CHARGE OF CANNIBALISM.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 14.—Dr. Charles Buckley and F. A. Mandevill this morning made a post-mortem examination of the body of Lieutenant Kilsingbury, of the Greely expedition. The examination was made in the chapel of Mount Hope cemetery. The body was packed in cotton batting and wrapped in cotton cloth, sewed together in a woollen blanket. It weighed on the table less than 50 pounds. The head was perfect, having long hair, and full beard and mustache. From the neck to the feet every particle of muscle, flesh and skin had been cut off with a sharp instrument to the bones. The flesh on the hands and feet was perfect and not decomposed. No bones had been broken. The fact of cannibalism was most completely proved. The brothers of the deceased were present during the examination and readily recognized the body. After the examination the remains were put back into the casket, and again lowered to the grave. Doctors Buckley and Mandevill have made affidavit as to the facts brought out at the post-mortem.

THE RELIEF OF GORDON.

THE FIFTY-SIXTH.

The British 56th regiment arrived at Assouan to-day.

THE ROUTE.

The expedition for the relief of Gordon will proceed by way of Assouan.

COL. KITCHENER'S JOURNEY.

Col. Kitchener's journey to Debbeh occupied seventeen days. No hostile demonstrations were made. He established a chain of Arab posts from the Nile to the Red sea to prevent surprises.

OH! how tired and weak I feel I dont believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning? Oh yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50 cents.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

The Quickest thing on Record

Is Fluid Lightning for neuralgia, headache, toothache, etc. It does not blister or discolor the skin; requires but one application to banish all pain magically without using any greasy liniment or carrying your head in a poultice for two weeks. Try a twenty-five cent bottle from John McKee's druggist.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

VENTILATION.

THE summer months have brought again prominently before the notice of the more sensitive among our citizens a want which seems almost perennial and universal—both in private dwellings but more especially in public buildings—the want of ventilation. Ventilation is a branch of a science upon which every one imagines himself capable of passing an opinion, yet is one which in reality may still be considered to be in its infancy; and here, as in so many other, at present inaccurate and formless systems, it becomes a sort of Tom Tiddler's ground—claimed by no body. It is neglected by the many as a matter of extremely minor importance; it is neglected by the few chiefly, perhaps, because reform in the face of an apathetic majority is the hardest species of reform that can be attempted.

The fact, however, is that ventilation is of supreme importance, and it is highly necessary that this should be reiterated. Not only does improper ventilation deprive us of the very basis of all life, of that without which all life would be absolutely impossible, namely oxygen; not only by this deprivation does it induce a tendency to contract disease; but further, it directly fosters the incubation of disease. The inculcators of the germ theory strongly insisted upon the fact that, the more concentrated the form in which microbes exist the more certain is their power of impregnating the system with noxious principles. In short that their morbific influence varies inversely as their dilution.

Now, ventilation is one of the most powerful factors in the prevention of this concentration of disease spores. And we doubt not that the medical faculty will uphold us in the view that, where this subject is considered with attention and care, the risks of disease are proportionately diminished.

In this attention and care Canada fails. We could point to those who can sit out the service during the dog days in a chapel in the East Indies, and yet faint in a Canadian church; who find no discomfort in a grate-warmed English house, but dread the oppressiveness of a stove-heated room in Canada. The difficulties of combating both the excessive cold of winter and the extreme heat of summer, seems, in cis-Atlantic longitudes, to have been successfully encountered, but—at the expense of ventilation. In a few instances, in houses built on improved methods, with scientific care, the owners of which are alive to the necessity of pure air, we must grant that the subject is not overlooked. What we contend is that this should be made universal. The majority of our buildings certainly possess some means of ventilation, but by some inexplicable fatuity, these seem never made use of to their fullest extent. Our readers doubtless have heard of the story of the physician, whose first act on entering a sick room was to put his umbrella through the window panes. Without advocating such extreme measures, we still hope to see a radical reform on this truly vital subject.

WHAT EQUIVALENT.

It is asked what equivalent Quebec is to get in consequence of the extension of the territory of Ontario. There is no question of an equivalent for the territory of Ontario has not been extended, for its limits have simple been legally determined. Of course Quebec, which also has doubtful boundary, can whenever it pleases, follow the same cause and let the law courts define its rights. If however the award had been adopted on the unconstitutional arrangement made by the usurping Reform premiers of Canada and Ontario, or even if it had been ratified by both legislatures, Quebec would have had grounds for clamouring for the consideration of its case by the executive or the Parliament of the Dominion, instead of being left to the legal decision of the Courts. This was one strong reason why the award should not have been ratified.

Proposed Emigration of Russian Jews.

Mr. Samuel Montague, an influential Hebrew banker of London, accompanied by the Rev. Dr. Asher, a leading co-religionist, are expected to arrive in Montreal in a fortnight with the object of concluding negotiations with the Dominion Government for the establishment of colonies in the Northwest of their persecuted brethren from the Russian Empire.

THE CHARGE OF CANNIBALISM.

Lieut. Greely Himself Interviewed—No Categorical Denial of the Fact.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—A special from Portsmouth says Col. Kent this morning obtained an interview with Greely, who admits that Henry had a military execution on the 6th of June. Henry was detected stealing the limited supply of food apportioned out to the survivors as early as March. Greely said it became necessary in order to keep up discipline to inform Henry that he would be shot if the practice was continued, and that a similar fate would be meted out to any other member of the party detected in a like crime. If Henry had been permitted to continue stealing, the balance of the party would surely have starved to death and Henry alone have survived. In spite of these warnings Henry was again detected stealing provisions. Among the food taken was two pounds of bacon, the eating of which made him sick. A search was instituted, when it was found that Henry had among other articles stolen a pair of sealskin boots belonging to the hunter of the party. Greely was therefore forced to issue a written order that Henry be shot, and the order was carried out. As to the alleged cannibalism, Greely says if there was anything of the kind it must have been individual acts and not general. Nothing of the kind came under Greely's personal observation.

Sergeant Brainard confirms Greely's statements. Greely forwarded to the secretary for war a detailed report of Henry's execution over a week ago. Upon proper representations to secretary Chandler a court of enquiry will undoubtedly be ordered.

The surgeons in charge of the Greely party at Portsmouth report that they will be sufficiently acclimated by Saturday to proceed to their homes.

NEW YORK, August 13.—Efforts are being made in several papers here to get somebody to deny the story of the cannibalism in Lieut. Greely's party at Cape Sabine, but in vain. The officers of the relieving squadron refuse to say anything, but apparently they are the only people who can be got at who know anything about it. At the Navy Department nothing is known about it.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The regular meeting of the village council was held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening, Aug. 11th, 1884. Present, Councillor Moore, in the chair, and Messrs. Cox and McWilliams, Councillors. Minutes of last regular and special meetings were read and confirmed. A communication from Mr. Mutchell, collector, resigning the collectorship, was received. Moved by Councillor Cox, seconded by Councillor McWilliams,—That an order be drawn for the sum of $36 in favor of the village treasurer, and that he be instructed to deposit the amount in the Bank of Montreal, Peterborough, to the credit of the Indian Department as payment for islands No. 8 and 32 in the Otonabee river, and that he send certificate of deposit to the Indian Department.—Carried. Moved by Councillor McWilliams, seconded by Councillor Cox,—That the Clerk be and is hereby instructed to write to the County judge and request him to tax Mr. A. J. Wright with the costs of the appeal to his court, the assessment having been sustained.—Carried. Moved by Councillor McWilliams, seconded by Councillor Cox,—That this Council grant Mr. John O'Neil the sum of $5 as charity.—Carried. Moved by Councillor McWilliams, seconded by Councillor Cox,—That the following accounts be paid and the Reeve's order issued for the same, viz.:

Isaac Watson, wages	$16 20
Augustus Mowrey, wages	6 87½
Martin Coughlin, gravel	2 80
James Richardson, team	11 00
W. H. Casement, nails	3 25
REVIEW office, printing	8 14
Poussette & Roger, legal advice	9 00
J. Griffin, attending Court of Appeal	3 00
Alex. Bell, attending Court of Appeal	3 00
Total	$63 26½

—Carried. Moved by Councillor McWilliams, seconded by Councillor Cox,—That this Council do now adjourn to meet at the call of the Reeve.—Carried.

NEARLY AN ACCIDENT.—Last week Mr. Jas. Charlton of Douro was nearly run over by the Lakefield train. Only the energy and carefulness of Mr. Mims the engineer saved him of his horses from being killed. The train was a little late whistles loud and long were given and noticed by many on lookers but Mr. Charlton heeded not. He saw the train and stopped on the track and got out of his waggon and backed his horses off. The engineer had reversed the engines at full speed and by the delay or shutting off the speed of the train Charlton got off the track partly sideways as the train flew past just missing the horse and rig. This is considered a very narrow escape and should be a lasting warning. This is the same crossing at which the accident occurred last winter by which Mrs. Reid lost her life.

SCHOOL OPENING.—The Lakefield public school will be opened on Monday next the 18th of August. All the teachers are expected to be at the head of their several departments.

FORESTERS.—Court Lakefield No, 43 C.O.F. have received such a large increase of members and also of funds that they considered they were justified in improving their Court room, which is now in their own possession on a long time lease. A committee was appointed and the result of their labors is one of the finest Foresters Courts in the Province. A handsome carpet obtained in Toronto covers the centre floor, and the platforms on each side the entire length of the hall are also covered with carpet but of a different colour, the seats are ash, oil finished and upholstered in green damask, the window curtains being of the same material. New desks for the R. Sect'y and F. Sect'y, and pedistals for officers are also of ash, oil finished and the officers' platforms are covered with a bright carpet to match the surroundings. A handsome chandilier and officers' chairs will will shortly be added. Mr. Chapin got up the furniture to the satisfaction of all. The members of the court Lakefield are now in position to receive visiting brethren, and the High Court officers which are expected on a visit this fall. Three new members joined last night and three new applications were received.

The United States Crops.

A Troy, N. Y., despatch says: Reports of the condition of harvested and growing crops throughout the largest part of northern, eastern and central New York and in Vemont and western Massachusetts show hay to be from one half to two thirds an average crop, the lacking quantity being partly atoned for by the marked improvement in quality, and in some places a good second cutting will be obtained. Oats, while short in straw, have done fairly well. Corn is backward, owing to cold weather, but gives good promise if early frosts do not hurt it. Early potatoes fared poorly, but late varieties are doing splendidly, and this important crop in this vicinity promises well. Buckwheat promises well. Fruit never recovered from the blasting frost of spring. Grapes, plums and peaches are a failure, but apples and pears, though very poor in the counties immediately south and south-west, promises better in other sections. The whole outlook is encouraging, but the yield will be from twenty to thirty percent short.

Duke of Wellington Dead.

A special despatch to the Mail announces the sudden death from heart disease of the Duke of Wellington as he was entering a railway train at Brighton on Wednesday. The Duke who has just died was 77 years old, and childless. He was married in 1829 to Lady Elizabeth Hay, who was the daughter of the Marquis of Tweeddale, and a celebrated beauty, but the union was never blessed with children. The present death rises to the ducal dignity the eldest living nephew of the late Duke, Henry Wellesley, a Lieut.-Colonel in the Grenadier Guards and formerly an M. P. for Andover. The new heir presumptive is the new Duke's younger brother, Lieut.-Col. Arthur Charles Wellesley, of the Grenadier Guards, whose domestic life has been clouded by a sad scandal. He was married twelve years ago to Miss Kathleen Williams, by whom he has had three children, now aged respectively eleven, eight and five years. After a few years of marital propriety, the dashing grenadier became enamoured of Kate Vaughan, a pretty and popular danseuse at the Gaiety theatre. Last summer he accompanied her upon her provincial tour and the scandal became so notorious that Mrs. Wellesley had no difficulty in obtaining a divorce on the ground of adultery. The climax of Col. Wellesley's infatuation for the pretty dancer was reached a few weeks ago, when he took her to Paris, and made her his wife. As there is now but one life between Col. Wellesley and the dukedom it is not at all impossible that the whilom queen of the ballet may yet wear the cornet of a duchess.

Irregularities in Winnipeg.

It is stated that grave irregularities in the method of conducting the financial affairs of the City of Winnipeg will be exposed by the auditors' report to be presented to the Council on Monday next. The city, however, it is claimed, will sustain no loss.

Mothers.

If you are failing, broken, worn out and nervous, use "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists.

NO RVAL IN THE FIELD.—There is no rival for Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It is the acknowledged champion for the cure of all summer complaints.

HOPEFUL WORDS.—Mrs. McArthur, of Hopeville, Ont., says she could not keep house without Hagyard's Pectorial Balsam to cure prevailing throat and lung troubles.

A SEARCH WARRANT.—If there is any lurking taint of scrofula in the system, Burdock Blood Bitters are warranted to search it out.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

FOR OLD OR YOUNG.—Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the remedy for cholera, cholic, diarrhœa and dysentery. No person is safe without it.

FACTS are stubborn things, and sufferers from chills and fever generally find their complaint a very stubborn fact, until they commence the use of Ayer's Ague Cure. That medicine eradicates the noxious poison from the system, and invaribly cures even the worst cases.

"MAY DEW"

The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubboraly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any address on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

The despatch fluttered to the ground and the girl moaned and bowed her face in her hands. He waited some minutes, and with a sob, she said:

"Oh let me go to him! It might be a comfort to him—and if he should die? Oh do let me go!"

"Do you think your mother would consent to your taking so grave steps?"

"I do not know, but she would not blame me when she learned the circumstances. If I waited to consult her he might—oh, we are wasting time! Mr. Palma, pity me! Send me to him—to the friend who loves me so truly, so devotedly!"

She started up and wrung her hands, as imagination pictured the noble friend ill, perhaps dying, and longing to see her.

"Regina, compose yourself. That telegram has been delayed by an unprecedented fall of snow that interrupts the operation of the wires, and it is dated three days ago. Last night I telegraphed to learn Mr. Lindsay's condition, but up to the time of our leaving home the wires were not working through to San Francisco; and the trains on the Union Pacific are completely snow-bound. Come walk with me, and try to be patient."

He offered her his arm, and they walked for some time in profound silence. At last she exclaimed passionately:

"Please let me go home. I want to be alone."

They finally reached the carriage, and Mr. Palma gave the coachman directions to drive to the Telegraph Office.

Was Erle Palma an animated, human fluorspar? Had the latent capacity, the potentiality of tenderness in his character been suddenly actualized, by the touch of that girl's gentle hands—the violet splendour of her large, soft eyes, which lifted forever the detent of his cold isolating selfishness?

The long hidden light had flashed at last, making his heart radiant with a supreme happiness which even the blaze of his towering and successful ambition had never kindled; and today he found it difficult indeed to stand aside, with folded arms and sealed lips, while she reeled on the brink of an abyss, which was so wide and deep, that it threatened to bury all his hopes of that sacred home life, which sooner or later sings its dangerous siren song in every man's heart.

To his proud, worldly nature, this dream of pure, deep, unselfish love, had stolen like the warm, rich, spicy breath of June roses—swung unexpectedly over a glacier—bringing the flush and perfume of early summer time to the glittering, blue realms of winter; and he longed inexpressibly to open all his heart to the sweet sunshine—to gather it in—garnering it as his own forever. How his stern soul clung to that shy, shrinking girl, who seemed in contrast to the gay, brilliant, self-assecting women he met in society, as some white marble-lidded Psyche, standing on her pedestal, amid a group of glowing Venetian Venuses?

That any other man dared hope to win or claim her, seemed sacrilegious; and he felt that he would rather see her lying in her coffin than know that she was profaned by any touch, save his.

"The wires are not yet working fully, but probably messages will go through during the day. Regina, try to be patient, and believe that you shall learn the nature of Mrs. Lindsay's answer as soon as I receive it. Tell Mrs. Palma I shall not come home to dine, having pressing business at court, and cannot tell how long I may be detained at my office. Good-bye. The dispatch shall be sent to you without delay."

He lifted his hat, closed the carriage door, and motioned to Farley to drive home.

Locked in her own apartment, Olga denied admittance to even her mother, who improved the opportunity to answer a number of neglected letters, and Regina was left to the seclusion of her room.

How fervent had been his prayer that when he returned, he might find her "unspotted from the world." Was she? Could she bear to deceive the brave, loyal heart that trusted her so completely?

Once at church, she had witnessed a marriage, heard the awfully solemn vows that the bride registered in the sight of God, and to-day the words flamed like the sword of the avenging angel, like a menace, a challenge. Would Douglass take her for his wife, if he knew that Mr. Palma had become dearer to her than all the world beside? Could she deny that his voice and the touch of his hand on hers, magnetized, thrilled her, as no one else had power to do? She could think without pain, of Mr. Lindsay selecting some other lady and learning to love her as his wife, forgetting the child Regina; but when she forced herself to reflect that her guardian would soon be Mrs. Carew's husband, the torture seemed unendurable.

Unlocking a drawer, she spread before her all the little souvenirs Mr. Lindsay had given her. The faded flowers, that once glowed under the fervid sun of India, the seal and pen, the blue and gold Tennyson and Whittier, and the pretty copy of Christina Rossetti's poems he had sent from Liverpool. One by one she read his letters, ending with the last, which Mr. Palma had laid on her lap, when he left the carriage.

Despite her efforts, above the dear, meek, gentle image of the consecrated and devout missionary towered the stately, proud form of the brilliant lawyer, with his chilling smile, and haughty marble brow; and she knew that he reigned supreme in her heart. He was not so generous, so nobly self-sacrificing, so holy and pious as Mr. Lindsay, nor did she reverence him so entirely; but above all else she loved him. Conscience, pride, and womanly delicacy all clamoured in behalf of the absent but faithful lover; and the true heart answered: "Away with sophistry, and gratitude, pitying affection, and sympathy! I am vassal to but one; give me Erle Palma, my king."

If she married Douglas and he afterward discovered the truth, could he be happy, could he ever trust her again? She resolved to go to San Francisco, to tell Mr. Lindsay without reservation all that she felt, withholding only the name of the man whom she loved best; and if he could be content with the little she could give in return for his attachment, then with no deception flitting like a ghoul between them, she would ask her mother's permission to dedicate the future to Douglass Lindsay. She would never see her guardian again, and when she was married it would be sinful even to think of him, and her duties and new ties must help her to forget him.

Pleading weariness and indisposition, she had absented herself from dinner, and when night came, it was upon leaden wings that oppressed her. Feverish and restless she raised the sash, and though the temperature was freezing outside, she leaned heavily upon the sill and inhaled the air. A distant clock struck eleven, and she stood looking at the moon that flooded the avenue with splendour, and shone like a sheet of silver on the glass of a window opposite.

Very soon a peculiarly-measured step, slow and firm, rung on the pavement beneath her, and ere the muffled figure paused at the door, she recognised her guardian. He entered by means of a latch-key, and closing the window Regina sat down and listened. Her heart beat like a drum, drowning other sounds, and all else was so still that after a little while she supposed no message had been received, and that Mr. Palma had gone to sleep.

She dreaded to lie down, knowing that her pillow would prove not one of roses, but thorns She prayed long and fervently that God would help her to do right under all circumstances, would enable her to conquer and govern her wilful and riotous heart, subduing it to the dictates of duty; and in conclusion she begged that the Heavenly Father would spare and strengthen his feeble, suffering, consecrated minister, spare a life she would strive to brighten.

Rising from her knees she opened a little illustrated testament Mr. Lindsay had given her on her thirteenth birthday, and which she was accustomed to read every night. The fourteenth chapter of St. John happened to meet her eye.

"Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid, ye believe in God—believe also in Me." Just then she heard a low cautious tap upon her door. Her heart stood still, she felt paralyzed, but found voice to say hoarsely:

"Come in."

The door was partly opened, but no one entered, and she went forward to the threshold. Mr. Palma was standing outside, with his face averted, and in his outstretched hand she saw the well-known telegraphic envelope, which always arouses a thrill of dread—bearing so frequently the bolt of destruction into tranquil households. Shaking like aspens when the west wind blows, she took it.

"Tell me, is he better?"

Mr. Palma turned, gave one swift pitying glance at her agonized face, and as if unable to endure the sight, walked quickly away. She shut the door, stood a moment—spell-bound by dread, then held the sheet to the light.

"Though Duty's face is stern, her path is best,
They sweetly sleep who die upon her breast."

THE TIMBER TRADE OF AMERICA.

Prof. Rothrock, of the Pennsylvania University, in speaking of the danger of a timber famine, says that the area of the United States, including Alaska, is 2,366,560,000 acres. Of this, it is stated officially, 380,000,000 are in woodland chiefly belonging to private parties. In other words, taking our area as a whole, we have about 16½ per cent. remaining in forest growth. Of this, we must remember, that a large proportion represents lands which have been cut over, and are now covered with immature growth of good timber, or with trees of such kind as have no commercial value. It will, no doubt, be surprising to learn that as a whole, Europe has 28 per cent. of its area remaining tn forest. This, however, is very unevenly distributed, and, to be of further use as a point of comparison, we must examine into the timber statistics of each important district. The percentage taken in this are: Sweden and Norway, 40; Russia, 39; Austro-Hungary, 23; Germany, 23; Switzerland, 19; Italy, 17; France, 16; Belgium, 12; Spain, 11; Portugal, 6, Great Britain and Ireland, about 3. None of those countries which have less timber land than above 17 per cent of their total area have sufficient wood to get along with. They have to import. Making, as far as I can, due allowance, and testing my results by various standards, I am now prepared to assert that we are in danger of a timber famine at any time our forests fall below 15 per cent. of the entire area of the country. At this hour, so far as I can estimate, we have not more than 16·47 per cent. Thi gives 1·47 per cent. between ourselves and want, so far as our industries are concerned. Of all civilized countries driven to make the largest use of iron and to exercise the greatest economy in wood, Great Britain heads the list. Here then we might suppose there existed the greatest ability to dispense with it. Her importations of wood were valued at $77,963,399 a year from 1872 to 1876, or $2.50 worth for each soul per annum.

TREE FALLING BY DYNAMITE.

A cartridge of the explosive substance is placed in a channel bored directly under the tree to be operated upon, and when exploded the tree is simply forced up bodily and falls intact on its side. If this system works as well as it is reported to do, the tree is not fractured by the force of the explosion, and the wood at the base of the trunk can be utilized. An argument in favor of this method is that it brings up the roots of the tree, and thus dispenses with the tedious process of grubbing the roots of the felled timber.—Mechanical World.

Every lumberman will appreciate the convenience in handling timber after an artificial tornado or cyclone has left the trees in whatever direction they may fall, with the roots and a large quantity of earth intact, and left standing in the way of the teamester in skidding. Many of the lumbermen during the last season have seen a little too much of this haphazardness in forests, where the high winds have been paying their attention to tree felling at the cost of the owners of the timber. The lumberman, however, takes as much interest in felling a tree as in any part of the lumber business. The direction in which it must fall is carefully considered, and it is placed in the very spot intended by the skill of the chopper, without injury to the timber or a rooted stump turned up in the way of hauling. What would be gained by the wood at the base of the trunk would not pay for the powder, however tedious may have been the process of grubbing the roots of the felled tree.—Cotton, Wool and Iron.

DESTITUTE CHILDREN.

DR. BARNARDO'S LECTURE ON RESCUE WORK AMONG WAIFS AND STRAYS.

Picking up Boys and Girls in the Streets of London—The "Homes" in the Old Country—The Peterborough Branch.

On Thursday evening a very large audience assembled in the Opera House to hear Dr. Barnardo, of London, Eng., the founder and manager of the orphans' homes which bear his name, lecture on "Rescue Work Among Waifs and Strays." The hall was filled to overflowing and many were compelled to turn away. Before the proceedings were commenced a small book giving the history of one of these waifs and a paper with a blank which could be filled in with a subscription were distributed among the audience. The paper gave the list of the officers of the institutions as follows:—President, Rt. Hon. Earl Cairns; Vice-President, Lord Kinnaird; London Treasurer, Wm. Fowler, Esq., M.P.; Managing Director, T. J. Barnardo, Esq., F.R.C.S.E.; Canadian Treas. Geo. A. Cox, Esq.; Canadian Secretary, Miss Millie Sanderson; Superintendent and Matron of Hazelbrae Home, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Duff; Visitor, Mr. A. B. Owen; Banker, the Bank of Toronto, Peterborough.

At a few minutes after eight o'clock Mr. Jno. Burnham, M.P., took the chair, and the following gentlemen occupied seats on the platform:—Dr. Barnardo, Mr. Geo. A. Cox, Mayor, the Rev. I. Tovell, the Rev. Alex. Bell, the Rev. T. Manning, B.A., the Rev. Mr. Brown, the Rev. Mr. Blain and others. The hymn "Rescue the Perishing" was sung and the Rev. Mr. Brown lead in prayer.

The CHAIRMAN said that it afforded him pleasure to attend the meeting. The large attendance showed the interest the people of the town took in Dr. Barnardo's homes. The doctor was known to them by reputation; his name had become a household word. In this country they were not able to appreciate the work, but among the millions in London a great and benevolent work was carried on. He had heard of the work, but did not know the extent of it until he read the report. Eighteen years ago Dr. Barnardo rescued a boy from the streets, and he now had 1,200 or 1,300 children in the "Homes." The revenue had increased from from £200 to £45,000, and was contributed voluntarily. Some people thought that the bringing of these waifs to Canada and allowing them to become citizens was not commendable, but that idea was not entertained by the majority. They welcomed everyone to this broad Dominion who was capable of becoming a good citizen. They felt more sympathy for Dr. Barnardo because, through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Cox—which was a credit to the town as well as to themselves—the work had been localized. But he wished to have more than their sympathy. There was not the wealth in this country that there was in the old country, but the people should show their sympathy by contributions. He introduced the lecturer.

Dr. BARNARDO said that he felt a little puzz'ed as to how he would make them understand the work, but he hoped their sympathy was such that they would meet him half way. The object of the work was to "rescue the perishing," specially among homeless boys and girls. They, with their beautiful climate and comforts, could hardly realize the condition of some people in London. Fancy awaking and finding the air so thick that one could almost eat it! London was the largest city in the world, and its population was rapidly increasing. The Old Country was too full; they could not supply all the people with work. There was a vast number in London who had no homes. Here one could roll up in an old coat and lie in the fields, but the damp and cold there made such a difference as they could hardly conceive of. The attention of the wisest and best men had been called to the condition of the poor people in the city, but there were those who had fallen off the lowest step of social life and lived on the streets anyhow. Many of them slept in common lodging houses. There were enough licensed lodging houses in London to accommodate 24,000 people each night, and unlicensed ones that would hold as many more. These houses were a source of terrible danger, as many virtuous but unfortunate people were brough in contact with the most degraded, vicious and criminal. Immense numbers, also, did not even go to these houses, but trod the streets all night, moved on by the constables and not allowed to sleep. Large numbers of them were homeless because they had behaved badly—been drunken or improvident—or through failure of trade, sickness or other causes. A political economist might say that it was bad charity to assist these old people. But who are these beside them and that lead them along? Little children, and they at least had committed no crime. The object of their work was to rescue these children. He had spent nights in visiting lodging houses, and found 29½ out of every hundred in them under 14 years of age. Twenty-five per cent. of the 60,000 accommodated in the lodging houses would give 20,000 boys and girls homeless and friendless in London each night. He had told them in England and in London in public meetings that it was a reproach to their nationality and their Christianity. He related the circumstances which led him to undertake this work. Eighteen years ago he was a medical student and had no thought of giving his time to such a work. He was engaged occasionally in a ragged school. The children were sent out each night at half-past nine to go home, and one evening a boy about eleven years old remained and asked to be allowed to stay all night. He stated that he had no father or mother, and that he "lived nowhere." He was clad in rags—and sometimes boys would be strangely clothed in this way, as the rags would be so arranged that one pin or button would keep the coherence of the whole wonderful structure. The boy was asked if there were more boys homeless like him, and he replied, "Heaps on 'em, sir; lots." The doctor took the boy home with him, and that night, to test the truthfulness of his statement, went with him at midnight to the rag exchange in Petticoat Lane, where they found eleven boys on a roof huddled together like dogs, some of them younger than the lad with him. They could guess his feelings. It seemed as if God had drawn aside a curtain and revealed a terrible specimen of homeless London. He went away awe struck, and said to himself, "O God! how gladly would I give myself up to the work of finding out these boys and rescuing them." He kept the one boy with him, told the story and others became interested. The first home established was in an old house in Stepney Causeway. He gave an amusing description of the house and furniture, when room was made for 25 boys. He then cast his net into the seething sea of London misery and got enough boys to fill every corner. He gave up his professional hopes and aspirations and devoted himself to the work. He described some of the difficulties of rescuing the boys arising from their suspicions. Since the first night the homes had progressed, and they now had 23 institutions, and hoped soon to see two flourishing ones added in Canada. He gave instances of the difficulties in rescuing the waifs, and related an interesting history of one boy who had been found on the streets and rescued from a criminal life. When the boys were sent to schools in the Homes, as was done there, and were taught a trade, and the honor and dignity connected with labor, they were likely to persevere. Saving these children from a life of sin, misery and shame was assisting the community in the best possible manner. There were more homeless girls than boys, and their position was so perilous and terrible that it would be difficult to set it forth in adequate fulness. He instanced one little girl rescued from a gipsy who did not know what beds were for, and who went into a bath a dark gipsy and came out a red-headed freckled little girl. With many of them their minds and morals were in a similar condition, but many, despite their temptations, were pure, right-minded and scorned a wrong action. They had separate homes for the girls. They were little cottages, each containing 20, with a Christian lady to attend to them. They were like families, and they left them with feelings of having left a family and fitted for an industrious, Christian life. He told how he got three young girls from a man and woman who for fourteen years had not a home. Since he came to Canada he saw one of them in the house of a clergyman, a bright, useful, kind servant girl, with whom the clergyman's wife would not part. From this they could see the connection between Canada and the "Homes." They fitted the girls for domestic work and they sent to Canada the flower of their flock. The statement that they sent over here children physically and morally tainted was inaccurate. They did rescue such children, but they were not sent to Canada. The hoped to establish here a distributing home to send the children to from which they could be taken by farmers and those needing assistance or by families for adoption. There was in the room three persons who had adopted children from the "Homes," and two of them had said that they would not part with them for any consideration. When his kind friends Mr. and Mrs. Cox gave the house and land it was fitted up through the liberality and kindness of the citizens of the town. All the children brought out, with two exceptions, were doing well, and those two did not belong properly to the "Homes," but had been assisted out at the request of a friend. His object in appearing before them was to get them to sympathize with and aid the work. He thanked from the bottom of his heart those who had assisted to any extent. He wanted their sympath and prayers and help. $50 would keep one child a year, $25 for six months or $12.50 for three months. Some present might undertake to collect one of these amounts. He thanked them for their presence, and asked for their continued sympathy an l help. They had at present a number of little girls and anyone who felt that they had room in their home for one could go up to the "Home" and see them. The "Home" was always open and would remain open for visitors.

Mr. GEO. A. COX said that he desired to acknowledge the gifts received so far. They had no desire to impose any burden on the people of Peterborough. He had explained to Dr. Barnardo that their position was different from the wealthy people of England. Their liberality was as great, but there were many demands upon them. The "Home" could and would be supported without being a burden on anyone. There would be on an average 60 children here constantly, and if 60 persons gave £10 each it would suffice to maintain them. He believed that the money would come in and not from the town alone. He believed that many of the boys themselves would help to keep up the "Home." They wanted their sympathy and prayer and a dollar thrown in when they could do it. He read the list of annual subscriptions which had been promised to maintain the "Home," which was the result of one afternoon and communication with some friends, as follows:—A lady $200 for three years; A. White, $50; Dr. Kincaid, $50; W. Gooderham, $50; R. Jaffray, $50; J. R. Dundas, M. P., $50; J. M. Ferris, M. P. P., $50; J. Burnham, M.P., $25. He also read the following list of contributions which had been received and applied to furnishing the home:—W. Gooderham, Toronto, $100; A. White, $50; J. Machlin, $10; H. Winch, $10; A Friend, $5; Mrs. W. Bradburn, $5; Mrs. W. A. Morrow, $5; Mrs. Jeffers, $5; A. Mercer, $5; E. Dawson, $5; W. H. Dayman, $5; D. M. Sim, $5; J. C. T. Lacey, $5; F. A. Passmore, $5; W. W. Johnston, $5; Mrs Whyte, $1; E. Wood, $1; F. Brownscombe, $1; Geo. Edwards (Parkdale), $5; E. de St. Dalmas, $1; Harrison Proctor, $1; Mrs. L. E. E. Pengelly, $3; proceeds of garden party and sale of work, $185: collected by Mrs. Rubidge, $1; collected by Mrs. Finlay, $1; Hall Innes & Co., drawing room carpet; J. Stevenson, drawing room suite; A. L. Davis, drawing room paper; Peter Connal & Co., two toilet sets; G. Stethem, $50 in goods; Miss Dugan, easy chair; D. W. Dumble, hall table; Dr. Halliday, hall table and chair; W. Walsh, two lamps; W. Fairweather, two linen table covers; I. Robinson, cretonne; Mrs. J. Alexander, dining table cover; Mrs. B. Shortley, pair lace curtains; D. Belleghem, spring mattrass. Mr. Cox thanked those who had thus assisted. They had every reason to hope that the institution would be liberally supported.

The Rev. Mr. Tovell moved, seconded by the Rev. Mr. Blaine, a vote of thanks to Dr. Barnardo for his interesting lecture, and the doctor acknowledged the vote. A vote of thanks was also tendered the chairman, on motion of Mr. Cox. The meeting was closed by the Rev. Mr. Tovell pronouncing the benediction.

GOODNESS

Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indespensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

The Banner Week

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Where these Silks are procured, or why they are sold so cheap is no affair of the customers'. It is enough for them to know that they can buy here about 25 per cent. less than the pervading prices throughout the town. Do not fail to ask for our Summer Silks at 42½c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. See our Black Dress Silks at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, warranted pure silk both filling and warp. They are heavy in texture, beautiful in finish and quality, surpassing anything in the town at 25 per cent. higher in price. Don't fail to see them at SATURDAY, AUGUST 16, 1884.

N. P. RESULTS.

Instead of the tariff increasing the cost of living, there is not a country we have mentioned in which a man can live as cheaply at the present time as he can in Ontario. Take for instance the arcticles of sugar, wollens and cotton, manufactured in Canada, all cheaper by far at this time than under the tariff of the Mackenzie Government. A working man's wife can buy five pounds more sugar for one dollar than she could in 1876-7 when the Grits were in power. All kinds of clothing materials are also below the prices which ruled up to 1878. And as for tea and coffee, the present Conservative administration left them on the free list when they went from office in 1872, the Mackenzie Government almost at once put a duty on them both. This duty was removed by the Conservatives in 1881, they being determined that the workingman's necessaries in these particulars should be untaxed. If the people have now a free breakfast table, therefore, they have the wicked Tories to thank for it, and not the Grits. It is the same Conservative party that has done so much against the workingman by its tariff arrangements that he is enabled to earn a higher average of wages in Ontario than is earned in Chicago—which we take as a typical city of wages and employment in America—in Free Trade England, and double the average earnings of a similar class of workmen in the two leading countries of Europe. But it seems that "it is not pleasing" to the Globe to see the Ontario workmen occupying so advantageous a position. It would rather see him ground between the upper and nether millstones of European pauper labor and American slaughter of surplus productions.—London Free Press.

Agricultural Examinations.

The examining committee of the Agricultural and Arts Association commenced its labors on Friday morning at the Agricultural Hall. The result of their work will comprise a list of those competitors who have succeeded in gaining diplomas. The examination which was held in June last, marks a new and interesting departure in the work of the above association. The council believing that a more general study of the science of agriculture by those engaged in active farm work, would prove beneficial and conductive to the improvement of the farming profession, decided some time ago to inaugurate a scheme of annual examinations in subjects bearing directly upon the work of the farm. Along with this it was decided to grant certificates of merit to all who came up to a certain predetermined standard of merit. The examination papers have been prepared by persons appointed by the council. Only second and third class certificates can be obtained from the examination of last June, which was the first one held. At subsequent examinations candidates will be allowed to try for first-class certificates. The ground covered by the papers is quite comprehensive, including tillage operations, live stock, food, the plant, the soil, manures, seed and sowing, roots, and green fodders, rotation of crops, drainage, exhausted lands, breeding and care of animals, diseases of crops, orchards, forestry, and entomology. The examiners are Prof. Mills, Mr. Drury, M.P.P., and Mr. Carnegie, M. P. P. Nearly forty candidates presented themselves last examination; and it is expected that this number will be largely increased.

A Canadian Cardinal.

In Catholic circles it is rumoured that Archbishop Taschereau, now in Rome, will be made Cardinal. He has apparently succeeded in obtaining from the Propaganda aid for the Montreal branch of the Laval University. Some months ago the Laval authorities decided to close this branch, as no aid for its support could be obtained from Rome. Now the Rev. Mr. Hamel, rector of Laval, announces to the Montreal professors that their engagements and salaries will continue, also that a new building will be soon erected to accomodate the faculties of law and medicine at a cost of $50,000. Hence the inference that the Propaganda has promised money and that Archbishop Taschereau has outgeneralled Monseigneaur Smeulders, the Papal Commissioner, whose report to Rome favoured the Victoria rather than the Laval University. It is believed that the Victoria institution will hereafter be refused the official support of the clergy. —Globe.

INFORMATION FOR APPLE GROWERS.

We publish the following communication:—

In view of the early resumption of apple exports from the United States and Canada to Europe, it is desirable that shippers should now be in possession of information in regard to the crop prospects of Great Britian and the continent, on which ideas can be framed as to the conditions under which shipments of apples will land at the chief centres on this side during the next few months. A careful collation of a large number of independent reports contributed by reliable parties up to the end of July, and confirmed by a wide personal survey, gives the following results:—

Notwithstanding the heavy yield of apples last year the large amount of prospective bloom in the orchards was a noteworthy feature of the present year, and up to the middle of April indications were abundant that only bad weather could prevent the production of another good crop of apples. The weather record of the closing weeks of April and greater portion of May shows abnormal conditions over the British Islands for that period, the main defects being the prevalence of cold easterly winds accompanied by frequent night frosts (so serious at this time to the apple-blossom), absence of rainfall, and deficiency of bright sunshine, causing backward crops. June was a dry month, and the trees suffered much from the attack of insects in consequence of the prolonged drought, which eventually gave out in July. In Kent and other near by sections the prospects of the apple-crop are not encouraging. Reports concur that the aggregate yield of marketable fruit will not exceed half an average crop. The west, or cider counties, claim a near approach to an average crop, but, for the most part, this stock is unfit for any other purpose than that to which it is usualy applied. In the north the cultivation of the apple is sadly neglected, and the crop is said to be very light. Taken altogether, the accounts received to date bear a strong family likeness, and the following forecast of one large producer is fairly repretstative:—"Last year the apple crop in Kent and throughout England was much above the average; this year it will be much below the average."

Advices from the chief shipping ports of France, as well as the interior, indicate an average yield of apples suitable for export. In the north and north-west crop prospects are none too favourable, but in the south and southwest shippers claim a fair export trade for three months for three months from middle of August. Canada apples and Rennets are well cropped, but Dieudonnes will come down light.

From the apple-sections of Belgium reports are unsatisfactory. The abundant crop of last year has given place to one of limited proportions. The yield of early varieties, of which a few parcels have already been shipped, will be comparatively light, and by the middle of October will be exhausted. The yield of late varieties is reported still lighter, and the quantity for shipment in mid-winter will be only nominal.

The news from Holland and the Rhine districts is not encouraging. Correspondents agree that the out-turn will but slightly exceed half an average crop. Out of late varieties Bendersweets and Paradise promise fairly, having least suffered from night frosts when blossoming. Early apples, which cover a small area of ground, will give only a moderate yield.

Reports from Hamburg, Stettin and the interior of Germany, predict a small crop of all kinds of Apples. While last year there was quite a full crop, it is said the growth this year will leave only a small balance available for export.

Shipments of early apples from Portugal, which commenced with July, continued to arrive at irregular intervals in consequence of quarantine restrictions abroad. Prices bear favorable comparison with those of last year. Crops are reported good, but arrivals after September will have no apreciable influence on the English markets.

After full consideration of the whole of the facts set forth in the various reports, the impression produced and net result obtained for practical purposes is:—

(1) That the Apple crop of Europe, taking it as a whole, will be considerably under that of last year.

(2) That fall shipment of Canadian apples to Glasgow and Liverpool should meet with good demand at values ruled by supply.

(3) That shipments to London of good solid stock will, as in similar seasons, compare favourably in net proceeds with other markets on this side.

KEENE.

From an Occasional Correspondent.

SAVED ARMY.—The services were held in Keene as usual under Lieut. Boyler. On Sunday night in Allandale Mr. K. Mark gave a grand lecture. Beyond reviving a few christians the Saved Army doesn't appear to be doing much. There is to be a Gospel Temperance meeting on Sunday evening next at Allandale Hall.

DEATHS.—Mrs. Robinson died on Monday last, at the residence of her son, Andrew Robinson Villiers, at the old age of 78 years. The funeral took place on Wednesday and was largely attended by friends. Mrs. Stewart died at her son-in-law's, Mr. McIntyre, on Tuesday at the age of 63 years. The funeral was held on Wednesday and was largely attended by friends of the family.

TORONTO.

AN UNFORTUNATE OUTCAST.—A very distressing case was brought under the notice of the medical health officer on Thursday morning. A young girl who had been sent out from Glasgow by her friends applied for admission to the Burnside. She had been led astray in her native city, and sent out here to hide her shame. Dr. Canniff was unable to admit her to the Burnside as his instructions are to give passes only to persons who have been living in the city for some time. The application was deferred.

BELLEVILLE.

A TERRIBLE INJURY.—On Thursday afternoon at Trenton, John Labelle and a comrade were at work handling lumber at a pile at Gilmour's yard, when the pile fell, and the end of a board, striking Labelle in the chest, penetrated and tore open the left lung. The falling boards also broke his right leg. The man who was working with Labelle received injuries in the back, but they are not serious. Labelle is in a precarious condition.

Orange Meeting at Freeleck.

EXTENSIVE FIRE IN LONDON.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—A fire started this forenoon in the envelope factory of James Hodgron, by the bursting of a gas engine. The flames spread with startling rapidity, and before the employees all succeeded in leaving the building, escape, except by the windows, was cut off. Many were compelled to jump to the street, and several, including some women, were injured. The building of Chase & Co., American merchants, was fired and is now burning. Other buildings are endangered. The loss has reached £250,000.

MISCELLANEOUS.

W. G. George, the English amateur runner, will probably retire after this season. He has made records at 2, 3, 4, and 10 miles, but London Truth says he wants to make a mile in 4 m. 15s. and 12 miles in an hour.

THE stock of flour in New York on June 1, 1884, is reported at 161,490 barrels and sacks, against 175,620 barrels and sacks one month ago, and 179,600 barrels and sacks one year ago.

"THE Life and Correspondence of George Eliot," by her husband, Mr. John Cross, will be published by Messers. Blackwood, towards the close of the year, in two volumes.

THE Canadian Pacific railroad is to equip 500 of its cars with the United States automatic couplers.

The Angra Pequena Question.

The German corvette Leipzig left Cape Town for Angra Pequena on July 16. It goes to take formal possession of the Bay of Angra Pequena and the surrounding country in the name of the German Empire. Dr. Nachtigal, the special German Commissioner, was expected to reach Angra Pequena at the same time. Prince Bismarck hopes to open new fields for colonial enterprise, and so prevent the ultra independent Anglo-Saxon element from absorbing the German element.

Charge of Cannibalism.

The New York Times publishes a statement accusing the survivors of the Greely party of cannabilism, declaring that they sustained life by eating the flesh off the bodies of dead comrades, their death being accelerated in some cases by shooting. It is only fair to state, however, that Commander Schley, who certainly is in as good a position to know the facts of the case as anybody can be distinctly denies the whole story.

Entertaining the British Association.

On August 30th His Excellency the Governor general will entertain the chairman of sections and a few other notables at dinner at the citadel, and the whole of the visitors will be invited to an "at home" by his Excellency for 9 p.m. There will bands on both the citadel and Dufferin terrace. The latter will be illuminated. About 400 guests are expected.

OH! how tired and weak I feel I dont believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning? Oh yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50 cents.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

The Quickest thing on Record

Is Fluid Lightning for neuralgs, headache, toothache, etc. It does not blister or discolor the skin; requires but one application to banish all pain magically without using any greasy liniment or carrying your head in a poultice for two weeks. Try a twenty-five cent bottle from John McKee's druggist.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

A WANT.

ACCORDING to rule 6 in paragraph 14 of the Municipal By-law of the Public Health Act:

"Every householder and every hotel and restaurant-keeper on other person shall dispose of all garbage, for the disposal of which he is responsible, either by burning the same or by placing it in a proper covered receptacle for swill and house offal the contents of which shall, between the fifteenth day of May and the first day of November, be regularly removed as often as twice a week."

That is to say, forty-eight times a year all that refuse which it is impossible to burn, and which, from its liquid nature is, perhaps, more likely to breed disease than any other, has to be transported at the cost of the person who is responsible for its disposal to the place set apart for its deposition by the authorities.

Taking the cost of removal at $1.00 a load, the enforcing of this rule means an expenditure of $48.00 a year for each householder who does not happen to be the fortunate possessor of a horse and cart.

Under these circumstances it is a great deal more than probable that rule 6 will be a dead letter.

To obviate this, it might be suggested that, as it is not at all likely that in the average-sized house anything approaching a waggon-load of refuse could be collected in three or four days, carters might find it profitable to drive from house to house in the various quarters of the town on stated days of the week, charging but a small sum from each householder for the amount added by him to the load. This might also be profitable to the householder himself as a means of avoiding the fine which our Police Magistrate is not remiss in inflicting for the dereliction of this duty.

Another suggestion might be brought forward, namely, that regularly qualified dustmen should be authorized by the town council to drive from house to house through the different parts of the town on stated days to collect and deposit the refuse which the householder is compelled by law to remove.

This is by no means a novelty, the plan having been in use in England for many years. At all events, unless something of the kind is done we may expect to see the removal of garbage as little attended to as the consciences of householders will permit.

SHAKSPERE.

We have much pleasure in continuing Mr. Earl's questions on Shakspere's plays.

THE TEMPEST.

1. What evidence do we possess respecting the date of the composition of this play?
2. Tell what you know of the origin of the plot.
3. Briefly criticise the plot.
4. Sketch the character of Prospero.
5. Show that the dramatist uses the supernatural elements with great art in the Tempest.
6. Contrast the Tempest and the M.N.D. with regard to the use of supernatural elements.
7. Describe the characters of Ariel and Caliban.
8. Show that the character of Caliban may have had a special bearing on the time.
9. Describe the character of Miranda.
10. "Another poet had depicted a magical tempest with a shipwrecked prince cast upon an exchanted island, and there relieved and tended by the king's daughter." What poet is referred to? Compare and contrast the two pictures.
11. Show that, in the Tempest, Shakspere observes the dramatic varieties.
12. Ariel is promised his freedom after two days." Why two days?
13. "Gervinus has rightly noticed that Shakspere, in several of his dramas, reflects his main plot in a secondary plot, making the latter serve to illustrate the former." Illustrate from the Tempest.
14. "The persons in this play, while remaining real and living, are conceived in a more abstract way, more as types, than those in any other work of Shakspere." Justify this.
15. "Shakspere seems in this play, among other things, to consider the question: What is true freedom?" Explain and illustrate.
16. "In the characters of Ariel, Miranda, and Caliban, we have three of the most unique and original conceptions that ever sprang from the mind of man." Discuss.
17. Discuss the question as to the scene of the Tempest.
18. Write a brief epitome of the play.
19. Briefly criticise the Tempest.

A. C. A. ANNUAL CAMP.

THE MEETING OF THE A. C. A. AMONG THE THOUSAND ISLANDS.

Some Good Paddling Races—No Breeze for Sailing.—An Evening by the Camp Fire.—A.C.A Camp.

GRINDSTONE ISLAND, Aug. 12.—This morning was beautiful for the paddling race, and there was a light breeze, hardly strong enough for the sailing events.

The racing began at 9.30 a.m. with a paddling race of one mile for canoes not over 16 feet in length nor under 26 inches beam. There were eight starters, two with the single blade and six with the double blade. They were placed by the judges as follows:—

1. M. F. Johnston Toronto C.C.
2. J. L. Weller Peterborough B.C.
3. Frank Adams Peterborough B.C.

Johnston used the double paddle in a Peterborough Canoe, Weller and Adams paddling with a single blade.

The winner's time was 10 minutes 34 seconds and the second and third canoes were 10 and 50 behind him respectively.

The second event was a sailing race of a mile and a half for novices who had never sailed a canoe before this year. There were 10 starters the winners being placed as follows:—

1. G. H. Thacker, Mohican C.C.
2. J. L. Weller, Peterborough B.C.
3. E. G. Rand, Harwood C.C.

The time for the winner was 32 minutes 20 seconds and of the next two 34 minutes 55 seconds and 35 minutes 55 seconds.

The third race was a mile under paddle, in canoes not over 17 feet long, nor under 28 inches beam. There were six starters, all using the double blade. The following were placed:—

1. M. F. Johnston, T. C. C.
2. J. C. Wilson, Watertown C. C.
3. E. C. Griffin, Knickerbocker C. C.

The winners time was 11 min. 20 sec., and that of the next two 12 min. and 12 min. 15 sec.

After an interval for dinner there should have been a sailing race, or rather two races for canoes of classes A and B, without restrictions as to trim or rig, the distance being three miles. The breeze, however, had now almost died away, and it was resolved to postpone this race till Wednesday.

The next race was for tandem paddles. There were only two starters, the Peterborough men using the single blade and the Toronto crew the double paddle. They were placed as follows:—

1. M. F. Johnston, } T. C. C.
   W. H. Williams, }
2. Frank Adams, } P. B. C.
   J. L. Weller, }

Time of winner, 9 min. 31 sec., and of second canoe 9 min. 42 sec.

The concluding event of the day was an upset race with decked canoes, with a distance of one mile to paddle. The upset was by signal, and the nine canoes were suddenly capsized in full view of the crowds on the shore, in canoes and on the steamers. Some were very quick in righting their canoes and getting into them again, while others had a most amusing struggle with the difficulties of the situation.

They passed the winning buoy as follows:—

1. M. F. Johnston, T.C.C.,
2. J. L. Weller, P.B.C.,
3. C. B. Vane, N.Y.C.C.,

This concluded the racing for the day.

After sunset those who had not gone to some of the neighbouring summer resorts, which, by the bye are rather a draw back to the camp, as tending to disperse the members in the evenings, assembled around the great camp fire. Here before a glorious blaze, the entertainment consisted of songs, recitations, both serious and comic, and music on the Ethiopian fiddle and the harmonica. The Rev. Mr. Neide and Judge Dartnell also made lively and amusing speeches.

AUG. 13th.—This was an "off-day" the only race on the programme being the long paddle. The sailors waited in vain all day for a breeze sufficient for the sailing race, postponed from the day before.

In the afternoon photographs were taken of the assembled members of the A.C.A. and also many views of the separate camp and other points of view.

At four o'clock a start was made for the paddling race of three miles, for canoes not over 16 feet long nor under 27 inches beam. There were four starters who were placed as follows after two rounds of the sailing course, making exactly three miles by measurement:—

1. M. F. Johnston, T.C.C.
2. J. L. Weller, P.B.C.
3. F. Adams, P.B.C.
4. E. Gould, K.C.C.

The official record of the time was for the winner 31 min. and 38 sec., and for the others 32 min. 42 sec., 33 min. 58 sec. and 34 min. 10 seconds respectively.

It will be seen that this long race was paddled in very quick time, and we believe beats the record.

After the three mile paddle there was a race for large decked canoes under double paddle for a paddle given by Mr. Rushton. There were 8 starters placed as follows:—

1. A. H. Mason, T.C.C.
2. J. C. Wilson, Watertown C.C.
3. E. L. French, Buffalo.

There followed a race for a paddle given by Mr. Rushton for smaller decked canoes under double paddle. There were five starters, the places being as follows:—

1. C. B. Vaux, N.Y.C.C.
2. G. O. Totten jr., Newark C.C.
3. E. Gould, K.C.C.

This was all the racing of the day.

In the evening there was no general meeting, but there were excursions and several camp fire parties.

IMMIGRATION TO CANADA.

Increase in Number of Settlers Over Last Year.

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—According to the returns received by the Department of Agriculture, the total arrivals of immigrants during the month of July last were 16,565. Of these more than half, or 8,907 settled in the Dominion, and 7,858 went to their original destination, the United States. During July, 1883, the arrivals were 21,706, of whom 11,109 settled in Canada. Out of a total arrival of 97,676 immigrants, during the seven months from January 1st, the Dominion secured 56,294 settlers, while in the corresponding seven months of 1883 the Dominion secured 69,066 settlers, out a total of 116,575 immigrants arriving on this continent via Canadian ports.

It will thus be seen that though during the seven months a smaller number of immigrants arrived on this continent via Canadian ports, yet Canada obtained a larger proportion than in the corresponding period of 1883. For the seven months of the present year Canada received as settlers 76 per cent. of the whole arrivals, Last year's proportion was 68 per cent. The immigration from Europe to North America has fallen off very considerably, but Canada has secured a larger proportion of what has come. It is evident, therefore, that in spite of the efforts of the Opposition to decry Canada in the old world, and to prevent the Government's immigration policy being a success, this country is rapidly becoming popularized in the old world. Every attack upon Canada made by an unscrupulous press in Canada has been scattered far and wide by persons interested in attracting attention to other regions. But so thoroughly have these attacks been met by the presentation of indisputable proofs of prosperity in the columns of the Mail and other journals that one may say the serpent's fangs have been drawn, and the Grit annual is powerless to do harm to the country.

All reports from the other side of the water indicate that public attention is becoming powerfully attracted towards Canada as the modern land of promise. The efforts of the Liberal Conservative party and Government to popularize Canada have counteracted the policy of detraction and depreciation adopted by the Opposition. To-day Canada is better and more favorably known in Old World countries than she ever was before. The class of immigrants settling among us this year is undoubtedly the best Canada has ever had. Taken as a whole, greater care has been exercised in securing a body of immigrants for whom Canada is suited, and whose arrival here would not affect the prospects of those already here, whether as settlers or native Canadians.—Mail.

French Constitution Bill.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—The Parliament at Versailles has rejected the amendment providing for the election of senators by universal suffrage. The entire bill for the revision of the constitution was then adopted by 509 to 172. The extreme left abstained from voting, declaring the prineiples of democracy were violated. Count Mun, clerical declared that the debate on the bill showed the impotence of Republicans. The President declared the Congress closed.

CHOLERA

—IS—

COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

CHAPTER XXIX.

"Your bed is untouched, you did not undress! Why did you sit up all night, and alone?"

"Because I knew it was folly to attempt to sleep; and to watch the bay and the beauty of the night was less wearying than to toss on a pillow—staring at the ceiling. Mrs. Waul, what brings you in so early?"

"A package of letters which must have arrived yesterday, but William only received them a few minutes since. Mrs. Orme will you have your coffee now?"

"After a little while. Have everything in order, to leave at a moment's notice, for I may not return here from Paestum. Give me the letters."

Mrs. Orme tossed back her hair which had been unbound, and as the letters were placed in her hand, she seemed almost to forget them, so abstracted was the expression with which her eyes rested on the dancing waves of the Bay of Naples. The noise of the door closing behind Mrs. Waul seemed to arouse her, and glancing at the letters, she opened one from Mr. Palma.

The long and harrowing vigil which had lasted from the moment of bidding Gen. Laurance good-night, on the previous evening, had left its weary traces on the beautiful face; but rigid resolution had also set its stern seal on the compressed mouth, and the eyes were relentless as those of Irene, waiting for the awful consummation in the Prophyry chamber at Byzantium.

To stab the hearts of those who had wronged her, she gladly subjected her own to the fiery ordeal of a merely nominal marriage with her husband's father, resolving that her triumph should be complete.

Fully resolved upon the revolting scheme which promised punishment to the family of Laurance, and

"Self-guided with torn strips of hope,"

she opened the New York letter.

The first few lines riveted her attention. She sat erect, leaned forward, with eyes wide and strained, and gradually rose to her feet, clutching the letter, until her fingers grew purple. As she hurried on, breathing like one whose everlasting destiny is being laid in the balance, a marvellous change overspread her countenance. The blood glowed in lip and cheek, the wild sparkle sank, extinguished in the the tears that filled her eyes, the hardness melted away from the resolute features, and at last a cry like that of some doomed spirit suddenly snatched from the horrors of perdition and set forever at rest upon meads of Asphodel and Amaranth, rolled through the room.

After so many years of reckless hopelessness, the transition was overpowering, and the miserable wife and mother rescued upon the extreme verge of utter lifelong ruin, fell forward upon her knees, sobbing and laughing alternately.

From the hour when she learned of her husband's second marriage, she had ceased to pray, abandoning herself completely to the cynicism and vindictiveness that overflowed her soul like a wave of Phlegethon; but now the fountain of gratitude was unsealed, and she poured out a vehement, passionate thanksgiving to God.

Mr. Palma wrote that after years of fruitless effort he had succeeded in obtaining from Peleg Peterson a full retraction of the charges made against her name, whereby Gen. Laurance had prevented a suit against his son. Peterson had made an affidavit of certain facts which nobly exonerated her from the heinous imputations with which she was threatened, should she attempt legal redress for her wrongs, and which proved that the defence upon which Gen. Laurance relied was the result of perjury and bribery.

In addition to the recantation of Peterson, Mr. Palma communicated the joyful intelligence that Gerbert Audre, who was believed to have been lost off the Labrador coast fifteen years before, had been discoved in Washington, where he was occupying a clerical desk in one of the departments; and that he had furnished conclusive testimony as a witness of the marriage and a friend of Cuthbert Laurance.

The lawyer had carefully gathered all the necessary links of evidence and was prepared to bring suit against Cuthbert Laurance, for desertion and bigamy; assuring the long suffering wife, that her name and life would be nobly vindicated.

Within his letter was one addressed to Mrs. Orme by Peleg Peterson, and a portion of the scrawl was heavily underlined.

"For all that I have revealed to Mr. Palma, and solemnly sworn to, for this clearing of your reputation, you may thank your child. But for her, I should never have declared the truth; would have gone down to the grave, leaving a blot upon you; for my conscience is too dead to trouble me, and I hate you, Minnie! Hate you for the wreck you helped make of me. But that girl's face touched me, when she said—(and I knew she meant it,) 'If I find from mother that you are indeed my father, then I will do my duty. I will take your hand, I will own you my father, face the world's contempt, and we will bear our disgrace together as best we may!' She would have done it at all risk, and I have pitied her. It is to clear her, and give her the name she is entitled to, that at last I have spoken the truth. She is a noble brave girl, too good for you, too good for her father; far too good to own Rene Laurance for her grandfather. When he sees the child he paid me to claim, he will not need my oath to satify him, that in body, she is every inch a Laurance; but where she got her white soul God only knows, certainly it is neither Merle nor Laurance. You owe your salvation to your sweet, brave child, and have no cause to thank me, for I shall always hate you."

In the light of retrospection the unnatural and monstrous deed she had contemplated seemed fraught with a horror scarcely inferior to that which lends such lurid lustre to the "Œdipus;" and now she cowered in shame and loathing as she reflected upon all she had deliberately arranged while sitting upon the terrace of the Villa Reale.

Adversity in the guise of human injustice and wrong generally indurates and embitters; and the chastisements that chasten are those which come directly from the hand of Him 'who doeth all things well."

When Mrs. Waul came back, Mrs. Orme was still kneeling with her face hidden in her arms, and the letters lying beside her. Laying her wrinkled hand on the golden hair, the faithful old woman asked:

"Did you hear from your baby?"

"Oh! I have good news that will make me happy as long as I live. I shall soon see my child, and soon, very soon, all will be clear. Just now I cannot explain; but thank God for me that these letters came safely."

She rose, put back her hair, and rapidly glanced over two other letters, then walked too and fro, pondering the contents.

"Where is Mr. Waul?"

"Reading the papers in our room."

"Ask him to come to me at once."

She went to her desk, and wrote to Gen. Laurance that letters received after their last interview compelled her to hasten to Paris, whither she had been recalled by a summons from the manager of the Theatre. Concluding:—"Odille Orme, hoping by the grace of God, soon to subscribe myself Laurance."

"Mr. Waul, I have unexpectedly altered my entire programme, and instead of going to Paestum must start at once to Paris. This fortunately, is Tuesday, and the French steamer sails for Marseilles at three o'clock. Go down at once, and arrange our passage, and be careful to let no one know by which route I leave Naples. On your way, call at the telegraph office and see that this despatch is promptly forwarded, and do send me a close carriage immediately. I wish to avoid an unpleasant engagement, and shall drive to Torre del Greco, returning in time to meet you at the steamer instead of at this house.

Reunion with her child, and the triumphant establishment of her unsullied parentage, glowed as the silver stars in her new sky, while a baleful, luried haze surrounded the thought of that dire punishment she was enabled to inflict upon the men who had trampled her prayers beneath their iron heels.

Slowly the day wore on, and Gen. Lawrance failed to call at the appointed hour, to arrange the preliminaries of his marriage. His servant brought a note, which Mrs. Orme read when she reached the steamer, informing her that sudden and severe indisposition confined him to his bed, and requesting an interview on the ensuing morning. Mrs. Waul had received the note, and despatched in return that given her by her mistress.

In the magical glow of that cloudless golden afternoon, Mrs. Orme saw the outlines of St. Elmo fade away, Capri vanish like a purple mist, Iscbia and Procida melt insensibly into the blue of the marvellous bay; and watching the spark which trembled on the distant summit of Vesuvius, like the dying eye of that cruel destiny from which she fled, the rescued happy woman exalted in the belief that she was at last sailing through serene seas.

Dreaming of her child, whose pure image hovered in the mirage hope wove before her

"She seemed all earthly matters to forget,
Of all tormenting lines her face was clear.
Her wide brown eyes upon the goal were set,
Calm and unmoved as though no foe were near."

AFTERWARDS.

"It won't be perfect bliss. You are expecting too much, Amy. Robert loves you devotedly, but you are losing all individuality."

"I am very happy, Esther. I suppose Robert is not perfect, but he is manly, and fond of me."

"But is he more anxious for your happiness than for his own? Does he say as Wilhelm Meister said to Aurelia, 'No woman shall receive an acknowledgment of love from my lips to whom I cannot consecrate my life?' Robert is ambitious. He craves approbation and you give it. He feels the stimulus of your presence and your love."

"I don't think Robert is selfish. You know life is very absorbing to an active man."

"But love is not self-abnegation, Amy. It is mutual helpfulness. Lean as you will, only command reverence while you win love."

Amy's house was beautiful. Perhaps she idealized her husband, but she was satisfied. He had brought purity to his home, that priceless gift of one immortal being to another. A new life had come into the family circle—a baby girl, with her father's face cast by God's hand in the daintier mold of womanhood. He was proud of, and the mother grateful for, the other self. But there came days of anxiety and nights of weariness.

"Robert, won't you get up and care for the baby? I am so tired!"

"I must have sleep, Amy, and not be bothered at night. She'll get over crying;" and he soon slept heavily.

The mother, wounded at heart, crept out of bed and carried the baby half the night in her arms, her tears falling on its chubby face. Robert did not mean to be unkind, she reasoned to herself, but then, was not the baby his child as well as hers?

Lines made themselves on Amy's young face, and, day by day, by so much as a hair's breadth, it might be, husband and wife grew apart. He read much, she little. She was devoted to her child, he to business and his own plans. Did he love her all the time? He thought so, only he lacked consideration. She looked carefully after his every comfort, but with something lacking from the old joy of doing. When other children came, not always welcome to the overworked mother, Robert seemed more and more a boarder in his home.

Canon Farrar says: "One loving soul has a soothing power like the shining of the sunlight, or the voice of doves at evening," and this to Amy was wanting. Sunlight and evening were becoming alike to her. Robert walked sometimes with her and the children, but he usually enjoyed nature alone. By-and-bye Amy folded her hands in the rest that comes once to all.

Did Robert mourn her? Yes, for she had made his home attractive. Months after, when he grew lonely and desolate, he married Esther. Society gossiped and marveled, and said she would follow in the footsteps of Amy.

"Circumstances make men as they make women, and blind lack of consideration can be cured," thought the new wife.

"Where are my slippers, Esther?"

"Just where you left them, my dear," said a voice full of love and kindness. Robert looked for a moment as a man just awaking from sleep, and then wisely waited upon himself.

"I am obliged to go on an errand this evening, Robert, and you'll mind the baby, and make the children happy, I know," and she kissed him affectionately and closed the door.

Robert Holmes seemed waking from a dream. He had rarely spent his evenings away from home, but never in caring for children—his children. Shy as fawns, they came up to talk, and ask for stories, and finally clambered over his knees. He bagan to wonder after all that he and Amy had not enjoyed the children more together. Ah, Amy wondered that!

Esther said he had done beautifully, and the children were overjoyed. It does little hearts as much good to conquer affection as older ones. We love to find flowers under the snow, or birds' nests in dead hollow trees.

After a night or two, Esther said, "Won't you read to us for an hour? I must not fall behind you, or we shall lose our companionship."

Probably he would have preferred reading in his library alone, but he acquiesced; and his wife's keen criticisms and children's questions gave zest to the evening.

"I think I shall take a trip on the lakes, Esther," he said one morning, "I am overwork ek. Quite a party are going, and fishing and rowing will make a new man of me."

"Excellent, and now that the children are so well cared for, I will go with you."

He couldn't tell his new wife that he was accustomed to go alone, and that the care of a woman might prevent rest and freedom; besides, she seemed happy at the prospect, that he repressed his surprise. Fond and genial company, and of every changing phase of nature, like himself, he began to think it would have been a mistake not to have brought her. He could not help asking himself if Amy would not have enjoyed all this! What a blessed thing is conscience! How it mellows hearts, even though it sometimes does its work too late.

He was beginning to understand that a woman must receive affection as well as give it; that only as an equal in this highest companionship which we call marriage, can both be supremely happy. The dead author of Hypatia wrote truly: "Whenever man and wife are really happy together, it is by ignoring and despising, not by asserting, the subordination of woman to man."

Esther cared well for the household, but she advised, was interested, and perhaps gave opinions unsolicited about all matters touching the man she loved. Finding her judgment valuable, he began to depend upon it!

"What has so changed Robert Holmes?" said the people. Did he love the second wife better than the mother of his five children? God forbid. He had only been gently led by a strong woman up to his better self. He had learned—alas! not soon enough—how a sensitive heart will break; how a man holds a woman's wife in his hands, and forgets what a beautiful thing he holds. We make or mar the lives which touch ours. O, for a prophetic vision which would let us see the strength and tenderness, the sublime faith and love, which we need as we step out into the precious "afterwards" of marriage.—Sarah K. Bolton.

The Crops are Excellent

And there is no danger of their being seriously interfered with as things look now. People are at present buying cautiously, which is a good sign, and there are some complaints about the difficulty of getting money in. And although we believe that trade all over is duller than it was at this time last year, business keeps good right straight along at the CITY CLOTHING STORE, because we are selling our Goods LOWER than we did last year. We aim at making business keep righting itself. So far as the year's business is concerned we are better off than last year, while the good harvest now being taken in brightens things materially, and we feel satisfied that we will do a Good Fall Trade.

Daily Evening Review

The rapid growth in public favor of THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW becomes more apparent every week. To advertisers it offers unexcepitonal advantages as a means of reaching a large section of the purchasing public of the town and surrounding suburbs not heretofore attained. Business men will please note this fact.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 16, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Lecture.

Mr. Arnold Haultain intends delivering, next week, a lecture on DECORATION, on behalf of the Peterborough branch of Dr. Barnardo's Homes. The date will be fixed shortly.

P. B. C.

The President has called a special meeting of the Boating Club for Monday evening next, at 8 o clock. A full meeting is requested as business of importance will come up.

Dr. T. J. Barnardo

Of London, Eng., will preach in the Baptist Church, Aylmer street, at 11 a.m., and in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church at 7 p.m. to-morrow.

The Market.

This morning's market was fairly attended. Fruit of various kinds, and particularly apples, were offered for sale in large quantities. Butter and eggs remained at about the same price as on Saturday last.

Back from the Camp.

Several of our canoeists who have been for the past two weeks at the A. C. A. Camp at Grindstone Island, returned last night. They look healthy and no doubt derived great benefit from the St. Lawrence sun.

Municipal Matters.

A special meeting of the Town Council will be held on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Finance Committee meets at 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon and the Fire, Water and Gas Committee at 7 o'clock sharp.

The Bike Again.

On Thursday one of our young citizens mounted his bike and went out for a run. While going along at a rapid rate he accidentally sailed into a pile of bricks. He says he is going to lay his bike by till he regains his normal state of health.

Coal Oil.

Owing to a "combination" having been formed among the refiners, coal oil is advancing every week. Consumers therefore should take their cans to "China Hall" at once and have them filled, and thereby save money. China Hall has the best quality of oil in town. Try it once.

The Pulpit.

To-morrow evening the Rev. J. Tovell, pastor of the George Street Methodist Church will occupy his own pulpit. The subject of discourse will be "A hopeful life, sadly shadowed." The morning service will be conducted by the Rev. Thos. Manning, B.A.

Lacrosse Tournament.

The second tournament will be held on the cricket ground August 26th, when the Idyl-Wild Cup and the Brewery Cup will be played for. The Norwood Club have entered against our juniors, and it is enpected a club will represent Toronto on that day, to play our senior team.

The Sanderson Cup.

What will perhaps prove to be a very pleasing and at the same time interesting game of lacrosse will be played on the Ashburnham Cricket ground on Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The contesting teams are the "Cretes" and "Independents," two junior clubs. Last season the former club were too much for the latter, but the teams are more evenly matched this year, and it is expected that the match will be a close one.

Not a Bad Record.

At the regatta held on Wednesday, August 13th, at Watkins, N. Y., under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, Mr. A. Strickland, of Lakefield, entered for the junior single scull race, and succeeded in carrying off the third prize. Nineteen other oarsmen were entered for this event, and, considering that the winner of the "junior singles" made better time by ten seconds than the winner of the "senior singles," Mr. Strickland did not make a bad record.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Light winds, mostly variable; fine, continued hot weather.

Low Water.

Capt. Leon Dion informs us that the Golden-Eye, on account of the lowness of the water in the Otonabee, will discontinue her trips for the present. The King-Fisher, however, will continue running regularly. The water in the river is now fully a foot lower than at this time last year.

Maple Leafs and Silver Stars.

A base ball match was played on Saturday afternoon between the Maple Leaf club and a junior nine of the Silver Stars. F. Cameron acted as umpire and the teams were composed as follows:—Maple Leafs—W. Metheral, W. Marks, C. Sanderson, A. Metheral, S. Davidson, B. Doyle, P. Shearer, W. Angeley, and A. Moore. Silver Stars—J. Watson, J. Henderson, W. J. Craig, J. Mercer, W. Delaney, J. Sullivan, R. Sailsbury, J. St. John and J. Armstrong. Six innings were played and the Maple Leafs won by nine runs, the score being as follows:—

Maple Leafs—6,4,2,1,1,7—21
Silver Stars—1,0,0,4,5,2—12

The Lacrosse Team.

The following team have been picked from the Peterborough Lacrosse Club to play against the Ætnas, of Toronto, on Monday:—

J. Joyal	Goal
P. Myles	Point
J. Henderson	Cover Point
M. Tierney	Defence Field
J. Howden	" "
R. H. Fortye	" "
J. J. Sheehy	Centre Field
A. Yelland	Home Field
W. J. Scott	" "
R. S. Kelly	" "
C. Rutherford	2nd Home
G. Giroux	1st Home
J. Coughlin	Field Captain
M. Halpin	Spare man

As They Stand To-Day.

Perhaps there is no musical organization in Peterborough that has made more progress during the past year than the Fire Brigade Band. The programme of music rendered by them on Friday evening in the Court House Park was a brilliant and exceedingly rare treat. The selections were of the highest class, and among them we may mention "Ernani" by Verdi, and the ever-welcome "Kyrie and Gloria," from Mozart's Twelfth Mass. The highly artistic manner in which the band rendered these two numbers must have convinced the large number of promenaders that to have such an organization in our midst is something to be proud of indeed. Now that the band are about to again compete for more honors, it would perhaps not be amiss to give the public a gentle little hint to the effect that the members will be under a great deal of expense, and in this connection will probably give the general public an opportunity of showing their appreciation of the efforts of the band by patronizing the grand promenade concert that it is their intention to give before leaving for the competition on the 27th inst. The public patronage on this occasion will not only help the band financially, but will have the effect of inspiring them with renewed efforts to bring home the coveted prize. By the way, what is the committee of the Town Council doing about having the Park opened? It looked ridiculous to see the people standing on the outside, and still more ridiculous to see the members of the band scaling the picket fence. If the Park is to be used this summer at all it should be opened at once.

The Recent Championship Match.

The Lindsay Post and the Beaverton correspondent of the Warder refer to the recent lacrosse match here between the Beavertons and the Peterboroughs. The former states that the Peterboroughs won the third game by a foul, that the Checkers claimed a foul, but that the umpire rules otherwise. The writer of the paragraph evidently knew as much about lacrosse rules as the Beaverton players, and what some of them didn't know about the rules would make a whole constitution and set of by-laws. The Warder correspondent is more explicit. He states that "one of the Peterboroughs caught the ball in his hand, placed it in his stick, and amidst the cry of foul hurled it through the Beaverton goal. The umpire did not 'see' this strategic move, and the referee gave the game to Peterborough. The Checkers then walked off the field and a protest hangs over the central championship." The correspondent has evidently been imposed upon by the players. There are several misstatements in the paragraph—in fact, it is chuck full of them. The Peterborough player did not take the ball in his hand. That was his statement and the referee so decided after having the evidence. The player that the Checkers said had fouled did not pass the ball through the goal. The umpire did not see the move (the one truthful statement in the paragraph) as it was not visible to naked eyes, not having occurred, and further, the umpire had no power of deciding the foul. The Checkers did not walk off the field in the manner implied. One of their players, who had to be coaxed on the field after they had lost one game, skulked off and the eleven remained on the field ready to play if he returned. He didn't return and then they all left. A protest does not hang over the Central Ontario Championship, as the referee decided that the Peterboroughs had won the match, and the referee's decision is final. With these corrections the paragraph is tolerably free from error. The Beaverton Club has written to arrange another match here for August twenty-ninth.

Arrived and opened out, an unusually choice selection of Canadian Tweeds in Fall weights, at Habiliment Hall, George street.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

SATURDAY, Aug. 16.—Peter Sweeney was charged with having been drunk. He pleaded guilty, and urged that it was his first offence. He was allowed to go with a caution.

John Keenan was charged with the same offence. He pleaded guilty, and said that if allowed to go he would leave town at once. He was discharged.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Thomas Purcell was charged with having outraged Elizabeth O'Donnell, a girl twelve years of age, daughter of Michael O'Donnell, on Tuesday, August 12th, in a grove some distance from Wallis' grove. The little girl stated that he persuaded her to go with him from the picnic ground by telling her that his sisters were there and wanted to see her. The prisoner pleaded not guilty. Mr. Elias Burnham appeared for the complainant, and Mr. C. W. Sawers for the defendant. After hearing the evidence, which occupied about three hours, the Magistrate committed Purcell to gaol to stand his trial.

School Books.

Parents should see that their children get their books at SAILSBURY & Co's, as they will save money by it.

A Fine Beverage.

Dowe's India Pale Ale, the best ale made in Canada, on draught at the Little Windsor Hotel, the proprietor of which is sole agent for Peterborough.

The Golden Lion to the Front.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. are having their large plate front painted, silvered and beautified in order to display their magnificent new fall stock daily arriving. Their importations are large and well selected to meet the demands of their increasing trade. Every department is being filled to the ceiling, and every shelf contains a bargain.

Mr. A. Clegg

Has secured the services of a handsome team of black horses, which he will use as occasion requires, until he finds a suitable team for sale. As some people think that his charges will be larger than those of other undertakers because of his very expensive equipments, he wishes it distinctly understood that his charges will in no case be more than those of other responsible undertakers.

Fruit Jars.

Every person putting up fruit should give the jars the first attention; without a perfect sealing jar, it is useless going to the expense and trouble of canning fruit, China Hall is the only store in Peterborough selling the improved perfect fitting "Crown Jar" in firsts. Every jar warranted. It costs no more to have the best as the enormous quantities, we handle enables us to sell our jars as low as any house in the trade and give a better jar, Stone Jars and Jelly Cans all sizes at CHINA HALL.

Smith's Market

Will open to-morrow, (Saturday), three doors above his old stand with a fresh and selected stock of Foreign and Domestic Canned Goods; also an extra choice variety of green vegetables such as Californian Squashes, Cucumbers, Tomatoes, (home grown), Cabbage, Beets, Carrots, &c., &c.

FRUIT.—Peaches, Californian Plums, Pears, Grapes, Lemons, Apples, Raspberries, Huckleberries, Lewton Blackberries, (extra large) Water Melons, &c., &c.

All kinds of Nuts and Confectionery.

Fresh Oysters every Wednesday. Fresh Fish of all kinds as usual.

One case of extra fine Red Spanish Onions.

My friends will kindly bear in mind that I have gone to considerable expense in fitting up and putting in new fixtures, &c., and that I am not prepared to extend any credits for a longer period than 30 days, as I am dependent on prompt monthly payments to meet my bills, which will be much larger than heretofore. Hoping to hear and see most of my friends to-morrow, I remain

Respectfully yours,
C. B. SMITH.

Seniors and Juniors.

The senior and junior twelves crossed sticks on Friday evening in a friendly match. The play was to have commenced at 6.15 o'clock but it was nearly 7 before the ball was faced. Mr. H. LeBrun captained the seniors and Mr. W. A. Sanderson the juniors. The teams were composed as follows:—

SENIORS.		JUNIORS.
G. H. Giroux	Goal	R. Stevenson
P. Myles	Point	J. Coughlin
J. Joyal	Cover Point	W. Welsh
M. Tierney	Defence Field	J. Canning
M. Halpin	" "	J. Shevlin
A. Yelland	" "	R. Begley
J. Sheehy	Centre Field	A. Mooney
R. H. Fortye	Home Field	J. Carveth
R. S. Kelly	" "	H. Neil
J. Henderson	" "	S. Heaps
W. J. Scott	2nd Home	H. Myers
J. Howden	1st Home	D. Deyell

As soon as the ball was faced the play became lively. The juniors held to the seniors well and checked them closely. The first game lasted thirteen minutes, and during that time the ball was frequently close to the seniors' goal. The juniors' defence played well, and the boys in the field and first and second home did good work. The first game was won by the seniors. The second game was a longer one and as lively. Shevlin had received a blow on the nose and left the field and C. Rutherford took his place. During the first part of this game the seniors kept the ball the greater part of the time on the juniors' side of the field, but during the last part of it the rubber was held more in the vicinity of the other goal. The play was continued for half and hour and had to be discontinued on account of the darkness. The junior team comprises good players and some of them will soon be among the best in the club.

At Foucher's Restaurant.

Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

The Temperature.

Mr. G. W. Morgan's thermometer registered at 12 o'clock to-day 90°, and at 3 o'clock 94° in the shade.

Fresh Fish.

Trout, White Fish, Maskinonge, Black Bass and Finnan Haddies fresh at Carton Bros. grocery.

Huckleberries.

A fine supply of choice ripe Huckleberries, fresh from the pickers, just received at CARTON BROTHERS', opposite the Market square. Sell ing at very reasonable prices.

Your Urgent Demand Supplied.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. have just opened per express a large range of specialties, including Ladie's Gloves in Black and Colored Silk, Black and Tan Kid Gauntlets, Jersey and Mousquitaire in all shades, and many novelties in great demand at this season. The Golden Lion is worthy of your inspection.

East Peterborough, at Keene, Oct. 2nd and 3rd.

Lindsay Central, at Lindsay, Oct. 1st, 2nd and 3rd.

Port Hope, at Port Hope, Oct. 7th and 8th.

Asphodel, Belmont and Dummer, at Norwood, Oct. 14th.

Crops About Calgarry.

The reports of the crops which have thus far reached us from the surrounding country are very encouraging. Of course a greater acreage has been sown this year than ever before, and so far the season has been, on the whole, favourable. The farmers are a unit in the opinion that finer prospects would be hard to anticipate. From Red Deer, Elbow River Fish, Pine, and Sheep Creeks, High River, the verdict is the same, each certain their is no crop superior to his own.

A Splendid Score.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—In the game of cricket between the Australians and the All England eleven, the Australians in the first innings made 551, Murdock secured 211.

Saved from a Horrible Death.

Up to May last I had spent at least five hundred dollars for treatment by many of the best medical men without any benefit. My mouth and throat became badly ulcerated, sores breaking on my neck and legs. I also suffered excruciatingly with rheumatism, grew very despondent, and my best friends advised me that the icy hand of death was fast approaching. I caught at Shaker Blood Syrup like a drowning man at a straw. After taking two bottles I could feel a change for the better. The sores begun to discharge freely, and rheumatism to abate. When I had taken six bottles every sore had healed and my skin began to assume a natural appearance. I persisted until I had taken twelve bottles, and there is not a symptom of the disease remaining, and I feel as well as I ever did. I have gained twenty-one pounds in flesh, and my friends wonder at my improved condition. I have recommended it to many, and in every instance with complete success. I believe that Shaker Blood Syrup has saved me from a horrible death.

T. S. CANNON,
Boston, Mass.

In 1878 I was the victim of a terrible blood poison, and after being treated by three physicians was confined to my bed, not being able to raise my hand to my head, spitting up clots of blood, and reduced in weight from 185 to 130 pounds. I then began the use of Shaker Blood Syrup, and in less than three months I was entirely well, weighing 196 pounds, and have never had a symptom of the disease since. If it had not been for Shaker Blood Syrup I believe I would have been in my grave.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE
AS
GOODNESS

Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indespensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Where these Silks are procured, or why they are sold so cheap is no affair of the customers'. It is enough for them to know that they can buy here about 25 per cent. less than the pervading prices throughout the town. Do not fail to ask for our Summer Silks at 42½c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. See our Black Dress Silks at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, warranted pure silk both filling and warp. They are heavy in texture, beautiful in finish and quality, surpassing anything in the town at 25 per cent. higher in price. Don't fail to see them at "Independence, Texas, Sept. 26, 1882.

Gentlemen:

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Has been used in my household for three reasons:—

1st. To prevent falling out of the hair.
2d. To prevent too rapid change of color.
3d. As a dressing.

It has given entire satisfaction in every instance. Yours respectfully,

WM. CAREY CRANE."

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is entirely free from uncleanly, dangerous, or injurious substances. It prevents the hair from turning gray, restores gray hair to its original color, prevents baldness, preserves the hair and promotes its growth, cures dandruff and all diseases of the hair and scalp, and is, at the same time, a very superior and desirable dressing.

JUNIOR LACROSSE.

The Independents and the Cretes play for the Sanderson Challenge Cup.

An lacrosse match was played on the Ashburnham grounds this morning between the Independents and Cretes lacrosse clubs for the "Sanderson Cup" which was for competition among the junior clubs. Mr. D. Menzies acted as referee. At ten o'clock the teams took their positions on the field as follows:—

INDEPENDENTS.		CRETES.
J. Phelan	Goal	....K. Kincaid
J. McDondald	Point	.....R. Parnel
C. Robinson...	Cover Point	..F. Metherall
T Mehar.....	Defence Field	.....J. Connel
F. Goyette....	" "	.... R. Duncan
W. Holdaway	" "	..A. Robinson
J. Allen.....	Home Field	..... H. Foote
A. Mitchell....	Centre Field	.....H. Dixon
W. Kelly.....	" "	..... F. Larone
J. Begly.....	" "	....T. Duncan
F. Traynor....	2nd Home	.....J. Harvey
O. Watson.....	1st Home	..F. Sherwood
J. Shevlin....	Field Captian	....J. Carveth
W. Giroux....	Umpire	...F. Cameron

A short time after the ball was faced by Dixon and Mitchel. Dixon pulled out the ball but Allen secured it and by a neat run put it through the flags. Time, 10 seconds.

After frequent faces and stops for drinks (of water) the second goal was concluded by Begly passing the ball through the stakes, the time being 1 hour and 40 minutes.

The third game was also won by the Independents. After four minutes play Kelly put the rubber through.

The Independents thus won the match by three straight games and are in possession of the trophy.

THE WORLD OVER.

Bishop Cleary will visit Deseronto in about two weeks for the purpose of dedication the new Roman Catholic church.

Count Munster, German Ambassador to England, will publish an elaborate manual on cookery.

Dr. Bury, the distinguished physician who recently delivered a lecture in Paris on the treatment of cholera, died on Friday of apoplexy.

The French Chamber of Deputies by 350 to 152 voted the Tonquin credit recommended by the budget committee.

Two men believed to be French officers have been arrested at Coblentz while sketching the fortifications.

It is understood that the German authorities will investigate the claims of England to Wall Fish Bay, South Africa, and the surrounding country which were recently annexed.

Three death have been caused at St. Petersburg by blood poisoning, induced by the stings of flies, which had been feeding on cattle infected with the rinderpest.

Russia has despatched a gunboat to commander's Island, to prevent an Edglishman named Snow, who is fitting out two vessels, for resuming the catching of sea otter. The industry is monopolized by the Russians. Russia confiscated a schooner belonging to Snow in 1873.

Madame Patti through her advocate, to-day presented her petition for divorce from her husband the Marquis de Caux. It is believed the Court will refuse the divorce on the ground that the law reserves the right of divorce to such applicants as have received injury in the marriage relation. The Duc de Bauffiemont has begun a suit for divorce. He alleges that his wife is ruinously extravagant.

Mr. A. Clegg

Has secured the services of a handsome team of black horses, which he will use as occasion requires, until he finds a suitable team for sale. As some people think that his charges will be larger than those of other undertakers because of his very expensive equipments, he wishes it distinctly understood that his charges will in no case be more than those of other responsible undertakers.

A. C. A. ANNUAL CAMP.

THE MEETING OF THE A. C. A. AMONG THE THOUSAND ISLANDS.

A. C. A. CAMP,
GRINDSTONE ISLAND, Aug. 14.

The day was lovely, with at least the long wished for breeze, though hardly enough for those who wished for a good blow to suit their canoes.

The racing began early, this being the last day for the contests.

The first event was a 1½ mile paddle, with 3 starting who were placed in the following order:—

1. M. F. Johnston, T.C.C.
2. J. L. Weller, P.B.C.
3. F. Adams, P.B.C.

Johnston and Weller used the double blade, and Adams the single. The winners time was 14 min. 48 sec., and that of the others 14 min. 55 sec. and 17 minutes.

The second race was a ½ mile paddle with 6 starters, the places being as follows:—

1. M. F. Johnston, T.C.C.
2. W. S. Kipp, St. Lawrence C.C.
3. J. C. Wilson, Watertown C.C.

All paddle with the double blades.

The sailing race, postponed from Tuesday, was now started. Class B, the larger canoes, left first, there being 22 starters. There was a very pretty race, with a light breeze, the order being:—

1. L. O. Jones, Hartford, C. C.
2. C. B. Vaux, New York C. C.
3. W. B. Wackerhagen, Mohican C. C.

The time of the winner was 1 hour, 3 minutes and 27 seconds. Vaux in the Dot being 2 minutes and 4 seconds later, and Wackerhagen being 2 minutes and 14 seconds behind him.

Class A, the smaller canoes, were started ten minutes later, there being 11 starters. Their position was as follows:—

1. J. L. Weller, Peterborough B. C.
2. G. Vandusen, Rondout C. C.
3. G. E. Edgar, Newburgh, C. C.

While this double race was proceeding it was a beautiful sight with thirty-three of these miniature yacht's under sail. Some of them were handled with much skill, and there were several very interesting contests for places at the winning buoy.

After an interval for dinner the race for canoes with cruising sails was started. In class B the larger canoes there were 26 starters. They were placed as follows:—

1. S. M. Bowles Jr., Springfield C.C.
2. R. W. Gibson, Mohican C.C.
3. L. A. Jones, Hartford C.C.
4. Commodore F. A. Nickerson, Springfield C.C.

The winners time was 4 hours 8 minutes and 36 seconds.

Class A, the smaller canoes, started 10 minutes later, there being 9 starters, the places being as follows:—

1. G. Vandusen, Rondout C. C.
2. J. L. Weller, P. B. C.
3. C. R. Monroe, N. Y. C. C.

The time of the winner was 4 hours, 24 min. 20 sec.

Next came the light race of 1½ miles, the first squadron, Class B, without ballast, starting to the number of 13, the leaders being as follows:—

1. E. W. West, L. G. C. C.
2. R. W. Gibson, M. C. C.
3. C. B. Vaux, N. Y. C. C.

The second squadron of class A were started a little later being 8 in number. They were placed as follows:—

1. G. Vandusen, Rondout C.C.
2. J. L. Weller, P.B.C.
3. F. Adams, P.B.C.

Time of winner 5 hours 51 minutes 21 seconds the next two 6 hours and 23 and 26 seconds respectfully.

The third squadron was of heavy canoes without balast being 4 in number all from Toronto, and they were placed as follows:—

1. R. Tyson, T.C.C.
2. H. Neilson, T.C.C.

The Hurry Scurry race was both amusing and exciting. The run down the bank and the jump into the beached canoes came off without any mishap. There were 8 entries J. L. Weller who had taken a decked canoe lead throughout and came in the winner. They were placed as follows:—

1. J. L. Weller, P.B.C.
2. D. A. Burgess, Ublique C.C.
3. T. Gibson, Ublique C.C.

The exhibition of canoe gymnastics was very amusing. Mr. Vaux performed some extraordinary feats in his decked canoe, walking about her and performing various extraordinary manœuvres. Mr. Weller, in an open Peterborough canoe, also displayed his activity, the rapidity with which he cleared his upset canoe of water and got into it again over the side being marvellous.

In the evening there was a grand performance by the camp fire, some of the songs, recitations, and original verses being much applauded. A great feature of the entertainment was a sort of impromptu Indian drama, the costume, paint, and manners of the Aboriginies being faithfully copied.

A. C. A. CAMP, Aug. 15.—In the morning the business meeting of the A. C. A. took place, with Commodore Nickerson in the chair. Various reports of the Committees were read and adopted.

Gen. R. S. Oliver, of Albany Mohican C. C. was elected Commodore.

F. S. Rathbun, of Deseronto, was elected Vice-Commodore.

F. F. Andrews, of Rochester, was elected Rear Commodore.

The following Executive Committe was elected:—

E. G. Rand, of Newburgh.
R. E. Wood, of Peterborough.
C. B. Vaux, of New York.
Dr. Neide was re-elected Secretary.

Votes of thanks were passed to the retiring officers, and to others who had shown courtesies to the A. C. A., including the Gananoque Yacht Club, Mr. Delany, the owner of the ground, Mr. Neilson and Mr. Seeby.

Other resolutions were passed, making minor changes in the rules of the A. C. A.

A resolution was passed in favour of maintaining the Canoeist as the A. C. A. organ.

An expression of opinion was given in favour of meeting again on the Thousand Islands next year.

The prizes were then presented. First came the prizes for the highest averages, the first being won by Mr. J. L. Weller, of Peterborough, and the second by Mr. M. F. Johnston, of Toronto.

The meeting then adjourned.

HANLAN DEFEATED.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Aug. 16.—To-day Edward Hanlan was defeated by William Beach, the champion of Australia, for the championship of the world and $2,500 a side. The race was over the Paramatta championship course of 3 miles 330 yards.

FRANCE AND CHINA.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The news that China had declared war is discredited in English official circles. The Chinese Legation in Paris has not hauled down its flag. A despatch from Paris to the Exchange Telegraph Company denies the report that China has declared war against France. It is expected negotiations will be resumed.

INCREASING UNFRIENDLINESS.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The ugly attitude of the German papers toward England has been intensified this week, the result being an increasing Jingo spirit here.

GERMANY'S COLONIAL POLICY.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Earl Granville has sent Prince Bismarck assurance that England is friendly towards German development and Colonial enterprise in Southern Africa.

THE MUDIR OF DONGOLA.

CAIRO, Aug. 17.—The Mudir of Dongola has already collected numerous boats, 500 camels, and 1,200 men to assist the Gordon relief expedition over the cataracts.

THE NATIONALISTS.

DUBLIN, Aug. 17.—A demonstration of Nationalists was held to-day at Monaghan. Messrs. Biggar, Healy and O'Brien were in the ranks of the procession. At the meeting Mr. Healy accused the Earl of Rossmore with inciting party strife. Resolutions were adopted demanding the reform of the grand jury system and the methods appointing magistrates. Military and police were present. There were meetings also at Lurgan, Downpatrick and Newtownstewart, which all passed off quietly.

THE CHOLERA EPIDEMIC.

PARIS, Aug. 17.—While cholera is diminishing in Marseilles and Toulon, both as to the severity of the attack and the number of patients, it is spreading down south, and the news from Italy indicates that there is serious danger to be apprehended in that direction.

An Engaged Couple Drowned

Mr. Lantry and Miss Ives, while out in a skiff at Clayton on Thursday, were run down by the Rothessy. The lady was drowned, and Mr. Lantry injured. The young couple were engaged to be married in a short time. It appears that the steamer cut the skiff in two, the man going down on one side of the boat and the lady on the other. He was struck on the head by the paddle wheel. Her body was found on Friday morning.

Casey's Confession.

Great interest has been aroused in London by the sworn statement of the informer, Thomas Casey, to the effect that he was forced by Crown Solicitor Bolton to swear falsely against Myles, Joyce and others in the Maamtrasna murder trial. The Government is now being urged to send Mr. Montague Williams, the junior counsel to the treasury, and the keenest cross-examiner at the English Bar, to question Casey and report as to the value of his confession.

Keeping Wood in Moist Ground.

A Brooklyn, N. Y., carpenter writes us that, in 1864, he laid down some old painted half-inch door panels as a flooring for a coal bin at the rear of his yard, and that, on taking them up seven years afterward, they were just as sound as if they had been but recently cut from a thrifty living tree, although so pliable with moisture that he could have bent one of them around a six inch stove pipe. Our correspondent suggests that the painting of railroad ties, or coating them with white lead and oil, would be very efficacious for their preservation.

A Powerful Engine.

A powerful engine and ten new flat cars passed up the Canadian Pacific Railway a few days ago, to be used on the new railway built by Mr. J. R. Booth, the well known lumberman of this city, between Lakes Nosbonsing and Nipissing. Mr. Booth's railway has just been finished. It is about six miles in length and is to be used to convey logs and timber made up the South River across a small isthmus into Lake Nosbonsing. Heretofore timber made in the South River had to be brought a long distance around by the Georgian Bay and the great lakes. The timber after arriving at Lake Nosbonsing will be navigated into and down the Mattawa River to the Ottawa. As there are a large number of firms operating on the Nosbonsing district the new line, which starts from South East Bay, will be a great boon to the Ottawa River.

AN Indian chief while in Washington was taken to see the burlesque show. After the performance he remarked, through an interpreter, that the great father was very kind to send the poor Indian clothing when they were so much needed at home.

FOR OLD OR YOUNG.—Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the remedy for cholera, cholic, diarrhœa and dysentery. No person is safe without it.

OH! how tired and weak I feel I dont believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning? Oh yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50 cents.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

EUROPEAN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONSHIPS.

WHILE the Peace Congress at Berne is advocating a "general disarmament" and the "establishment of an international tribunal of arbitration;" while the Emperors of Austria and Germany are embracing each other on the station platform at Ischl; while, in fact, outwardly there is a political calm, beneath this there seem to be already in motion powerful currents which, should any occurrence cause them to rise, may seriously alter the apparently unruffled political surface.

It is scarcely likely, in the present state of affairs, that Europe will be disturbed by contrarieties produced within her own borders; in other words, a casus belli will be some action of some power, not directly offensive to her neighbour, but, in all likelihood indirectly affecting the interests of that power through the channel of some outlying dependency or neutral state. War in these last decades of the nineteenth century would be and is so terrible an affair, that the request of an ambassador for his passports means a convulsion, the outcome of which in its effects on all social and commercial relationships it would be impossible to fully conjecture. The only certainty is that both sides would be fearfully crippled, and with the unmistakable jealousies now existing between the Caucasus and Atlantic, that all would fear a third or even fourth opponent entering the lists.

Under these circumstances the general policy af European nations seems to be to turn their attention to such territorial acquisition as shall just come short of irritating the home powers.

We need not search long for evidences of this.

Russia, of course, is the first name that rises to one's lips. She has ever been aggressive, and recently, emboldened perhaps by the vacilating foreign policy evinced by England under a Liberal Government, she has, under the flimsiest and most transparent of pretexts—almost, we may say, dropping altogether the mask she was wont to wear—pushed her excursions past her Asiatic frontiers to the verge of open defiance. Already she has occupied—if not the principal town just this side of that most important city, Herat, at all events one separated from it only by the width of a river. Only as late as the end of June last also, a further sum of 86,736 roubles (about $65,000) was asked for by the Minister of War, amongst other things, "for the expenses of receiving Asiatic embassies." By no means can this agression be considered a mere phantom conjured up by Russo-phobists.

Germany, also, seems not to have been over solicitous to retain the character of peacemaker, to which a few years ago she was justly entitled. She now is vigorously adopting what goes by the name of "colonial policy." On June the 24th, for the first time in thirteen years, Prince Bismarck attended the sitting of a committee and remained till well into the night for the express purpose of speaking on what the London Times terms "a question of territorial aggrandizement for the empire." Nor has England's hesitating policy in regard to Egypt been without its baleful influence on the Chancellor. For no sooner had the Egyptian conference broken up than Germany commenced trivial criticisms on various minor points in England's foreign administration.

In regard to France, her relations with almost all the other powers with which she is brought into contact seem to be strained. Her Egyptian policy is, and has long been, diametrically opposed to that of the British Government. She has not only refrained from assisting England on the Congo, but has actually attempted to thwart her; the carelessness with which she regards the question of her convicts in the Australasian Archipelago is highly irritating; and her designs on Madagascar, the west coast of Africa, and China are everywhere eyed with disfavour. Indeed it has been said editorially by a paper of no mean importance,

"If the French carry out to the full the policy upon which they have at present embarked, a state of affairs will ensue of which war may be the only solution."

Of the attitude of Austria, Italy, and other union powers we need not speak. The peace of Europe will ever hang on the actions of the more powerful of her component parts. At present those actions are by no means re-assuring. However, although international jealousies are certainly smouldering, and now and again emit sparks that assure us of their presence, it is a comfort to think that in all probability it will require a very strong current to fan them into a blaze. To keep them under will be to the advantage of the whole civilized world, and that this is recognized despite the inclinations of a few is manifest.

AGRICULTURAL GROUNDS AGAIN.

By request we publish the following letter:—

To the Editor of the Examiner.

I am glad you are waking up to see the necessity of having agricultural grounds for town and county. When you say there is lack of go, I would like you would go a little further and say where the lack is; whether in the president, the directors, or the public at large. At our annual meeting last January was the time for members to put in a president and directors that would attend to the business as far as lay in their power. The directors elected appointed a committee of four, the president, secretary, Mr. Garbutt and Mr. Rutherford, to see if there could be a sale made to the town of the portion of the old burying ground belonging to the county, or to sell the whole to some private individual, but they could not arrive at any conclusion, so on June 21st, the secretary called a meeting of the directors to lay another scheme before them. It was to unite with the sporting part of the community in a lease from Mr. Morrow of a lot of thirty acres, Mr. Morrow having the privilege of selling at any time by paying for the improvements. Your directors found that Mr. Morrow would not sell any less quantity than thirty acres, nor take any less than $12,000 for it. This the directors would not agree to, so the meeting adjourned till the 5th of July, and asked a committee of the projectors of the race course to meet them. At that meeting they informed us that they had leased the ground for ten years, five years at $125 a year, and five years $200 or $250 a year, and that Mr. Morrow could break the lease at any time by paying them for their improvements. The committee wanted the society to help fence it, put up the stand and horse sheds, and put up our own agricultural hall. The majority of the directors being farmers, could not see a speculation in it, and the meeting again broke up. Immediately after this meeting a gentleman in the township of Smith offered to buy a lot the same distance from the present market at the North end of the town, belonging to J. B. Nicholls. Again the secretary in the absence of the president called a meeting of the directors for the 2nd of August; to this call only some of the directors responded, and there were not enough to form a quorum and could do no business, those who were there drove to see the grounds at the north end of the town.

On their way there they had an interview with Mr. George A. Cox, who offered them a lot of thirty acres running from communication road east to Hazelbrae. This property belongs to Messrs. Cox, Hazlitt, and Walsh. This is the nearest to the town by far, and the best we have seen yet. These gentleman offered to give us a road in at both ends, the one at the south-west corner, beautiful and level, the other from George st., only eight or ten chains by Hazelbrae. Mr. Cox assures us the price will be only no minal compared to the other, and they will sell any part or quantity to suit the society. I think we had far better deal with these parties than the others who have only a lease, and that not for any stated time, and not for very laudable purposes. I think if you and your contemporaries would let your politics alone and advocate this scheme, at least a while, you would confer a great blessing on town and county. If the town and county would unite and sell the old burying grounds, the County Council promised their share to the society two years ago, and at our last central the business men interested guaranteed north of the market square, nearly $600 if needed, Mr. Cox himself subscribing $50 if we would come to terms. We would not object to his giving it then; and I understand there is every prospect of the old Cobourg Railroad being opened up pretty soon, if not, it could be used as a road to travel on, and I have no doubt but there would be a switch laid up to the ground. Then we would have one of the best grounds in Ontario, a beautiful rising ground just north of Mr. Dickson's picnic grounds, and west of the girls' home, beside George street, no need inviting the public on it to make it solid. One gentleman offers to clear enough to hold the fall show on. Now, Mr. Editor, I have given a plain statement, and true as far as I know. I hope you will go ahead and quit finding fault with other people; hoping you will long enjoy the fruit of your labor,

I remain yours truly,
T. E. BELL.

PORT HOPE.

FLOUR MILL BURNED.—At about one o'clock on Friday morning the grist mill at Osaca, the property of Mr. Henry Elliott, Reeve of Hope, was discovered to be on fire. The devouring element had obtained such headway when first seen that it was impossible to save the property, which together with the stable and sheds was completely distroyed. It is supposed that the fire had started from heated machinery or spontaneous combustion. The loss will amount to upwards of $10,000, partially insured Mr. Pillsworth, the tenant, loses between two and three hundred bushels of wheat—no insusance. Mr. Elliott was in Toronto at the time of the accident.—Guide.

Assault and Death.

NEW YORK, Aug, 12.—Nora Walsh, the school girl who was assaulted by two tramps near Pelham a month ago, died yesterday from her injuries. The tramps are in gaol.

Russia in Asia.

Russia is pressing for the formal session of Sarakhs, the town nearest to the Afghan frontier which she has yet occupied.

Success of the Rebels.

CAIRO, Aug. 12.—Gallabat has fallen into the hands of the rebels. The inhabitants of Gedary have been ordered to retire on Kassala.

LADIES' JOURNAL

Bible Competition No. 7.

Closing September 11th,

OPEN TO THE WORLD

GREAT CLUB OFFER.

The Leading Rewards are Lot 50 x 150 at Toronto Junction, Pianos, Organs, Sewing Machines, Gold and Silver Watches, Silver Tea Sets, &c.

The proprietor of the Ladies Journal now announces a magnificent list of rewards for correct answers to Bible questions. It is surprising how little is known of the Bible. The questions are not so difficult this time as last, and we should be glad if there was a hearty response so as to encourage the proprietor of the Journal to persevere in his good work. It was announced in the June issue of the Ladies' Journal that the competition which closed last month would be the last for the present, but it has been decided to try one more.

All money must be sent by post office or express. No information will be given to any one more than is stated here. So send on answers, and don't waste time writing. Do not send postage stamps unless six cents is added for the discount. Remit by postoffice order, scrip or small coin.

THE BIBLE QUESTIONS:

1.—Is Diamond referred to in the Bible? If so, state first reference.

2.—Is Emerald made mention of in the Bible? If so, state first reference.

3.—Is Sapphire spoken of in the Bible? If so, state first reference.

These all refer to the precious stones.

Now, any one having a knowledge of the Scriptures ought to be able promptly to answer these questions with a little study, and so secure some one of those rewards. Bear in mind every one competing must send FIFTY CENTS with their answers for which the Ladies' Journal will be sent one year to any address. If you answer each of the questions correctly and your answers are in time you are sure to secure one of these costly rewards.

70 to 100—Thirty-one beautifully bound volumes Hood's Poems	93 00
101 to 167—Fifty-seven fine rolled gold Brooches	171 00

This list of consolation rewards will be given to the last one hundred and fifty-seven persons who send correct answers to the Bible questions given above. But bear in mind, your letter must bear the postmark where mailed of 11th September, the closing day of this competition. Fifteen days will be allowed after closing day for letters from distant points to reach the Ladies' Journal office. But you can, of course, send in any time between now and the 11th of September, and your letter will take its place at the publication office in the order it arrives there. All letters are carefully numbered as they arrive, and there can be no mistake. If your answers are correct, and they reach there in time, you will surely get some reward in addition to the Ladies' Journal, which alone is big value for the half dollar. If you don't get anything but the Journal you will be well pleased with your investment, as it consists of 20 pages of fashions illustrated, short and serial stories, poetry, newest music, household hints, etc., etc.; in fact, just the paper to suit every lady.

By subscribing in a club with your neighbors you will secure some considerable advantage—that is, there must be at least thirty of a club, and all who send correct answers to the Bible questions may have their choice of a handsome ring, heavily gold-plated ladies' gold brooch which retails at about one dollar and a half, or a triple-plated butter knife. Either of these you may wish will be sent postage paid. You will thus secure to a certainty one or other of these two presents, and in addition will have as good an opportunity of gaining some one of the other large rewards in lists given above just as well as though you had sent in singly. This is simply an inducement to get up clubs. We are sure our readers could not do better than to try their skill in hunting up these questions and competing for these rewards. Everything will be carried out exactly as promised.

Prizes in last competition went all over Canada and to many parts of the United States.

HOPEFUL WORDS.—Mrs. McArthur, of Hopeville, Ont., says she could not keep house without Hagyard's Pectorial Balsam to cure prevailing throat and lung troubles.

A SEARCH WARRANT.—If there is any lurking taint of scrofula in the system, Burdock Blood Bitters are warranted to search it out.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

FACTS are stubborn things, and sufferers from chills and fever generally find their complaint a very stubborn fact, until they commence the use of Ayer's Ague Cure. That medicine eradicates the noxious poison from the system, and invaribly cures even the worst cases.

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D., New York City.

A Run on a Drug Store.

Never was such a rush made for any drug store as is now at Taylor & McDonald's for a trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. All persons afflicted with asthma, bronchitis, hoarseness, severe coughs or any affection of the throat or lungs, can get a trial bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at the above drug store.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

UNANIMOUS APPROVAL OF MEDICAL STAFF.

Dr. G. T. Comstock, physician at Good Samaritan Hospital, St. Louis, Mo., says: "For years we have used it in this hospital, in dyspepsia and nervous diseases, and as a drug during the decline and in the convalescence of lingering fevers. It has the unanimous approval of our medical staff."

Well Rewarded.

AUGUST.

The warm smell of the fruit was good
To feast on, and the split green wood,
With all its bearded lips and stains
Of mosses in the gold n veins,
Most pleasant, if one lay or stood
In sunshine or in happy rains.

The leaves caught gold across the sun
And where the bluest air begun,
Thirsted for song to help the heat;
As I to feel my lady's feet
Draw close before the day were done;
Both lips grew dry with dreams of it.

In the mute August afternoon
They trembled to some undertune
Of music in the silver air;
Great pleasure was it to there
Till green turned duskier and the moon
Coloured the corn-sheaves like gold hair

That August time it was delight
To watch the red moons wane to white
Twixt grey seamed stems of apple-trees;
A sense of heavy harmonies
Grew on the growth of patient night,
More sweet than shapen music is.

The wet leaves next the gentle fruit
Felt smoother, and the brown tree-root
Felt the mould warmer; I too felt
(As water feels the slow gold melt
Right through it when the day burns mute)
The peace of time wherein love dwelt.

CHAPTER XXX.

Since the memorable day of Regina's visit to Central Park, many weeks had elapsed, and one wild stormy evening in March she sat at the library table, writing her translation of a portion of "Egmont."

The storm, now of sleet, now of snow, darkened the air, and the globes of the chandelier, representing Pompeian lamps, were lighted above the oval table, shedding a bright yet mellow glow over the warm quiet room.

Upon a bronze console stood a terra-cotta jar containing a white azalea in full bloom, and the fragrance of the flowers breathed like a benediction on the atmosphere while in the tall glass beneath Mrs. Orme's portrait two half blown snowy camellias nestled amid a fringe of geranium leaves.

Close to the fire, with her feet upon a Persian patterned cushion, Olga reclined in the luxurious easy chair that belonged to Mr. Palma's writing desk, and open on her lap lay a volume entitled the "Service of the Poor." The former brilliancy of her complexion seemed to have forsaken her forever, banished by a settled sallowness and she looked thin, feeble, dejected, passing her fingers abstractedly through the short, curling ruddy hair that clustered around her forehead and upon her neck.

As if weary of the thoughts suggested by her book, she turned and looked at the figure writing under the chandelier, and by degrees she realized the change in the countenance, which three months before had been pure, serene, and bright as a moonbeam.

Her grief had been silent but deep, for the loss of the dear friend who symbolized for her all that was noble, heroic and godly in human nature; and her suffering was not assuaged by letters from Mrs. Lindsay, furnishing the sorrowful details of the last illness of the minister, and the dying words of tender devotion to the young girl whom he believed his betrothed bride.

Mrs. Palma and Olga only knew that Regina had lost a dear friend whom she had not seen for years, and none but her guardian understood the nature of the sacred tie that bound them.

Day and night she was haunted by memories of the kind face never more to be seen this side of the City of Peace, and when at length she received a photograph taken after death, in which, wan and emaciated, he seemed sleeping soundly, she felt that her life could never again be quite the same, and that the gray shadowy wings of Regret drooped low over her future pathway.

Accompanying the photograph was a brief but loving note written by Mr. Lindsay the evening before his death; and to it were appended the lines from "Jacqueline:"

"Nor shall I leave thee wholly. I shall be
An evening thought, a morning dream to thee,
A silence in thy life, when through the night
The bell strikes, or the sun with shining light
Smites all the empty windows, As there sprout
Daisies, and dimpled tufts of violets, out
Among the grass where some corpses lie asleep
So round thy life, where I lie buried deep,
A thousand little thoughts shall spring,
A thousand gentle memories wind and cling."

As if the opal were a talisman against the revival of reflections that seemed an insult to the dead, Regina wore the ring constantly and whenever a thrill warned her of the old madness, her right hand pressed the jewels, seeking from their touch a renewal of strength.

After several interviews with Mr. Palma, the details of which Olga communicated to no one, she had consented to hold her scheme of the "Sisterhood" in abeyance for twelve months, and to accompany her mother to Europe, whither she had formerly been eager to travel; and Mrs. Palma, in accordance with instructions from her step-son, had perfected her preparations, so as to be able to leave New York at a day's notice.

Mrs. Crew had returned to the city, and now and then Mr. Palma mentioned her name, and delivered messages from her to his step-mother; but Olga abstained from her old badinage, and Regina imagined that her forbearance sprang from a knowledge of the engagement which she supposed must exist between them. She could not hear her name without a shiver of pain and longed to get away before the affair assumed a sufficiently decided form, to compel her to notice and discuss it. To-day after watching her for some time, Olga said:

"You are weary, and pale almost to ghastliness. Put away your books, and come talk to me.'

Regina sighed, laid down her pen, and came to the fireplace.

"I thought you promised to go very early to Mrs. St. Clare's and assist Valeria in arranging her bridal veil?"

"So I did, and it will soon be time for me to dress. How I dislike to go back into the gay world, where I have frisked so carelessly and so long. Do you know I long for the hour when I shall end this masquerade, and exchange silks and lace and jewelry for a coarse blue gown, blue apron and white cap?"

"Do you imagine the colour of your garments will change the complexion of your heart and mind? You remind me of Alexander's comment upon Antipater: 'Outwardly, Antipater wears only white clothes, but within he is all purple.'"

"Ah! but my purple pride has been utterly dethroned, and it seems to me now, that when I find rest in cloistered duties, the quiet sacred seclusion will prove in some degree like the well Zem-Zem, in which Gabriel washed Mohammed's heart, filled it with faith, and restored it to his bosom. Until I am housed safely from the roar, the gibes, and mockery of the world I shall not grow better; for here

'God sends me back my prayers, as a father
Returns unopsd the letters of a son
Who has dishonored him.'"

"To conquer the world is nobler than to shun it, and to a nature such as yours, Olga, other lines in that poem ought to appeal with peculiar force:

'If thy rich heart is like a palace shattered,
Stand up amid the ruins of thy heart,
And with a calm brow front the solemn stars,
A brave soul is a thing which all things serve.'

The scheme which you are revolving now is one utterly antagonistic to the wishes of your mother, and God would not bless a step which involved the sacrifice of your duty to her."

"After a time mamma will approve; till then I shall be patient. She has consented for me to go to the Mother House at Kaiserswerth, and to some of the Deaconess establishments in Paris and Dresden, in order that I may become thoroughly acquainted with the esoteric working of the system. I am anxious also to visit the institution for training nurses at Liverpool, and unless we sail directly for Havre, we shall soon have an opportunity of gratifying my wishes."

Regina took the book from her hand, turned over the leaves, and read:

"All probationers must be unbetrothed, and their hearts still free.' . . . . 'A short life history of the previous inward and outward experiences of the future Deaconess pupil. It must be composed and written by herself.' Olga, what would you do with your past?"

"I have buried it, dear. All the love of which I was capable I poured out, nay, I crushed the heart that held it, as the Syrian woman broke the precious box of costly ointment, annointing the feet of her God! When my clay idol fell I could not gather back the wasted trust and affection; and so all, all is sepulchred in one deep grave. Memory is the high priestess who survives the wreck of altars and of gods and faithfully ministers, amid the gloom of the soul's catacombs. I owe much to mamma, and something to Erle Palma, who is a nobler man than I deemed him—less a bronze Macchiavelli with a heart of quartz; and I shall never against heretofore, rashly defy their advice and wishes.

THE CHARGE OF CANNIBALISM.

The Third Officer and one of the Cooks Support it—Greely Denies it.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Third officer Kelly, of the Greely relief steamer Bear, was asked to-day if he had read the reports about the eating of the flesh of Lieut. Kislingbury and Private Henry by the survivors of the Greely party. "Yes," he replied, "I read the reports, and they are true."

REFUSAL TO GIVE PARTICULARS.

One of the cooks on board of the Bear said: "The survivers told everything, and said they had to eat the flesh of the dead, as their food, all but a little leather or sealskin, had given out."

Q. Will you give the particulars? A. No I cannot. All the men on board knew that the bodies had been eaten, but were told not to speak much about it when we came into port, but they all knew it.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—A seaman of the relief expedition said yesterday that one of the survivers of the Greely party had told him that three others besides Henry had stolen rations, but Henry was the sharpest and they were all afraid of him.

CANNIBALISM ONLY NATURAL.

Chief Engineer Melville, of the relief ship Theitis, said he was sorry Kislingbury's remains were dug up. His relatives might have known, after what had been said and written of late, that they would find a mutilated body. Greely and his companions could not have lived as long as they did unless they ate the flesh of the men that died. It was only natural that they should do this. They did not kill their companions in order to eat them; they only ate them after they were dead. Melville said it was not not just to compare the De Long with the Greely party. De Lnog and men froze and starved to death in a few days, these poor wretches had to go through slow starvation. The talk about the sailors finding pieces of flesh lying around the camp was all bosh. Melville stated thot the officers of the relief vessels had received no orders to keep their mouths shut. They had followed their own counsel and judgment in the matter.

NO OFFICIAL KNOWLEDGE OF THE FACTS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—General Hazen again said to-day he had no official knowledge that there had been cannibalism among members of the Greely party. While the condition of Kislingbury's remains might indicate such was the case he had heard nothing from Greely or any of the survivors that would lead him to believe it was so. He did not doubt there were bickerings and differences among the members of the party, but he would not believe they led to violence or extreme measures of any kind except in Henry's case. It is said there are no records at the War or Navy Departments bearing on the subject.

CROSS' BODY NOT TO BE EXHUMED.

It has been decided not to exhume the body of Sergeant Cross, of the Greely expedition. His widow and mother objected and his brother yielded.

LETTER OF DENIAL FROM GREELY.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—Major Gardiner, father of Sergeant Gardiner, who was the last but one of the Greely expedition to die, received a letter from Greely expressing the hope that he will not believe the horrible story of cannibalism which has been set afloat, declaring that there is not a particle of truth in it. He says Gardiner died of inflammation of the bowels and water on the heart, and was buried in the ice because the survivers were too weak to dig graves.

PREPARING PRODUCE FOR MARKET.

To be successful in market gardening requires not only a practical knowledge of how to produce crops to the best advantage, but it also requires a knowledge of how to produce and select the produce for the market. While in a provision store the other day, we examined some asparagus, which appeared to be very good in quality, except a half a dozen small stalks placed nearly in the middle, but the tying was very poor, being very loosely tied, so that with the small stalks it made a very poor appearance. The half dozen small stalks did not add to the size of the bunch, because they fitted between the large ones, but on inquiry we found that this asparagus was purchased 25 cents a dozen less than the price of asparagus well put up; thus the grower by thus selecting his asparagus with a miserly hand, has lost at least 20 cents per dozen bunches; the loss by proper selection would not exceed 5 cents per dozen bunches, and it would not have cost anything more to have tied it up as it should be. Estimating 300 dozen bunches as the product of an acre, the loss by bad tying, and improper selection, would amount to $60 an acre each year, which would be a good profit.

What is true of asparagus, is true of nearly all other crops; by leaving in a few beets or turnips of an inferior quality, the whole product is injured and must be sold at greatly reduced prices. As a rule a poor quality of produce is not worth sending to market; when it is, it should be sent separate from the good, and sold for what it is worth; for when mixed with first quality it reduces the price of the whole so much, that it would be much better to throw it away.

To be successful in marketing one needs first to build up a reputation for careful selection and honest packing, so that the dealer may rely on what you send as being as good as in the middle of the package as it is on the outside. When such a reputation is once built up there will be no difficulty in always having a ready sale for whatever may be grown, and at prices that will give a fair profit, when he who selects with a miserly aim, sells at cost. The buyer is quick to detect little stalks of asparagus, or wormy apples, though one be put in the middle of the bunch, and the other in the middle of the barrel.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

"MAY DEW"

The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubboraly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any address on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, AUGUST 18, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Golden-Eye.

It is a mistake about the steamer Golden-Eye. She will continue her trips as usual, and will also run a cheap excursion on Thursday to Idyl Wild, at 50 cts. return ticket.

Baseball.

There is talk of the baseball clubs of the town amalgamating. If this were done no doubt the one club could then place a better team in the field to meet strangers, as there would be more material in it from which to choose.

The Trio Campers.

The "Trio" camping party consisting of Messrs. W. J. McNamara, A. E. Thompson and S. Wright, started this morning on a two week's trip to the back lakes. They will go from here to Burleigh, and will sail leisurely round to Lindsay.

Social to-morrow evening at Mr. Geo. A. Cox's grounds. Electric Light and Brass Band. The public are invited.

Still Hot, With Perhaps a Storm.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Variable winds; fair, continued very warm weather, with a few local showers and thunderstorms towards night.

A Malicious Report.

The Lindsay Post thus corrects a report which it says was current here:—

"Last week there was a report current in Peterborough that the Lindsay base ball men stated when they came home that the Peterborough team drugged the water on the ground. This is a pure fabrication and circulated by those who are hostile to the interests of the club. The Lindsay club speak in the highest terms of the reception given them in Peterborough."

The Constable Sent for.

On Sunday night a messenger came for the police from the west part of the town. He said that there was a row on Elm street which he appeared to think only constabulry authority could quell. When the constables arrived at the scene the storm had blown over and had left only a broken pane of glass or two to show where it had raged.

Cricket.

A "scratch" match of one innings was played on Saturday between a team from the town and one from the county. The teams did not have the full number of players. The score was 36 for the county and 31 for the town.

The match to be played to-morrow on the Ashburnham ground between the East Toronto and Peterborough Clubs will no doubt prove interesting. The contest is expected to be a close one. Last year the Peterboroughs defeated a rather weak team of East Toronto by nine runs.

Personal.

Mr. C. W. Ewing has received an invitation from Mr. S. C. Stevenson, secretary of the exhibition committee, to act as judge of musical instruments in class No. 13, at the Dominion Exhibition, to be opened at Montreal on the 5th September. We understand that Mr. Ewing will accept the invitation.

Mr. W. H. Boisfeuillet will depart on this evening's train to Hamilton and St. Catharines, where he will introduce the Royal electric light.

Mr. G. Gladman and wife and Miss Ulyott started this morning on a pleasure trip. They will go as far west as Chicago.

The Pilte Glass City.

Under a quadruple heading, of which the above is one, the Omemee Herald publishes a letter on Peterborough, noting several things that mark this year as a year of progress, among them being the opening of the Ontario and Quebec Railway, the establishment of the Hazlebrae Home, the improvements being made on the churches, the illumination of the town by electric light, and the large amount of general building operations. It says:—"That Peterborough is a fine town commercially, socially and financially, is the testimony of all who have visited it, but to say, Peterborough is a fine city, is more appropriate." It also adds that the "colony of Omemeeites in Peterborough now numbers over 100, all prospering and doing well." The Herald is a welcome weekly visitor.

Social to-morrow evening at Mr. Geo A. Cox's grounds. Electric Light and Brass Band. The public are invited.

A COMING SPORTING EVENT.

What will Come off at the Driving Park on the 6th of September.

The gentlemen who have been instrumental in establishing a first-class driving park in Peterborough are determined, now that the place is fast approaching completion, to provide some amusement for the public as quickly as possible. In this connection, they have arranged for a gala day on September 6, when the following events among others to be yet arranged will come off:

HALF-MILE FOOT RACE.—This race promises to be an exceedingly good one, as both Hamly and Williamson are professional runners, and have from time to time, made good records. The friends of both are backing their favorite well, and the excitement is increasing as the date draws nearer. The race is for $150 a side.

RUNNING HORSE RACE.—For this race there will be two cash prizes. The distance is one-half mile heats. As there are a good number of "flyers" in Peterborough, we hope to see them one and all go into training and enter for this race.

It is expected that there will be a number of other events on the programme besides the above.

The gentlemen who have had sufficient enterprise and courage to purchase this park did so in the interest of sport, and with the idea of promoting a more spirited feeling among the owner of horses, and consequently are desirving of the thanks of the public.

Dog Poisoned.

A valuable Spitz dog belonging to Mr. John Moloney was poisoned on Friday night. Mr. Moloney has had the dog in his possession for a long time and prized it very highly as a watch dog. The animal got the poison some distance from the house, and, as it seldom went from home, it is probable the poison was intended for some other dog.

A Regatta.

A regatta will be held at Chemong Lake on Thursday, 11th September. Mr. Louis Fobert is now negotiating for medals, gold and silver, to be presented to the winners of the different events. It is probable that Messrs. McIntyre, Mercer and Strickland will take part in the single scull contest and some of our best double scullers are expected to enter for the double scull race.

Dr. Barnardo's Sermons.

On Sunday morning Dr. Barnardo occupied the pulpit of the Baptist Church. He took for the lesson Genesis xiii., and for his text Micah vii., 7:—"Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy; when I fall I shall arise." In the evening he preached in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, taking for his text i. Kings xviii, 21:—"Why halt ye so long between two opinions?" Notwithstanding the heat both churches were filled with attentive listeners.

More Light.

Mr. W. H. Boisfeuillet informs us that the Peterborough Electric Light Company has received order from the Grand Trunk Railway Company to place two additional lamps at the Bethune street station, and also an order from the Canada Pacific Railway Company to place five lamps at the George Street station. Several of our merchants intend lighting their stores with the electric light later on in the fall. A wire is being run to Mr. Geo. A. Cox's residence, which, together with the grounds attached, will be illuminated by the subtle fluid.

A Lively Time.

On Saturday night at about nine o'clock a disturbance was heard in the house of Francis Taugher on Simcoe street, and the noise was as loud that it attracted the attention of the passers by, some of whom stopped to listen. Constable Adams hearing the cries of some inside the house, entered it and found the family and three other young men inside. Mrs. Taugher called on the constable to arrest her son, whom she referred to in epithets that would hardly be considered maternal pet names. The young man declared that the constable was not heavy enough to arrest him, or words to that effect. The officer took hold of him, but before he got him outside the mother, who had relented towards her offspring, and the father, interfered, and the whole party turned on the constable. This was more than even the broad shoulders of Constable Adams could bear, and he left them. Informations were laid in court against them and several members of the party were arrested to-day.

Social to-morrow evening at Mr. Geo A. Cox's grounds. Electric Light and Brass Band. The public are invited.

It is Probable

That there will be a meeting of the Town Council this evening.

That Mr. Beavis will again be after the Grand Trunk for leaving cars on the siding.

That, although there were no cases heard in the Police Court this morning, there will be a lively session to-morrow.

That the Cretes will soon make a determined effort to regain possession of the Sanderson Junior Championship Cup.

That cooler weather would be received with thankfulness by every citizen.

That the woman in the village across the river who dropped her teeth, and unintentionally fed them to the pigs will be more careful in future.

That no one will think that John Keenan, painter with Mr. T. B. McGrath, was the man of that name who was in the Police Court on Saturday. It was another man of the same name.

That many were deceived by the blood stains in front of the Arcade into thinking that a bloody battle had been fought, although they were produced in a simple manner.

That many of the excursionists from Toronto were pleasantly surprised in finding Peterborough to be as large and lively a town as it is.

Arrived and opened out, an unusually choice selection of Canadian Tweeds in Fall weights, at Habiliment Hall, George street.

At Foucher's Restaurant,

Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

Birthday Cards.

Many are taking advantage of our large stock of Birthday Cards, to make selections from. The cards are elegant. A. L. Davis & Co.

Fresh Fish.

Trout, White Fish, Maskinonge, Black Bass and Finnan Haddies fresh at Carton Bros. grocery.

New Foundry.

The water was on Saturday night let into the new dam built for Messrs. J. Whyte & Co's foundry, which is being rebilt on McDonnell street.

Huckleberries.

A fine supply of choice ripe Huckleberries, fresh from the pickers, just received at CARTON BROTHERS', opposite the Market square. Selling at very reasonable prices.

The Weather.

The readings of the thermometer and barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store today were as follows:—

	Ther.	Bar.
Nine o'clock	75°	29.30
One o'clock	90°	29.20
Three o'clock	88°	29.20

A falling barometer indicates an approaching storm.

The Syndicate Camp.

The party of campers known as the "Syndicate" camp have arrived home and report having had a pleasant time in the north. They speak in high terms of Mr. Costello, hotel keeper, at Young's Point, from whose store house some of their stores were taken when on the way north. Mr. Costello replaced every article which the party knew to have been taken, and courteously did all he could to save the campers any inconvenience.

Hanlan's Defeat.

In Peterborough as elsewhere, the defeat of the world's champion oarsman in Sydney, N. S. W., on the Paramatta River, by William Beach, the champion of Australia, for the championship of the world and $2,500 a side, is the theme of conversation. The champion had a good many friends here, and among them some warm supporters, who one and all regret the result of this last race exceedingly. The opinion prevalent in Peterborough is that he was not in condition, and, perhaps, over confident of his own skill as a superior oarsman.

Fall Exhibitions.

The following dates have been announced on which agricultural exhibitions will be held:—

Grand Dominion and 39th Provincial, at Ottawa, Sept. 22nd to 27th.

Industrial Exhibition, Toronto, on Sept. 10th to 20th.

Quebec Exhibition, at Montreal, Sept. 5th to 13th.

West Peterborough, at Peterborough, Sept. 30th and Oct. 1st.

East Peterborough, at Keene, Oct. 2nd and 3rd.

Lindsay Central, at Lindsay, Oct. 1st, 2nd and 3rd.

Port Hope, at Port Hope, Oct. 7th and 8th.

Asphodel, Belmont and Dummer, at Norwood, Oct. 14th.

See our new style Collars to arrive this week. Names and particulars on arrival. Habiliment Hall.

Smith's Market

Is now open and in full blast three doors above his old stand with a fresh and selected stock of Foreign and Domestic Canned Goods; also an extra choice variety of green vegetables such as Californian Squashes, Cucumbers, Tomatoes, (home grown), Cabbage, Beets, Carrots, &c., &c.

FRUIT.—Peaches, Californian Plums, Pears, Grapes, Lemons, Apples, Raspberries, Huckleberries, Lewton Blackberries, (extra large) Water Melons, &c., &c.

All kinds of Nuts and Confectionery.

Fresh Oysters every Wednesday. Fresh Fish of all kinds as usual.

One case of extra fine Red Spanish Onions.

My friends will kindly bear in mind that I have gone to considerable expense in fitting up and putting in new fixtures, &c., and that I am not prepared to extend any credits for a longer period than 30 days, as I am dependent on prompt monthly payments to meet my bills, which will be much larger than heretofore. Hoping to hear and see most of my friends to-morrow, I remain

Respectfully yours,
C. B. SMITH.

The Excursion from Toronto.

The annual excursion of the Sons of Scotland, of Toronto, was held to-day, the Queen City's civic holiday, over the Ontario and Quebec Railway to Peterborough. The attendance was so large that two trains were necessary to carry all the passengers. The first train arrived at about 20 minutes after twelve o'clock. It consisted of twelve coaches well filled, and this party was accompanied by the Massey Brass Band. The second train, which consisted of eleven coaches, also crowded, arrived about an hour later. The Ætna Lacrosse Club, of Toronto, accompanied it. The whole party numbered about 1,400, and among them were several in Highland costume and two costumes with bagpipes. Many persons were at the station to meet the excursionists, including several who bore time honored and ever honorable Scottish names. The band, which is a good combination, played up George street to the Darcy House, and the pipers thrilled the natives of Scotland with their music. The lacrosse club put up at the Canada Pacific Railway Hotel. Several merchants honored the occasion by displaying flags and bunting from their stores, including Mr. James Alexander, Messrs. Fair, VanEvery & Co., Mr. J. Hackett, Mr. Andrew McNeil and Mr. J. Erskine. A programme of Caledonian games is being carried out in the drill shed grounds this afternoon, and a lacrosse match between the Ætnas and Peterboroughs is being played in the cricket grounds.

Social to-morrow evening at Mr Geo. A. Cox's grounds. Electric Light and Brass Band. The public are invited.

NEW ENTERPRISE.

The Way Cigars are Made at Quirk, Miller & Co's Factory.

As the whirling of time keeps a-turning, each round ushers enterprises of merit into our rapidly growing town. During the past year the town has advanced in various ways. Electric light has been introduced; more factories have been erected and put in motion by the side of the Otonabee; a driving park has been laid out and is nearly completed; new lacrosse grounds have been obtained, and some of our chief business houses have been entirely remodelled.

The latest enterprise which magnetic Peterborough has attracted is that of cigar-making. Messrs. Quirk, Miller & Co., with well known business shrewdness, have selected Peterborough as the place where, in their opinion, a good trade is to be built up.

Their factory is situated on Simcoe street, and occupies the second flat of the building opposite the Metropolitan Grocery. At present employees, male and female, to the number of ten, are at work and turn out 2,500 cigars per day. Six brands of cigars are manufactured, namely, "Peterborough," a five cent cigar, upon which our sporting editor has pronounced a very favorable opinion; the "Idyl Wild" (10c.), a cigar made from pure Havana leaf, and one which lovers of the narcotic weed need have no hesitation in puffing; the "La Serene," a very fragrant 10c. cigar; the "Good Enough," which is good enough for anybody who smokes a "domestic"; the "Chic Chic" and the "Old Acquaintance." The kinds of tobacco used in the manufacture of the above are Havana, Spanish, and Connecticut leaf.

The tobacco is obtained from wholesale dealers of Detroit, and is shipped to this town in bond. It comes in bales of one hundred pounds each, and is received by Mr. J. Stratton, Collector of Customs. He transfers it to Mr. J. J. Hall, who places it in the bonded wareroom of Messrs. Quirk, Miller & Co. It is then damped with water and dealt out by an Inland Revenue officer as it may be required. It is then "stripped" (the stems taken out). Each cigar-maker is seated at a table and has placed before him (or her) a small smooth board, at the end of which is a clipper. The tobacco is rolled up and placed in moulds, of which there are twenty in a form. When a form is filled it is laid by for about half an hour, so that the moistened leaf may receive the impression of the mould; the cigar-maker at the same time filling form No. 2. When form No. 2 is filled, the cigars in form No. 1 are trimmed, taken out, and the wrappers, which consist of Spanish leaf, are put on. The capacity of a cigar-maker is from 25 to 30 per hour. The cigars are then packed in nicely labelled boxes, which contain fifty or one hundred. The boxes are then put into an arrangement something like a letter press on a large scale, and the lids are tightly tacked in position. The boxes are then taken out of the press and the Government stamp pasted upon them.

Mr. Quirk informs us that orders are coming in faster than they can be filled, and that the company intend enlarging their premises at an early date.

School Books.

Parents should see that their children get their books at SAILSBURY & Co's, as they will save money by it.

Bass' English Ale.

Go Down the River.

Capt. Dion informs us this morning that the statement which appeared in our local columns on Saturday that the Golden-Eye would discontinue her trips down the river was not correct. We are pleased to make the torrection, especially during this hot weather, as the public will be glad to avail themselves of a cool sail down the river.

Fall Driving Gloves in Buck, Antelope and Dogskin, at the Gentlemen's Furnishing Establishment, A. McNeil's, George Street.

The Golden Lion to the Front.

Fair, VanEvery & Co. are having their large plate front painted, silvered and beautified in order to display their magnificent new fall stock daily arriving. Their importations are large and well selected to meet the demands of their increasing trade. Every department is being filled to the ceiling, and every shelf contains a bargain.

Lawn Social.

A lawn social under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church will be held in Mr. Geo. A. Cox's grounds to-morrow evening, the 19th inst. The grounds will be illuminated with electric light, and the services of a brass band have been secured for the evening. Admission to grounds 15c. Refreshment tables will be provided.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE

AS

GOODNESS

Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indespensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

Giroux & Sullivan.

The Banner Week

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Where these Silks are procured, or why they are sold so cheap is no affair of the customers'. It is enough for them to know that they can buy here about 25 per cent. less than the pervading prices throughout the town. Do not fail to ask for our Summer Silks at 42½c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. See our Black Dress Silks at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, warranted pure silk both filling and warp. They are heavy in texture, beautiful in finish and quality, surpassing anything in the town at 25 per cent. higher in price. Don't fail to see them at

Gentlemen:

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Has been used in my household for three reasons:—

1st. To prevent falling out of the hair.
2d. To prevent too rapid change of color.
3d. As a dressing.

It has given entire satisfaction in every instance. Yours respectfully,

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, AUGUST 19, 1884.

It Is Probable

That there will be a large attendance at the St. Paul's excursion to Norwood to-morrow.

—That the members of the Bicycle Club will have a "run" this evening, leaving their room at 7 o'clock.

—That there will be a meeting of the committee of management of the Driving Park at the Little Windsor at 8 o'clock this evening.

—That the reduction in freight rates from Toronto to Peterborough on the Ontario and Quebec will be followed by a similar reduction on the Grand Trunk.

—That these changes will make the business men smile.

—That the Salvation Army will again hold a short open air song service on the market square, as they did last evening.

—That the Orillia-Peterborough Lacrosse Championship match on Thursday will be one of the most interesting of the season.

Business Directory.

Messrs. Morrey and Baker are in town canvassing on behalf of the Union Publishing Co. of Ingersoll for their Farmers and classified business directory of the Counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Durham and Northumberland. As the canvass has been successful and is nearly completed it is proposed to issue the work for delivery in October. There will be shown the names, Post Office Address, Lot, Concession, whether Free-Holder or Tenants, of each farmer in the above countries. A feature of the work will be a Separate and Distinct List of the Merchants, Mill Owners, Professional Men, and Manufacturers, classified with reference to their business, and their proper Post Office Address. It will also comprise a full and correct list of Post Masters and Officers for the Electoral Districts in the Province of Ontario. We have examined the already published companion volume for Ontario, Peel and York, and find that it is clear, well arranged and full of information. Our business men will find it a good medium for advertising and a copy of the work will be indispensable to them.

Smith's Market

Is now open and in full blast three doors above his old stand with a fresh and selected stock of Foreign and Domestic Canned Goods; also an extra choice variety of green vegetables such as Californian Squashes, Cucumbers, Tomatoes, (home grown), Cabbage, Beets, Carrots, &c., &c.

FRUIT.—Peaches, Californian Plums, Pears, Grapes, Lemons, Apples, Raspberries, Huckleberries, Lewton Blackberries, (extra large) Water Melons, &c., &c.

All kinds of Nuts and Confectionery.

Fresh Oysters every Wednesday. Fresh Fish of all kinds as usual.

One case of extra fine Red Spanish Onions.

My friends will kindly bear in mind that I have gone to considerable expense in fitting up and putting in new fixtures, &c., and that I am not prepared to extend any credits for a longer period than 30 days, as I am dependent on prompt monthly payments to meet my bills, which will be much larger than heretofore. Hoping to hear and see most of my friends to-morrow, I remain

Respectfully yours,

THE CHARGE OF CANNIBALISM.

Further Substantiations—Greely denies all Knowledge of the Fact.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—A sailor belonging to the steamer Bear said this morning that he assisted in preparing the bodies of the dead men of the Greely party at Smith's Sound for burial, and in placing them in the coffins. All the bodies except one had pieces of flesh cut from them. The survivors told him where the flesh was missing, it had been frostbitten.

HENRY'S EXHUMATION CONSENTED TO.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 16.—A despatch has been sent to the coroner of Lond Island city by Dora Buck, sister of Henry, of the Greely expedition consenting to the exhumation of the body of Henry that the facts may be full known.

ANOTHER STATEMENT BY GREELY.

PORTSMOUTH, Aug 16.—Lieut. Greely in an interview to-night denies that there was any difference between him and Kislingbury. On the contrary he had promoted him. Greely admitted that late events showed cannibalism in his camp, but declared again it was done secretly, without his consent, and contrary to his discipline. Greely further said:—"Since my return from Newbury port every one of my men called upon me. They came in a body and assured me emphatically that they knew nothing about the condition of the bodies of their fallen comrades, and each one solomnly swore that he was innocent. Perhaps those who died fed upon the the bodies of those who died before, but this is mere supposition. I can but answer for myself. For days and weeks I lay on my back unable to move. If, in my enfeebled condition, one or more fed upon human flesh it was beyond my control, and certainly beyond my knowledge. I know I have been criticized for not telegraphing the facts of the shooting of Henry as soon as I arrived at St. John's, but you must remember I was in a wretched condition, both in body and mind. I was in a quandary whether I would be tried for murder, as Henry was shot on my own responsibility, and not by order of a regular court-martial.

FRANCE AND CHINA.

FRANCE AND MEDIATION.

PARIS, Aug. 16.—It is semi-officially announced that France has not rejected mediation in the Chinese difficulty. It is stated that no one had offered to mediate.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE.

The Chamber to-night by 173 to 50 passed resolutions expressing confidence in the Government for its firmness in causing the Tien Tsin treaty to be respected.

EARL GRANVILLE'S ADVICE.

Earl Granville is urging China to concede the indemnity demanded by France, provided the French fleet shall immediately leave Kelung. It is considered doubtful whether M. Ferry would surrender on payment of the indemnity, as it is believed the real object had in view by France, in making the claim was to secure permanent possession of the coal mines of Kelung. It is reported that in case France should refuse to surrender Kelung on payment of the indemnity, England has promised to interfere in support of China.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Foo Chow despatch says France has rejected the meditation of any power. China refuses to pay the indemnity, and has declared war. Admiral Courbet has demanded 2,000 men from Tonkin. General Millot sent 6,000 men with two batteries of artillery, on Monday, with sealed orders. Six thousand Chinese troops have landed at Hoihaw. Heavy masses of troops are stationed on the Kwang Li frontier. French and Chinese war ships have steam up, and the decks are cleared for action. The Chinese authorities have despatched war orders to the viceroys of provinces. The officials pretend they are prepared for war, but as a matter of fact the condition of troops, forts, etc., is no better than last April.

The Harbor of Canton has been blockaded with torpedoes.

LINDSAY

PERSONAL.—Judge Dean has been appointed to act as third arbitrator with James E. Smith and Wm. Mulock, M. P. in the city of Toronto in respect to matters of difference between Toronto and county of York arising out of the extension of the city limits.

BUSINESS CHANGES.—Mr. J.R. Dundas, M.P., has become half owner of the Lindsay flouring mill, having purchased Mr. Needler's interest in the mill. It is a fine property and Mr. Dundas is said to have purchased it at a very low figure considering its value. Mr. J. D. Flavelle, we understand will take charge of it in company with Mr. Sadler. The transfer of the Jewett house to Mr. Waters by Mr. Jewett has also taken place and Mr. Waters took possession on Monday. He evidently understands the hotel business and cannot fail to make a success of it here.—Warder.

BRIDGENORTH.

From Our Own Correspondent.

A CATCHER CAUGHT.—On Monday, Aug. 11th, Mr. Robt. Hayes of Bridgenorth went out for a troll. While paddling through Gannon's Narrows his hooks got caught on something. He dived down to extricate them, and in so doing was himself caught on the hooks. One of them entered his nose, and held him fast until by vigorous efforts he pulled the hooks out of the log in which they were sticking. Mr. Hayes had the pieces of the hook removed from his nose, and no doubt he sustained a painful wound.

The Dublin Scandal.

A special to the Mail says:—The trial of Cornwall, French, Considine, Pillar, and others connected with the great Dublin scandal, was adjourned until the 19th inst., in order that in the meantime the medical experts in the trial might enquire into the case of French, to ascertain whether he is really insane or only shamming, so as to escape the consequences of his horrible crimes. Since that time the doctors have had him under constant surveillance. He has never been left alone, and every method has been used which experience can suggest to test the truth of his malady. It is said that he has softening of the brain. The result is that the doctors are unable to agree whether he is or is not a lunatic. Two members of the commission are said to be in favour of insanity, while one is uncertain, though inclined to agree with the other two. The result is that the crown, it is stated, has decided to send the prisoner to an insane asylum for life. The other prisoners will be tried without him.

THE DUBLIN SCANDL.

DUBLIN, Aug. 18.—The Medical Commission appointed to investigate the question as to whether James French, one of the persons implicated in the Dublin scandal, was insane or not, have unanimously reported that he is a malingerer.

CHOLERA RETURNS.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—The cholera mortality for to-day is, Eastern Pyrenees, two; Herault, twelve; Ands, five; Garde, three; Vaucluz, one; Besses Alps, two. In a village of only thirty-seven inhabitants there was twenty cases in one night, five fatal. At Marseilles there are sixteen deaths and at Toulon six.

AUSTRO-GERMAN ALLIANCE.

VIENNA, Aug. 18.—Monday's Review, referring to the meeting between Count Kalnoky and Prince Bismarck, dwells upon the universally peaceful aspect of affairs. The Austro-German Alliance, it says, removes all chance of the rupture of peace. Russia is equally anxious with Austria to adhere to Prince Bismarck's policy. The separation of Italy from the three empires is merely owing to technical financial questions, and does not imply a lasting estrangement.

FRANCE AND EGYPT.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—France has made overtures to Berlin, Vienna, and St. Petersburg for an entente cordiale on the limitation of the English occupation in Egypt, the neutralization of the Suez Canal, and the independent policy assumed by England. The overtures from the French Government are well received.

NEWS FROM THE SOUDAN.

CAIRO, Aug. 18.—An expedition has been sent to withdraw the Egyptian garrison at Hurrah. Sheik Sherfudin, a descendant of the former Imaums of Senaa, is at the head of the Arab revolt in Yemen. The inhabitants have left Frassowah fearing the Abyssinians will devastate the place. Major Chermside telegraphs that 5,000 rebels have deserted Osman Digna. Three more tribes have joined the Xemen rebellion and all available troops are being hurried to that point.

NEWS FROM GEN. GORDON.

CAIRO, Aug. 18.—A letter from Gen. Gordon, dated Khartoum, July 20, says he is safe and everything tranquil. He intends to remain at Khartoum harrassing the rebels by steamers until the relief expedition arrives.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—A great amount of discussion in various ways has been brought about, awakening the citizens to a sense of duty in procuring a better system of drainage and sanitary reform generally.

True, in Peterborough there is a large field for reform in our sanitary regulations. We have a local Board of Health. What are they doing? Are they fulfilling duties reposed in them? They are certainly supposed to take the initiative in all such matters. We have loads of grievances. We have a goose pond, a Spaulding's Bay, fever breeding closets, poluted wells and cisterns, a drain on our front street totally inadequate for its requirements, a drain running from Water street emptying in the ordinary trap at Mr. McClelland's corner creating a stench at times almost unbearable. All our slaughter houses are within the municipality. Some of them passable; some otherwise. The members of the board claim that unless a complaint is made, they are powerless to take any action. If that be the case, and, as I understand a meeting has been called for Thursday evening next, Aug. 21st, let all citizens interested, lay their several complaints before the board, and let us see if, by so doing, it will bring about the desired effect. Trusting others may find time to advance their respective views through your valuable medium, and thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this space.

I remain, dear sir, your's faithfully,
RATEPAYER.

MISCELLANEOUS.

IT is stated that the Czar will visit Berlin, hence the recent expulsion of Russians.

IT is rumoured that King Alfonso's visit to the baths has not benefitted his lung affection.

BRIGANDAGE is again rife in Italy. The Government is adopting energetic measures.

AN inquiry has been instituted an Warsaw concerning the alleged revolutionary society there.

THE trial will shortly take place at St. Petersburg of officers accused of Nihilism.

AT Dombrovitza, a town of Russian Poland, a mob atacked the Jews, plundering their dwellings and killing seven.

THE men employed in the slate quarries of North Wales have struck against a reduction of their wages.

EARL Granville has telegraphed to the Peace Conference at Berne, expressing regret that he is unable to be present, and assuring the Conference of his wishes for its success.

THE Anarchist sailors of the British steamer Elizabeth, arrested at Offensen on Saturday, were handed over to the Prussian police. Socialist pamphlets and papers were found in their chests. They refused to make any statements.

FOR OLD OR YOUNG.—Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the remedy for cholera, cholic, diarrhœa and dysentery. No person is safe without it.

OH! how tired and weak I feel I dont believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning? Oh yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50 cents.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pare, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

THE HEAT.

It is poor comfort to be told by a metaphysican when the thermometer is 95° in the shade that there is absolutely no such things as heat, that it is a mere phenomenon, that it only exists because we think it is hot. Still, there is great deal in this 'thinking it is hot,' as witness how easily it is borne when interesting occupations claim the attention of the wind.

Summers in Canada are so limited, and excessive heat is so short-lived, that it is impossible to obtain such contrivances, or employ such methods as in tropical climes are used to mitigate the effects of oppressive heat. In India one could attend a dinner at Government house in white American drill. The ladies certainly wear silk dresses but probable not much else. The houses, too, are mere bird-cages with a substantial roof as a protection against the sun. And all day and all night a large fan or punkah swings over the table or bed.

Then again these heat spells are not of sufficient length to cause us to contract such habits as are best fitted to withstand them: there is no business done shortly after sunrise; no one thinks of postponing all pleasure till sunset; no siesta can be indulged in after the mid-day meal; one dare not appear before one's friends collar-less, with up-turned sleeves; or pay a call in a nankeen jacket minus a waistcoat. Hence these tears—and worse than tears; and one has to bear it—generally without grinning; to try to think with the metaphysician that it is not hot; and to refrain from saying too much (from a qualitative, not quantitative, point of view) about its intolerableness.

CHOLERA RAVAGES.

Cholera has been known in Europe since the year 1817. Its source then, as almost without exception it has always been, was in the East—probably in the Presidency of Bengal. From there it spread in all directions through China, Persia, Asia Minor, Russia in Asia.

Its first invasion of England and continental nations was in 1830. This terrible scourge spread almost throughout the whole world, from Persia to America. In England and Wales alone more than 50,000 persons perished.

Eleven years after this the cholera again spread westwards from India, and in 1847 again ravaged England, the continent, America, the West Indies, etc. Britain lost 55,000 persons. America will also remember the horrors of 1850 and 1865-66.

The recent appearance of cholera, which may be called its fourth distinct visitation in Europe, is, in comparison with its predecessors, mild and limited. By official returns we learn that not 3,000 lives have yet been lost, and although we have had an occasional fright by reports of isolated cases occurring in London, Liverpool, New Orleans and Cardiff, they have one and all proved themselves not to have been of the dreaded Asiatic type.

For this limitation of the area affected doubtless we have to thank medical science. Medicine, which at one time considered its province to be wholly within the sphere of the curing of diseases, has now for many years expanded its powers, and by vigorously investigating the sources of disease, has successfully undertaken the command of that wider realm, its prevention.

To strict measures of quarantine also we must trace the fact that since March, with the exception of a few cases in one or two Italian towns, the cholera has been most successfully confined to the region first attacked. Compared with previous ravages, this perhaps has been the salient feature of the plague of 1884.

THE SONS OF SCOTLAND.

The Visit of the Toronto Scotchmen to Peterborough—A Poetical Address.

In the afternoon the members of the Sons of Scotland Society, Toronto, marched up to the Central Park to the music of the Massey Band. At the Park a programme of sports and games was carried out.

During the progress of the games, etc., Messrs. James McKenzie, Grand Chief, Stephens, Secretary, Warnock, manager of the games, Millar, Smith and others, were met by a deputation from the Peterborough St. Andrew's Society, and after taking a place upon the platform in the drill shed,

Mr. Charles Cameron, in the unavoidable absence of the President, addressed those present, welcoming them to our inland town. He extended a hearty greeting to them, not only on behalf of the Scotchmen, but on behalf of the citizens in general. Although the notice given of the coming of the excursionists was very short, they had been met at the depot and welcomed by a large concourse of the people of all nationalities. He was glad to see the people from the Queen City, and although he had been informed that many came here expecting to find nothing but a small village, he felt confident that they would leave with a far different opinion, as Peterborough stood to-day the largest town in the Province, and at an early date he expected to find it among the cities of the Dominion. All classes and creeds united in honoring the visitors, and would endeavor to make things so pleasant for them that they would again visit us at an early day. He then introduced Mr. William Telford, the bard of the local St. Andrew's Society, stating that that gentleman was seated on his reaping machine when he heard that the Sons of Scotland were coming here, and he immediately sat down and wrote them a poetical welcome.

Mr. Telford then stepped forward and read the following address:—

Welcome to the Sons of Scotland, from Toronto, on their Excursion to the Town of Peterborough.

Sons of Auld Scotia, young an' auld,
Come welcome, to our hame' la fauld;
Shame fas the Scot that wod look cauld
At you, brave Sons of Scotia.

You wedded Scots may come yersel',
But bring your wife and bairns as well;
Unbuckled callants, bring your belle,
And link her as in Scotia.

There may be half, there can't be mair,
First breath they drew was pure Scotch air;
Canadian Scots alike maun share
Joys wi' old Sons of Scotia.

Bring Donald in Heeland costume bricht,
Bagpipes beneath his oxter tight;
Set Peterborough folks clean ghyt
Wi' the skirlen notes o' Scotia.

Make drone and chanter squeal and ring,
Strike Telouch Garum—up they spring;
They heel and toe, the Heeland Fling,
The brawest dance o' Scotia.

Bring na braidsword—nor warlike spear,
Nae blindy Claverhouse is here;
Enjoy this day, that freedom dear,
Forefaithers gained in Scotia.

We canna set you doun this day
On Heather'd hill or gouan'd brae,
Where some of you in youth did play,
When little bairns in Scotia.

Though far fra there, love wields its dart,
And makes us not the Scotchman's part,
Wi' brither hand an' Scottish heart,
We meet you, Sons of Scotia.

This day recalls scenes long past by,
Enjoyed in youth by you and I,
O, spurn that Scot that would deny
He was a son of Scotia.

He has no richt to show his face
Among the rale true Scottish race,
Some barren Isle the fittest place
For ane ashamed of Scotia.

Such lots o' oatmeal it would take
To gie each one a farel o' cake,
Perhaps some auld Scot's teeth would shake
To crack the cakes o' Scotia

There's nane wants paritch, I suppose,
Nor bicker o' guid Scotch Kail brose,
Its fer ower hot for sic a dose
This day to Sons of Scotia.

O' pardon me that's but a joke,
Baskets well filled wi' better stock,
They like guid stuff like ither folk
Tho' they be sons of Scotia.

You acted selfish—here it lay,
Your advertisement for to-day
Why? not one single word you say
About daughters of Auld Scotia.

In song still bear them in your mind,
The lass, the wife, the mither kind,
Ah! but for them—where would you find
This day—one son of Scotia.

Sons of Scotland! days like this
Recall the past, renews our bliss,
Convincing us there's naught amiss
In being a son of Scotia

And why? because her honored name
Has proved the pathway up to fame;
To-day how may heroes claim
To be sons of Scotia?

Auld Scotia, thou art not forgot,
Sic visits binds ilk brither Scot;
There micht be mair to tie love's knot
Mair richt twixt sons of Scotia.

Come welcome! sound your pibroch clear,
Toronto Sons of Scotland dear
I pledge my word you will find here
Some true, loyal sons of Scotia.

Whenever the thought comes in your crown
Of another visit to this clown,
Send word to this puir country down,
He will meet you, Sons of Scotia.

The reading of the poetry was received with loud applause, and Mr. Telford received many congratulations.

Grand Chief McKenzie in reply, spoke in high terms of the hospitality of the people of Peterborough, and said our town was the prettiest, most substantial and most business like he had seen, while the citizens one and all were generous to a fault. He said this was the first visit of the Sons of Scotland to Peterborough, but he felt confident it would not by any means be the last.

After the conclusion of the sports the visitors wended their way to the station. One train departed shortly after six o'clock and the other near eight. There was a very large number of townspeople down to see them off, and hearty cheers were given as the train moved away.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough it never fails. This explains why more than a million bottle were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's porous plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Truth Bible Competition

NO. ELEVEN.

THE FINAL ONE!

Closing September 15th.

A NEW PLAN.

For Persons Residing Anywhere in the World Outside the City of Toronto.

The Largest List, and Most Valuable Ever Offered by any Publisher.

RESIDENTS OF TORONTO INADMISSABLE.

A SMALL FARM FREE.

SPECIAL CLUB OFFER!

Four Pianos, Three Organs, Silver Tea Sets, Sewing Machines, Gold Watches, Silver Watches, and Innumerable other Valuable Rewards

DONT'T DELAY SENDING IN YOUR ANSWERS.

At the solicitation of many friends Truth announces one more—the final—Bible competition. Owing to the fact of so many valuable rewards going to citizens of Toronto, this competition will be open only to persons living outside the city of Toronto. Any one residing in any other part of the habitable world will be eligible to compete for these magnificent rewards. The questions—which are supplied by an eminent Presbyterian minister—are very difficult, but the rewards are valuable. We hope the publisher of Truth will meet with the success his enterprise so richly merits. Everything he has offered in previous Bible Competitions has been promptly and cheerfully handed over to the successful ones the moment they are known. We most heartily commend the paper to our readers. They will find it all it is represented to be. Full and complete lists of all those who gain rewards are given in Truth the week following the close of each competition. There will be no change, and no postponement in any way; everything will be carried out exactly as stated.

HERE ARE THE QUESTIONS.

1.—Where is Gold first made mention of in the Bible?

2.—Where does it first state in the Bible that there was only one language and one speech on the whole earth?

3.—When is Inn first referred to in the Bible? by the word inn is meant a place of rest and refreshment, commonly known now as an hotel.

Everyone competing must send one dollar with their answers, for six months subscription to Truth. And saide from the rewards themselves they will find that they have made the best investment of one dollar they ever did. Truth is full and big value for the money. Bear in mind that you pay nothing extra for the privilege of competing for these costly rewards, as you will get Truth for six months in any case for your one dollar, which is the regular subscription price, and will also get one of these rewards, provided you answers are correct, and reach Truth office in time. Don't delay.

112 to 359.—Two hundred and forty seven Ladies' Solid Rolled Gold Brooches, new and elegant designs	494 00
360 to 505.—One hundred and forty-five silver-plated Butter knives	145 00

These five acres of land above described will be given to the persons rending the middle correct answer of the whole competition, from first to last. The five hundred and four costly articles beginning with the piano, that follow No. 1 of these middle awards, will be given to the five hundred and four persons who send the next correct answers following the middle or centre reward that takes the farm. The land mentioned above could be divided up into building lots and sold to great advantage, as there are no vacant houses in the town of Clifton or Niagara Falls, as it is now called. Then, that even the last ones may not feel that they are to be left out, Truth will give a series of

CONSOLATION REWARDS.

—Beginning with another of those fine pianos, by Stevenson & Co., which have been received with so much satisfaction by the prize winners in previous competitions	$550 00
2.—Then follows another Bell Organ	250 00
3.—Another Silver Tea Set, 6 pieces, best quadruple plate	100 00
4.—Gentleman's Solid Gold Genuine Elgin Watch	100 00
5.—Lady's solid gold genuine Elgin Watch.	95 00
6.—One celebrated "New Home" Sewing Machine	65 00
7 to 11.—Five beautiful heavy Black Silk Dresses	250 00
12 to 29.—Eighteen Solid Coin Silver Watches	450 00
30 to 41.—Twelve Ladies' Solid Coin Silver Hunting-case Watches	240 00
42 to 57.—Sixteen solid Nickle Silver Watches	240 00
58 to 71.—Fourteen renowned Waterbury Watches	70 00
72 to 209.—One hundred and thirty-eight elegantly bound volumes of Universal Cyclopedia	424 00
210 to 311.—One hundred and two Ladies' Fine Rolled Gold Pins or Brooches	204 00
312 to 401.—Ninety Solid Triple Silver-plated Butter Knives	90 00

The further you live from Toronto the better you can compete for these last or consolation rewards. Bear in mind that it is the last correct answer received at the office of Truth that gets number one in these consolation rewards. The offer is open only to the 15th September, and as long as your letter bears the post mark, where mailed, of the date of 15th September, it will take its place in the order received at Truth office Fifteen days after date of closing will be allowed for letters from distant points to reach Toronto, but don't forget your letter must not bear a later post mark than September 15. All competing must send with their answers one dollar for six months' subscription to Truth, which will be sent to any desired address for the twelve months. Wherever you live, outside Toronto, you can compete at any time between now and the closing day for either the first or middle rewards, and as well as, of course, for the consolation rewards. Some one will get those five acres of land—why not you? Look up your Bible now, and see if you can find the answers to these questions. It will do you good, apart from the opportunity you have of obtaing a valuable reward in addition to Truth

SPECIAL CLUB OFFER.

If twenty-five persons join and send $50 each one of the twenty-five whose answers are correct will get their choice of a solid rolled gold brooch, new and elegant design, worth at retail two dollars; a Chambers' Etymological Dictionary, worth about same amount; a World's Universal Cyclopædia, or a volume elegantly bound of Shakespeare's Complete Works. Of course, each of the club will have the same opportunity of gaining one of the rewards in the regular list (in addition to the certainty of one of the prizes aforesaid), as though they had sent in singly. This is simply an extra inducement to clubs.

The rewards in last competition were very widely scattered over Ontario and Quebec. In fact every Province was represented in the last, not excepting British Columbia. A great many also went to the States.

No information will be given any one beyond what has above been stated. So don't waste time by waiting, but send in your answers and money now. If you happen to be too late for the first, you may be fortunate enough to obtain a middle reward, and that is where the biggest ones are. Truth directs special attention to the fact that clergymen are not permitted to compete, neither are persons who in previous competitions won prizes exceeding one hundred dollars in value. This we think exceedingly fair, and as no Torontonians are allowed to compete, the field is now open for a fair and square race for these rewards to any one, as Truth says, on the habitable globe, outside Toronto. No money will be received by telegraph or in any way but through the post-office or by express. One dollar only required Try your skill. You are sure of good value for your money anyway. Address S. Frank Wilson, Truth office, 33 and 35 Adelaide street, Toronto, Canada.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING

THE FIRE COMMITTEE REPORT ON THE WATERWORKS QUESTION.

Sewerage Discussed—Attempt to Check the Malaria Breeding—The Town now Has a Central Park—That Siding Question not Shunted—New Bridge for Hunter Street—The York Pioneers—And Other Matters.

A meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday night.

PRESENT—His Worship Mayor Cox, and Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Allen, Kelly, Green, Douglas, Rutherford, Menzies, Kendry.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From R.B. Rogers, stating that, in accordance with a resolution of the Council, he had surveyed and staked out Water street. He enclosed a plan.—Finance Committee.

Alex. Manning, of the House for Incurables, Toronto, acknowledging the receipt of a cheque for $1,000 for the maintenance of the woman Drummond,—Received.

From W. H. Moore, stating that he had been instructed by Robert Rowe to take legal steps to quash By-law No. 431, which was passed to give Mr. Yelland power to lay down a switch on Bethune street.—Referred to Town Solicitor.

From T. Guerin, asking the council to pay the burial expenses of John McDowell, $12.50.—Charity Committee.

From E. B. Edwards, asking leave to use an office in the old Toronto Bank building.—Finance Committee.

From Richard Hall and 22 others, complaining that the smoke stack of Mr. J. D. Baptie's factory was a nuisance, and asking the council to take steps to have the nuisance removed.-Fire, Water and Gas Committee.

From W. Cluxton and 8 others, asking to have a brick cylinder drain laid on Hnnter street, and that the cost be paid by local tax.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were read, that of H. C. Rogers ordered to be paid, and the others referred :—

Times Printing Co.	$13 90
Registrar of County	7 55
John Bell, for buggy spring broke on crossing at G. & Q.	1 50
H. C. Rogers, postage	4 00
R. B. Rogers, surveying Water street	36 25
John Robertson	12 20

SEWERAGE.

On Mr. Cluxton's communication a discussion arose.

Mr. CLUXTON addressed the Council and urged the necessity of the sewer asked for.

The MAYOR said the whole question of sewerage was one that demanded consideration. All cities and towns were preparing for a visit from an epidemic that was almost sure to visit here, and they should also take such steps.

Councillor CAHILL, in reply to Councillor Kendry, said that the sewer on George street was large enough to carry off what would be carried into it by the side sewer.

Mr. JAS. STEVENSON was called on and said that it was singular that the Board of Health had not taken action in regard to the sewer now on Hunter street. It was unfair to them to leave the drain in that condition.

Mr. W. LECH was also heard. He urged the importance of extending the sewer on George street. He thought that it should be constructed by general tax, but if the Council thought otherwise he would be satisfied. If such improvements on George street, however, were to be paid for by local tax, then he thought that all improvements should be paid for on the frontage tax system.

The petition was, on motion, referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

FIRE, WATER AND GAS.

Councillor RUTHERFORD read the following report of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee :

The Fire, Water and Gas Committee beg to report and recommend that the offer of the Water Company to forego their claim against the town for watering streets outside of the limits, providing that the ratepayers living on certain streets in the centre of the town sign petitions for the extension of fire protection to the number of hydrants required for such protection—26 hydrants in all over and above the hydrants now laid down on portion of Water street and also on Aylmer street, be accepted; and that the persons interested at once take the proper steps to have the required number of ratepayers sign the same. The Water Company also require the corporation to erect stand pipes, say six in all, for street watering purposes.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. RUTHERFORD,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

AN ACCOUNT.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor RUTHERFORD,—that the account in dispute between the Town and Mr. Belcher reremoving the debris from the fallen hotel on Hunter street be referred to the Mayor and Councillor Davidson, and that the Treasurer be authorized to pay the amount which they decide should be paid:—Carried.

VARIOUS MATTERS.

A discussion took place on the question of how the petitions for waterworks should be circulated.

Councillor RUTHERFORD asked when the Chairman would call a meeting of the Street and Bridge Committee? He said that the stones should be gathered off the streets, and referred to the loose paper, &c., on Chambers street and the bad condition of the sidewalk on that street.

Councillor CAHILL said that men had been put on already to remove the stones off the streets. Buildings were being put up on Chambers street and when they were completed the street would be cleaned up.

Mr. LECH complained of wooden buildings having been put up.

SPAULDING'S BAY.

Councillor ALLEN moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That steps be taken at once to raise the water in Spaulding's bay by damming the water at George street, as suggested by the Street and Bridge Committee.—Carried.

THE CENTRAL PARK.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That the grounds known as the old burial grounds be in future known as the Central Park, and that the Joint Committee have power to at once dispose of the old fence and sheds now on the ground.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that the Joint Committee were considering the park questions. The Court House Park question was left to the Chairman, who was not present.

Councillor KELLY urged that action be taken at once.

Councillor KENDRY said that the grounds would be of no use to the Agricultural Society without the fence, which had been burned.

Councillor CAHILL said that he would at a future meeting move for the appointment of a committee of councillors and citizens to procure a park for the town.

Councillor Kelly advocated the appointment of a Park Commission.

The CLERK stated that the Court House Park belonged to the town alone.

The motion was carried.

THAT SIDING AGAIN.

Councillor DOUGLAS moved, seconded by Councillor RUTHERFORD,—That no action be taken in the arbitration in regard to the putting in of the switch on Bethune street until the Town Solicitor has reported on the validity of the by-law.

Councillor DAVIDSON said that Mr. Yelland wished to commence business this fall and he should not be delayed.

Councillor DOUGLAS stated that it was well-known that the by-law granting Mr. Yelland permission to put in the siding was not worth the paper it was written on.

The motion was adopted.

HUNTER STREET BRIDGE.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That the Street and Bridge Committee be authorized to build a good and substantial bridge over the creek on Hunter street at once.

Councillor CAHILL said that a motion had been passed at a former meeting to get money from the Commissioners for this purpose, and the Commissioners were willing, but there was a doubt as to whether that could be legally done.

Councillor RUTHERFORD opposed the putting of the cost of the bridge on the roll this year.

Councillor CAHILL, in reply to Councillor Menzies, said that the bridge would probably cost $2,000, and that if they could not get the money in any other way they would put it on the roll this year.

The CLERK, in reply to Councillor Rutherford, said that $4,785 had been expended on streets and bridges this year.

The motion was carried.

THE YORK PIONEERS.

Councillor KELLY said that the York Pioneers, who are coming here on the 26th, would like to meet the Council.

The Mayor said he would be absent on that day.

Councillor KELLY moved, seconded by Councillor KENDRY,—that in the absence of the Mayor Councillor Rutherford be appointed Chairman of the Council for the reception of the York Pioneers on Aug. 26th.

The motion was carried on the following division :—

YEAS.—Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Green, Allen, Kelly, Douglas, Kendry, Rutherford and the Mayor.

NAY.—Councillor Menzies.

The Council adjourned to meet again at the call of the Mayor.

Better Hay And Pastures.

Any one passing through agricultural districts, say in June, when the herbage has nearly reached its full growth, must notice how much land is only half or quarter utilized by allowing the unchecked growth of weeds. A large portion of this land is pasturage, and the way the poor cattle have to seek out a little grass from among the overwhelming weeds is a source of actual sadness. These pasture fields, too, are allowed to go on producing noxious weeds for a series of years without an effort being made to get rid of them by the surest mode known to the observant farmer—frequent cultivation. Then again, we see the some proportion of weeds in many fields from which the cattle hay is to be cut, and this is done year after year just as though cows and other cattle would eat the weeds any more readily dry than green. It is as apparent as the sun at noonday that to whatever extent the weeds are allowed to grow, just to that extent is the land wasted. Now, that this can be avoided is clear ; and that it can be profitably avoided, in most cases, scarcely admits of a doubt. And what is true of the pasture fields is the same where the herbage is left to become hay. The good, clean field is the exception. Not only the ox-eye daisy, but sorrel and plantain and asters of kinds, which cattle care no more for when dry than green, constitute the bulk of what is to be hay and it is tolerably good stuff which has but one fourth of extraneous matter.—Germantown Telegraph.

Bogus Timber Inspectors.

The Pilot Mound Signal says :—"Amongst other annoyances to which the settlers are subjected under present arrangements is the presence in the woods of imposters who pretend that they have authority to look after timber. It is not an unusual thing for several sharp men who may have discovered a good grove to appoint an inspector in their own private interests who will keep intruders at a distance until his friends have secured the best of the trees. Very often these fraudulently appointed officers make simple and unsuspecting men leave logs which they have cut, or unload their sleighs of timber which is quickly appropriated by others who claim that they have bought it from the imposter. The insolent imposters even go further, and sell or offer to sell permits, and put the money in their own pockets."

Saved from a Horrible Death.

Up to May last I had spent at least five hundred dollars for treatment by many of the best medical men without any benefit. My mouth and throat became badly ulcerated, sores breaking on my neck and legs. I also suffered excruciatingly with rheumatism, grew very despondent, and my best friends advised me that the icy hand of death was fast approaching. I caught at Shaker Blood Syrup like a drowning man at a straw. After taking two bottles I could feel a change for the better. The sores begun to discharge freely, and rheumatism to abate. When I had taken six bottles every sore had healed and my skin began to assume a natural appearance. I persisted until I had taken twelve bottles, and there is not a symptom of the disease remaining, and I feel as well as I ever did. I have gained twenty-one pounds in flesh, and my friends wonder at my improved condition. I have recommended it to many, and in every instance with complete success. I believe that Shaker Blood Syrup has saved me from a horrible death.

T. S. CANNON,
Boston, Mass.

In 1878 I was the victim of a terrible blood poison, and after being treated by three physicians was confined to my bed, not being able to raise my hand to my head, spitting up clots of blood, and reduced in weight from 185 to 130 pounds. I then began the use of Shaker Blood Syrup, and in less than three months I was entirely well, weighing 196 pounds, and have never had a symptom of the disease since. If it had not been for Shaker Blood Syrup I believe I would have been in my grave.

THERE were forty-five deaths from yellow fever at Havana during the past week.

RECHERCHE.—Not only the most exquisite thing for the teeth and breath extant, but Teaberry is a beautiful little ornament and and finish to the toilet.

Chicken and hog cholera are prevalent in various places in Connecticut.

KILL THE BLUES, eat the best, sleep sound, keep away headache, keep your liver active, digest your food, make good blood be cheerful all day by keeping a bottle of Zopesa in your room, and take a dose twice a week.

THE liabilities of Morgan & Sons, of New York bankers, who recently failed, are $2,000,000 ; good assets, $150,000.

THERE are many perfumes which, when applied to the nankkerchief, have a very agreeable odor for a few moments and then die away, leaving only a sickly, disagreeable smell. No so with Murray & Lanman's Florida Water; the longer it is exposed the more delicate and delightful becomes its rich aroma.

THE men employed in the slate quarries of North Wales, have struck against a reduction of wages.

NOTHING succeeds like success, is as true in medicine as in anything else. By the wonderful effect of Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure in promptly alleviating the sufferings experienced in kidney troubles and producing a permanent cure in these distessing ailments, his fame has been carried over the four quarters of the globe RESCUED AT LAST.—W. H. Crooker, druggist of Waterdown, says, when all other remedies fail for bowel complaint, then Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry comes to the rescue.

BRIGANDAGE is again rife in Italy and the government is adopting energetic measures to supress it.

FLINT'S tooth powder, the peerless dentrific, contains nothing that can injure the enamel in the slightest degree; by its constant use the teeth retain their efficiency and beauty even to the extreme duration of life. Sold by J. D. Tully, druggist, price 25 cents.

ALWAYS THE SAME.—Equally safe, efficacious and valuable in hot as in cold climates, Golden Fruit Bilters have found acceptance with every nation.

THE Western Union Company was fined $25 at Chicago on Saturday for stretching wires on poles in the streets. An appeal was taken. The case will be a test one.

HONESTY.—It is commonly said that you can not make an honest man believe that white is black and vice versa, but those who have grey hair, by using the Cingalase Hair Renewer, will find that this apparent difficulty is easily overcome. Sold at 50 cents per bottle by J. D. Tully.

It is stated that the funds necessary to complete the canal connecting Lake Washington with Puget Sound have been raised, and the work will soon be commenced.

NO RIVAL IN THE FIELD.—There is no rival for Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It is the acknowledged champion for the cure of all summer complaints.

A deputation from the incorporated Chamber of commerce waited on Sir Leonard Tilley, on Friday, and discussed Canadian tariff questions. In the evening he was entertained by the members of Chamber at the Adelphi hotel.

Catarrh is a painful inflammation and ulceration of the mucous lining, bones and cartilage of the nose and air passages and can only be treated by direct application to the diseased parts. Dr. Starr's Catarrh Conqueror reaches all parts as nothing else can give relief at once. Sold by J. D. Tully, druggist, at 50 cents.

THE most deadly foe to all malarial disease is Ayer's Ague cure, a combination of vegetable ingredients only, of which the most valuable is used in no other preparation. This remedy is an absolute and certain specific, and succeeds when all other medicine fail. A cure is warranted.

NOT another Pill shall go down my throat again, said a citizen, "when I can get such a prompt and pleasant cure for my Billous attacks, as Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It renders the Blood Pure and Cool and makes a splended Spring Medicine. Large Bottles 50 cents.

ABOUT SICK-HEADACHE.—For years and years the writer had been having sick or nervous headaches after excitement, mental labor, noise or long rides. Zopesa cured me entirely. I now take about two teaspoonfuls about twice a week, enough to operate about twice, and never have a headache. I eat well sleep sound, my system is regular in every way. Zopesa is a grand thing for the liver, dyspepsia and general system. May everybody know it and try it. Ask J. D. Tully.

"MAY DEW"

The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubborn ly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented ; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white ; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any dress on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Personal.

Wm. McDonald, brother-in-law of Mr. John Doherty, Market Clerk. died on Monday of hemorrhage of the lungs. The deceased was Mr. Doherty's assistant, and was well known to be a quiet, reliable and accommodating clerk, and will be missed by the frequenters of the market.

Construction Discontinued.

The construction on the Ontario and Quebec Railway has been discontinued at this station. The men, to the number of about sixty, have been discharged, and the last construction train, under the management of Mr. J. Henry, has been removed to Toronto.

Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh south and west winds; continued fair hot weather with local showers and thunder storms, mostly in the western portion.

Reduction in Freight Rates.

About two weeks ago the Grand Trunk Railway reduced their freight rates from Montreal to Peterborough, making them for the first class 20 cents, second, 18c.; and third 15. This morning the Ontario and Quebec reduced their rates from Montreal and Toronto, making them the same from each place. This is a considerable reduction in freights from Toronto, as first class from that city was formerly 30 cents.

Mr. Haultain's Lecture.

A lecture on DECORATION (practically illustrated) will be delivered by MR. ARNOLD HAULTAIN, M.A., in St. John's Church Chapel on Monday, August 25th in aid of the Peterborough Branch of DR. BARNARDO'S HOMES. To commence at 8 o'clock, p.m. Tickets 25 cents, or 5 for $1.00. For sale at A. L. Davis', J. Sailsbury's, T. Menzies', and at the REVIEW Office.

The Rev. V. Clementi has kindly consented to take the chair.

The Foremost Town.

Peterborough is the only town in Canada which is lighted by electric light, and in only one other place in Ontario, Toronto, is the electric light in use. A new burner called the "incandescent" will be introduced into this town shortly. It is a burner of about twenty candle power. Light can be turned on and off like a common gas burner, and it is adopted for offices and private residences. A new dynamo machine has been ordered and is now being manufactured. This will be the third.

We learn that after all there is a chance of our again hearing the wonderful young violinist, Miss Nora Clench before her departure for Germany. Negotiations are in progress for her appearing at a Boating Club concert on the 3rd September. A special meeting of the club has been called for Thursday evening to make arrangements. The details of the canoe parade for Monday evening will also be perfected. All canoeists intending to participate are requested to present or send in their names by Thursday evening.

Dr. Barnardo's Schemes.

The Canada Presbyterian contains the following:—

"One of these homes was instituted a short time ago in Peterborough, an eligible house having been obtained for the purpose. It is Dr. Barnardo's intention to secure a suitable place for another in Toronto, and a third in some other convenient centre in Ontario. He also contemplates a personal visit to every child for whom a home has been found. Another object of his present visit to Canada is to secure sufficient land in the North-West for an industrial farm where lads, fitted for agricultural work, may be thoroughly trained. It is his intention to extend this philanthrophic enterprise that its usefulness may be much greater, and its benefits experienced by a large number of the class for whom it is designed. The successful working of the scheme in the past is a strong evidence that great good will result from an enterprise that has much to commend it on Christian grounds. In Canada Dr. Barnardo will meet with a cordial reception for his work's sake, and will be accorded a fair hearing. Like all other schemes, it will be tested by its results.

ÆTNAS AND PETERBOROUGHS.

An Exciting Lacrosse Match Played on Monday Afternoon.

A lacrosse match between the Ætnas of Toronto and the first twelve of the Peterboroughs, was played on the Ashburnham grounds on Monday afternoon. The Ætnas arrived on the Sons of Scotland excursion train and registered at the C. P. R. Hotel. The City Band came to the hotel to escort them to the field of battle, but on account of the number of guests the lacrosse team was unable to get dinner until nearly three o'clock.

At a few minutes past three the Ætnas Peterboroughs, City Band and the crowd moved towards the Ashburnham grounds. When on the grounds the City Band took up an umbrageous position under the elm tree, where they discoursed sweet strains at favorable opportunities during the match. The attendance was large, almost every available spot on the grounds and stand being taken up. The heads of straw rose one after another over the top of the fence on the north side of the field until the whole fence was fairly fringed.

The players presently appeared on the field. The Ætnas wore a suit composed of blue shirts and black knickerbockers, and the Peterboroughs were decked in their usual lacrosse suits. At half-past three the teams took their position on the field as follows:—

Ætnas.		Peterboroughs.
C. Elliott	Gaol	G. Giroux
J. S. Thompson	Point	P. Myles
Ross Eckhardt	Cover Point	J. Henderson
E. Gordon	Defence Field	M. Tierney
Chas. Hudson	"	J. Howden
Wm. Norman	"	R. H. Fortye
C. Thompson	Centre Field	J. J. Sheehy
E. Broomer	Home Field	A. Yelland
W. McFarlane	"	W. J. Scott
H. Taylor	"	R. S. Kelly
Grant Fleming	2nd Home	C. Rutherford
George Booke	1st Home	M. Halpin
W. Fleming	Field Captain	J. Coughlin
J. McMichael	Spare Man
H. Bennett	Umpire	A. Elliott

Mr. W. H. Morrey, of Ingersol, was chosen Referee.

At twenty-eight minutes to four Sheehy and Thompson knelt in the centre of the field and placed their sticks on the ground in a parallel position. The referee dropped in the ball and Sheehy, as a matter of course, drew it out. He made a pretty run and gave it to Scott, who in his turn passed it to Henderson, and he put the rubber through the flags. Time, 10 seconds.

The second game was somewhat longer, and more evenly contested. In this game the Ætnas did some very good checking, and the Peterboroughs some good field play. At 3.35 the ball was faced. Sheehy secured it and gave it to Fortye, who made a shot in the vicinity of the Ætnas' goal. The ball was quickly returned, and travelled from one to another till it got to the Peterboroughs' point. Myles got it on his stick and, after a short run, made a long throw down field. Eckhardt, who played well through the match, secured the rubber and started it travelling. It passed on Ætna sticks until it got behind the Peterborough goal. Giroux quickly picked it up and made a fine long throw. It next passed to Kelly, who, being closely followed, ran away from the Ætnas' goal, and just as he was about to throw, Thompson, in attempting to check him, gave him a blow which felled him in an instant. A member of the Peterboroughs made fast time across the field with a pail of water. Kelly, after being bathed with water for about ten minutes, revived and took his place on the field. During the remainder of the game Yelland and Sheehy played well together, and the former made a number of fine shots. Tierney made several long and telling throws; Halpin and Howden did some good dodging, and Henderson was one of the most active in the fray. The game was concluded by Scott, who put the ball through during a scrimmage. Time, 27 minutes of actual play.

The third game was started at 4.23. Sheehy again secured it and threw it in front of the Ætnas' goal. A scrimmage ensued until Scott made a low shot. Rutherford secured it and passed it through. Time, 2 minutes.

The clubs were then called together, cheers given for each team, and the band played "God Save the Queen."

A Fatal Accident.

By a sad accident which occurred at Buckhorn on Saturday last a man named Elias Martin, a stone mason, who was a native of the Province of Quebec, lost his life. The accident happened in this way: A man was letting down the boom of the derrick, and, as it was very heavy, it dropped down suddenly, striking Martin on the head and throwing him over the wall, a distance of 23 feet. When picked up he was unconscious and he never recovered his senses. Life departed five hours after the accident. The unfortunate man was interred in the Young's Point Cemetery. He was a good workman and was highly respected by the men with whom he worked.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE

AS

GOODNESS

Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indispensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

Giroux & Sullivan.

The Banner Week

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Where these Silks are procured, or why they are sold so cheap is no affair of the customers'. It is enough for them to know that they can buy here about 25 per cent. less than the pervading prices throughout the town. Do not fail to ask for our Summer Silks at 42½c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. See our Black Dress Silks at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, warranted pure silk both filling and warp. They are heavy in texture, beautiful in finish and quality, surpassing anything in the town at 25 per cent. higher in price. Don't fail to see them at

—IS—

COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours,
J. M. JOHNSON,
Missionary to Swatow, China.

Beware of counterfeits and imitations. Ask for the genuine Perry Davis' Pain-Killer and take no other.

A PRIZE

Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine

A HOME DRUGGIST TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

EAST TORONTO VS. PETERBOROUGH.

A Good Exhibition of Cricket in the Cricket Ground on Tuesday.

A very interesting game of cricket was played on the Ashburnham ground on Tuesday between the above clubs. The ground was in very fair condition, and, with the exception of a slight shower, the weather was all that could be desired. The Peterboroughs went first to the bat and, owing to the excellent bowling and fielding of the visitors, the score was kept within very reasonable limits. Strathey, Grundy and Rutherford being the only players to contribute any considerable quota of runs. In their first innings the East Torontos were rapidly disposed of, the fielding and trundling of the home club being exceptionally good. Croswaithe, Smith and Hamilton ran up 3, 8 and 6 in very pretty style. The Peterboroughs in their second attempt, were quite prolific of runs, Hamilton and Strathey reaching double figures. The former added 10 runs to his credit in easy form, while the latter quickly knocked together 46, made up of one 3, eighteen 2's, and several singles. In their second innings the Torontos went in to make 113, but were able only to put together 51, out of which Hamilton and Cooper made 15 and 8 respectively, by an easy exhibition of good cricket.

It is only fair to state the East Torontos were deprived of the services of a couple of their first-class players. The total for each club was, East Toronto, 92, and Peterborough, 155, the home club thus winning by 63. The following are the scores:—

Firemen's Demonstration.

Mr. Frank Smith, who is here on business connected with the firemen's demonstration, which takes place in Toronto on the 15th and 16th of September, called on us to-day. Mr. Smith informs us that this demonstration will eclipse anything of the kind ever held in Canada. $1,200 will be offered in prizes, besides medals, bugles, etc., and it is expected that two thousand firemen will be present. On the 15th and 16th the firemen will be allowed free admittance to the Exhibition Grounds both during the day and evening. The grounds will be lighted with the electric light, and a powerful light will be elevated to the height of 150 feet. It is expected representative firemen from this town, together with their band, will take part in the demonstration, and we hope to see our reelmen bring back one of the handsome prizes.

PORT HOPE.

PERSONAL.—From the following from the New Mexico Stock Grower, it will be seen that Mr. David Rubidge, of Denver, Col., formerly of this town, is going extensively into stock-raising in New Mexico:—"Mr. David Rubidge, of Denver, and Mr. Day, of Trujillo, New Mexico, were in Las Vegas this week. Mr. Rubidge was in Las Vegas for the purpose of receiving a car load of fine bulls, which belong to himself and Mr. D. A. Irwin. The bulls were a remarkably good lot, and came through in good shape from Kansas City. They were purchased from Stobler. Day Bros. are managing the Irwin & Rubidge cattle, and have a nice herd of their own. Mr. Rubidge is going into the cattle raising business on a large scale. In addition to the herds already purchased, he will receive 100 heifers at San Hilario next week. The young bulls have been thrown into the herd received at Las Vegas, and the whole outfit will start for Trujillo to-day."—Times.

FIRE AT MIDLAND.

Four or Five Thousand Dollars' Loss—The Water Gives Out.

Shortly after twelve o'clock noon, on Monday the cry of fire disturbed the town. It was soon known that Mr. T. Offer's furniture store and the photo gallery of Mr. S. Perrin were in flames. Mr. Perrin occupied the upper portion of Mr. Offer's building and on rushing down stairs noticed that Mr. Offer's portion of the building was on fire. They then ran up stairs which was by this time burning. On reaching the top Mr. Perrins ears, face, and hair were badly burned. His wife was overpowered by the heat and smoke. Mr. Perrin caught her in his arms, and jumped from the gallery, and they narrowly escaped with their lives. While Offer's building was burning it was thought by everyone that the town would share the fate of Port Perry. The local firemen worked well although the only appliances were axes and spades. The blacksmith shop owned by Duncan, and occupied by Ed. English, and Elliots building was burned to the ground. Before the flames were quenched the water gave out in the neighboring wells and water was carried from the bay. Perrin's lost $1,500, insurance $550; Offer's loss about $600, insurance $300; Elliott's $2,800, insurance $1,300; Mr. Covey's loss is heavy and no insurance. Mr. English losses stock, no insurance, Mr. Hick's injury to building is covered by insurance.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 1884.

A TOWN PARK.

We were glad to hear from the lips of more than one of our Town Councillors on Monday evening a decided expression of opinion as to the advisibility and even necessity for immediate action being taken for the procuring of a park. It was well shown that most valuable time had already been needlessly wasted; that the summer was drawing to a close; and that the numerous visitors by excursions which had visited Peterborough during the last few months might, with a little foresight and zeal on the part of our authorities, have taken away with them most pleasant memories associated with our town had there been for them a cool, shady, and green resort in the shape of a park in which to spend their leisure hours.

It was pitiable indeed to see visitors from great distances, visitors from large cities, from various points, to whom Peterborough was altogether a terra incognita, wandering (at all events during the earlier part of the day) aimlessly, hot, dusty, and tired, round the tempting Court House Square, and worse, through the glaring streets. A park is always the favourite rendez vous of these sight-seers. The character which a town bears amongst, not only its neighbouring, but also amongst its more distant, civic acquaintances, is largely owing to the impressions carried away by these transient travellers. These impressions may without hesitation be considered as so much actual capital possessed by the town and put down to her credit, to be called upon in the hour of need. The value of this capital it is certainly within the power of our municipal authorities to increase. The raw material, the crude product must be supplied by our inhabitants themselves. The mint is our Town Council. The coming of this bullion into glittering golden opinions, this is the work of our Mayor and Councillors. To drop the metaphor: The grounds and the wherewith (taxes) to improve them, are the possession of the people in general; the utilization of such grounds, and the forming and carrying out projects for their beautification (let us call it) this is the duty of our civic officials.

We have been called the "Plate Glass City," and, from a commercial aspect, that is a high compliment, proving as it does, the enterprise of our business men. Why should we not also earn the appellation of the "City of Parks"? This would be a unique cognomen highly valuable to Peterborough. The very name breathes of such pleasant resorts as the heart of the summer traveller longs for, and would without doubt bring to us very many more excursions than already we are blessed with.

The summer, we fear, is now too far gone to admit of any large undertaking being more than initiated: to demolish any unsightly buildings that may detract from the suitability of any prospective locality; to put up tasty fences; to prepare the ground itself; to erect fountains; to plant trees; to manufacture seats; to dig flower beds; to build a keeper's residence—for the completion of these and multitudiuos other duties, we must wait till the spring or summer of 1885. But let us begin, begin in earnest—begun is half done. Let us definitively make choice of our grounds, and let us at once issue orders for the commencement of all that the wishes, and as much as the pockets, of the ratepapers will allow. Meanwhile, why not use temporarily the grounds we already possess—the Court House Square, the Drill Hall grounds, or, as by a motion at the Council meeting on Monday this latter was called, the Central Park? Even the use of these would be an inestimable boon to such sight-seers as may, during the next two months, visit Peterborough, and we believe that during the following week alone two excursions are to make their way here: one from Orillia on Thursday, and the York Pioneers on the Tuesday following.

The choice and completion of a town park is, we grant, an undertaking of no mean importance. It is one fraught with many difficulties: the town and county councils claiming the same parcel of ground; private interests advocating various localities; the numerous calls made simultaneously upon the public purse, etc., etc. This last, indeed, is not an easy one to surmount. There is the water-works question; the sewerage question—both gigantic and expensive schemes. But Peterborough must awake to the fact that the more she grows the more she can grow; the greater her progress the greater her capabilities of progress. And if this park question—a question that bears two aspects: an economical and a sanitary—is considered in a liberal spirit, we may rely upon it that, when once a decided conclusion is arrived at, all obstacles will be surmounted, and the public with one voice will applaud and further the undertaking.

REFORM REJOICINGS.

It is announced that a grand reception will greet Mr. Mowat on his return home. It is not quite clear what the rejoicing will be about.

Many of us rejoice because the award of the arbitrators has been upset. Of course there is nothing in the British North America act to prevent Reformers rejoicing too. But it appears like an insult to Mr. Mowat to carry on their rejoicings in his presence.

Then many of us rejoice because Ontario is likely to get more territory than the award of the arbitrators gave her. There is no constitutional reason why the Reformers should not share in that gladness; but if they do they will rebuke Mr. Mowat, not honor him, for Mr. Mowat has for five or six years obstinately refused to try to get more territory than the award covered, though he admitted that the award wronged Ontario.

Many rejoice because after long, vexations and acrimonious controversy the boundary matter is at last settled. Still it is quite reasonable for Reformers to participate in the joy But still, in doing so, they rebuke Mr. Mowat, for that gentleman has for a dozen years obstinately refused to settle it in the only practicable and legal manner possible. At length public opinion and circumstances have compelled him to settle it, and we suppose the Reform demonstration will be evidence of joy that the little Premier has been forced in spite of his obstinacy to consent to Ontario getting his own.

Verily there is more joy over the Mowat who repents than over ninety and nine just Tories who need no repentance.—Hamilton Spectator.

IN

LADIES' JOURNAL

Bible Competition No. 7.

Closing September 11th,

OPEN TO THE WORLD

GREAT CLUB OFFER.

The Leading Rewards are Lot 50 x 150 at Toronto Junction, Pianos, Organs, Sewing Machines, Gold and Silver Watches, Silver Tea Sets, &c.

The proprietor of the Ladies Journal now announces a magnificent list of rewards for correct answers to Bible questions. It is surprising how little is known of the Bible. The questions are not so difficult this time as last, and we should be glad if there was a hearty response so as to encourage the proprietor of the Journal to persevere in his good work. It was announced in the June issue of the Ladies' Journal that the competition which closed last month would be the last for the present, but it has been decided to try one more.

All money must be sent by post office or express. No information will be given to any one more than is stated here. So send on answers, and don't waste time writing. Do not send postage stamps unless six cents is added for the discount. Remit by postoffice order, scrip or small coin.

THE BIBLE QUESTIONS:

1.—Is Diamond referred to in the Bible? If so, state first reference.

2.—Is Emerald made mention of in the Bible? If so, state first reference.

3.—Is Sapphire spoken of in the Bible? If so, state first reference.

These all refer to the precious stones.

Now, any one having a knowledge of the Scriptures ought to be able promptly to answer these questions with a little study, and so secure some one of those rewards. Bear in mind every one competing must send FIFTY CENTS with their answers for which the Ladies' Journal will be sent one year to any address. If you answer each of the questions correctly and your answers are in time you are sure to secure one of these costly rewards.

THE FIRST REWARDS.

1—One Elegant Rosewood Piano, a magnificent instrument	$525 00
2—One Fine Cabinet Organ, by Bell & Co., Guelph	250 00

112 to 179—Sixty-eight volumes of World's Cyclopedia—a library in itself	194 00
180 to 227—Forty-eight solid rolled gold brooches, elegant patterns	144 00

The above two hundred and twenty-seven costly rewards will be given to the first two hundred and twenty-seven persons who send correct answers to the Bible questions given above. Then come the

MIDDLE REWARDS.

1—A lot 50 x 150 in excellent position at Toronto Junction; clear title and will shortly be worth double or treble its present value	$250 00
2—A very fine Cabinet Organ, by Bell & Co.	235 00
3 to 10—Eight celebrated Williams Singer Sewing Machines	520 00
11 to 13—Three Ladies Solid Gold Hunting Case genuine Elgin Watches	300 00
14 to 20—Seven fine heavy Black Silk Dresses	720 00
21 to 37—Seventeen solid quadruple plate Ice Pitchers	480 00
37 to 58—Twenty-two Ladies Fine Coin Silver Hunting Case watches	550 00
59 to 81—Twenty-three beautiful heavy Silver-plate Cruets	315 00
82 to 211—One hundred and thirty volumes Chambers' Cyclopædia	325 30
212 to 479—Two hundred and sixty-eight Solid Gold Rolled Brooches, beautiful patterns	670 00
480 to 532—Fifty-three Triple Silver-Plate Butter Knives	53 00

The lot at West Toronto above described will be given to the person sending the middle correct answer of the whole competition from first to last, and the five hundred and thirty-one rewards following the middle one will be presented to the five hundred and thirty-one persons sending the next correct answers following the middle one. So you can compete any time, and be almost sure to get something in addition to the Ladies' Journal, which is great value for the half dollar subscription. Then follow the

CONSOLATION REWARDS.

1—One gentleman's solid gold stem-winding and stem-setting genuine Elgin Watch	$100 00
2—One fine quadruple plate, Silver Tea set, 6 pieces	100 00
3—One ladies' solid gold stem-winding and stem-setting genuine Elgin Watch	95 00
4 to 7—Four fine, heavy Black Silk Dress Patterns	240 00
8 to 19—Twelve quadruple plate Ice Pitchers, finely chased	390 00
20 to 31—Twelve genuine coin silver hunting case Ladies' Watches	360 00
32 to 50—Nineteen fine black cashmere Dress Patterns	380 00
51 to 69—Nineteen fine quadruple Silver Plate Cake Baskets	328 00
70 to 100—Thirty-one beautifully bound volumes Hood's Poems	93 00
101 to 167—Fifty-seven fine rolled gold Brooches	171 00

This list of consolation rewards will be given to the last one hundred and fifty-seven persons who send correct answers to the Bible questions given above. But bear in mind, your letter must bear the postmark where mailed of 11th September, the closing day of this competition. Fifteen days will be allowed after closing day for letters from distant points to reach the Ladies' Journal office. But you can, of course, send in any time between now and the 11th of September, and your letter will take its place at the publication office in the order it arrives there. All letters are carefully numbered as they arrive, and there can be no mistake. If your answers are correct, and they reach there in time, you will surely get some reward in addition to the Ladies' Journal, which alone is big value for the half dollar. If you don't get anything but the Journal you will be well pleased with your investment, as it consists of 20 pages of fashions illustrated, short and serial stories, poetry, newest music, household hints, etc.; in fact, just the paper to suit every lady.

By subscribing in a club with your neighbors you will secure some considerable advantage—that is, there must be at least thirty of a club, and all who send correct answers to the Bible questions may have their choice of a handsome ring, heavily gold-plated ladies' gold brooch, which retails at about one dollar and a half, of a triple-plated butter knife. Either of these you may wish will be sent postage paid. You will thus secure to a certainty one or other of these two presents, and in addition will have as good an opportunity of gaining some one of the other large rewards in lists given above just as well as though you had sent in singly. This is simply an inducement to get up clubs. We are sure our readers could not do better than to try their skill in hunting up these questions and competing for these rewards. Everything will be carried out exactly as promised.

Prizes in last competition went all over Canada and to many parts of the United States.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

How to Make Candy.

This book gives full directions for making all kinds of plain and fancy candy. The receipts for making caramels, chocolate drops, French mixed and all other kinds of candies contained in this book are the same as used by the leading city confectioners. Any one can have these candies at home at less than one third the usual cost. Sent post paid for 50 cents (no stamps taken). TRIP TO SCOTLAND FROM LIVERPOOL.

By an Old Correspondent.

I left Liverpool for Aberdeen on the 9th of July, after spending a very happy week in the former city. To get a good view of the country I took the early morning train from Lime street station. The scenery along all the route is very beautiful. From all appearances so far the farmers will have good crops. The hay crop has turned out well. Grain is also looking well, and the potatoes and all root crops—no bugs to annoy the growers of potatoes in this country. The station masters along the line have the grounds around their respective stations prettily laid out with all kinds of flowers—roses being the ruling flower. Sixteen years have elapsed since I last visited the Granite City, and I find a great many public improvements have been made. I may mention that as far as sanitary improvements are concerned for the health of its inhabitants, the City of Aberdeen stands second to none in Scotland.

On Monday, the 14th July, being the annual merchant's holiday, we took a trip to Ballater. The scenery along the Deeside Railway for its grandeur and beauty cannot be surpassed—the lovely rippling river Dee—the mountain scenery on both sides for miles is really grand—only to be enjoyed by the romantic. After getting a refresher, and a good dinner, we took a stroll along the mountain sides until 4 o'clock, when we had tea, consisting of fresh fish and chops. From Ballater you see the hills of Lochnagae—where the famous Scotch whiskey is distilled. The distance was 15 miles, or your correspondent would have had a taste of the barley bree,—it takes the shine out of Gooderham & Worts' 7 year old. Balmoral is nine miles distant, but as no one is admitted within the grounds, owing to the infernal dynamite business in this country, I did not go. Her majesty does not come here until the middle of August. The number of villages that has sprung up along the line of railway as far as Ballater is really surprising; nearly all within the last twenty-five years. It certainly has paid the proprietors well, as the land for farming purposes is not of the best, being light gravelly soil, which wants a lot of rain to forward the crops. Therefore royalty has done so much good to this northern portion of Scotland. I may here mention to my friends in and around Peterborough that it made my heart warm to see the hills abounding with the bonnie blooming heather and the yellow broom; also to hear the soaring lark with early morning song, the blackbird, mavis and the lintie, they all help to bring back the days o' auld lang syne. I would strongly advise old Canadian friends who can spare the time and money to take a trip to this delightful part of Scotland; it will be something to talk about for the remainder of their lives. A particular friend of mine belonging to the Tailor Incorporated Trade took me through their hall called Trinity Hall on Union street, there are 7 incorporated trades—viz: the Hammermen, bakers, wrights and coopers, tailors, shoemakers, weavers, and fleshers, and a large, stained glass window is allotted to each, figures with their respective coats of arms, some of the large high-backed oak chairs with their coats of arms in their large hall are dated as far back as 1574. The chairs are in excellent perservation and are very antique, a more complete set is not to be met with in Scotland. It may be interesting to give the date of the Incorporation of the Trades—weavers 1449, shoemakers 1484, wrights and coopers 1527, hammermen 1519, tailors 1532, bakers 1532, fleshers 1532, (the several trades pay out annually £8000 sterling to deceased members' widows and orphans). The city of Aberdeen is said to be one of the most ancient towns in Scotland, its earliest charter given by William the Lion confirming certain privileges which were granted the town by David the First is still extant, dated about 1179, its Provosts can be traced from the year 1272, the population of the city last census was about 106,000. The Prince and the Princess are coming to the city early in August to present a new set of colours to the Gordon Highlanders, which will be a gala day for the citizens, they being so popular. The sea beach for bathing purposes cannot be surpassed in Scotland. The salmon fishing is also one of the best, likewise the herring, and haddock fishing. After enjoying myself a couple of weeks, I left Aberdeen for Glasgow, then took the train for the city of Edinburg, where a great many of my own friends reside, having lived there from 1846 to 1857, in the latter year I bid adieu for the first time for Canada, which I call with great pride my adopted country where the British flag is justly respected. On July 24th I visited the Forestry exhibition and enjoyed it very much, but very sorry to say that our Canadian provinces, with the exception of Manitoba, where such fine timber is grown and known in all parts of the world was not represented, a big mistake more so regarding Ontario. The Government should have voted money and been represented in this fine exhibition. There were some very fine specimens of different kinds of woods grown in Windsor Park and woods, such as oak, birch, ash, Scotch fir, &c. Some of the trees when they were cut were over 200 years old. A slab of cedar of Lebanon, 120 year's growth, from Windsor Forest, was a curiosity. I saw some fine specimes of timber of all kinds from India and several foreign countries, which were all very much admired. Manitoba was well advertised; they had a model of a farm house, log stable, &c.; a waggon, sleigh, &c., and two gentlemen were busy distributing pamphlets, maps, &c., of their country. A capital idea. All helps to aid immigration to that country. Nothing like having an eye to business.

From Edinburgh I took the train to Galashields, the great manufacturing town for Scotch tweeds, famed all over the world. After dining at the house of a large manufacturer, who is married to an old acquaintance of our family, he ordered his carriage to be brought out and drove my wife and I to Melrose, through Damisk, a fine old village, where I was born, and got my first schooling—from a Mr. Howden. He was a very strict old gentleman, and brought his pupils up well in arithmetic, reading, grammar, geography, &c. He is now gathered unto his fathers. It is 28 years since I last visited this part of the country. Nearly all my old schoolmates are either dead or gone to foreign countries. I found 3 or 4 of them, however, (ladies) and glad we were to meet again and chat about our childhood days, playing truant, &c. I had a stroll through Melrose and went to see Melrose Abbey. It is a grand old ruin. I have several friends interred in the old church yard. The old tomb stones are fast going to decay, for want of attention. If time would have permitted, I would have liked very much to have spent a couple of weeks in and around Melrose. Damisk, the scene of my childhood, is in an interesting part of Highland Scotland—full of history, and the land of Sir Walter Scott, whose fame will never die out, but be handed down to posterity.

I am now again in Liverpool, where I intend to remain until we sail, which will be on August 9th, in the SS. Arizona (of the Guion line) for New York, and (D.V.) will be back to Peterborough about the 22nd or 23rd inst. Wishing all my friends the top of the morning and adieu for the present.

A MAMMOTH MILL.

Wood and Iron, San Francisco, Cal., speakin of the great mill of Hanson & Co., at Tacoma, W. T., says: This mill is situated on the headwaters of Puget Sound, and is one of the largest and most complete on the coast. It is 450 feet long, 80 feet wide, and has a capacity of 225,000 feet of lumber and 60,000 lath per day. It has all the latest improved machinery, including steam feed gangs, scantling machines, live rollers, etc., known to the lumber manufacturing community. In this mill timber 150 feet in length and of the largest size can be sawn as readily as a lath, so complete and perfect are all its workings. On the Tenino and Olympia railroad the company control numerous logging camps, from which is procured the finest timber and spars in the world. There is now being shipped from this mill a full cargo of spars for the Chinese market, this cargo following a former one of sawn timber from 12 by 12 to 26 by 26, seventy feet long and upward, from same mill and for same market. At Tacoma they own fifty-four dwelling houses, occupied by their employees. These houses are built with all the modern conveniences, and partake of the attractiveness of a well-regulated home. The company also run, in connection with their lumber business, a mammoth store, carrying an immense stock of dry-goods, groceries, hardware, boots and shoes, shipchandlery, etc. In connection with the office of the mill and store is a telegraph office, giving them all the wire accommodations of the day. Four vessels, ranging from 700 to 1,200 tons, belonging to them, are engaged in carrying lumber to different ports, while from four to six vessels loading for foreign ports are constantly at the wharf, carrying in quantity from 500,000 to 1,500,000, and the steam tug Tacoma, the strongest tug on the waters of the sound, is kept busy. The firm also has a fine mill at Redwood City, which has a daily capacity of 20,000 feet. In all of this firm's enterprises over 1,000 men are constantly employed the year round. This gigantic business, with all its branches and workings, is managed, conducted and handled by one man, Mr. Charles Hanson, the founder of the enterprise, and the only person composing the firm of Hanson & Co.

HAVOC IN THE MAINE FORESTS.

The terribly destructive worms are again at work upon the juniper-trees, which already begin to present the same dead, dry appearance as they did last year—leaves, twigs, and even some of the bark, being devoured by the ravenous swarms of insects. In 1883 countless thousands of juniper and spruce trees in the northern Maine forests were attacked by this worm, and lumbermen were alarmed, while naturalists were puzzled. Whole townships of timber were almost destroyed by the pest in 1883. The trees were stripped of their foliage, and then the worms would bore in under the bark by hundreds, sapping the timber's vitality, and causing the whole growth to appear as though scathed by fire or suffering from a severe drought.

It was noticed that spruce suffered most where the growth was thick, and last winter all the smaller trees were culled out, so as to leave more nourishment from the soil and free air for the larger. Some scientific men recommended this, and others gave it as their opinion that the worms were generated in fallen and decayed trunks, thence issuing to attack sound trees, and claimed that the forests to be free from the scourage, should be weeded out and cleaned like a garden. Others still said that the advent of the worms was a natural advent, one to be expected, and that it would soon pass away. In cold weather the attack did cease, only to be renewed this summer. Many of the trees which were attacked last season are now dying. They put out green leaves in the spring, but the shoots were sickly, and now look dead and dry.

Maine's forests are extensive, but not inexhaustible under such conditions as now prevail. The axe makes a drain of 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 feet a year on Penobscot's banks alone, and probably 500,000,000 feet a year in the whole state, and cyclones have levelled whole townships of timber.

NEW WOOD WORKING FACTORY.

A company was formed about a year ago at Elgin, Albert County, N. B., with a proposed capital of $10,000, for the purpose of establishing a wood-working factory. The locality is famous for the great variety and excellence of its hard wood, and, having railway connections, is especially adapted to the line of industry undertaken. The directors of the company are all local men whose names are: W. B. Jonah, J. W. Steeves, J. M. Layden,—Babkirk, D. M. Steeves, G. M. Killam, C. S. Horseman, Charles McGee During the last spring the site was selected at Elgin Corner, near the terminus of the Elgin Branch Railway. On this, building have been erected of the following ground dimensions: Main building 50x30 feet, with extensions 80x26; engine house 30x40; dry house 25x30. Steam power will be used. An engine of 80 horse power, with tubular boilers, made in the most substantial and improved style by the large firm of E. Leonard & Sons, of London, Ont., has been put in position and is a handsome piece of machinery. It is intended very shortly to make a commencement in manufacturing butter tubs of hardwood, carriage hubs, spokes, etc. The business will be developed into other lines, especially with a view to supply the English market. The two hundred shares of stock in the company have been nearly all taken up in the Parish of Elgin. This speaks volums in praise of the enterprise of the parish, which is of comparatively recent settlement. Elgin has been always a prosperous and progressive locality, and may be expected to make still more rapid advance when the new industry is once under way.—Telegraph.

The "Standard" on the Irish Vote.

The London Standard expresses surprise that Cleveland should send a letter to the Irish meeting at Boston. It says even if the letter was inoffensive in substance, it is to be presumed it would not meet the approval of Englishmen. The power of the Irish vote in America shows the power it is likely to attain here.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

UNANIMOUS APPROVAL OF MEDICAL STAFF.

Dr. G. T. Comstock, physician at Good Samaritan Hospital, St. Louis, Mo., says: "For years we have used it in this hospital, in dyspepsia and nervous diseases, and as a drug during the decline and in the convalescence of lingering fevers. It has the unanimous approval of our medical staff."

"MAY DEW"

The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubborn ly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any address on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

The Market.

The market, as might be expect at this time of the year, was not well attended this morning. What was offered for sale consisted chiefly in garden produce. Fowl was scarce and the price high. Apples were offered in abundance and the price is coming down.

A Short Run.

This forenoon shortly after eleven o'clock a horse attached to a buggy ran down George street from Hunter to Simcoe. Several persons tried to stop the horse but in vain. Just as he come to Simcoe he found it a little too hard work to run on such a hot day and stopped of his own accord causing a five minutes flutter of excitement.

Carried off in a Cart.

On Tuesday a woman under the influence of intoxicating liquor was conducting herself in an indecorous manner on Elizabeth street, Ashburnham. Constable Craig tried to persuade her to return to her home, but she would not do so, and the constable hailed a butcher's cart which was going by. He put her into the cart and had her driven to the lock-up.

Light for All.

China Hall has the largest and best assortment of lamps and chandeliers in Peterborough, consisting of 2, 3, and 4 light chandeliers, polished brass and brony, 2 one light hanging lamps, portable kitchen and bedroom lamps at any price. China Hall pays particular attention to the lamp and coal oil part of its trade and will undersell all other dealers. If you desire variety, cheapness, and durability in the above goods buy at China Hall.

The Police Court.

This morning at the Police Court things were in rather a muddled state. The Police Magistrate was absent and Mr. James Stevenson, J.P., who was to act for him, was unable to be present. Mr. T. Menzies, J.P., who was applied to, but he had something else to do, and the constables could not find a Magistrate to act. One defendant, who was charged with assault, and his lawyer, after waiting for nearly an hour, walked out of the Court. It is a pity that such a thing should have occurred.

To-morrow's Lacrosse Match.

There will be an excursion from Orillia to Peterborough to-morrow, as that town will hold its civic holiday on that day. A lacrosse match will be played here for the Central Ontario Championship by the Peterborough and Orillia Clubs. This is likely to be a very interesting match, as the Peterboroughs were a short time ago defeated by the Orillias, but the home club will make a determined effort to retain the championship medal and they expect to be successful.

It is Probable

—That the cricketers feel satisfied and a little elated over their victory yesterday.

—That the people are finding out that the town has a good cricket club.

—That the Hastings and Norwood papers will not cease quarrelling till they cease to exist.

—That their readers would not complain if they laid down their cudgels during the hot spell.

—That the weather prophets will discuss the change in the moon which takes place at 9.54 to-night.

—That the Saved Army will have a monster pic-nic at Idyl Wild on August 27th.

That the five or six car loads of people who went to Norwood to-day on the St. Paul's excursion will not feel the heat so much in the grove as they would in town.

—That we will have moderate to fresh, south-east and south, west winds; fair, continued hot weather with local showers and thunder storms.

CHEESE FAIR.

The Fortnightly Market—Bids Made but not Accepted.

The regular fortnightly Cheese Fair was held in the council chamber on Tuesday afternoon. There were fifteen factories represented. Mr. Flavelle, of Lindsay, and Mr. Cluxton, of Peterborough, were the buyers present. The market was conducted by Messrs. Taylor and Drummond, and the Liverpool market stood 52 shillings. Mr. Cluxton offered 9½ cents for the July cheese, which was held over from last fair, but the offer was not accepted. Mr. Flavelle offered 10⅞, 11¼ and 11¼ cents for August, September and October cheese respectively, taking his choice of four factories. Mr. Cluxton made a similar offer for the choice of four different factories, but neither offers were accepted by the sellers. The following is a list of the factories represented and the amount of cheese offered by each. All the cheese being colored:—

	July	Aug.	Sept.	Oct.
Keene		360	330	200
Warminster		290	250	150
South Douro	55	150	125	90
Frewern	200	300	300	200
Otonabee Union	45	100	80	50
Selwin	108	190	170	100
Lakehurst		50	50	58
Myrtle		200	175	100
South Dummer		340	200	200
Lilly Lake		110	100	80
Cherry Grove	60	100	100	80
Lakefield		200	175	150
Norman Hurst	60	100	80	50
Glenthorn	60

At the conclusion of the fair Mr. Cluxton stated that as he and other buyers came here and spent their time for nothing, it was only fair that the dairymen should hold their cheese over till next fair, and not dispose of it to outside buyers.

Mr. Drummond said that he hoped the dairymen would consider what Mr. Cluxton had said and that any one who sold in the meantime would help to destroy the market. The sellers expressed themselves as favourable to Mr. Cluxton's request, and Mr. Galvin, of Lakehurst, moved, seconded by Mr. Edwards, of Warminster, —"That the salesmen here present to-day keep their cheese and honor this market with it on Tuesday next week."

The motion was carried unanimously, and the fair adjourned for one week.

A LARGE GATHERING.

Lawn Social at Mr. Geo. A. Cox's Residence Well Patronized.

A lawn social was held at the residence of Mr. Geo. A. Cox on Tuesday evening. Several hundred people were present and thoroughly enjoyed themselves during the evening. The grounds were brilliantly illuminated by electric light; appropriate mottoes were erected from tree to tree; flags of different colors hung gracefully from the green boughs; flower-girls were busily engaged inveigling the young men into buying bouquets; and the refreshment tables in the different parts of the grounds were well patronized. The spacious halls and parlours of the residence were thrown open; the lawn was in perfect condition, being trimmed with the utmost precision, and the numerous flower-beds under the beaming radiance of the electric lights looked like beautiful specimens of waxwork.

The Peterborough Fire Brigade Band were present, and the really fine programme rendered by them in their superlative style drew forth frequent applause. To the musical critic the following programme will speak for itself:—

Triumphant	Quickstep	R. Smith
Silver Bells	Waltz	J. Shaw
Emira	Fantasia	Excudie
Dream Faces	Waltz	Josef Meissler
Kyrie and Gloria, from 12th Mass		Mozart
Il Trovatore	Selection	Verdi
Shamrock Leaves	Quadrille	T. H. Wright
Under the Stars	Waltz	Josef Meissler
Relief of Ekowe	Grand Fantasia	T. H. Wright
Memoirs of Gallee	Quickstep	South

God Save the Queen.

In the above classical programme the band did unusual credit to themselves, some of the selections calling for a second rendering. Mr. Miller is bringing the band to a state of perfection that is highly creditable and speaks volumes for them at the approaching band tournament in Bowmanville.

At about half-past ten the public began to disperse, everyone being well satisfied with the evening's entertainment.

Huckleberries.

A fine supply of choice ripe Huckleberries, fresh from the pickers, just received at CARTON BROTHERS', opposite the Market square. Selling at very reasonable prices.

Ho! for Tweed.

The public are reminded of the grand excursion of Court Little John and the Ancient Order of United Workmen, to the beautiful town of Tweed, situated on the line of the O. & Q. Railway, on Thursday, August 21st. This promises to be a most enjoyable trip, and the comfort of those who attend is assured. The train leaves the O. & Q. station at 8 o'clock a.m. Return Tickets, $1, children 35 cents. Now, then, merrymakers, get your knapsacks ready, and take a holiday.

To-Morrow's Match.

The following is a list of the names of those who are chosen from our lacrosse club to play against the Orillias to-morrow for the championship of Central Ontario:—

Fell off a Scaffold.

Edward Quinn, while working this morning at a house which is being erected by Nathan McNichol at the north end of George street, fell from a scaffold which was about eighteen feet from the ground. He was bruised in several places, but was not seriously injured.

The Allandale Mills.

The Allandale Mills, which were put up at auction on Tuesday, were not sold, as the bids did not reach the reserve bid. They will be sold by tender, as will be seen by the advertisement in the next issue of the WEEKLY REVIEW. Tenders will be received up to the 15th of September.

A beautiful sight to behold is the extensive fall range of French 6¼ Tweeds at Habiliment Hall.

The Weather.

The readings of the thermometer and barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store today were as follows:—

	Ther.	Bar.
Nine o'clock	80°	29.23
One o'clock	91°	29.18
Three o'clock	87°	29.17

A falling barometer indicates an approaching storm.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE

AS

GOODNESS

Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indespensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

The Banner Week

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Where these Silks are procured, or why they are sold so cheap is no affair of the customers'. It is enough for them to know that they can buy here about 25 per cent. less than the pervading prices throughout the town. Do not fail to ask for our Summer Silks at 42½c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. See our Black Dress Silks at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, warranted pure silk both filling and warp. They are heavy in texture, beautiful in finish and quality, surpassing anything in the town at 25 per cent. higher in price. Don't fail to see them at

—IS—

COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

J. M. JOHNSON,
Missionary to Swatou, China.

Beware of counterfeits and imitations. Ask for the genuine Perry Davis' Pain-Killer and take no other.

A HOME DRUGGIST TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

THE ASSERTED REACTION

THE election in Queen's County, Prince Edward Island, where the Conservative candidate, Mr. Jenkins, has been returned for the House of Commons with a substantial majority is an event of some importance. We have heard much boasting by the Reformers as to an alleged reaction against the Conservative Administration of Canada, and especially have we been told that the Maritime Provinces were bitterly opposed to the National Policy and its originators. Several elections have now taken place in the Maritime Provinces since the last general election, the result being that the Conservatives have not lost a single seat, but have on the other hand gained. It is unprecedented that an Administration with so great a majority should have become stronger instead of weaker after a sweeping victory at a general election.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

THURSDAY, Aug. 21.—John Perkins was charged before Thos. Menzies, J.P., and Jas. Stevenson, J.P., with having been drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty, and having been before the court only once before was fined $1 without costs.

VAGRANCY.

Gilbert Defoe was charged with being a vagrant and having no visible means of support He said that he had been out of work for some time but that he could now obtain a steady job. He was fined five dollars or thirty days in jail, with the understanding that he would be released from the penalty if he went to work immediately.

ASSAULTS.

Joseph Frank, F. Sullivani, and Felix Cookinin were charged by John White with having unlawfully and maliciously attempted to maim him with a knife. Mr. C. W. Sawers appeared for the prisoners, and Mr. J. O'Meara for the prosecutor. Mr. Sawers raised the objection that the offence the prisoners were charged with was not within the statutes. He also stated that he would enter, on behalf of the prisoners, two cases of assault against White. It appears that from the statements of several onlookers the fault was mutual. The charges were withdrawn on both sides.

TERRIFIC FIRE.

Brockville Loses Forty Thousand Dollars' Worth of Property.

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 20.—About 10 o'clock last night the alarm of fire was given, and the brigade was soon out in full force. The fire originated in the second of a stone building on Perth, near Main street, occupied by P. L. Lennon and used for keeping and sorting rags. The flames spread very rapidly to some frame sheds in the rear, travelling both towards Maine and George streets, taking in its course and destroying nearly the whole of the buildings facing on Perth street between those two points. In fact only about one-half of Mr. Everett's hotel on the corner of George street George street was saved, and that badly damaged by water. At the rear of these buildings is a small drive way separating them from the large wholesale grocery and provision warehouses of Y. Gilmour & Co. This structure is a two-story stone, with gravel roof, extending back two hundred feet from Main street, with wooden stores at the rear, through to George street, then running east to John street. These frame building were filled with wooden wares, including a car-load of matches just put in. It was among these tinder-boxes where the firemen did noble work.

LOSSES AND INSURANCE.

The sufferers are Mr. Hannon, of Montreal, owner of all the buildings destroyed, except Everett's Hotel. Loss, $12,000, insured. Mrs. Wilson, corner of Main and Perth, large private boarding house, $500, insured; McLean, produce merchant, lower floor of next building, $500 insured; J. C. Lennon, second floor over McLean's, and next building, tinshop, $2,500 insured in the Standard for $800; E. A. Eve the agricultural machine agent, and Chas. Kilbourne, marble cutter, occupied the next building, insurance held in Toronto. Loss not known. In most cases the contents of the building were saved, though very badly damaged. Mr. R. Everett's hotel $1,000 loss on the building, and 1,000 on the furniture; insured only on the building. The loss to T. Gilmour & Co. wholesale grocer and provision merchants, is heavy, as the windows were all burned out on the side next the fire, and the goods were badly damaged by water and smoke. A pony engine in the building with hose on each floor, no doubt saved the structure. The water works although not completed, did great service, and no doubt saved that end of the town.

Everything fresh, new and spicy in the Gents' Furnishing Line can now be found at Andrew McNeil's.

COBOURG.

SOME OF THE "GLOBE'S" CALAMITY.—Mr. Crossen says he never, since he began to manufacture, had so many men in the iron department as he has at the present time. He forges ten tons of bar iron daily. Globe please copy.

BROKE HIS WRIST.—One day last week as a young man named Lewarne was engaged in building a coal house at the gaol he lost his balance, and in falling, broke the wrist of his right arm.

GOOD FISHING.—Col. Chambliss with a party from the Arlington, and a number of gentlemen from the town, spent two days at Rice Lake last week, and secured one hundred and fifty-six bass, aggregating in weight three hundred and nine pounds. They caught a large quantity of perch as well.—Sentinel Star.

THE NEW PIER.—On Monday morning at five o'clock, Mr. J. W. Dinwoodie sank the third and last crib of his present contract. The east pier now extends 400 feet south of the lighthouse. Mr. Dinwoodie, in order to facilitate work in bringing stone from the quarry, built a yacht and placed in it an engine, 7 horse power. Now a scow of stone can be brought from the quarry in ten minutes, whereas it took over an hour before the steam yacht was used. Work on this contract began on the 23rd of May and will probably be finished in three weeks. Great credit is due Mr. Dinwoodie for carrying out his contract carefully and with despatch.—World.

Latin Monetary Conference.

The programme of the Latin Monetary Conference to meet in Paris, in Oct. 25, includes the settlement of the question as to whether the Latin Monetary shall be renewed or go into liquidation on the 1st January, 1886, when the present Conference expires. A French delegate will move that the Union be renewed until 1890. A proposal will be made to bind each state to take back all the silver coins issued by it on the expiration of the new Conference, giving therefor either gold or bills, payable in the country which remains a creditor.

A Run on a Drug Store.

Never was such a rush made for any drug store as is now at Taylor & McDonald's for a trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. All persons afflicted with asthma, bronchitis, hoarseness, severe coughs or any affection of the throat or lungs, can get a trial bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at the above drug store.

THE WORLD OVER.

Sultan Pasha, President of the Egyptian Legislative Council, is dead.

The coronation of the new King of Annam occurred with great pomp.

Col. Clibbern, of the Salvation Army, has been expelled from Neufchatel.

The Lion oil mills, near Hull, were burned on Monday. A large quantity of linseed and cottonseed was destroyed. The damage amounts to $500,000.

The military have been called out to quell an anti-Jewish riot at Parkany, a market town of Hungary.

A French steamer sailed on Monday from Algeirs for Tonquin with 1,300 troops and war material.

A terrible plague of locusts has visited Central Spain. The damage to crops about Ciendad Real amount to ten millions of dollars.

The French mail steamer James, of the Hong Kong, Yokohama line went ashore in a fog on 25th July, and is probably a total wreck. No lives were lost.

The third duel with swords has been fought between Emmanuel Arene and Ernest Gudet, Paris journalists. Arene was wounded in the arm. Perrieres, of the Paris Figaro, and Mariotti, Violincellist, also fought a duel with swords, the latter received two wounds.

At a French Cabinet Council on Saturday it was decided to recall General Millot, the commander of the French in Tonquin, and replace him by General Negrier at that post.

M. Deschamel, editor of the Paris Journal des Debats, has commenced an agitation, under the prompting of M. Ferry, for the cession to France by England of the Leeward islands in exchange for French concessions on the coast of Newfoundland.

The Duc de Marny and several of his friends on Saturday night attempted to replace the statute of the Duke's father on its pedistal. The statute was removed at the fall of the Empire. The gendarms interfered and the Duke and his friends retired. There is much excitement over the affair.

Gen. Millot telegraphs as follows:—"I have published a proclamation to the people coupled with an ultimatum regarding the regents' pretentions. The French flag has been hoisted over the citadel at Hue, the capital of Annam."

Yokohama advices say the decrees of the Government of Japan have established four orders of notables, including dukes, marquises and viscounts. A National Assembly is to be established in 1893, and will consist of an Upper and Lower House.

Advices from West Africa state that Dr. Nachtigall, German Commissioner, has appeared in a gunboat on the rivers Cambercoons and Bembia, in Upper Guinea, and hoisted the German flag.

The autumn manœuvers have been postponed a week. It is believed that an opportunity will soon be made for the Emperor of Germany to meet Francis Joseph and the Czar together.

There was a large meeting of Liberals at Ghent. The Government was severely denounced. The meeting was orderly throughout. The mayor prohibited the holding of a Catholic counter meeting, because it would tend to provoke strife. It was resolved to present a protest to the Chambers against the education bill. If the bill passed the Federation will summon delegates from all parts of the country and petition the king to veto the bill.

A New Province for Canada.

For some time past a movement which may prove of very considerable importance has been carried on among Jamaica proprietors in this country to promote steps for the entry of Jamaico as a province in the Dominion of Canada. Several consultations have taken place, and correspondence is still going on on the subject It is urged that the restrictions of the market in the United Kingdom for Jamaica sugar in consequence of the continental bounty system, the uncertainty of the market in the United States owing to reciprocity treaties allowing the import of a considerable quantity of sugar duty free, and the possibility of a growing import of sugar into the United States from the bounty-giving countries of Europe, offer good reasons for securing some market where the produce of Jamaica can be favourably received upon some basis of permanence that would encourage the investment of capital in the extension of the cultivation of a product for which the island is particularly adapted. This, it is thought, can be secured by the Island becoming a member of the Canadian Dominion. The conditions suggested are those, modified in some degree, applied in the case of British Columbia. As far as Canada is concerned, it is contended that a tropical province would give completeness to the Dominion, by the addition of fresh population and different resources, and that a free import of sugar would lead to the development of a very large industrial enterprise in the manufacture of sugar in Canada. There is some probabilty, we believe, of a prominent member of the Jamaica legislature, who has been spending some time in London, bringing the matter before that body, and possibly endeavouring to obtain before doing so some authentic expression of opinion from the Canadian government on the subject.—Canadian Gazette.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

THE subject of imperial federation is now attraction much attention and is being widely discussed. It seems to us, however, that its advocates and opponents alike, both in Canada and in the mother country, are overlooking some important points and are making a variety of assumptions that are by no means well founded. It is taken for granted that the federal representation of the Dominions and colonies will be in the present Parliament of the Three Kingdoms. It is stated that Canada for instance, would have a very small proportion of the members, and consequently little influence. It is also assumed that the Dominion would have to incur a heavy proportionate expense. Others take for granted that we would have to abandon our National Policy, and to give up our present control of our own affairs.

Now all these assumptions are far from being well founded. If Imperial Federation is to be carried out, and it is not likely to be accepted in a hurry, no such simple change as an addition of colonial members to the present Parliament of the Three Kingdoms would be sufficient. Whenever the various members of the British Empire are ripe for such a change, there must be a Federal Legislature to control such affairs as are agreed upon as being under Federal jurisdiction. The Parliament of the Three Kingdoms (or perhaps three Parliaments by that time) would have no more to do with Canadian matters than the Parliament of the Dominion would have to do with matters pretaining to England, Ireland and Scotland. The Imperial Council or Legislature would have to deal with Imperial not local interests—no other arrangement is likely to be acceptable. In this way we would still retain our National Policy tariff, unless indeed it were modified or abandoned in return for special privileges granted to us by other members of the Federation, which would necessarily be a matter of bargain.

As to Canada with its smaller population and wealth not having sufficient influence in the Federal Legislature, it is quite possible that if the change is too long postponed the objection might come from the mother country that we could outvote them. Sooner or later the preponderance must be with Canada, to say nothing of Australia, South Africa, &c. The growth that we are anticipating would also render little burdensome our contribution towards the Federal expenditure.

Though it cannot be said that Imperial Federation is a question that is now pressing for settlement, or is of immediate importance to Canada practically, yet it may well be that some such plan as we have sketched may hereafter be devised and adopted. There is no objection to discussing or even working patiently for such an end. Certainly, it would be far better to do so that to aim at independance, cutting us adrift from our noble Empire and its glorious flag, or at annexation to the neighbouring republic.

INCONSISTENT CRITICS.

IT is impossible apparently for the opponents of the National Policy to adhere to one line of criticism. In some comments upon an article in the Hamilton Spectator upon "The Cost of Living," the Globe says:—

"Business men know that although the duty paid on imported flour was only $132,478, the flour consumed in places remote from our wheat growing lands in excess of what would have been paid had there been no duty is many times that amount. And so of other articles produced largely in Canada."

Over and over again the leading Reform journal has told the farmers of Canada that the National Policy has not increased the price of what they sell, and has raised the cost of what they buy. Now the farmers are told by the same authority that the price of their wheat has been increased by the National Policy, and they know by their own experience that nearly everything they have to buy is cheaper than under the regime of Messrs. Mackenzie, Blake and Cartwright. Theories are very well in their place but they cannot controvert facts patent to all.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

THE GLOBE'S POLICY.

We observe in a Grit journal the following headline:—"Contraction the policy; not expansion.' But is there not some mistake about this? The Globe's policy seems to be "Detraction of manufacturing industry, and expansion of lies concerning it.—London Free Press.

AND FAR BEYOND.

Sir Sohn, at least, has the proud satisfaction of being known in every corner of the Dominion.—Toronto Globe (Reform.)

GOT HIS PRICE.

Whenever you hear a man talking loudly and continuously of his country's wrongs, and suggesting the necessity for an appeal to arms, the chances are that he is talking for a place. Conspirators who mean business do not talk loud and long. Word comes from Manitoba that Mr. Baily, chief inspector and organizer of the Farmer's union, who last winter cursed the dominion government and the Canadian Pacific railway, has entered the employment of the railway company! The only wonder is that the company thought him worth buying off.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

A CONTENTED NORTHWEST.

It is doubtful if anywhere in the Dominion there are a more contented, hopeful class of people than are the settlers of the Northwest. Not one in a hundred would consent to change his condition to what it was before coming here. They are satisfied with their present prospects and surroundings, and strong in their faith for their future. The friends in the east who are suffering the most painful anguish on their account are assurred that it is wholly wasted.—Winnipeg Times.

THE EFFECTS OF THE N. P.

This tax was called National Policy. It had the effect of building up manufactories all over Canada and giving employment to the people who for many years were obliged to go to the land of Uncle Sam to get bread.—Montreal Post (Indep.)

BRITISH PEERAGES.

The snobbishness which makes a man run after a lord, truckle to him, ape his ways, quote him as an authority, and boast of being his friend or distant kinsman, has its counterpart in the foolish impertinence which makes a man write that titles confer no dignity, and are beneath a sensible person's acceptance. A title is only ridiculous when it can be won too easily, or be or usurped, which is not the case with British peerages; and, although people may differ in opinion as to the value of an hereditary House of Lords as a political institution, nobody can dispute that the peers as a body form a class with whom any man of mark may feel it a credit to be associated.—Orillia Packet.

WHEN MOST NEEDED.

It is alleged that if we were to wipe out the protective tariff here, it would be rendering a great service to Canadian manufacturers. On the contrary, the adoption of Free Trade would be the commercial ruin of Canada. It is when there is a depression and that prices are low abroad that we most need protection. It is when the tempest has reached its height outside, that we most need a breakwater to protect the port and save the ships. The man who in a time of crisis wants to destroy the breakwater because the tempest is rising in the port, shows conclusively that he has lost his wits.—Le Courrier du Canada.

THE SAVING INFLUENCE.

The resources of the country, fostered and protected by the National Policy, are proving too much for the croakers.—Winnipeg Times.

THE MEXICAN TREATY.

It was really pressure from Canada that induced the Imperial Government to renew its endeavours to secure diplomatic relations with Mexico. With the cause of the quarrel between Great Britain and Mexico, which led to a suspension of relations of friendship and trade, Canada had nothing whatever to do. It was no cause why our trade should be crippled with the third largest country on this continent, that Merico had repudiated its financial engagements with British bondholders; and representations were made to the Imperial Government which have resulted in a change that will be highly beneficial to Canada. Sir Leonard Tilley, as specially charged with that branch of our business, has been most active in securing the renewal of these trade relations. The trade that we may do with Mexico is well set forth in a return made to the Canadian Parliament last session.—Ottawa Citizen.

INDECENT HASTE.

It would be only decent on the part of the Opposition organs and leaders to wait until in power before distributing important appointments with such lavish generosity.—Montreal Star (Indep.)

POINT THEM OUT.

A little honesty in controversy would be a welcome change on the part of the Globe. Returning to the question of reciprocity, it asserts that several signs on the part of Congress of a desire to enter into a reciprocity treaty with Canada have been given, but that our government did not want to see them. Will the Globe specify any one of these signs and any one specific or general act of the Dominion Government hostile to reciprocity.—Montreal Gazette.

LINDSAY

FIRE.—On Tuesday afternoon about 2 o'clock a fire was discovered in what is known as the oil room in the Jewett house. A boy it appears was shortly before cleaning and trimming some lamps one of which was lighted for some purpose This one exploded or set fire to the table, which being covered with oil soon got beyond control An alarm was promptly given but owing to the blackness of the coal oil smoke it was difficult to get at the fire. Mr. E. Wickham and a number of others secured pails and went to work with a will while the fireman rushed promptly to the scene with their hose and drowned it out. Though a narrow escape but little damage was done. Experts say about $50 will place everything right again.—Warder.

WORK AT THE STATION.—The Grand Trunk authorities have decided to put in their own plant and conveniences for furnishing water for the locomotives at the Lindsay station. A large tank is being built at Montreal calculated to hold about 50,000 gallons. An engine and pump house will be built underneath the new bridge on the river bank. In the pump house will be placed a Worthington steam pump and a boiler to furnish steam. The large tank will be placed at an elevation some distauce up on the bank. From the tank to the station two six-inch iron pipes will be laid at such a depth as to be frost proof. Two water tanks will be put in, one at the station and another at the round-house, from which locomotives will be supplied. It is estimated that the outlay will amount to about $5,000.—Post.

Mr. Knight tells us that at the late entrance examinations held at Lindsay twelve of the candidates did not put their names to their papers, although instructed to do so. By a failure to observe instructions these young people practically disenfranchised themselves. The papers showed a full number of marks for the work done, but could not, for the reason given above, be credited to the candidates.

A. C. A. CAMP.

The following verses were read at a camp-fire meeting of the A. C. A. on Grindstone Island, with a letter from the author expressing his regrets at not being able to attend, and his good wishes for the success of the A. C. A. and its annual camp:—

A. C. A. CAMP, 1884.

My thoughts drift out toward you—
The boys of A. C. A.—
In your camp upon the island,
This glorious August day.

To one and all best wishes
Go with my heart and hand,
Reached out toward your camp fire,
By river breezes fanned.

May your joys excel in numbers
The islands of the lake;
Bright stars be with your slumbers,
And sunshine when you wake.

May your shadows never lessen
As meal-time rolls around,
And "Dinner, here, mo-hee-gans!"
E'er prove a welcome sound.

May A. G. C. C.'s banner grow
To Jumbo's monstrous size,
Till at each turn its field of blue
Greets proud Lake George's eyes.

May "Nigger-boggers" and "New Yorks"
Their jealous feelings calm,
And in contiguous tents lie down
As fabled lion and lamb.

May "Vauxy" win a sailing prize,
The first upon Eel bay,
And Nickerson and Shedd remain
Twins of the A. C. A.

May Fernow catch the largest fish
In Thousand Island lake,
And Edwards with a snide John Smith,
A new acquaintance make,

May Wood, the mountain climber,
In tramping take the lead,
And Oliver avoided be
By festive centipede.

May the dudelet of the party,
Though clothed like western tramp,
Meet kindliest reception
Within the ladies' camp.

May Tyson get his rigging
Arranged to suit his taste,
And whitlock understand his sails
And where his lines are placed.

May Coudert get enough to eat,
And Neide sleep his fill;
Brentano serve the porridge
In style "just fit to kill."

May Neilson in his roomy pearl
His bed of blankets make
Without a single night-mare dream
Of racing with the "Snake."

May Green and Hoffman wash the plates
Without a quarrelsome word,
And artist Taylor tell such tales
As never yet were heard.

May Baldwin run the scale of ills
That gripped his sickly man
In such a way to bring the laugh
As only Baldwin can.

May Wilkin roll a human down
In bloodless vocal fight,
And Robert Neide make a mash
For each mosquito bite.

May Keyser, Wicksteed, Kensington
And all the other boys
Spend days brimfull of gladness
And rounded up with joys.

May the ladies—Heaven bless them!
Lend to the camp their grace,
And in return gain homage
From the manliest of our race.

Their smiles and songs of gladness
And glance of brightest eyes
Make of their wave-kissed island home
An earthly paradise.

May Britain's flag and stars and stripes
Toward each other lean,
And "Hail Columbia" stir the heart
To sing "God Save the Queen."

May American canoeist's outing
In forest and on stream
E'er prove a rest from cankering care—
A happy summer's dream.

May the sun of many an August
Our annual meetings see
While brighter grow the colors
Of the A.C.A. burgee.

Each member float for years to come
In waters without shoal,
Ere's loosed the cord of silver
Or broke the golden bowl.

And when life's cruise is over,
The paddle laid aside,
And the sail is furled forever
On this side Jordan's tide

May the softest breeze of heaven
Your spirit vessels kiss,
And waft you to a harbour
Where is eternal bliss.

ORANGE FRAZER.

Wilmington, O. Aug. 1.

Saved from a Horrible Death.

Up to May last I had spent at least five hundred dollars for treatment by many of the best medical men without any benefit. My mouth and throat became badly ulcerated, sores breaking on my neck and legs. I also suffered excruciatingly with rheumatism, grew very despondent, and my best friends advised me that the icy hand of death was fast approaching. I caught at Shaker Blood Syrup like a drowning man at a straw. After taking two bottles I could feel a change for the better The sores begun to discharge freely, and rheumatism to abate. When I had taken six bottles every sore had healed and my skin began to assume a natural appearance. I persisted until I had taken twelve bottles, and there is not a symptom of the disease remaining, and I feel as well as I ever did. I have gained twenty-one pounds in flesh, and my friends wonder at my improved condition. I have recommended it to many, and in every instance with complete success. I believe that Shaker Blood Syrup has saved me from a horrible death.

T. S. CANNON,
Boston, Mass.

In 1878 I was the victim of a terrible blood poison, and after being treated by three physicians was confined to my bed, not being able to raise my hand to my head, spitting up clots of blood, and reduced in weight from 185 to 130 pounds. I then began the use of Shaker Blood Syrup, and in less than three months I was entirely well, weighing 196 pounds, and have never had a symptom of the disease since. If it had not been for Shaker Blood Syrup I believe I would have been in my grave.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain and cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. Its value is incalculable It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system, Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the perscription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of every symptom of those distressing complaints? If you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's vitalizer. Every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use accordingly, and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Mothers.

If you are failing, broken, worn out and nervous, use "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All. Druggists, 50 cents.

Nor another Pill shall go down my throat again, said a citizen, "when I can get such a prompt and pleasant cure for my Bilious attacks, as Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It renders the Blood Pure and Cool and makes a splended Spring Medicine, Large Bottles 50 cents.

"Hub" Cough Cure, 25 Cents.

Prescription of a Boston physician, dispensed years by a Boston Druggist. One dose will cure any ordinary cough. It acts almost magically Ask J. D. Tully for a 25 cent bottle of Hub Cough Cure.

Answer this Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75c. we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Oh! how tired and weak I feel I dont believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning? Oh yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50 cents.

Salt Rheum Cured.

Are you troubled with salt rheum, rough skin, pimples or canker Sores; if so at once go to John McKee's drug store and get a package of McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Price 25 cents. It was never known to fail.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

INFELICE.

By AUGUSTA J. EVANS WILSON

Author of "St. Elmo," "Beulah," "Micaria," etc.

CHAPTER XXX.—CONTINUED.

There was more peace in Olga's countenance as she clasped one of Regina's hands in hers, than her companion had yet seen, and after a moment, she continued:

"You know, dear, that we are only waiting for congress to adjourn, in order to have Mr. Chesley's escort across the ocean, and he will arrive to-morrow. Erle Palma is exceedingly anxious that you should accompany us, and I trust your mother will sanction this arrangement, for I should grieve to leave you here. Perhaps you are not aware your guardian has recently sold his house, and intends purchasing one on Murray Hill."

"Mr. Palma cannot possibly desire my departure half so earnestly as I do, and if I am not summoned to join my mother, I shall insist upon returning to the convent, whence he took me seven years ago. There I can continue my studies, and there I prefer to remain until I can be restored to my mother. Olga—how soon will Mr. Palma be married"

"I do not know. He communicates his plans to know one, but I may safely say if he consulted merely his own wishes, it would not be long delayed.

Unwilling to indulge a reverie so fraught with pain and humiliation, Regina returned to "Egmont," resumed her transalation of a speech by "Clarchen." Ere long Hattie knocked at the door:

"Mr. Palma says please to come down to the library; he wishes to speak to you."

"Ask him if he will not be so kind as to wait till morning? Say I shall feel very much obliged if he will excuse me to-night."

In a few minutes she returned:

"He is very sorry he must trouble you to come down this evening, as he leaves home to-morrow."

"Very well."

Mr. Palma was walking slowly up and down the long room, and had paused in front of the snowy azalea. As she approached, he put out his hand and took hers, for the first time since they had sat together in the Park.

"How deliciously this perfumes the room, and it must be yours, for no other member of the household cares for flowers, and I see a cluster of the same blossoms in your hair."

"I had forgotten that Olga fastened them there this afternoon. I brought it in from the greenhouse in —— street, where I often get bouquets to place under mother's picture."

She had withdrawn her hand, and folding her fingers, leaned her face on them, a position which she often assumed when troubled.

"Flowers are always associated in my mind with early recollections of my mother, who had her own greenhouse and conservatories. They appear to link you with the home of your former guardian, and the days that were happier than those you spend here."

"That dear parsonage was my happiest home, and I shall always cherish its precious memories."

"Happier than a residence under my roof has been? Be so good as to look at me; it is the merest courtesy to do so, when one is being spoken to."

"Pardon me, sir, I was not insinuating a comparison; and while I am grateful for the kindness and considerate hospitality shown me by all in this pleasant house, it has never seemed to me quite the home that I found the dear old Parsonage."

"Because you prefer country to city life? Love to fondle white rabbits and pigeons, and stand ankle deep in clover blooms?"

"I daresay that is one reason; for my tastes are certainly very childish still."

"Then of course you regret the necessity which brought you to reside here?"

He bent an unusually keen look upon her, but she quietly met his eyes, and answered without hesitation:

"You must forgive me, sir, if your questions compel me to sacrifice courtesy to candour. I do regret that I ever came to live in this city; and I believe it would have been better for me, if I had remained at V—— with Mr. Hargrove and the Lindsays."

"You mean you would have been happier with them than with me?"

As she thought of the keen suffering her love for him had entailed upon her, of the dreary days and sleepless nights she had recently passed in that elegant luxurious home, her eyes deepened in tint, soddened in expression, and she said:

"You have been very kind and generous to me, and I gratefully appreciate all you have done, but if you insist on an answer, I must confess I was happier two years ago, than I am now."

"Thank you. The truth, no matter how unflattering, is always far more agreeable to me than equivocation or disingenuousness. Does my ward believe that it will conduce to her future happiness to leave my roof and find a residence elsewhere?"

"I know that I should be happier with my mother."

"Then I congratulate myself as the bearer of delightful tidings. Regina, it gives me pleasure to relieve you from your present disagreeable surroundings, by informing you of the telegram received to-day by cable from your mother. It was dated two days ago at Naples, and is as follows: 'Send Regina to me by the first steamer to Havre. I will meet her in Paris.'"

Involuntarily the girl exclaimed:

"Thank God!"

The joyful expression of her countenance rendered it impossible to doubt the genuineness of her satisfaction at the intelligence; and though Mr. Palma kept close guard over his features, lest they should betray his emotion, an increasing paleness attested the depth of his feelings.

"How soon can I go?"

"In two days a steamer sails for Havre, and I have already engaged passage for you. Doubtless you are aware that Mrs. Palma and Olga hold themselves in readiness to start at any hour, and your friend and admirer Mr. Chesley will go over in the same steamer; consequently with so chivalrous an escort, you cannot fail to have a pleasant voyage. Since you are so anxious to escape from my guardianship, I may be pardoned for emulating your frankness, and acknowledging that I am heartily glad you will soon cease to be my ward. Mr. Chesley is ambitious of succeeding to my authority, and I have relinquished my claim as guardian, and referred him to your mother, to whose hands I joyfully resign you. A residence in Europe will, I hope, soon obliterate the unpleasant associations connected with my house."

"A lifetime would never obliterate the memory of all your kindness to me, or of some hours I have passed in this beautiful library. For all you have done, I now desire, Mr. Palma, to thank you most sincerely."

She looked up at the grave, composed face, so handsome in its regular, high-bred outlines, and her mouth trembled, while her deep eyes grew misty.

"I desire no thanks for the faithful discharge of my duty as a guardian; my conscience acquits me fully, and that is the reward I value most. If you really indulge any grateful sentiments, on the eve of your departure, oblige me by singing something. I bought that organ, hoping that now and then when my business permitted me to spend a quiet evening at home, I might enjoy your music; but you sedulously avoid touching it when I am present. This is the last opportunity you will have, for I must meet Mr Chesley at noon to-morrow in Baltimore, and thence I go on to Cincinnati, where I shall be detained until the steamer has sailed. After to-night, I shall not see my ward again."

They were standing near the azalea, and Regina suddenly put her hand on the back of a chair. To see him no more after this evening, to know that the broad ocean rolled between, she might never look again upon the face that was so inexpressibly dear; all this swept over her like a bitter murderous wave, drowning the sweetness of her life, and she clung to the chair.

(To be Continued.)

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

DEATHS.—Mrs. Robinson died at her son's residence (A. Robinson) Villiers, on Tuesday 12th inst., at the ripe age of 78 years. The funeral was held on the following day, and was attended by a very large number of friends. She was laid at rest in Westwood cemetery. Mrs. Stewart also died on the same day at the residence of her son-in-law D. P. McIntyre at the age of 63 years. The funeral was also largely attended, and she was laid at rest in the Pine Grove cemetery, Keene.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Mr. Mein has a number of masons at work and they intend to rush the walls up as soon as possible. The windows were placed in position on Tuesday last. Mr. Harper of Norwood has his men at work.

BUSINESS.—Mr. Wylie, shoemaker, has bought the brick store one door west of the Victoria House, and intends opening a large boot and shoe store before long. The Victoria drug store will shortly be opened with a full supply of drugs, patent medicines, fancy goods &c.

SAVED ARMY.—The Saved Army has withdrawn from Keene for the present. The officer in charge at Allandale has expressed a very hard opinion of this village, and one which we think it does not deserve. However, she is working hard at her own post, but finds it a hard one to uphold. We wish the army every success in storming the battlements of sin in our northern village.

NUISANCE.—For the last few nights a cow has been in the habit of meandering our streets the night through accompanied by the-at-no-time very pleasant sound of a bell. Several of the village dogs help her along every now and then giving a livelier tone to said bell, but she always returns. A number of the residents threaten to shoot either the cow or the bell or both. We hope that both will be removed so that persons will not be disturbed during their sleep.

SCHOOLS.—Mr. W. G. Campbell and Miss Wright have reopened the Keene school, but the idea of keeping children shut up in a close illventilated school at this season with the thermometer at 90° and upwards in the shade is outrageous and should not be allowed.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Mr. Lang is fitting up a new dwelling house opposite the Methodist Church which he expects to occupy this winter.

DUCKS.—There are a large number of shots heard on the lake since the season opened, but so far very few ducks have been shot.

TWO WEDDINGS.—Mr. Robt. Chambers of Allandale, section foreman on the Grand Junction Railway and Miss Johnston of Hastings, were married in Hastings on Wednesday evening, and have gone east on their wedding trip. Mr. Zach Renwick of Keene and Miss Douglas of Allandale were married by the Rev. Francis Adams on Wednesday at the Manse, Keene.

ENTERTAINMENT.—An entertertainment in aid of the fund of the Methodist Sunday School library will be given shortly in the Town Hall. Miss Minnie Gallon is manager-in-chief. As number of vocalists are expected from Lindsay and elsewhere.

ALLANDALE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

THE ARMY.—The Saved Army had a gospel temperance meeting on Sabbath evening Aug. 17th. The hall was so crowded that a number had to stand during the services. The meeting was opened with singing, prayer, and reading the scriptures. Miss McCormack gave an address on temperance, forcible and convincing, which was listened to with attention. A number then gave testimony as to the benefit of temperance, after which all in the congregation, who thought the drinking customs, &c., were a source of evil, and temperance agitation a move in the right direction, were requested to rise. The expression then given was almost unanimous in favor of temperance and adverse to the liquor interests. Lieut. Boyler conducted the singing.

PASTORAL VISIT.—The Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, of Ashburnham, was in our village on Aug 18th, visiting and cheering the sick and otherwise doing good in the service of his Lord. May abundant success attend his efforts in the advancement of truth.

THE HARVEST.—The farmers in locality are very busy filling their barns and all speak hopefully of a good yield.

FENELON FALLS.

A GRIST MILL.—All our readers, farmers especially, will be glad to hear that Messrs. McDougall & Brandon will almost immediately commence the erection of a steam grist mill and a flour and feed store on the land purchased a few days ago from Mr. D. Scully. The mill is to be a brick veneered frame structure, about 50 feet square, and is to be built under the superintendence of Mr. Robert Allan, who is practical miller and machinist and may possible take an interest in the venture. The young and enterprising firm, already well and favourably known as pushing business men, are evidently determined to make things "hum", and we wish them all the success they certainly merit.—Gazette.

CAMPBELLFORD.

NARROW ESCAPE.—On Monday, the 11th inst., the largest jam of logs that was ever seen here accumulated at Ranney's Falls, about a mile south of Campbellford. The foreman, Mr. D. F. Callaghan, and four men came very near losing their lives while breaking the jam.—Herald.

Can't Be Beaten.

It is a fact that Nerviline cannot be surpassed by any combination for the relief of pain. The reason is a good one. Nerviline contains the best, most powerful, and the latest discovered remedies. Catarrh is a painful inflammation and ulceration of the mucous lining, bones and cartilage of the nose and air passages and can only be treated by direct application to the diseased parts. Dr. Starr's Catarrh Conqueror reaches all parts as nothing else can give relief at once. Sold by J. Tutly, Druggist at 50 cents.

NOTHING succeeds like success, is as true in medicine as in anything else. By the wonderful effect of Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure in promptly alleviating the sufferings experienced in kidney troubles and producing a permanent cure in these distessing ailments, his fame has been carried over the four quarters of the globe

FLINT'S tooth powder, the peerless dentrific, contains nothing that can injure the enamel in the slightest degree; by its constant use the teeth retain their efficiency and beauty even to the extreme duration of life. Sold by J. D. Tully, druggist, price 25 cents.

WE HAVE a speedy and positive cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth and Headache, in Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. A nasal injector free with each bottle. Use it if you desire health and sweet breath. Price 50 cents. For sale by J. D. Tully

PHOSPHATINE. Phosphates are the life of the blood, the nutriment that builds up and sustains the living body; they are, in other words, bone, brain, nerve and tissue food. For sale by all druggists.

THE most deadly foe to all malarial disease is Ayer's Ague cure, a combination of vegetable ingredients only, of which the most valuable is used in no other preparation. This remedy is an absolute and certain specific, and succeeds when all other medicine fail. A cure is warranted.

HONESTY.—It is commonly said that you can not make an honest man believe that white is black and vice versa, but those who have grey hair, by using the Cingalase Hair Renewer, will find that this apparent dificulty is easily overcome. Sold at 50 cents per bottle by J. D. Tully.

ABOUT SICK-HEADACHE.—For years and years the writer had been having sick or nervous headaches after excitement, mental labor, noise or long rides. Zopesa cured me entirely. I now take about two teaspoonfuls about twice a week, enough to operate about twice, and never have a headache. I eat well sleep sound, my system is regular in every way. Zopesa is a grand thing for the liver, dyspepsia and general system. May everybody know it and try it. Ask J. D. Tully.

"MAY DEW"

The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubboraly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever roduced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any ress on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

GOOD LUCK

TO THE

HARVEST

The Crops are Excellent

And there is no danger of their being seriously interfered with as things look now. People are at present buying cautiously, which is a good sign, and there are some complaints about the difficulty of getting money in. And although we believe that trade all over is duller than it was at this time last year, business keeps good right straight along at the CITY CLOTHING STORE, because we are selling our Goods LOWER than we did last year. We aim at making business keep righting itself. So far as the year's business is concerned we are better off than last year, while the good harvest now being taken in brightens things materially, and we feel satisfied that we will do a Good Fall Trade.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Burglaries.

From the account of the burglaries at Belleville, it appears not improbable that it is the same party that has just visited Peterborough. Perhaps this is the same gang, who before going east, pillaged our Post-office.

Base Ball.

A very interesting game of base ball will be played on the Ashburnham Cricket grounds to-morrow afternoon, between the "Silver Stars", of Peterborough, and the "Maple Leafs," of Bethany. The match will commence at 2.30 sharp.

Railway Notes.

On Tuesday a ballasting train composed of ten cars and an engine was at work between Manilla Junction and Blackwater. When near Manilla Junction one of the cars jumped the track. The train was quickly stopped and very little damage was done.

Ho! for Tweed.

An excursion under the auspices of Court Little John No. 92 C.O.F. and Lodge No. 135 A.O.M.W., left the Ontario and Quebec Railway station this morning abont 8.15 for Tweed Six cars were comfortably filled and the City Band accompanied the excursionists.

Journalistic.

Another star has made its appearance in the the journalistic firmament of Nova Scotia. It is called the New Star and is published at Wolfville. Judging from the first issue this Star is likely to supply additional light for the minds of the the people in that section.

Coming.

The British North American Art Association of Canada have consigned to C. Stapleton & Co. 200 of their most valuable oil paintings to be sold by auction in the store formerly occupied by Smith's Market, on George Street. See Catalogues, Pictures on exhibition on Saturday 23rd.

Of Importance.

A special meeting of the Boating Club will be held in the Boat House at 8 o'clock this evening. Arrangements for the next canoe parade will be considered and the question of holding a concert will be discussed. The members should turn out well and make the meeting respresentative. It is unfair to let two or three members do all the work while the rest enjoy the fruits of their labours.

New Tweeds, New Coatings, New Suitings at Andrew McNeil's.

Succumbed to the Heat.

Thomas Jones, an employee at the Central Iron Works, between 5 and 6 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, fainted away on account of the intense heat. He went out of the foundry for a breath of fresh air, and a short time afterwards was found stretched stiff on the grass. Dr. Pigeon was called and succeeded in bringing the man to consciousness. He is now doing well.

Knives Drawn.

There was a lively scene at the Grand Central Hotel on Wednesday afternoon at about five o'clock. John White and another man were sitting on some kegs in front of the bar-room door when three or four Italians passed. One of them stepped on White's foot, and he shoved him away. The native of Italy turned around and said something, and he was soon sent out on the street, having been struck by White. One of the Italians picked up a stone, and three of them followed White into the hotel, but he kept them at arm's length from him for a time. They then drew knives—rather large pocket knives—and it is not often that a crowd gets out of an hotel as quickly as that one did out of the Grand Central. White found himself in a bad place, but he made his way past the Italians and their knives and got out through the rear door of the bar-room. He was followed but not found. The Italians then went up George street. Meanwhile a messenger had been sent for constables, and Constable Adams, who was up near the post-office at the time, came down. He followed the Italians and arrested one of them. Two knives were picked up that the Italians had thrown away after leaving the hotel, and the constable took possession of them. The affair was ventilated in the Police Court this morning.

BURGLARS IN OUR MIDST

A DARING ROBBERY COMMITTED AND BURGLARIES ATTEMPTED.

The Thieves Still Lurk in the Heart of our Town—A Safe Forced but Nothing Found—Porter Bros.' Carriage Factory Again Entered—A Hot Pursuit.

Only a few short weeks have elapsed since the post-office was burglarized, and again we are called upon to chronicle a similar depredation. While Mrs. D. Belleghem was quietly slumbering on Wednesday night she was wakened by a shrill railway whistle, and having decided the night before to take her children for a short holiday trip, she thought she would get up and see what time it was. She and her husband slept in a room adjoining the dining-room, in which a lamp was dimly burning on a square table in the centre of the room. The clock was on a bracket which was against the wall. Mrs. Belleghem arose, came to the dining-room door, and glanced to her right at the clock. It was ten minutes after three. On taking her eyes from the clock, imagine her terror and fright—not more than five feet from her stood a man in a stooping posture in the act of turning out the light. Both the burglar and Mrs. Belleghem were completely nonplussed. For an instant they gazed at each other as if petrified. When she recovered her breath she cried, "Oh, there is a man in the house!" In an instant Mr. Belleghem was out of bed and into the dining-room, but the burglar had silently evaporated. In going out he had closed both the front door and the gate. Mr. Belleghem in his night-dress pursued the burglar as far as Aylmer street, when he turned northward and disappeared into some dark corner. Mr. Belleghem thought that discretion was the better part of valor, and returned home.

It appears that the burglars first entered Messrs. Porter Bros.' carriage factory, and there obtained a sledge-hammer, two chisels, a brace and a punch. They then attacked Mr. M. Halpin's Hotel where, in their estimation, a goodly haul was to be had. Mr. Halpin says that he does not know how the burglars gained admittance, except by the front door. This door, however, was locked when he got up this morning. It is probable the burglars obtained entrance by opening the door with a skeleton key. Having entered the house, they next opened the door leading to the bar room, where the safe stood. They then raised the window near the safe, and placed under it a large tray so as to have two ways of egress. They then bored a half inch hole near the combination lock, through the heavy, thick iron door of the safe with a diamond drill. A punch was next used and the lock of the safe forced off towards the inside. When the safe was opened, to their surprise, no money was there. Mr. Halpin had received for safe keeping the day before, $700, but he preferred not to trust the safe with it. He put it in his pocket and took it to his bed-room.

Having found no booty at Halpin's, the burglars, it is surmised, went round to Belleghem's. An entrance was effected through a window of the kitchen, on which there was no fastening, and which stands immediately in the rear of the dining-room. Mr. Belleghem had been trimming a coffin in the kitchen at half-past ten, and had gone to the factory for a screw-driver. The screw-driver still lay on a table and the light from the dining-room fell upon it. When the burglar entered he took up the screw-driver, passed safely through the dining-room and hall, unlocked the front door, and went across the street to Wilson's hotel. An outside staircase runs up to a temporary door at the back of the building. A common lock is placed on the outside of the door. The burglar, with Billeghem's screw-driver, quickly took out the screws holding the catch. He then entered the house and laid the lock and screw-driver on the top of two steps which lead to the door from the inside. He then stealthily stole along a short and narrow hall, at the end of which a lamp was brightly burning. The lamp stood also directly in front of the room in which Mr. Wilson was sleeping. When Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were retiring to bed Mr. Wilson had some fears about burglars, and said he thought it advisable to have the bed-room door locked. Mrs. Wilson thought that no one would disturb them, and said that it would be better to have the breeze blowing through the room. The door was accordingly left open. The burglar advanced, passed the lamp, and entered the bed-room. He took Mr. Wilson's pants, which were lying on a chair at the foot of the bed, and also his coat, in which there was $110, from the bed post at the head of the bed. In taking Mr. Wilson's coat, the burglar must have passed within a few inches from Mr. Wilson, who was placedly sleeping while the burglar was depriving him of his money. The burglar took both coat and pants out of the room, again passing by the lamp without putting it out, and went out by way of an opening in the wall which had been cut the day before, so as to connect the new building to the hotel. While going down the staircase of the new building he dropped the pants and when at the bottom he laid down the coat, having taken the money which it contained.

The burglar thinking the way all clear then proceeded back to Mr. Belleghem's house, entered the front door, and was in the act of turning out the lamp when Mrs. Belleghem, as before described, arose to see what time it was. Had he succeeded in passing through the dining room into the adjoining ware-room no doubt Mr. Belleghem's safe would have been the same as Mr. Halpin's. This morning Mr. Belleghem found the tools used by the burglars in a small yard on which a window in the wareroom faces. Near this window stood the safe. It is probable that accomplices were in this yard in readiness to to assist the burglar on the inside. Mr. Belleghem had in his safe $100 in cash, and in his pockets $33. His wife's gold watch lay on the bureau in the bedroom. Had it not been for the railway whistle it is probable that the thieves would have accomplished their evil designs.

Orillia's Civic Holiday.

To-day being Orillia's Civic Holiday, a large number of her citizens took advantage of the excursion under the auspices of the Orillia Lacrosse Club to visit our town. Shortly after 2 o'clock the excursion arrived at the Grand Trunk Railway depot. The train was composed of ten coaches.

Changed Hands.

Mr. Leon Dion, who for a number of years has filled in a creditable manner the position of Captain on steamer Golden Eye, has bought out the Hotel business of Mr. Geo. Berubee, in Lakefield. The ex-Captain will no doubt earn for himself a good share of the public patronage in his new departure.

The Weather.

The readings of the thermometer and barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store today were as follows:—

	Ther.	Bar.
Nine o'clock	80°	29.15
One o'clock	71°	29.10
Three o'clock	75°	29.10

A low and stationery barometer indicates more rain.

To be Cooler at Last.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh south west and west winds, fair weather, with a few local showers and thunderstorms, mostly in the northern portion; slightly lower temperature during the day, cooler at night and to-morrow.

New Grocery Store.

Mr. S. Young formerly of Ennismore has commenced business in Peterporough in the store formerly occupied by Mr. McKiever near the Oriental Hotel, Hunter street. His stock consists of all kinks of goods usually found in a general grocery store, and being a careful buyer Mr. Young will sell at closest possible prices. He invites a call from all his old friads and the public at large.

Personal.

Mr. James Kerr of New York, and for merly a resident of Peterborough, has been in town for the last few days on a visit to his friends.

Mr. Michael O'Brien, Principal of the Lindsay Separate School, and wife, went back to Lindsay on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien have been in town for several weeks.

Mrs. George Pope will depart this evening on a trip to Ireland, where she will spend the winter. Mr. Pope will accompany her as far as Quebec.

The New York World notes the arrival of the steamer Arizona at New York. The fast trans-Atlantic steamers left Queenstown on the same day, and the Arizona was the first to arrive, having completed the voyage in 7 days, 6 hours and 12 minutes, corrected time. Among the passengers on board we notice the names of Mr. J. Stewart and Mrs. Stewart.

Mr. A. J. Wenbourne, manager of the Dominion Mechanical and Milling News paid us a visit to-day, being in our town on business.

The Corner Loafer Must Go.

The corner loafer of Peterborough is one of our best known institutions, both at home and abroad. We differ from many places in this respect. Generally he is only a local celebrity, but visitors to our town, always speak of him on their return home, he is such an offensive and conspicuous object here. For many years we have borne with the affliction, but at last we are glad to state that the police have awakened to the fact that it is a disgrace to allow such a gang of hoodlums to stand for hours at a time under the electric light and gas lamps, jostling and insulting passers by, and henceforth their war cry is to be that "The corner loafer must go." The corner loafer is never respectable, he may consider himself to be, but every person knows that any person with the slightest particle of self respect, would not make such an exhibition of himself as many do here every day and night. We hope to see every person, who knows anything, help the police in their laudable endeavor and if such is done the genus corner loafer will soon be a thing of the past. Half a dozen cases before the Police Magistrate, with heavy fines imposed, will go a long way towards ridding us of the greatest nuisance we have.

St. Paul's Church Pic-Nic.

The annual pic-nic in connection with St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and Sunday School took place on Wednesday to the grove in Norwood. A special excursion train with about three hundred on board left Peterborough about 10.30 in the morning by the Ontario & Quebec Railway and reached Norwood station about noon. The excursionists proceeded to the grove some distance from the station, owned by Mrs Grover, where a number of comfortable seats and tables were erected for their convenience where tea, milk, water and ice were provided on the grounds. Dinner was thoroughly enjoyed by all, after which swings and other amusements were indulged in by the children. Everyone seemed to take an interest in the events of the afternoon, notwithstanding the great heat during the day. The hospitality of some of the citizens of Norwood was again manifested in a liberal manner. Many of the excursionists availed themselves of pressing invitations to visit and take tea, during the afternoon while others were favoured with carriage drives through the village. The excursion left Norwood at 8 o'clock and reached town about 9. Those in charge of the pic-nic were attentive and looked well after all the arrangements. They desire to express their thanks to Mr. Roxburgh especially for the many acts of kindness shown by him on this occasion.

Presentation.

We learn that Mr. John Adams, one of Orillia's most respected townsmen, was agreeably surprised by a few of his intimate friends while on his way to Peterborough to-day, by being presented with a handsome gift in the shape of an ivory headed cane picked up in the field of battle 100 years ago, in the North-west Territory, during one of the Sioux Indian raids. The presentation was made by Mr. Stevenson, of the Dominion Restaurant in his usual jovial manner. The relic is valued at a high price and is of Indian workmanship.

A beautiful sight to behold is the extensive fall range of French 6/4 Tweeds at Habiliment Hall.

AS

GOODNESS

Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

The Greenwich Manuf'g Co's

Ready Cleaner

Is the best and most durable preparation for scouring and polishing ever produced in this country. Being entirely free from all the objectionable features of such articles heretofore offered, it becomes a staple wherever introduced. For cleaning PAINTED WOODWORK, PAINTED WALLS, OIL CLOTH, WINDOWS, MIRRORS, MARBLE, BRASS, TIN, COPPER, STEEL and all other metals, COOKING UTENSILS and CROCKERY, it is unequalled in its effects, and being free from alkalies and acids, will give a lasting brilliancy and with little labor. Accompanying each package is a circular with full directions for use.

READY CLEANER has been adopted for all cleaning purposes in the largest Public Buildings in New York and vicinity, and also by Railroad Companies, the Fire Department, Hotels, and other institutions, where economy in labor and time is a consideration. For domestic uses it has been pronounced indespensible in every family. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials to the superiority of this preparation could be adduced, but we prefer, however, that in practical use it shall prove for itself—as we guarantee all that is claimed for it.

The READY CLEANER is put up in strong, square, pasteboard boxes, containing one pound each, and sold retail for 25 Cents.

Giroux & Sullivan.

The Banner Week

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Where these Silks are procured, or why they are sold so cheap is no affair of the customers'. It is enough for them to know that they can buy here about 25 per cent. less than the pervading prices throughout the town. Do not fail to ask for our Summer Silks at 42½c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. See our Black Dress Silks at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, warranted pure silk both filling and warp. They are heavy in texture, beautiful in finish and quality, surpassing anything in the town at 25 per cent. higher in price. Don't fail to see them at

A HOME DRUGGIST TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

A Considerable Amount of Business Disposed of at Thursday Night's Meeting.

At a meeting of the Board of Health held in the Police office on Thursday evening the following members were present:—Messrs. McNeil, (chairman,) Hartly, Rutherford, Stapleton, Allan and Paterson, Dr. Clarke, Medical Health Officer, and the Sanitary Inspectors were also present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

ACCOUNT.

An account was received from R. H. Adams for having a trench dug near the nuisance grounds and one from W. S. Cocks for painting a sign for the same ground. Both accounts were referred to the Town Council.

THE RIVER.

The Chairman said that he had been waited on by the hands from the Golden-Eye and Whistle Wing in reference to the noisome smell which arose from the refuse which was thrown from Matthew's Pork Packing House into the river, and that every time the boats left the wharf the paddle wheels would raise this matter from the bottom of the river.

Dr. CLARKE said the slaughter house was in a good condition.

Mr. STAPLETON said he had been down to the establishment and found the rendering department a "little streng."

The CHAIRMAN did not believe that the proprietors were acquainted with the fact and he thought it advisable that they should be.

Mr. RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Mr. STAPLETON,—that the Inspectors be instructed to examine the place where the blood enters the river at Matthew's Packing House and act as the law requires.

HEALTH OFFICER'S REPORT.

Dr. Clarke, Medical Health Officer, then read the following report:—

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Health, Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—I beg leave to submit a fuller report of information received during a recent visit to Toronto than I was able to give you at the last meeting of the Board.

I found, in conversation with the Secretary of the Provincial Board, the City Health Officer and others, that very little progress had been made in the way of putting into effect the provisions of the Act, and I was desired to thank the Peterborough Board for their promptitude in organizing and thus setting a good example to other provincial towns

As to slaughter houses, the Provincial Secretary stated that the object of the act is not to impose unnecessary hardship where care and cleanliness are observed, but that the law should be strictly enforced in cases of undoubted nuisance. Each Board must act for itself and in accordance with circumstances.

Regarding the disposal of excreta. In lieu of water closets connected with a system of sewerage, dry earth or ash closets are the most convenient and practicable form. I made extensive inquiries in regard to the working of these and found them all that could be wished for in the way of cleanliness, thorough disinfection and convenience. I brought down a number of circulars from a manufacturer whose closets are recommended by the Provincial Board, but since then I am happy to say that the manufacture of an excellent earth closet has been commenced in Peterborough Mr. Clegg, furniture dealer, is making an automatic kind suitable either for use inside a house or that may be adapted to a vault. I have no doubt that these will be extensively used as soon as the attention of the public is directed to them. Those who cannot afford such or for other reasons prefer should use a closet similar to that known as the Hull closet system. A plan of this is given in a pamphlet issued by the Provincial Board which appears in the report for 1883. This is very simple and answers every purpose. In the same pamphlet may be found the plan of a privy much used in the United States This may be easily made by sawing a coal oil barrel in two and using one half for the excrement, and the other for dry earth, or ashes. The cover of the seat, being movable, can be raised and a small quantity dusted on after use. It may be said that people will forget to do this, but in the ordinary water closet the act of raising the handle to remove the deposit is necessary, one can be done as easily as the other.

The dry earth closet in some form or other should be insisted upon in the more crowded parts of the town, particularly along George street in the neighborhood of the stores. Any new privies that are being constructed should be on this plan—that is, of course, unless water closets are practicable. The rest of the town would soon fall in. The change could be made when the privies are emptied. In this way very little hardship would be imposed. It might also be noticed that the cost of the removal of the excreta would, or ought to be, very materially diminished. We hear complaints as to the charges made for emptying a privy under present circumstances. Under the dry earth system removal of the excretions would be no more offensive than the removal of the same quantity of gravel. Moreover it could be done during the day. I am glad to say that there is a strong inclination on the part of the people to fall in with anything that will improve matters. A good many are using ashes or dust in the ordinary privy vault.

In connection with this subject may be noticed the question of sewerage. The adoption of a complete system for the town must sooner or later become a matter of paramount importance for the consideration of the Town Council. Being so wide in its bearings and involving so much expense considerable time will probably elapse before any measures are taken. Meanwhile I would strongly advise the construction of a large sewer along George street with which others could be connected as deemed expedient. The necessity for this is being evinced by occupants themselves as witness the large petition sent in to the Council at a recent sitting. The drain along Hunter street is in a very unsatisfactory condition, the stench at McLelland's corner being sometimes intolerable. The Board of Health should lose no time in urging this matter on the Council.

Respecting wells. I have been analysing the water from a number of wells and find a large amount of impurities, In a town like Peterborough nothing else may be expected. With the utmost care in cleaning wells and removal of water closets from their vicinity, a time comes when the ground becomes saturated with decaying vegetable matter. In Toronto it was found necessary to close the wells and we shall have to come to that here before long

I am glad to be able to report that no epidemic has appeared here this summer as yet. One case of typhoid fever, resulting fatally, has been reported. Thorough disinfection was used and no others have occurred. In the absence of other causes this case must have been due to impure drinking water.

Respecting reports from medical men, I would suggest the plan followed in Toronto, that of stamping the blanks sent out. This works well in Toronto. Very few cases of infectious disease are not reported.

Regarding the sanitary condition of houses, careful inspection is being constantly made, and in the event of nuisances not being removed, proceedings have been entered.

There is another important question on which a word may be said here. I refer to the presence of large quantities of sawdust in the river and lake. The highest authorities have judged this as deleterious to health, from the amount of noxious gases generated. This is a matter which should be taken up by the Provincial Board, as the nuisance exists in various parts of the Province. Mention should be made of it in the first report to the Board. While on the question of noxious gases, a word may also be said about Spaulding's Bay. The sooner this town nuisance is done away with the better. I have been given to understand that the establishment of the O. & Q. station and the necessity for room will soon lead to its being filled up, a consummation devoutly to be wished.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. CLARKE, M.D., Medical Health Officer.

Peterborough, Aug. 21, 1884.

The Doctor laid before the Board a circular containing a description of different kinds of water closets, and also communications from Dr. Peter H. Bryce, Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health.

Moved by Mr. RUTHERFORD, seconded by Mr. STAPLETON,—That the report read by Dr. Clarke be adopted.—Carried.

SPAULDING'S BAY.

Mr. RUTHERFORD said that the council had taken no action in reference to the filling up of Spaulding's Bay. He thought this a very important matter.

THE POLICE CELLS.

In answer to Mr. Rutherford, Chief of Police JOHNSON said that the present lock-up was without a water closet, and that it was not fit to put a dog in.

Moved by Mr. STAPLETON, seconded by Mr. PATERSON,—That in view of the Medical Health Officer having condemned the present lock-up, that the council shall take steps to secure a proper place at once for a police station; and if steps are not taken legal proceedings will be entered.—Carried.

AN IMPERFECT DRAIN.

Moved by Mr. RUTHERFORD, seconded by Mr. STAPLETON,—That the Inspectors be authorized to have that drain along Hunter street, from Water to George, closed, unless the parties interested abate the nuisance within one week, by making proper connection with the main sewer and put it in a sanitary condition to the satisfaction of the Medical Health Officer.—Carried.

DRY EARTH CLOSETS.

Moved by Mr. STAPLETON, seconded by Mr. ALLEN,—That the Inspector recommend that a system of dry earth closets as approved of by the Medical Health Officer be used within this corporation.—Carried.

SEWERAGE.

Moved by Mr. STAPLETON, seconded by Mr. RUTHERFORD,—That a delegation consisting of Messrs. Hilliard, McNeil and Dr. Clarke wait on the council at the next meeting to urge the necessity of a complete system of sewerage.—Carried.

PLACES TO BE INSPECTED.

Moved by Mr. STAPLETON, seconded by Mr. PATERSON,—That the Secretary of this Board be ordered to notify the Provincial Secretary to send an inspector here to inspect the nuisances respecting the Goose Pond, Spaulding's, Bay Sawdust in the Little Lake, and other offensive places.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

Personal.

Mr. R. J. Scott, formerly of the Peterborough pulp mill, passed through town to-day. He has been up to Fenelon Falls and is on his way to Napenee,

Mr. A. D. McLean, of Toronto, has relieved Mr. G. A. Smith, of the Bank of Commerce, Peterborough. Mr. Smith will go to Hamilton and will occupy a position in the Bank of Commerce in that city.

The Rev. John Shaw, late pastor of the George Street Methodist Church, was in town on Thursday.

Mr. James Haw, formerly of Port Hope, and now of Orillia, came down on the excursion to this town on Thursday.

Robbery in the Street.

It appears from the information we have obtained, that the burglaries were not the only robberies that were committed on Wednesday night. On that night at about eleven o'clock Mr. Geo. T. Leonard was going home, and when on she other side of Mr. Peter Hamilton's foundry he was met by two men. They asked him it is stated, whether he had any money, and Mr. Leonard, not suspecting their designs and thinking that they wanted to make change, replied that he had. They then told him that they wanted it, and when Mr. Leonard also intimated that he required it, one of them produced a revolver, and, pointing the weapon at his head, commanded him to hand it over. As Mr. Leonard valued his life more than his money, and saw no other alternative, he handed the men $21, the amount he had in his pocket, and was allowed to proceed. Mr. Leonard says he remembers having seen the men in the Oriental Hotel, and would recognize them if he again saw them. That evening, before leaving the office, Mr. John Maloney, Clerk of the County Court, advised Mr. Leonard to put the money in the vault, but he thought it was not necessary to do so.

A PROPOSED PROVINCE.

THE suggestion that Jamaica should be allowed to enter the Dominion of Canada has provoked much criticism. Certainly such a step would require mature consideration, for it has obvious disadvantages as well as advantages. The question to be considered from the Canadian point of view is whether the advantages or disadvantages would predominate, and this might largely depend upon the terms of the admission of the proposed new province. The chief objection that we have seen urged is that the union would add to our population a large coloured element, and it is rather amusing to see this view presented vehemently by advocates of our annexation to the United States, with its far larger proportion of citizens of the negro race.

THE AWARD NOT RATIFIED.

THE London Advertiser should be well informed on the Boundary question, but its information appears to be very defective. It states that the Boundary Award has been confirmed and ratified by the Queen in Council on the advice of the Privy Council. The truth is that the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council unhesitatingly decided that the award was invalid, because the arbitrators were not duly appointed, and also because they exceeded their instructions. The award has therefore been rejected by the Privy Council, as Sir John Macdonald said it would be. In part, however, the Privy Council has fixed the boundary where it was placed by the arbitrators.

The Advertiser also asserts that because Her Majesty in Council has pronounced in part as to the boundary, it follows that the original award would have had the force of law had it been confirmed by an Order-in-Council. Our contemporary should know that the constitution of Canada differs from that of the Mother Country in that with us the power is given to the legislatures to allow our boundaries, not to the Executive. If it is a question not of altering, but of determining the boundary as fixed by statute, that is a matter for the law courts, and it has now been settled partially by the highest tribunal in the realm.

The Proportion of Failures to Traders.

In 1870 in the U. S. there were 3,551 failures out of 426,000 traders, or 1 in 120, with liabilities of $88,242,000. In 1871, 2,915 failures (1 in 163), $85,252,000 liabilities. In 1872, 4,069 failures (1 in 130), $121,036,000 liabilities. In 1873, 5,183 failures (1 in 108), $228,499,000 liabilities. In 1874, 5,830 failures (1 in 103), $155,239,000 liabilities. In 1875, 7,740 failures (1 in 83), $201,060,000 liabilities. In 1876, 9,092 failures (1 in 76), $191,117,000 liabilities. In 1877, 8,872 (1 in 64), $190,669,000 liabilities. In 1878, 10,478 (1 in 66), $234,383,132 liabilities. In 1879, 6,658 (1 in 105), $98,149,053 liabilities. In 1880, 4,735 (1 in 153), $65,752,000 liabilities In 1881, 5,582 (1 in 140), $81,155,932 liabilities. In 1882, 6,738 (1 in 122), $102,000,000 liabilities. In 1883, 9,184 (1 in 94), $173,000,000 liabilities. The number of traders has yearly increased from 426,000 in 1870 to 863,903 in 1883, except in 1877 there was a diminution of about 16,000 from year previous.

THE HOME TEAM WINS.

The Lacrosse Match, Orillia vs. Peterborough, is Roughly Contested.

A lacrosse match between the Orillia and Peterborough clubs was played on the Ashburnham grounds on Thursday. The Orillias arrived in town the night before and were quartered at the Oriental Hotel. The morning and forenoon was spent by the Orillias in viewing our various places of interest. Shortly after 3 o'clock p. m. the Fire Brigade Band and the two clubs marched to the Ashburnham grounds. The weather looked threatening, and shortly afterwards large drops of rain fell thick and fast. This seemed a fitting prelude to the stormy struggle which was about to ensue. The sun shone obscurely through the clouds, and everything, animate and inanimate, bore the aspect of determination. Mr. W. H. Morley, of Ingersol, was chosen referee, and at twenty-five minutes past four the teams faced each other on the field as follows :—

ORILLIA.		PETERBOROUGH.
H. Taylor	Goal	J. Joyal.
G. H. Armstrong	Point	P. Myles.
R. H. Gunn	Cover Point	M. Tierney.
W. Edmison.	Defence Field	J. Howden.
C. Mick	"	M. Halpin.
A. E. Lawrence	"	A. Yelland.
E. C. Moore	Centre Field	J. Sheehy.
George Tudhope	Home Field	W. J. Scott.
R. Henderson	"	R. Kelly.
R. J. Jupp	"	J. Henderson.
W. A. Garrett	2nd Home	C. Rutherford.
J. B. Tudhope	1st Home	W. Rudkins.
— Raldson	Field Captain	J. Coughlin.
Wm. Sherman	Umpire	A. McNeil.

At half-past four Sheehy and Moore faced the ball and of course "Jimmy" pulled it out. He passed it to Kelly, who propelled it Orillia goalwards. Henderson, of the Orillias, lit on and threw it up field, where Jupp secured it and hurried it in the vicinity of the Peterborough flags. Tierney captured it, and in one of his well-known long throws, relieved the Peterborough goal from any immediate danger. Henderson received the ball from Tierney and made a straight shot on the Orillia goal. Armstrong stopped the sphere and tossed it to centre field, where Yelland, in a well directed shot, again placed the Orillias' goal in jeopardy. Armstrong, however, again returned it. Henderson (Orillia) now got the ball on his stick. His opponent attempted to check him, but in the act of so doing struck Henderson on the head. The blood ran profusely; water was brought; his head was tied up; and play was resumed after an interval of ten minutes. On the face Halpin scooped up the ball and passed it to Kelly. From Kelly it went to Henderson, who made a nice little run and threw it uncomfortably close to the Orillias goal. It went up to centre field again, but Rutherford pounced on it, passed it to Henderson, who in his turn made a drop shot, which lit directly in front of the Orillia's goal. Scott gave it a gentle tap and through it went. Time, including stoppages, 22 minutes

During the second game a good deal of time was lost on account of the frequent faces and calls of "time." At three minutes after five the ball was again faced and the second game commenced. Sheehy secured it and delivered it over to the keeping of Kelly. It was received from Kelly's throw by Edmison. It passed towards Peterborough's goal. Myles and Garret, in their intense anxiety to get at the ball, unfortunately collided. Garret was thrown violently to the ground and "time" was called. After the face both goals were frequently placed in pecarious positions. On the Peterborough side Tierney made some neat checking, and Joyal staved off several well directed shots. The play of Howden, Halpin and Rudkins showed off to good advantage as it always does when they get warmed up. At 28 minutes to five the ball was faced. Rutherford picked it up and ran in on the Orillia goal. The ball received sufficient momentum from the point of his stick to pass all the defense and go through the stakes. Time 30 minutes.

At the end of this game some outsiders from Orillia and Peterborough, under the influence of liquor, who were standing under the elm tree, commenced to quarrel. As is usual in such such cases the crowd quickly gathered around the belligerents, but the lacrosse men stopped them before any harm was done.

Some of the Orillia team objected to the crowd coming on the field and stated that they would not play another game. During the match Jupp and Tudhope of the Orillias, and Henderson of the Peterboroughs, received rather heavy blows. The referee decided the match for Peterborough the teams cheered each other, the referee and the umpires, the band played a closing selection and thus the match terminated.

NOTES.

It is probable that if the Orillias had had two games in their favor, the match would not have ended in the above disagreeable way.

The ground being wet it was difficult for the players to keep their feet, and falls were frequent.

Several of those who received blows during the match, did so on account of their carelessness, They would rush in, when a player was about to throw the ball, so close that they could not fail to be hit.

The Peterborough club are doing their best to have the large grounds at the driving park finished and ready for lacrosse matches as speedily as consistent with good work, in order to give clubs who have been accustomed to play on large fields an opportunity of crossing sticks with them this season. One complaint urged by the Orillia club on Tuesday was that there was not room enough for them to play. This complaint is equally applicable to the home team. As above stated, the Peterborough Lacrosse Club will happily be able to alleviate their grievances on this point in a short time, and perhaps it will prove even more advantageous to them than those who complain of the small field at present. The committee who have charge of the work are sparing neither time nor money in hastening its completion, and we hope to see some good matches on the new ground this season.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

A Series of Robberies at Belleville—No Clue to the Perpetrators.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 20.—This morning at about 2 o'clock the house of Rev. Amos Campbell, bursar of Albert college, was entered by burglars and about $350 in money taken from his safe. There were also within reach of the thieves checks to the amount of between $15,000 and $16,000, but as the checks were payable to the order of Mr. Campbell, and were not then endorsed by him, they were not taken.

The residence of H. Corby, George street, was the object of an attempted burglary this morning about 3 o'clock. Mr. Corby and Mrs. Corby have been absent from home for some weeks, and the house was in charge of the nurse, who, hearing prowlers in the vicinity, fired two shots from a revolver. The shots did not take effect and the marauders escaped.

Between 12 and 1 o'clock last night H. C. Cronk and K. Weese went to the station with Cronk's mail waggon to bring the mid-night mail to the post office. When they arrived at the office Cronk took the mail and went inside with it, while Weese drove the team to the stable and unharnessed. While going between the post office and his house Mr. Cronk heard the cries of Weese from the stable, and on going to his assistance found him bound. A gang of men had pounced upon him, bound him, and searched him for a key to admit them to the post office, where it is thought they intended going through the mail and getting what they could that was valuable. The parties who committed the assault on Weese are not known.

Latin Monetary Conference.

The programme of the Latin Monetary Conference to meet in Paris, in Oct. 25, includes the settlement of the question as to whether the Latin Monetary shall be renewed or go into liquidation on the 1st January, 1886, when the present Conference expires. A French delegate will move that the Union be renewed until 1890. A proposal will be made to bind each state to take back all the silver coins issued by it on the expiration of the new Conference, giving therefor either gold or bills, payable in the country which remains a creditor.

Keeping Wood in Moist Ground.

A Brooklyn, N. Y., carpenter writes us that, in 1864, he laid down some old painted half-inch door panels as a flooring for a coal bin at the rear of his yard, and that, on taking them up seven years afterward, they were just as sound as if they had been but recently cut from a thrifty living tree, although so pliable with moisture that he could have bent one of them around a six-inch stove pipe. Our correspondent suggests that the painting of railroad ties, or coating them with white lead and oil, would be very efficacious for their preservation.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

CHAPTER XXX.—CONTINUED.

She was not prepared for this sudden separation, but though his eyes were rivetted upon her she bore it bravely. A faint numb sensation stole over her, and a dark shadow seemed to float through the room, yet her low voice was steady, when she said:

"I am sorry I disappointed any pleasant anticipations you indulged with reference to the organ; which has certainly been a source of much comfort to me. I have felt very timid about singing before you, sir, but if it will afford you the least pleasure, I am willing to do the best of which I am capable."

"You sang quite successfully before a large audience at Mrs. Brompton's, and displayed sufficient self-possession."

"But those were strangers, and the opinion of those with whom we live is more important, their criticism is more embarrassing."

"I believe I was present, and heard you on that occasion."

She moved away to the organ, and sat down, glad of an excuse, for her limbs trembled.

"Regina, what was that song you sang for little Llora Carew the night before she left us? Indeed there were two, one with, the other without an accompaniment?"

"You were not here at that time."

"No matter; what were they? The child fancies them exceedingly, and I promised to get the words for her."

"Kucken's 'Schlummerlied,' and a little 'Cradle Song' by Wallace."

"Be so good as to let me hear them."

Would Mrs. Carew sing them for him, when she was far away, utterly forgotten by her guardian? The thought was unutterably bitter, and it goaded her, aided her in the ordeal.

With nerves strung to their extreme tension, she sang as he requested, and all the while her rich mellow voice rolled through the room, he walked very slowly from one end of the library to the other. She forced herself to sing every verse, and when she concluded, he was standing behind her chair. He put his hands on her shoulders, and prevented her rising, for just then he was unwilling she should see his countenance, which he feared would betray the suffering he was resolved to conceal.

After a moment he said:

"Thank you. I shall buy the music in order to secure the words. Lily"—

He paused, bent down and rested his chin on the large coil of hair at the back of her head, and though she never knew it, his proud lips touched the glossy silken mass.

"Lily, if I ask a foolish trifle of you, will you grant it, as a farewell gift to your guardian?"

"I think, sir, you do not doubt that I will."

"It is a trivial thing, and will cost you nothing. The night on which you sang those songs to Llora is associated with something which I treasure as peculiarly precious; and I merely wish to request that you will never sing them again for any one, unless I give you permission."

Swiftly she recalled the fact that on that particular evening he had escorted Mrs. Carew to a "German" at Mrs. Quimby's, and she explained his request by the supposition that her songs to Mrs. Carew's child commemorated the date of his betrothal to the gray-eyed mother. Could she bear even to think of them in coming years?

She hastily pushed back the ivory stops, and shaking off his detaining palms, rose.

"I am sorry that I cannot do something of more importance to oblige my kind guardian; for this trifle involves not the slightest sacrifice of feeling, and I would gladly improve a better opportunity of attesting my gratitude. You may rest assured I shall never sing those words again, under any circumstances. Do not buy the music, I will leave my copies for Llora, and you and her mother can easily teach her the words."

"Thanks! You will please place the music on the organ, and when I come back from Cincinnati it will remind me. I hope your mother will be pleased with your progress in French, German and music. Your teachers furnish very flattering reports, and I have enclosed them with some receipts, bills, and other valuable papers in this large sealed envelope, which you must give to your mother as soon as you see her."

He went to his desk, took out the package and handed it to her. Seating himself at the table where she generally wrote and studied, he pointed to a chair on the opposite side, and mechanically she sat down.

"Perhaps you may recollect that some months ago, Mrs. Orme wrote me she was particularly desirous you should learn to read well. It is a graceful accomplishment, especially for a lady, and I ordered a professor of Elocution to give you instruction twice a week. I hope you have derived benefit from his tuition, as he had fitted one or two professional readers for the stage, and I should dislike to have your mother feel disappointed in any of your attainments. Now that I am called upon to give an account of my stewardship, I trust you will pardon me if I examine you a little. Here is Jean Ingelow, close at hand, and I must trouble you to allow me an opportunity of testing your proficiency."

The book which she had been reading that day lay on the table, and taking it up, he leisurely turned over the leaves. A premonitory dread seized her, and she wrung her hands, which were lying cold in her lap.

"Ah! here is your mark; three purple pansies, crushed in the middle of 'Divided,' staining the delicate cream-tinted paper with their dark blood. Probably you are familiar with this poem, consequently can interpret it for me without any great effort. Commence at the first, and let me see what value Professor Chrysostom's training possesses. Not too fast; recollect Pegasus belongs to poets, not to readers."

He leaned across the marble table, and placed the open book before her.

Did he intentionally torture her? With those bright eyes reading her unwomanly and foolish heart, was he amusing himself, as an entomologist impales a feeble worm, and from its writhing deduces the exact character of its nervous and muscular anatomy?

The thought struck her more severely than the stroke of a lash would have done, and turning the page to the light, she said quickly:

"'Divided' is not at all dramatic, and as an exercise, is not comparable to 'High Tide on the Coast of Lincolnshire,' or 'Songs of Seven,' or even that most exquisite of all, 'Afternoon at a Parsonage.'"

"Try 'Divided.'"

She dared not refuse, lest he should despise her utterly, interpreting correctly her reluctance. For an instant the print danced before her, and the spirit of defiance was fast mastering her trepidation, and she sat erect, and obeyed him.

Thrusting one hand inside his vest, where it clenched tightly over his heart, Mr. Palma sat intently watching her, glad of the privilege afforded him, to study the delicate features. Her expressive paleness reminded him of the words:

"That white, white face, set in a night of hair,"

and though the chastening touch of sorrow, and continued heart ache, the most nimble of all chislers, had strangly matured the countenance which when it entered that house was as free from lines and shadows as an infant's, it still preserved its almost child-like purity and repose.

She read the poem, with skill and pathos, but no undue tremor of the smooth, delicious sweet voice betrayed aught, save the natural timidy of a tyro, essaying her first critical trial. To-night she wore a white shawl draped in statuesque folds over her shoulders and bust, and the snowy flowers in her raven hair were scarcely purer then her full forehead, borne up by the airy arched black brows, that had always attracted the admiration of her fastidious guardian; and as the soft radiance of the clustered lamps fell upon her, she looked as sweet and lovely a woman as ever man placed upon the sacred hearth of his home, a holy priestess to keep it bright, serene and warm.

APSLEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ENTERTAINMENT.—A social entertainment was held in the Temperance Hall, Apsley, on Tuesday evening, the 12th inst., for the purpose of raising funds to defray the expenses of re-seating and fitting up the hall in such a way as to be better adapted for the use of public worship. After doing ample justice to the good things provided for the occasion, Mr. Grant, Presbyterian minister here, was called to the chair, who, after having made a few brief remarks, called on the Rev. P. Harding, who, in addressing the audience, said that on account of religious scruples, he was opposed to all gatherings of this kind in connection with church matters, as, in his opinion, it was treating religion in a very irreverent manner. He urged upon his audience the necessity of building a church of their own in this place. He told them that under present circumstances they were nothing but paupers of the lowest order. He advised them to adopt the old system of dedicating one-tenth of all they possessed to the service of God, and to treat everything in connection with the church with reverence. The rev. gentleman stated that he had been branded as an old Roman by a resident in this locality, who had the presumption to aspire to the Pontifical chair. Doctor Grant, a medical practitioner in Apsley, favoured the audience with some excellent music. Mr. Harry Anderson gave a reading in very good style and was loudly applauded. The Rev. Mr. Ratcliffe and another gentleman, name unknown, addressed the meeting, after which the national anthem was sung and the meeting was then dismissed.

Tree Planting in the Northwest.

One of the measures before the Northwest Council, now in session, is the introduction of an ordinance providing for the encouragement of those who will undertake the work of planting out trees on the prairies, both for the purpose of raising timber belts on such portions as are of little value for cultivation, and to create wind-breaks around homesteads and along the roadsides for shelter and shade. In either case it is most desirable that the encouragement to be given should be of a liberal nature. There is nothing, we believe, in either the climate or the soil to militate against success, except that the varieties of trees to be tried should be those best adapted to exposure. The experiment need not be a costly one, and a beginning might be made by planting out those sorts that are indigenous to the country or to localities with a winter climate equally as cold.—Calgary Herald.

"MAY DEW"
The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubbornly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever roduced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any ress on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, AUGUST 22, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Forepaugh Coming.

Mr. J. H. Kelly, press agent of Adam Forepaugh's circus and menagerie, was in town to-day. The great show will be here on Monday, Sept. 15th, with its innumerable attractions, including the sacred Siamese white elephant.

Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh west and north wind, fine cooler weather to-day and to-morrow.

For the Dandy New Fall Styles in Linen Collars see McNeil.

Another Excursion.

An excursion under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute, Streetsville, arrived in town shortly after 12 o'clock to-day, over the Ontario and Quebec railway. The excursionists, to the number of about 150, were accompanied by the Streetsville band, which played through the principal streets. This afternoon the visitors are sight-seeing and amusing themselves in various ways.

A Freak of Nature.

Mr. Sewers of this town has left with us for the inspection of the curious a very strange production of one of his hens. It is a double egg, or rather two eggs united by a hollow connection. Both of them are without hard shells, and the semi-transparent skin allows it to be seen that one of the eggs is filled with yolk and the other with "white," instead of the usual formation.

More of the "Globe's" Depression.

In another column will be found an advertisement for Mr. John Alford, a local contractor, calling for 20 carpenters, and offering $2 per day to good workmen. Labor in our town is so scarce that he has necessarily had to insert this same advertisement in the Toronto Mail, in the hope of securing the required number of mechanics. This is another instance of the progress we are making, notwithstanding the time-honoured war cry of the Globe of hard times.

A Glittering Mortar.

Something new in the shape of a sign has been erected by Mr. J. D. Tully in front of his drug store. It consists of a metalic mortar set with rows of convex and prismatic jewels. The jewels are made of the best crystal glass, and are alternately green and white except at the centre of the mortar, which is encircled by a row of ruby prisms. The mortar is ornamented with pure gold leaf and is a very handsome and costly device. It is illuminated at night by gas and then it shows off to good advantage. It is manufactured by F. McHewee, of New York city.

The Midland Regatta.

The third annual regatta will be held at Midland on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 2nd and 3rd. There will be sailing, sculling, rowing and canoeing races, and prizes aggregating $1,000 will be offered for competition. The management of the regatta is in good hands, and ample accommodation will be provided for the spectators to view the races. There will be races for both first and second class yachts. For the first class the first prize will be the champion flag and $60; 2nd, $40; 3rd, $25; 4th, $10. For the second class yachts—1st prize, $50; 2nd, $25; 3rd, $10; 4th, $5. Senior four-oared race—1st, a $50 cup; 2nd, $20 cup. Junior four oared race—1st, $40 cup; 2nd, $15 cup. Double scull lapstreaks, $30 and $15 cups. Single scull, $30 and $25 cups. Single lapstreaks—$40 and $20 cups. Single lapstreaks (for Simcoe and Ontario counties)—$20 and $10 cups. The rules of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen will govern the races. There will also be canoe races for good prizes. The Midland Bay is one of the finest racing courses in Canada, and our oarsmen and scullers might go to Midland and try to capture some of the prices. The fare from Peterborough will be $1, and the tickets are good for three days. Further particulars may be obtained from the Secretary, Mr. Wm. Steers.

For the latest tip in Ties, the prettiest colourings and nobby patterns try Habiliment Hall.

EXCURSION TO TWEED

Under the Auspices of Court Little John and the United Workmen.

An excursion was held over the Ontario and Quebec Railway to the village of Tweed on Thursday, under the auspices of Court Little John, C. O. F., and Petarborough Lodge Ancient Order of United Workmen. At a few minutes before 8 o'clock in the morning the City Band marched down George street, and at 8.25 o'clock the train, which consisted of six coaches, departed from the station.

The country through which the road runs between the town and Norwood is pretty well known to a large number of our readers. Norwood was reached at 9.10 o'clock, and the number of the excursionists was increased by an addition from that village. There was in all between 250 and 300 persons on the train. At Norwood the band played a selection. A large elevator is being erected near the track by Messrs. Roxburgh & Rorke and is approaching completion.

At 9.30 o'clock Havelock was reached. The railway round house is being erected at this place. It is 24½ miles from Peterborough. The round-house is a very large brick building and it is being pushed forward by the contractor, Mr J. W. Alford. The station building have been completed, and a large frame building for a boarding house, built by the company, is nearly finished. Another house, for the section foreman, and two smaller buildings, are also in course of erection. It is said that the company intend to erect a number of dwellings here, and it is expected that a village will spring up.

The next station reached was Blairton, and it was passed "on the fly." The station is at the crossing of the Blairton branch of the Cobourg railway, which is not used now. The iron mines are about two and a half miles from the station, where there is also a small village. These mines have not been worked since 1875. They are in Peterborough county, about a mile from the boundary of Hastings county.

The railway at this point passes through a long swamp (all railways appear to prefer low land) calculated to give one an unfavourable and incorrect idea of the country. A correspondent of the Globe, who recently passed over the line, and whose letter appears in that journal or Aug. 30th, gives an exceedingly unfavourable account of the country between Havelock and Tweed. But it was described as "seen from cars," and when passing through a swamp one cannot look out of a window and see beyond the confines of the swamp. For instance, at the boundary between Peterborough and Hastings counties, the land close to the track looks very uninviting, while on both sides, but out of sight, there are well cultivated farms. A short distance from one of the roughest looking spots there is good land, and many of the farmers reside in comfortable brick houses. This is true of both west and east of the boundary, as the lines run through the swamp for some distance. The writer in the Globe evidently knew nothing of the village of Marmora, which is about the same size as Tweed, but it is only a few miles north of the Ontario and Quebec line and about thirty-five or forty miles east of Peterborough by rail.

The Crow river bridge was crossed—a neat looking structure of two spans, with an island in the centre—and the Central Ontario Railway was crossed at 10.08 o'clock. This railway runs from Weller's Bay, on Lake Ontario, through Trenton and back to the mines in Marmora and Madoc. Ivanhoe station was passed and Tweed was reached at ten minutes to eleven o'clock. The party was kindly met at the station by the Tweed brass band, and a number of the villagers were present to welcome them.

Tweed is a small village of about 600 inhabitants, in Hungerford township, Hastings county. It is 55½ miles from Peterborough. It is situated on the Moira river and Stoco lake. It was chiefly the lake that induced the Foresters and Workmen to hold their pic-nic at this place, and it is certainly a charming little lake. The water is clear and the scenery is well worth seeing. The pic-nic ground is on a point that runs out into the lake, and if some labor was expended upon it, "Stoco Park" might become a popular resort for excursion parties. The opening of the railway has evidently given an impetus to business in Tweed, for new buildings are being erected, including a large elevator.

The excursionists first looked after dinner. If Tweed is to become a popular place for excursions, better hotel accommodation will have to be provided, but the party were soon satisfied. After dinner the majority of them joined those who had pic-nicked in the grove. The City Band orchestra provided music, and the dancing platform was soon occupied. After about an hour, however, a storm arose and the people sought shelter. Some went to the village and others took refuge in the cars. It continued to rain at intervals until the train departed for home, and interferred with the enjoyment of the day.

At 5.45 o'clock the start for home was made. Two or three persons, who had been driven indoors by the rain and had imbibed too much Tweed whisky, were a little demonstrative, but the committee quieted them. Peterborough was reached at 8.35.

But for the rain, a very enjoyable day would have been spent at Tweed, and, as it was, the party enjoyed themselves very well. The committee—Messrs. T. Rutherford (chairman), R. H. Lithgow (secretary), D. Gallelly, T. M. D. Croly, H. T. Holmes and Jos. McClelland (the last mentioned, however, was not present)—did all they could for the success of the excursion.

Meeting of the Boating Club.

On Thursday evening last a meeting of the Boating Club was held at their Boat House. Business of importance was brought forward. It was definitely arranged that a concert would be held on the 2nd or 3rd of September. The services of Miss Clench, violinist, has been secured, and it is expected that a soprano from the Conservatory of Music, Boston, will be engaged. The canoe parade, which was to have taken place next Monday, will be held on the evening before the concert. A committee was appointed to look after the details of a regatta to be held on the Little Lake on September 15th.

Smith's Market

Is now open and in full blast three doors above his old stand with a fresh and selected stock of Foreign and Domestic Canned Goods; also an extra choice variety of green vegetables such as Californian Squashes, Cucumbers, Tomatoes, (home grown), Cabbage, Beets, Carrots, &c., &c.

All kinds of Nuts and Confectionery.

Fresh Oysters every Wednesday. Fresh Fish of all kinds as usual.

One case of extra fine Red Spanish Onions.

My friends will kindly bear in mind that I have gone to considerable expense in fitting up and putting in new fixtures, &c., and that I am not prepared to extend any credits for a longer period than 30 days, as I am dependent on prompt monthly payments to meet my bills, which will be much larger than heretofore. Hoping to hear and see most of my friends to-morrow, I remain

Respectfully yours,
C. B. SMITH.

For a Daisy Tie that will take the greatest critic's eye, why just call and see McNeil.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE AS GOODNESS

Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

The Banner Week

FOR

SILKS!

Giroux & Sullivan sold during last week, more Silks than all the other houses combined. Since they placed on sale the 22 inch Black Silk at 75 cents per yard, which is equal to any offered elsewhere at $1.00, the sales have been immense. Their large and well lighted Silk Department has been thronged with eager buyers, all declaring their goods to be the best value ever offered in Peterborough, notwithstanding the exaggerated advertisements of other houses, who cannot buy them as low as the retail price here.

Where these Silks are procured, or why they are sold so cheap is no affair of the customers'. It is enough for them to know that they can buy here about 25 per cent. less than the pervading prices throughout the town. Do not fail to ask for our Summer Silks at 42½c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. See our Black Dress Silks at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, warranted pure silk both filling and warp. They are heavy in texture, beautiful in finish and quality, surpassing anything in the town at 25 per cent. higher in price. Don't fail to see them at

An Old Soldier's EXPERIENCE.

"Calvert, Texas, May 3, 1882.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. WHITLEY."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

POLICE COURT.

SATURDAY, Aug. 23.—James Stevenson, J. P. and Thos. Mencies, J. P., presided at the court this morning.

ASSAULT.

John Dundas charged Robert Allister with having committed on him an assault with intent to do grevious bodily harm on Thursday, the 21st of August, in the township of North Monaghan. Mr. C. W. Sawers appeared for the prisoner and pleaded not guily in his behalf.

Mr. Dundas was sworn, stated that he had hired Allister for six months. He had sent him out in the field to cut peas, but when he went out he found Allister scheming. Allister started to work, but did not cut the peas in the proper way. Mr. Dundas took a sythe and showed him how he wished to have it done. Allister stated that he would cut the peas his own way, and would not do as he (Mr. Dundas) ordered. A dispute arose and Allister raised the sythe and attempted to cut his employer. Mr. Dundas seized the sythe and in the scuffle which ensued was cut on the back of the head.

The prisoner was committed for trial.

THE HAIL-STONES.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—It may give some of your readers some idea of the size of the hail-stones that fell this afternoon to say that one of them weighed (upon a pair of apothecary's scales) dr. j, gr. xvii; or seventy-seven grains.

Yours, &c.,
ARNOLD HAULTAIN.

Peterborough, Aug. 23, 2 p.m.

Successful Candidates.

The following candidates, in addition to those formerly published, were successful in passing the recent non-professional examinations:—

PETERBOROUGH—Intermediate—M. Mann, E. Dearnard, L. P. Udy, M. McWilliams, M. Sherin, C. Rennett, F. Hall, N. A. Condon, L. Picken, N. Wrighton, N. Patterson, N. L. Buckley. Third class—M. H. Schofield, A. E. Peters, J. Spence, M. C. McCrea, L. Clarke.

NORWOOD—Intermediate—J. Mahoney, R. Patterson, R. Knox. Third class—R. Spence, F. Patteson, J. McKelvie, M. Harper, E. Wigmore, M. McLachan, R. Regan. Second class—M. Renwick, A; M. Campbell, B; K. Ryan, B.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store today were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer.
Nine o'clock	59°	29.05
One o'clock	68°	28.98
Three o'clock.	59°	29.00

It will be observed that the barometer fell considerably from 9 o'clock till 1 o'clock, thus indicating the storm this afternoon.

They Didn't Come to Blows.

At about half past ten o'clock on Friday night two young men indulged in rather violent language on Hunter street, near Aylmer. Several times they stood in menacing attitudes, and threatened what they wouldn't do, until a third party would come between them, and for a time quell their angry passions. How often the peace maker was called into requisition we did not count, but had it not been for him there must have been gore galore. The trio moved up Hunter street, at the same time using the most profane language, until they passed the railway track, where they tacitly agreed to part. Quite a crowd quickly gathered and as sood dispersed.

LACROSSE.

Reckless Statements and False Charges Regarding a Recent Match.

The following letter written from Orillia regarding the match on Thursday appears in the Mail:—

"ORILLIA, Ont., Aug. 22.—Your correspondent in Peterborough gives in to-day's issue of the Mail what purports to be a report of the match in Peterborough between the Peterborough and Orillia lacrosse clubs yesterday, and states that the Orillia Club left the field at the end of the second game, for reasons best known to themselves. The fear of stating the real truth and thus placing the Peterborough club in an unfavourable light may have forced your paragrapher to take refuge in a pretence of not knowing. For the benefit of your readers we will give some of the reasons, viz.:—The declared intention of individual members of the Peterborough club to "use up" and "stug" the Orillias before the game would be finished—the fact of the first four of the Orillia players being completely used up by their brutal play at the end of fifteen minutes—the hooting, yelling and interference of a horde of howling roughs that were allowed to swarm over the ground, and who at different times tripped up the Orillia players and kicked the ball to the Peterboroughs. The action of the Peterborough umpire, who acted more like a field captain than an umpire, and who disallowed Orillia the first game which was taken after 11 minutes play, and for which we can get the sworn testimony of a score of respectable citizens of both towns. The same umpire threw up his hands and declared the second game for Peterborough, notwithstanding that the ball was "blocked" three feet from the goal, and went almost straight up and over the top of the flags fully 20 feet, and came down behind and was swept away. Now we will give a brief description of the match. For the first ten minutes play the ball only reached the vicinity of Orillia goal three times; and was immediately returned by Gunn and Armstrong. It was a constant struggle between the Orillia Home and the Peterborough defence players, and the ball was finally forced through between the Peterborough's flags after eleven minutes play. The umpire and the Peterborough's now showed the cloven foot by disallowing the game, and "laying out" Jupp and J. B. Tudhope, the former being obliged so leave the field and Tudhope almost crippled. Two minutes after the ball was again faced off. Garret and R. Henderson were "laid low," thus completely crippling the home players. After this the game went against Orillia. The interference of the rabble that were running loose over the field now became such that further playing was useless. Their yells of fiendish glee when an Orillia man would be knocked down and cries of "Slug him," "Slug him," "Slug the son of a ——," "Curse him," "Hit him again," "Serves him right," were not calculated to inspire the boys with any great amount of courage. The ball was kicked by these rowdies, players were tripped, and one of them, Armstrong, was struck and knocked down by one of these ruffians. The boys would have stopped on the field and played the third game, but the action of the crowd was such that made further play a farce, and even dangerous. On the earnest solicitation of their friends from Orillia, who feared that the match would result in a field fight, the club left the field at the end of the second game."

The Mail shows in the heading that it puts on this letter that it does not feel like accepting it as truth, for it heads it "alleged ill-treatment." Its caution is commendable, for the letter is a tissue of falsehoods. As to the umpire's decision, when the Orrillias claimed the game the ball went three feet wide of the goal, and in the game that was awarded to the Peterboroughs the ball was "shinnied" through and the Orillia goal-keeper fell upon it and held it less than a foot behind, showing that it could not possibly have passed over the stakes. The statement that the crowd swarmed over the field during the time of play is not true. Some persons (the bulk of them Orilliaites and wearing badges of the Orillia club) stood at one side of the field under a tree, but they did not interfere with the game and the ball was not kicked to the Peterborough players. As to the players who were injured, Henderson was hurt the worst, and he received a blow accidentally from a player checking him, and none regretted it more than that player did. Tudhope was struck by a player who was throwing the ball. His back was towards Tudhope, and the Orillia player ran in and was struck by the stick as the ball was being thrown. Jupp collided with a player while both were running for the ball. None of their players were seriously injured, for although Jupp left the field he was able to play soon after. But there is no need of going over the whole letter. Those who saw the match know that the statements are not correct. Nor do we wish to comment on the rough play of the Orillia players, although several of the Peterboroughs feel the effects of it, and the referee had to caution one of the Orillia men to be more careful or he would be compelled to rule him off the field. The referee was a disinterested party from another town, and we hope that he will answer these false statements, sent to the Mail from Orillia, over his own signature.

Two Elopement Cases.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 1.—Two elopements are chronicled in the local press, one of a man with his alleged sister, and the other of a Grand Trunk conductor with a young lady of Port Stanley. They give rise to considerable gossip, more especially the latter, as he has a wife living here.

The Housewife.

A popular domestic journal for American homes, will be sent for one year free to every lady who will send at once the names and address of 10 married ladies, and 50 cents (no stamps taken). Best paper for either young or old housekeepers in existence. This offer is made only to secure names to whom to send sample copies, as we know every lady who once sees THE HOUSEWIFE will subscribe for it at once. Regular price $1 per year. Address, the HOUSEWIFE, Rochester, N. Y.

COLLISION AT SEA.

A Steamer Sunk by a Schooner—Four Lives Lost.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—The Tallapoosa, with one hundred and forty men and officers, was bound to Newport to take aboard Secretary Chandler. At eleven o'clock last night, during a thick fog, when three miles north-east of Oak Bluffs, Marthas Vineyard, she was struck by the schooner James S. Lowell, from Baltimore for Portland with coal. Her side was crushed, and she sank in five minutes in ten fathoms of water. As she went down her whistle was blown as a signal of distress, and it was heard by the Boston and Savannah steamer Gate City, bound for the latter port. The came up immediately, and with the schooner Mary Hood, who happened to be in the vicinity, rescued the crew, with the exception of Surgeon Clarence E. Black and Geo. E. Foster, a landsmen, who are said to be missing. The Gate City blew her whistle and the steamer Fish-Hawk, lying at Woodshall, sent out a steam launch. The Gate City lay until three o'clock transferring the crew to the launch. They were all landed at Woodshall. The Tallapoosa lies on what is known as squash meadow flat, and her smokestack and the top of her main mast are alone visible. The schooner James S. Lowell has also on board several of the Tallapoosa's crew. A later report states that four persons were drowned: Dr. Black, Wm. O'Donnell, seaman, of Boston, Wm. Jones, landsman, of Washington, and George Foster, coloured saloon boy.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 23, 1884.

OUR MARRIAGEABLE GIRLS

FROM one point of view those singularly musical and mournful lines of the Rev. Charles Kingsley's:—

For men must work, and women must weep,
And there's little to earn, and many to keep,
Though the harbour bar be moaning, seem in these last two decades of the nineteenth century to acquire an intenser and more pathetic signification. The lines themselves, it is perhaps unnecessary to say, apply to men and women accounted as low down in the social scale—fishermen and their wives. It is when we extend their meaning as to include the so-called upper classes, that they strike us forcibly with their unwelcome truthfulness. The rush for life seems so rapid, the struggle for existence so keen, that we do not wonder that life seems altogether made up of working and weeping. With the professions over-crowded: experienced barristers content to act as clerks; physicians living a life of drudgery and toil; and many satisfied to occupy even the most non-lucrative post, so long as it brings them the wherewithal to purchase the bare necessities of life, what wonder that the cry goes up:—

There's little to earn, and many to keep?

What is the outcome of this? The competition for a livelihood amongst the more mature in the community being so severe, the younger members naturally suffer still more. Talent and energy there is in abundance, but no field for its exhibition; hence few competencies and fewer fortunes. The result: a proportion between "eligible" young men and marriageable girls of almost ten to one. The signs of this are multiform and universal. To what but this disproportion do we owe our Girton, Newnham, Vassar; our hot disputes on women's rights; our discussions on the fitness of co-education; on the capabilities of women to enter the professions; our strong assertions as to the necessity of female secondary education; even our innumerable governesses, companions, lady-helps?

The goal of woman is, in the course of nature, marriage. This being denied her, she is obliged, in the vast majority of cases, either to live out a life of spinsterhood, unenlivened by any other excitement than that unhealthy and rapidly waning one of social gaiety; or, if an intellectual or religious bent has been given to the mind, to pass her days in mild and innocent acts of charity, or in equally trivial and resultless educational amusements. For the rest, for those who are unfortunate enough to be obliged to earn their own living, there is nothing for it but to seek out some employment, however uncongenial.

It is to this necessity on the part of so many of our gentlewomen to undertake work, the fruits of which have some definite marketable value, that we wish more particularly to advert to.

Strange to say, even in Canada, a land in which we pride ourselves upon being untrammeled by old-world prejudices, unfettered by social traditions, there still lurk the spectres of by-gone customs which retain much of their old force. Amongst the most powerful of these is the character of the education which we bestow upon our girls. The father remembers the time when he shrank from even being made cognizant of the fact that his wife could dust the piano, or shell peas, or tinge her ladylike finger-tips by "hulling" strawberries. And even though a good deal of this is worn away by the hardships of life, the sight of elegant, graceful daughters of sixteen, seventeen, or eighteen rouses again some of the old sensitiveness, and Ethel and Maud learn only painting, practice only Chopin, and employ their spare time only on crewels and appliquee.

This state of things cannot long last. Already the stronger-minded (we ought perhaps to say the more sagacious and those gifted with keen forethought) have of their own accord burst these fetters and entered more active spheres.

It remains now for us men to give the weaker sex our strong co-operation and support in this new departure. Let us show them with all the force of practical example, that "all work is blessed"; that no healthy labour can be mean; that even toil that is undertaken for its money value only can be performed in an entirely graceful and lady-like manner.

Further, let us not be satisfied with mere theory. Let us devise practicable means by which to show that we really mean that which we advocate. For example, in order to encourage those gentlewomen who may, perhaps, through a very natural fear, shrink from undertaking employment such as we have hinted at, why should there not be instituted Ladies' Co-operative Associations, headed and patronized by the best known and most influential of our matronly leaders of society? There is a dearth of house servants: would it be a very great hardship for the members of such Associations to offer (for emolument, of course) to help for a few hours daily their sisters who have homes to keep up but no means of doing so? Would it be altogether out of the question to assist in washing, dressing, and taking care of the children of these servantless ladies? Would it be infra dig. to help in making their clothes? We answer in a categorical and emphatic No. Nay, rather, we venture to say that, instead of the probabilities being that the rest of the lives of these increasingly useful younger lady members of society being doomed to spinsterhood, the chances of their reaching that goal of woman—marriage—would be a hundred fold increased.

This is a wide and a deep subject, impossible to fully treat of in a short newspaper editorial. But we trust we have said enough to spur our readers, male and female, to concerted action.

SHAKSPERE.

The following are the more important of Mr. Earl's questions on

THE MERCHANT OF VENICE:

1. Examine the title of comedy, as applied to this play.
2. What is known respecting the date of its first production?
3. Of what two stories is the plot composed?
4. What evidence is there that Shakspere borrowed his plot from a previous play?
5. What is probably the real origin of the casket scene? Of the bond?
6. What Romans are referred to in the collection entitled, Gesta Romanorum?
7. State all the grounds of the enmity between Antonio and Shylock.
8. How has Shakspere contrived to lessen the improbability of the original story of the bond?
9. Sketch the character of Antonio.
10. Describe fully the character of Shylock. Compare and contrast his character with that of Marlowe's Jew of Malta.
11. What seem to have been Shakspere's feelings with regard to the treatment received by the Jews? What extenuating circumstances for the conduct of Shylock are brought out in the play? How has the dramatist mitigated the severity of Shylock's punishment?
12. Remark on the character and conduct of Jessica.
13. Describe fully the character of Portia.
14. By what means has the dramatist lightened the general tone of melancholy in the play?
15. Sketch the character of Gratiano.
16. Account for the popularity of this play.
17. Briefly criticise the trial scene.
18. "As to the moral temper of the Merchant of Venice, critics have differed widely, some regarding the play as teaching the most comprehensive humanity; others as caressing the narrowest bigotries of the age." To which opinion, if either, do you incline? Give reasons for your answer.
19. "The persons naturally fall into three several groups, with each its several plot and action." Does this affect the unity of the action? Who are the central figures of the several groups?
20. How may the part of Lorenzo and Jessica be regarded?
21. "In the first entry at the stationers' the play is described as 'The Merchant of Venice, or otherwise called The Jew of Venice.'" Which title do you consider the more appropriate? Give reasons.
22. Describe the character of Bassanio.
23. "The friendship between the Merchant and his companions is such a picture as Shakspere delighted to draw, and so fair a sentiment is not apt to inhabit ignoble breasts." Give other instances from Shakspere's works.
24. Can you justify the introduction of Launcelot Gobbo? State fully the importance of his part.
25. "Mrs. Jameson intimates Shakspere to have been about the only artist, except Nature, who could make women wise without turning them into men." Justify this with special reference to Portia.
26. Write a brief epitome of the play.
27. How has the poet relieved the mind from the anxiety which would otherwise be too painful, for the danger which hangs over Antonio?
29. Shew that the several plots are skilfully complotted.
30. What features of Portia's character are brought out in the Trial Scene? Explain fully.
31. "It is evident that she (Portia) would rather owe the safety of Antonio to anything rather that the legal quibble with which her cousin Bellario has armed her." Shew this to be the case.
32. Ulrici "regards the whole play as a manifold working out of the principle, that all forms of right and justice, if pushed beyond a certain point, pass over into their opposites, so that extreme right becomes extreme wrong, thus verifying the old maxim, Summum jus summa injuria." Discuss this.
33. "Let me play the fool." Trace the history of the fool on the stage.
34. By what features in the opening scene is the plot of the Merchant of Venice foreshadowed?
35. How is Antonio's sadness accounted for by himself? How by his friends?
36. What features of Portia's character are brought out in the dialogue between her and Nerissa in Act I? Why is this part in prose?
37. What references to the 16th century occur in Shylock's enumeration of Antonio's "ventures."
38. What was the probable reason for Shakspere attributing to Portia "sunny locks."
39. In what terms, and with what application, does Nerissa assert the notion about dying persons being gifted with prophetic sagacity?
40. "What think you of the Scottish lord, his neighbour?" What early alteration was made of this part of the original text? Why? How does the alteration affect the spirit of Portia's answer?
41. Write a note on the Rialto.
42. What allusions are there to the following in Act 1st:—Cato; the Golden Fleece; Heraclitus; the early commercial supremacy of the Italian Republics; the securing of the birth-right by Jacob?
43. What were the legends on the caskets of gold, silver and lead, respectively? Explain the significance of each.
44. Infer the Prince of Morocco's disposition from his first dialogue with Portia, and his comments on the caskets.
45. Infer the Prince of Arragon's disposition from his comments on the caskets.
46. How does Portia describe the propriety of music sounding while Bassanio makes his choice? In what terms does she continue her speech by comparing him to Hercules? Criticise this speech as to the appearance of affectation which it presents.
47. Explain the purport of the song which is sung while Bassanio comments on the caskets to himself.
48. Give in your own words an account of the court scene, and remark on the features of character brought out.
49. How does it appear that only "indirectly" but "directly too," the Jew had "contrived against the only life of the defendant?
50. Discuss the dramatic importance of Act V.

PREPARING FOR WAR.

WAR A L'OUTRANCE.

PEKIN, Aug. 21.—The French consul lowered his flag at one o'clock to-day. The interests of the French subjects have been entrusted to a Russian Minister. China absolutely refuses to admit the French claims for indemnity. The Tsing Li Yamen profess to be profess to be prepared for war a l'outrance. They are secretly hoping, however, to involve neutrals in a quarrel respecting the treaty ports.

A WARLIKE VICEROY.

CANTON, Aug. 21.—The Viceroy is a rabid hater of foreigners, and his head men and officials and common people are warlike. The merchants, however, are pacific. An English corvette and some German and American gun boats are here.

Turnbull has just received a large shipment of Corsets in all the latest and most improved makes.

Night Sweats.

Headache, fever, chills, malaria, dyspepsia, cured by "Wells' Health Renewer." $1.

NOT another Pill shall go down my throat again, said a citizen, "when I can get such a prompt and pleasant cure for my Billious attacks, as Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It renders the Blood Pure and Cool and makes a splended Spring Medicine. Large Bottles 50 cents.

"Hub" Cough Cure, 25 Cents.

Prescription of a Boston physician, dispensed years by a Boston Druggist. One dose will cure any ordinary cough. It acts almost magically Ask J. D. Tully for a 25 cent bottle of Hub Cough Cure.

OH! how tired and weak I feel I dont believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning? Oh yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50 cents.

Salt Rheum Cured.

Are you troubled with salt rheum, rough skin, pimples or canker Sores; if so at once go to John McKee's drug store and get a package of McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Price 25 cents. It was never known to fail.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

CHAPTER XXX.—CONTINUED.

Further on, nearing the close, Mr. Palma observed a change in the countenance, a quick gleam in his eyes, a triumphant ring in the deep and almost passionate tone that cried exultantly:

"Only my heart to my heart will show it
As I walk desolate day by day."

Her eyes sank until they rested on her ring, slipping it to and fro upon her slender finger till the diamonds sparkled, she repeated with indescribable power and pathos:

"And yet I know, past all doubting, truly,
A knowledge greater than grief can dim
I knew, as he loved, he will love me duly,
Yea better, e'en better than I love him.
And as I walk by the vast calm river,
The awful river so dread to see,
I say 'Thy breadth and thy depth forever
Are bridged by his thoughts that cross to me.'"

"Regina, do you interpret that the River of Death."

She pointed to the jewels on her hand, and the blue eyes cold as steel met his.

"Only the River of Death could have 'divided' Douglass and me."

A frown overshadowed his massive brow, but he merely added composedly:

"I did not suspect until to-night that you were endowed with your mother's histrionic talent. Some day you will rival her as an actress, and at least I may venture to congratulate you upon the fact that she will scarcely be disappointed in your dramatic skill."

For nearly a moment neither spoke.

"Mr. Palma, you have no objection I hope to my carrying my mother's portrait with me?"

"It is undeniably your property, but since so soon you will possess the original, I would suggest the propriety of leaving the picture where it is, until your mother decides where she will reside."

"I understood that you had sold this house, and feared that in the removal it might be injured."

"It will be carefully preserved with my own pictures, and if your mother wishes it forwarded I will comply with her instructions. All the business details of your voyage I have arranged with Mrs. Palma and Mr. Chesley; and you have only to pack your trunks, and bid adieu to such friends as you may deem worthy of a farewell visit. Have you a copy of Jean Ingelow?"

"No, sir."

"Then oblige me by accepting mine. I have no time for poetry."

He took the book to his desk, wrote upon the fly-leaf: "Lily, March the 10th;" then marked "Divided," and returning to the table, held the volume toward her.

"Thank you, but indeed, sir, I do not wish to accept it. I much prefer that you should retain it."

He inclined his his head, and replaced the book on the marble slab. She rose, and he saw the color ebbing from her lips.

"Mr. Palma, I hope you will not deny me one great favor. I cannot leave my dog, I must have my Hero."

"Indeed! I thought you had quite forgotten his existence. You have ceased to manifest any interest in him."

"Yes, to manifest, but not to feel. You took him from me, and I was unwilling to annoy you with useless petitions and complaints. You gave him to me once, he is mine; and you have no right to withold him any longer."

"Circumstances have materially altered. When you were a girl I sent you a dog to romp with. Now you are a young lady preparing for European conquests, and having had his day, Hero must retire to the rustic shade of your childhood."

"Years have not changed my feelings for all that I love."

"Are you sure Lily, that you have not changed since you came to live in New York?"

"Not in my attachment to all that brightened my childhood, and Hero is closely linked with the dear happy time I spent at the Parsonage. Mr. Palma, I want him."

Her guardian smiled, and played with his watch chain.

"Just now, he is at a farm on Staten Island, and I am sorry I cannot gratify you in such a trivial matter. Trust me to take care of him."

Her heart was slowly sinking, for she saw him glance at the clock, and knew that it was too late.

"I will bring you good tidings of your pet when I see you in Europe."

He was watching her very closely, and instead of pleased surprise, discerned the expression of dread, the unmistakable shiver that greeted the announcement of his projected trip. After all, had he utterly mistaken her feeling, flattered himself falsely?

She supposed he referred to his bridal tour, and she thought that when they next met he would be Brunella Carew's husband, goaded her to hope that such torture might be averted, by seeing him no more.

While both stood sorrowful and perplexed, the front door-bell rang sharply. Soon after Terry entered, with a large official envelope, sealed with red wax.

"From Mr. Rodney, Sir."

"Yes, I was expecting it. Tell Octova I must have a cup of coffee at daylight, and Farley must not fail to have the coupe ready to take me to the depot. Let the gas burn in the hall to-night. That is all."

Mr. Palma broke the seals, glanced at the heading of several sheets of legal cap, and laid the whole on his desk.

"Regina, all the money belonging to you I shall leave in Mrs. Palma's hands, and she will transmit it to you. Mr. Chesley will take charge of you to-morrow."

Twice she attempted to speak, but no sound was audible.

Mr. Palma came close to her, and held out his hand. Silently she placed hers in it, and when he took the other, holding both in a warm tightening clasp, she felt as if the world were crumbling beneath her unsteady feet. Her large soft eyes sought his handsome, pale face, wistfully, hungrily, almost despairingly, and oh! how dear he was to her at that moment. If she could only put her arms around his neck, and cling to him, feeling as she had once done, the touch of his cheek pressing hers; but there was madness in the thought.

"Although you are so anxious to leave my care and my house, I hope my ward will think kindly of me when far distant. It is my misfortune that you gave your fullest confidence and affection to your guardian, Mr. Hargrove; but since you were committed to my hands, I have endeavoured faithfully, conscientiously to do my duty in every respect. In some things it has cost me dear, how dear, I think you will never realize. If I should live to see you again, I trust I shall find you the same earnest, true-hearted, pure girl that you leave me; for in your piety and noble nature I have a deep and abiding faith. My dear ward, good-bye."

The beautiful face, with its mournful tender eyes, told little of the fierce agony that seemed consuming her, as she gazed into the beloved countenance for the last time.

"Good-bye, Mr. Palma. I have no words to thank you for all your care and goodness."

"Is that all, Lily? Years ago, when I left you at the Parsonage, looking as if your little heart would break, you said, 'I will pray for you every night.' Now you leave me without a tear, and with no promise to remember me."

Tenderly his low voice appealed to her heart, as he bent his head so close that his hair swept across her brow.

She raised the hand that held hers, suddenly kissed it with an overwhelming passionate fervour, and holding it against her cheek, murmured almost in a whisper:

"God knows I have never ceased to pray for you, and Mr. Palma, as long as I live, come what may to both of us, I shall never fail in my prayers for you."

She dropped his hand, and covered her face with her own.

He stretched his arms toward her, all his love an his fine eyes, so full of a strange tenderness, yearning to possess her entirely; but he checked himself, and taking one of the hands, led her to the door. Upon the threshold she rallied, and looked up:

"Good-bye, Mr. Palma."

He drew her close to his side, unconscious that he pressed her fingers so tight that the small points of the diamonds cut into the flesh.

"God bless you, Lily. Think of me sometimes."

They looked in each other's eyes an instant, and she walked away. He turned and closed the door, and she heard the click of the lock inside. Blind, tearless, like one staggering from a severe blow, she reached her own room, and fell heavily across the foot of her bed.

Through the long hours of that night she lay motionless, striving to hush the moans of her crushed heart, and wondering why such anguish as hers was not fatal. Staring at the wall, she could not close her eyes, and the only staff that supported her in the ordeal, was the consciousness that she had fought bravely, had not betrayed her humiliating secret.

Toward dawn she rose, and opened her window. The sleet had ceased, and the carriage was standing before the door. An impulse she could not resist, drove her out in the hall, to catch one more glimpse of the form so precious to her. She heard a door open on the hall beneath, and recognized her guardian's step. He paused, and she heard him talking to his step-mother; bidding her adieu. His last words were deep and gentle in their utterance.

"Be very tender and patient with Olga. Wounds like hers heal slowly. Take good care of my ward. God bless you all."

Descending the steps, she saw him distinctly, enveloped in an overcoat buttoned so close that it showed the fine proportions of his tall figure; as he stopped to light his cigar at a gas globe which a bronze Atalanta held in a niche half way up the stairs, his nobly formed head and gleaming forehead impressed itself forever on her memory.

Slowly she went down, and leaning over the balustrade to watch the vanishing figure, the withered azaleas slipped from her hair, and floated like a snowflake down, down to the lower hall.

Fearful of discovery she shrank back, but not before he had seen the drifting flowers, and one swift upward glance showed him the blanched suffering face, pale as a summer cloud, retreating from observation. Stooping, he snatched the bruised, wilted petals that seemed a fit symbol of the drooping flower he was leaving behind him, kissed them tenderly, and thrust them into his bosom.

The blessed assurance so long desired seemed nestling in their perfumed corollas, making all his future fragrant; and how little she dreamed of the precious message they breathed from her heart to his?

"What could he do indeed? A weak white girl
Held all this heartstrings in her small white hand;
His hopes, and power, and majesty were hers,
And not his own."

FACTS ABOUT LEAVES.

As is well known, a tree cannot grow without leaves. These are put forth every year, and are a contrivance for vastly increasing the surface. An oak tree of good size exposes several acres of surface to the air during the growing season. It has been estimated that the Washington elm at Cambridge, Mass., not a very large tree, exposes about five acres of foliage, if we include both sides of the leaves. Leaves are more nearly comparable to stomachs than lungs. A leaf is a laboratory for assimilating or manufacturing raw materials into plant fabric. The cellular structure of the leaves, wood and bark of a tree is a complicated subject to treat in a popular way. It requires a vast surface of leaves to do a little work. By counting the leaves on a seedling oak, and estimating the surface of both sides of each, we can see how many inches are needed to build up the roots and stems for the first year. After the first year the old stem of the oak bears no leaves. It is dependent on the leaves of the branches, or its children, for support. A tree is a sort of community, each part having its own duties to perform. The root hair takes up the most of the nourishment. The young roots take this to the larger ones, and they in turn, like the branches of a river, pour the flood of crude sap into the trunk, which conveys it to the leaves. The assimilated or digested sap passes from the leaves to all growing parts of the plant, and a deposit is made where most needed. If a branch is much exposed to the winds, the base of it has a certain support or certain amount of nourishment. So with the trunk of a tree. If the base of a branch or the main trunk is much exposed to the winds and storms, as much thicker deposit of food is made there. The winds give a tree exercise, which seems good to help make it strong. Our toughest wood comes from trees growing in exposed places. The limbs of a tree are all the time striving with each other to see which shall have the most room and the most sunshine. While some perish in the attempt, or meet with only very indifferent success, the strongest of the strong buds survive.

"MAY DEW"
The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubbornly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever roduced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any ress on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, AUGUST 23, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

To See Them Off.

The Streetsville excursion train drew out from the Ontario and Quebec station about half-past eight on Friday evening. A large number of our citizens went down to see them off.

Quickly Disposed Of.

The old sheds and fences of the Central Park were sold by Charles Stapleton, Auctioneer, on Friday afternoon. They were sold in small lots and brought in the neighbourhood of fifty dollars.

Sanitary.

Dr. P. H. Boyce, Secretary of the Provincial board of Health, is in town, and is this afternoon with members of the Local Board making an inspection of the sanitary condition of the town.

The Market.

This morning opened calm and cool. As the Fall approaches the attendance on Saturday's market perceptibly increases. The price of eggs and butter remained stationary. Plumbs, thimbleberries and crab apples are beginning to appear in quantities. The market was well supplied with fowl.

To Be Re-Opened.

St. Lukes Church, Ashburnham, will be re-opened for Divine service to-morrow. In the past two weeks the interior of the church has been undergoing a thorough transformation. The work has been under the charge of Messrs. Henderson, Mullin & Bolton of Toronto, who have fulfilled their task satisfactorily. The side walls and ceilings of the church have been painted and decorated in the most artistic and tasteful manner. Scrolls have also been painted over the windows, and in these are painted texts from the Psalms. The church has indeed been greatly beautified.

More Matches.

At a meeting of the Lacrosse Club on Friday night it was decided to play the return match with the Metropolitans, of Ottawa, on or about the 8th of September, and to play the Checkers, of Beaverton, a week from that date. Both matches will be played on the Ashburnham grounds. It was also decided to send a team to Ottawa to play a match with the Mets sometime during the Exhibition, which opens in that city on September 22nd. The Lacrosse Club is now making arrangements for an excursion to the Capital, and no doubt with the many attractions the excursion will be largely patronized. The excursionists will have an opportunity of seeing the Parliament buildings and the city sights; and lastly they may see the match between the Metropolitans and our own team. The Secretary of the Peterboroughs is now in correspondence with the celebrated Caughnawaga Indians, and it is expected that these world renowned players will open the new grounds at the Driving Park some time during the latter part of September.

Lacrosse Tournament.

The second lacrosse tournament will be held on the Ashburnham grounds on Tuesday, Aug. 26. Everything is going on favourably and a good exhibition of lacrosse may be expected. Mr. Calcutt received by telephone yesterday a message from the Secretary of the Cobourg club stating that the Cobourgs wished to enter for the Brewery Cup. Mr. Calcutt has been corresponding with the Norwoods, and it is expected that the second twelve of the Peterboroughs will play against the two above named clubs. A Toronto team is expected to accompany the York Pioneers' excursion and contest for the Idyl-Wild championship cup with the Peterborough seniors. The Fire Brigade Band (24 strong) will be present during the tournament. As the Band goes to Bowmanville on Wednesday to take part in the Band competition, no doubt those present will enjoy the rich and select strains of the Band. Mr. Calcutt deserves the very greatest credit for the way in which he is encouraging our national game, and no doubt his efforts will be appreciated.

THE BALL AND THE BAT.

Base Ball Match Between the Maple Leafs and the Silver Stars.

An interesting base ball match way played in the Ashburnham grounds on Friday afternoon between the Maple Leaf club, of Bethany, and the Silver Stars, of Peterborough. Music was furnished gratuitously by the Streetsville band, which had accompanied an excursion from Streetsville. The band played, at intervals during the match, a number of taking airs. The weather was cool, and the stands were not over crowded with spectators. At a short time after three o'clock the opposing teams took their positions on the field as follows:—

MAPLE LEAFS.		SILVER STARS.
G. Robinson	Pitcher	W. H. Dayman.
J. Stewart	Catcher	F. Billings.
T. Leonard	1st Base	J. Watson.
T. Stewart	2nd Base	J. Hickey.
G. Lea	3rd Base	Pidgeon.
J. Lea	Right Field	R. S. Kelly.
A. McFaul	Centre Field	J. Cushen.
W. Long	Left Field	W. Lannin.
R. Gillis	Short Stop	J. Hawkins.

Mr. J. Henderson acted as umpire.

The Maple Leafs went first to the bat and scored up eight runs, and the Silver Stars followed with six runs to their credit. The match throughout was evenly contested, and it was doubtful which club would be victorious. On the fifth innings, however, the Silver Stars scored eight to the Maple Leafs' nothing, thus placing the home team six runs ahead. This lead, notwithstanding the efforts of the Maple Leafs, the Silver Stars kept till the close of the match.

The following is the score by innings:—

Silver Stars.....6 0 6 3 3 4 0 1 2—30
Maple Leafs.....3 1 4 4 0 1 3 0 3—24

Number of runs in favor of Silver Stars. 6

Of the individual players on each side, if we may be allowed to particularize, Messrs. Cushen, Dayman, Billings, and Hickey, of the Silver Stars, are especially worthy of mention. The two first mentioned made six runs each, and the two last made five runs each. These four players thus made twenty-two out of the total thirty. Cushen made some fine catches and batted well. Robinson, of the Maple Leafs, during the first innings made an excellent play. He made a low, safe hit and covered all the bases, making a run without a stop.

P. B. C.

A telegram was received from Miss Nora Clench this morning stating that she would be here on the third of September, so that our citizens can confidently count upon hearing her again. The other arrangements for the concert are progressing satisfactorily, and the posters will be out the beginning of the week.

The Coming Race.

The race between Hamley, of Port Hope, and Williamson, of Midland, which takes place in the Driving Park on the 6th of September, becomes more interesting as the day draws near. The sporting men of Port Hope are willing to back Hamly for any amount of money, while the friends of Williamson have equal confidence in their man. No doubt this event will attract a large number of people.

The Beaverton Match.

The Beaverton correspondent of the Warder returns to the subject of the lacrosse match played here on August 8, but as he not only misstated facts, but garbles and misquoted what we said, we have no desire to continue the discussion. We are pleased to see, however, that he does not now contend that Peterborough player "caught the ball in his hand and placed it in his stick."

Snowballing in August.

A novel sight was witnessed on our streets this afternoon. At two o'clock a heavy hail storm which lasted about ten minutes passed over the town. Some of the hailstones were as large as marbles, and when the storm was over and the icy crystals somewhat thawed, small boys might have been seen pegging each other with handfuls of the frozen substance. Snow shovels and brooms were busily plied in cleaning the sidewalk.

Something New.

There is always something new turning up in our town, and the secret of the latest startling rumours in our midst is to be fathomed by the curious paying a visit to the fashionable tonsorial establishment of Mr. Fred. Potvin, at the Grand Central Shaving and Haircutting Parlor. Look in the local columns of the REVIEW next week for particulars, and in the meantime, just to satisfy your curiosity, pay a visit to his fine shop.

Personal.

Mr. M. M. Hackett, one of Peterborough's pioneer lacrossemen, is here on a flying visit. He is in business at Cornwall.

Mr. J. H. Barber, who resided in Peterborough during the construction of the Ontario and Quebec, as resident engineer, has left to take a position on the construction of the extension of the Northern Railway. Mr. Barber made many friends while in Peterborough.

Mr. W. Whyte, General Superintendent of the Ontario and Quebec, and Mr. Hugh D. Lumsden, Chief Engineer of the same road, passed through town to-day on the official car at 11.40. They went east.

An Attractive Window.

Scarcely any one can go by the north side window of Mr. A. McNeil's gents furnishing store without stopping to admire the contents of it, and the tasteful manner in which they are shown. The window is filled with ties and scarfs of every description, which are suspended from brass bars. A handsome circular brass stand is placed in the centre of the wisdow and from it dangle ties which would fascinate the most confirmed dude. In fact, "on right, on left, above, below," scarcely anything else but the little variegated adornments is to be seen. Artificial flowers also ornament the window.

The Wimbledon Team.

Arrangements are in progress to tender a fitting reception to Lieut. Colonel White, commander of the Canadian Wimbledon team, which is expected to arrive at Ottawa on Monday next. Nos. 1 and 2 companies of the 43rd battalion, and the band, will turn out, and a torchlight procession will likely escort Col. White from the station to his residence.

If it Were Possible

To get the testimony of the multitude who have used the Shaker Blood Syrup for spring debility, lanaguor, lassitude, and that general feeling of stupidity, weariness and exhaustion which everyone feels during this season, we should be able to present to our readers such an overwhelming mass of commendatory messages, that the few who have not tried it would do so at once. It is a positive fact, and has been so effectually demonstrated that no one to-day denies it, that the Shaker Blood Syrup contains more real medical value than any article now before the public. Hundreds, in spite of their prejudices, are taking the Shaker Blood Syrup, and now honestly declare it to be the best medicine ever offered to the public; and they are quite right, and this sentiment must and will extend just as far as the people will allow themselves to be influenced by facts and by the testimony of those who have tried it and know whereof they speak. In presenting the Shaker Blood Syrup to the public we suffer, because people have been so often humbugged by the week decoctions with which the country is filled. It is often difficult to make the people believe what an advertisement says, because of the evil influence produced by those unreliable, worthless preparations. It is true that honest people are constantly suffering from the effects of dishonesty, and this will probably always be so, but it does not require any remarkable ability to see how the real worth of Shaker Blood Syrup impresses itself upon people. Our reputation rests upon the value of this medicine, and we are proud of the record it is making.

"Rough on Pain" Plaster.
Porous and strengthening, improved, the best for backache, pains in chest or side, rheumatism, neuralgia. 25c. Druggists or mail.

Well Rewarded.

For sale by Taylor & McDonald.

Another Victory.
A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Oh, What a Cough!
Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough it never fails. This explains why more than a million bottle were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's porous plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE
AS
GOODNESS
Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

An Old Soldier's EXPERIENCE.

"Calvert, Texas, May 3, 1882.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. WHITLEY."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

REFORM FREEDOM.

MR. BLAKE and the Globe have succeeded in their attempt to force Mr. J. D. Edgar upon the constituency of West Ontario, opened for that purpose by Mr. Mowat, who bought (with the funds of the people of Ontario, not his own) the resignation of Mr. Wheler. This is the kind of "popular representation" that modern Canadian Reformers admire. Mr. Blake's urgent need of assistance, and the incompetency of his lieutenants, are plainly confessed by his complicity in this very dubious operation.

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

THE holding of the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science is an important event in our history, for it is the first instance of such a meeting being held in any colony, thus testifying in a very practical manner to the progress and high standing of our Dominion. It is another proof that Canada is growing into an equal place with England, Ireland and Scotland, and that it is regarded as a leading member of the great Empire to which we are proud to belong.

The scientific men who are thus attracted from the Old World to our shores will find that our country is not unworthy of their consideration. Even in the realm of science the names of Canadians are not unknown, for Sir Wm. Logan, Principal Dawson, Mr. Sandford Fleming, and others, have acquired a reputation extending throughout the civilized world. Our visitors will also find that we have not been backward in applying science to practical uses. Our great railways and above all our stupendous works to improve our unexampled inland navigation will deserve and receive their warm enconiums.

But the great benefit that Canada will derive from the presence of this parliament of science will be the acquaintance made by these influential men with the great capabilities of our country, and the wide diffusion of this knowledge through the three kingdoms by means of such authoritative witnesses and excellent judges.

Our visitors, unless exceptionally well-informed in such matters, will see much to surprise them. No doubt their reports upon their return will convince many who have hitherto had very vague ideas of Canada, that it is a country destined for a great future, and with enormous capabilities for progress till it must fill a leading place among the nations of the world.

Come to headquarters for your furnishings. No dead stock all fresh and new at Andrew McNeil's.

Loss of Property.

Mr. Charles Harris informs us that he lost two gold watches that had cost him $100 a piece, during the removal of his goods from the fire on Sunday night. Mr. Harris, as a new-comer, complains bitterly of the defective police protection in our town at night.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store today were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer.
Nine o'clock	62°	29.32
One o'clock	64°	29.30
Three o'clock	60°	29.20

Valedictory.

It is with much regret that we lose from the staff of the REVIEW Mr. Arnold Haultain, who is about to leave for New York. We have no doubt that his abilities and culture will ensure his success, finding as they must a wider field for their exercise in a metropolitan city, than in a country town however flourishing it may be.

We claim to show in our furnishing window this evening a rang of Ties unequalled in the Province. Andrew McNeil.

SANITARY.

Inspection by an Official of the Provincial Board of Health.

Dr. Bryce, Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, accompanied by Dr. Clark, the medical health officer for the town, and Messrs. McNeil, Paterson, Rutherford and Stapleton, of the local board, made a tour of inspection on Saturday. They visited the head of George street, the point proposed for the commencement of the new trunk drain. From there they went to the Dickson estate mills, and inspected the manner in which the mill refuse is disposed of. They also inspected the Goose Pond, Spaulding's Bay, the accommodation at the new O. & Q. Railway station, and Mathews' pork packing establishment. Dr. Bryce expressed himself im strong terms as to the nuisance at Spauldings Bay, expressing his opinion that a dam to retain the water would remedy part of the evil, but that a portion should be filled up at once as it was most prejudicial to health. He advised the local board to take immediate steps in the matter.

TO OUR FRIENDS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—If there are any friends of the band who wish to make contributions to aid us in defraying our expenses to Bowmanville and return, where the Fire Brigade Band go to compete in the band tournament on Wednesday, will they kindly forward donations to the undersigned not later than Tuesday evening, and we will feel, as ever, very grateful.

We know there are many who will be unable to attend our last rehearsal on Tuesday night in the Drill Shed, and who, nevertheless, are always willing to assist us, and consequently we have thought it advisable to adopt this course.

By inserting the above in your paper, you will confer a favor on the Fire Brigade Band.

Lacrosse.

The senior and junior teams of the Peterborough Lacross Club, which will contest for the Idyle Wild and Brewery cups to-morrow, will be composed as follows:—

SENIORS.—G. H. Giroux, P. Myles, M. Tierney, J. Howden, M. Halpin, A. Yelland, J. J. Sheehy, R. S. Kelly, J. Henderson, C. Rutherford, W. Rudkins, W. J. Scott, and J. Coughlin field captain.

JUNIORS.—R. Stephenson, J. Coughlin, W. Welsh, J. Shevlin, J. Canning, A. Mooney, J. Carveth, R. Begley, E. Rogers, W. J. Morrow, H. Myers and D. Deyell, S. Heaps spare man. J. J. Shehy field captain.

It is Probable.

—That there will be a meeting of the Town Council this evening.

—And that the necessity for night watchmen will again be discussed.

—That a number of persons who were at the fire early this morning noticed frost on the sidewalks.

—That a large amount of water melon eating will be done for the next week, as Mr. E. K. Ostrom has imported a carload (containing 1000 melons) of the luscious fruit.

—That the Peterborough cigar will become a favourite with the users of the weed.

—That the York Pioneers will receive a good reception to morrow, and that they will be pleased with it.

—That we will have increasing east and south winds; fair, warmer weather, followed by showers to-morrow.

The York Pioneers.

The annual excursion of the York Pioneers will be held from Toronto to this town to-morrow, and preparations are being made to give them a reception. This is usually done at towns which the Pioneers visit, and Peterborough will not be behind on this occasion. The excursionists will be met at the Ontario and Quebec station, at 11.20 o'clock, by the acting Mayor and Council, a number of citizens in carriages, the Fire Brigade and Fire Brigade Band. From the station they will proceed up George street to Murray street, around to Water street and to the Court House Park. At the Park addresses will be delivered, after which they will disperse for dinner. At about 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon the firemen will give an exhibition of the waterworks. The officers of the Pioneer Association will then be driven about the town to visit the principal manufactories and other objects of interest, and will finally be escorted to the station. In view of the fact that the Lieutenant-Governor is expected, among others, it would be well if our merchants and others would display flags and adopt other means of decoration.

DULUTH ON FIRE.

Extensive Lumbering Mills in Danger of Being Swept Away.

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 23.—About 6:30 this evening the large saw mill of Little & Peck caught fire and was totally destroyed. Then the large lumber yards caught and were consumed, and at this hour (10:30 p. m.) the fire is in the mill of G. W. Peck & Son, which will be destroyed. Other property is in danger, and it looks now as though the fire could not be stopped till it has swept away the Barner Lumber Company's mill, and a large quantity of lumber in addition to what is consumed. The origin is not known at this hour. The loss is already estimated at over $100,000.

THE EASTERN WAR.

The French Bombard Foo Chow—Heavy Loss of Life.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24.—Foo Chow Arsenal was destroyed yesterday after a three hours' bombardment by Admiral Courbet's squadron. Seven Chinese gun boats were sunk and two escaped. The European settlement was not disturbed. The bombardment began at two p. m. and ceased at five p.m. Only one Chinese battery replied. Report that two French vessels were sunk during the engagement is confirmed.

THE FRENCH ADVANCE.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—The attack of the French ironclads on the defenses of Foo Chow began at 10 o'clock yesterday. The French fleet had been anchored in the River Min, below the great arsenal, and at the first flight of shells the Chinese squadron replied with a spirited fire. Admiral Courbet signalled for an advance in defiance of the fact that it was known the river had been laid with torpedoes. A terrific cannonade was kept up, but the French ships steamed resolutely on and it was soon seen that the Chinese squadron was doomed. The French sailors, as soon as they came alongside of the Chinese vessels, boarded them in the old style. Several ships surrendered when disabled by shot and shell, and before evening the entire squadron was in the hands of the French. In the bold advance two French iron-clads were sunk by torpedoes. The loss of life is not stated, but it has been heavy on both sides. The great arsenal and shipbuilding yards are now at the mercy of the French fleet, but is feared the Chinese on retiring will explode the arsenal.

HOPES OF A SETTLEMENT.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—It is hoped that the Chines trouble may yet be arranged under the auspice of Prince Bismarck. It is a noteworthy fact that Mr. Courcel, French ambassador to Germany, was summoned to Paris on Friday, and returned to Berlin on the same train with Li Fong Pao. Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, AUGUST 24, 1884.

THE SYNDICATE OF LIARS.

By this time most people in the west have become aware that the expectations which were so strongly held out at the beginning of the year as to the extension of the Ontario & Quebec railway to the Detroit frontier has been doomed to disappointment. The residents in all that magnificent section of country leading from Ingersall, London, Strathroy, and Chatham to the river, have good cause to ask why such a result has come to pass; why vexatious delay has taken the place of prompt and beneficial action! And our own citizens are especially interested to know the reason for such default. Expectation has been rife that the line from Ingersoll to this city (connecting with the Ontario & Quebec and thus giving us the advantage of a second and competitive line to the east, would have been commenced ere this time. Upon asking Mr. George Stephen how he could explain the delay, the Hon. John Carling was put in receipt of the following telegram from the president of the road; to the purport of which we desire to draw the special attention of the public. It is as follows:—

"MONTREAL, August, 20.

"Hon. John Carling, M. P.:

"You may assure your London friends that not a day will be lost in carrying the Ontario and Quebec line into London. The line would have been there now but for the scandalous attacks of the Globe on the credit of the Pacific Company, and of everybody and everything connected with it; destroying confidence in the enterprise at home and abroad, and for the moment making our valuable resources useless to financial purposes. If the people of London desire speedy connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway they should use their influence to compel the Globe to confine its hostile criticism within reasonable bonds, and give up malicious misrepresentation of the position and prospects of the Pacific Company.

"(Signed) GEO. STEPHEN."

And the public knows that every word of this pungent indictment is true. They have seen the Pacific Railway Company not only attacked at its inception, but made the subject of detraction and vilification at every step in advance that it has made. Had the Company been derelict as respects the duties it undertook to perform to this country there would have been some excuse for well founded attack. But, as we all know, it has exceeded in the performance of the work it undertook, not only the bargain made with Parliament, but has far outstripped all former enterprises of the kind in the celerity and soundness of construction. The company has triumphed over vast natural obstacles; has spanned enormous distances at a bound, as it were; and will present to the Canadian public a road finished and equipped from Montreal to the western side of the Rocky Mountains early next spring. Yet in the face of these well known facts the Globe has not ceased to load it with opprobium, and shower upon it the whole laboratory of falsehood which is so industriously worked, so devilishly and damnably contrived in the Globe office at Toronto. We began these remarks by referring to the "syndicate of liars," and we know of no term that so correctly expresses the true state of the case respecting these people and the work they are continually engaged in. Lies against the Canada Pacific, lies directed against the manufacturing industries of the country; lies against the great empire of the North West; lies against the government of the country at all times, and occasions. These are strong words, plain and to the point. But we use them because they do but justly describe the pernicious ends and dastardly purposes to which a leading public organ has so long, so infamously devoted itself. This has ceased to be a question of party; it has become one of country. How long are the finances of Canada to be injured; its prosperity to be called in question; its great enterprises decried in order that malevolence may be gratified, and disappointment be sated with revenge? To this question Mr. Geo. Stephen's message suggests a reply. He says (speaking for interests of this city). "If the people of London desire speedy connection with the Canada Pacific system, they should use their influence to compel the Globe to confine its hostile criticism within reasonable bounds, and give up malicious misrepresentation of the prospects of the Pacific Co." And there is nothing unreasonable in this. It is but proper that due influence should be brought to bear by the public at large upon an institution which is being made use of to blight and damage the best interests of the country in which it moves. To know that there is a traitor amongst us is to know that there is such a paper as the Globe. Its device to clog, delay and defeat the best interests of Canada are made use of by those who have their own special purposes to serve, to the injury of Canada. The genreral purport of the Globe's assaults are to misrepresent and defame this country; to deter people from coming to it; to make capital timid within and distrustful without; to depress the public sentiment; to make us think meanly of ourselves as a people, and still more meanly of the country we live in, and the industries existing amongst us. If any moderately industrious person were to collect the malicious slanders that have emanated from the Globe, directed against Canada and its acknowledged interests, he would be able to spread before our people such a panorama of falsehood as would alarm if it would not dismay. For be it recollected that every one of these is a poisonous barb, skillfully directed against those things which Canada holds most dear. Each day the armoury of falsehood is renewed; each day fresh shafts of evil are forged and poisoned tipped in order to compass the end in view. There is do other country in the world in which such a melancholy spectacle is presented; none in which so much forbearance has been exhibited in the face of a continual conspiracy of wrong doing.—London Free Press.

THE MARK STREET CHURCH.

The Ashburnham Church Repaired and Handsomely Improved.

The Mark Street Methodist Church has undergone a considerable change and is now in a good state of repairs. Mr. W. Wand, the contractor, has carried out the plan, and the church may be said to be one of the cosiest in the district. The pulpit and the altar railing have been varnished; a new carpet has been laid inside of the altar railing and a cushion has been placed on the outside. The hardwood seats in the pews and the wainscoting have been smoothed and handsomely finished in oil. All the windows have been frosted a plain white color; a new stationary screen has been placed in the inside of the portal, and the porch which was formerly there has been removed. A new porch, 8x13, has been built on the outside and the swinging doors leading into the church have been re-covered with green baise. Gas has been introduced and a radiant 12 light gasalier has been placed in the centre of the ceiling. Furnaces are in the course of construction and a hot air apparatus will shortly be placed in the basement, so that in the winter no complaints may arise from the lack of proper heating. A new lattese walk has been laid from the church to the street.

OPENING SERVICES.

On Sunday morning the Rev. Dr. Carman occupied the pulpit. He took his text from Luke XVI, 2, :—"Give an account of thy stewardship, for thou mayest be no longer steward.'

In the afternoon the Rev. I. Tovell officiated and preached from Acts IV, 33, :—"And great grace was upon them all."

In the evening the Rev. Dr. Carmon again occupied the pulpit and took for his text Revelations III, 20, :—"Behold I stand at the door and knock, if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in to him and sup with him and he with me."

The question is sometimes asked, he said, whether religion is of God or of man. There are some systems in the world that would make it all of God's; that is, all of God's supremacy, majesty and glory. On the other hand, there are systems that would make it all of man; man's wisdom, skill, ingenuity, love, sympathy, and plans. To take a practical, common-sense view, it is not all of God nor all of man. Let men come to the Scriptures and learn of the Scriptures. There is something that God must do. The means of our salvation are all ordained by God. They are eternally and forever fixed, and no power of earth, heaven or hell can pull them up. They cannot be altered one jot or tittle. These high commissioners of the skies appearing of the Lord God cometh with these terms to every human heart. God furnishes salvation. Now then comes in man's part. If any man, high or low, rich or poor, white or black, hear my voice, open the door (Christ's part) and I will come in and sup with you. Salvation, in all its riches and glory, is presented to each of us to accept or refuse. "Behold I stand at the door and knock." Mark the attitude: standing, not sitting or lying. If you show me a man whom Christ has not approached, I will show you a man that God will not condemn. For God will not condemn any man without a proper approach and offer of salvation according to the economy in which mankind are permitted to live. If death did not visit men's homes there would be a thousandfold sins and carelessness compared with that of to-day. It is well that death and bereavement enters thousands of homes. These men are stopped in their downward careers. Men would stop and listen very likely if they thought it was Queen Victoria's emissary that was speaking, but when God speaks there is very little heed. Now then comes the human part. For mankind universal redemption not universal salvation is offered. Men sometimes make a tremendous mistake there. Some men's hearts are like mills, where machinery rattles, shuttles clash, belts flap and all is activity. You would not make much headway if you went to the door and knocked. Men, I command you! in the name of the living God to stop these roling wheels, and listen to the voice of the Eternal One! Stop this activity and business! Some men's hearts are like a ballroom where festive dancers whirl in mazy motion, and all is gayety. Knock at the door of a ballroom and see how much you will be heard. I command you, stop your festivities and gayeties! Some men's hearts are like a morgue or vault. All is dead to the moral instincts. And yet there are men about as insensible to the claims of God. Men have a wonderful facility of not hearing what they do not want to hear and of hearing what they want to hear. While you are here on probation no attempt will be made to force open the door but it will be forced by God's high sheriff at the judgment day. The door should be opened but it is bolted with the bolts of pride, envy, pleasure or malice. We have our hands on the bolts. Let the bolts fly back; touch the strings. No man can open the door but yourself. You know the key, you can touch the string. Christ will not force it until he comes as the heavenly sheriff. "If any man hear my voice and open the door I will come in," and now comes the wonderful part "and will sup with him and he with Me." I look with amazement. What have I to entertain so princely a guest? What can I spread on the board? What royal gifts have I to offer the King's messenger from the skies? There is more in man than we give him credit for. Christ sees something in him, thank God, beside his crime, offense, sin and waywardness. He does not see you as you see yourself; he sees you as you are; capable of eternal life. He sees you a being capable of trial, employment, improvement and advancement. He sees something in you you do not see yourself. The more faithful we are the stronger we grow. Then ask earnestly, mightily and prayerfully for forgiveness of their sins and they get it. But here they stop, they do not pray for their fellow beings. Ask in Jesus' name; come in to Him and sup with Him and He with you. Now comes the reward that in which all the holy shall triumph:—Justification by faith through our Lord Jesus Christ. Rejoice in the hope of the glory of God. Not only so "saith the Apostle" but we glory in tribulation. Tribulation worketh patience; patience, faith; faith, experience, and experience, hope. That is the pleasant perfect life. Perhaps some of you have not thrown your hearts wide open so that the Saviour can come in, but stand at the door, hold it ajar with your hands on the door and knock. Swing the door wide open, for your hearts sometimes needs an awful emptying out. The only way to keep the devil out is to let the Jesus in. Admit the Saviour to-night; He will knock at your hearts before you go to bed. Admit the Saviour; He will knock at your hearts during business engagements. Admit the Saviour by the powers of His love.

An efficient choir was in attendance at each service and very much enhanced the services.

LADIES' JOURNAL

Bible Competition No. 7.

Closing September 11th,

OPEN TO THE WORLD

GREAT CLUB OFFER.

The Leading Rewards are Lot 50 x 150 at Toronto Junction, Pianos, Organs, Sewing Machines, Gold and Silver Watches, Silver Tea Sets, &c.

The proprietor of the Ladies Journal now announces a magnificent list of rewards for correct answers to Bible questions. It is surprising how little is known of the Bible. The questions are not so difficult this time as last, and we should be glad if there was a hearty response so as to encourage the proprietor of the Journal to persevere in his good work. It was announced in the June issue of the Ladies' Journal that the competition which closed last month would be the last for the present, but it has been decided to try one more.

All money must be sent by post office or express. No information will be given to any one more than is stated here. So send on answers, and don't waste time writing. Do not send postage stamps unless six cents is added for the discount. Remit by postoffice order, scrip or small coin.

THE BIBLE QUESTIONS:

1.—Is Diamond referred to in the Bible? If so, state first reference.
2.—Is Emerald made mention of in the Bible? If so, state first reference.
3.—Is Sapphire spoken of in the Bible? If so, state first reference.
These all refer to the precious stones.

Now, any one having a knowledge of the Scriptures ought to be able promptly to answer these questions with a little study, and so secure some one of those rewards. Bear in mind every one competing must send FIFTY CENTS with their answers for which the Ladies' Journal will be sent one year to any address. If you answer each of the questions correctly and your answers are in time you are sure to secure one of these costly rewards.

But bear in mind, your letter must bear the postmark where mailed of 11th September, the closing day of this competition. Fifteen days will be allowed after closing day for letters from distant points to reach the Ladies' Journal office. But you can, of course, send in any time between now and the 11th of September, and your letter will take its place at the publication office in the order it arrives there. All letters are carefully numbered as they arrive, and there can be no mistake. If your answers are correct, and they reach there in time, you will surely get some reward in addition to the Ladies' Journal, which alone is big value for the half dollar. If you don't get anything but the Journal you will be well pleased with your investment, as it consists of 20 pages of fashions illustrated, short and serial stories, poetry, newest music, household hints, etc., etc.; in fact, just the paper to suit every lady.

By subscribing in a club with your neighbors you will secure some considerable advantage—that is, there must be at least thirty of a club, and all who send correct answers to the Bible questions may have their choice of a handsome ring, heavily gold-plated ladies' gold brooch, which retails at about one dollar and a half, of a triple-plated butter knife. Either of these you may wish will be sent postage paid. You will thus secure to a certainty one or other of these two presents, and in addition will have as good an opportunity of gaining some one of the other large rewards in lists given above just as well as though you had sent in singly. This is simply an inducement to get up clubs. We are sure our readers could not do better than to try their skill in hunting up these questions and competing for these rewards. Everything will be carried out exactly as promised.

Prizes in last competition went all over Canada and to many parts of the United States.

THE RIFLE.

The Monthly Match Held a Week Earlier Than was Intended.

The last of a series of monthly rifle contests was held at the Association Range on Thursday, the 21st August. It was intended to hold this match a week later, but on account of some of the best markemen wishing to take part in the Ontario rifle competition at Toronto it was decided to hold the event on the above date.

The prizes were four hundred rounds of ammunition to be distributed between the various winners, and the Ontario Rifle Association medal. This is a medel which is presented to the local association for competition by the Ontario Rifle Association every year. The competition consisted of four matches to be held on the last Thursday of the months of May, June, July, August, and the marksman who makes the highest score in three out of the four matches retains the medal. The object in giving it to the one who makes the highes score in three out of the four matches is, if a marksman happens to take no part in one match, still he may have his scores in the other three to his credit. Last year Capt. Sanderson had the honor of winning this medal, and this year Major Bell made the highest score.

The following are the names and the principal scores at the matches and the number of points gained by each, the range being 300, 500 and 600 yards:—

Dr. Bell	109
F. Hall	109
Geo. Fitzgerald	99
W. H. Hill	99
A. Bleile	97
J. Weller	96
D. Cameron	93

It will be observed that Major Bell and F. Hall are ties, but on account of his making more marks in the long range the Major now holds the medal.

Arrangements are now being made for holding the annual fall rifle competition.

Well Rewarded.

THE DYING WIFE.

Raise my pillows, husband, dearest,
Faint and fainter comes my breath,
And those shadows stealing slowly
Must, I know, be those of death.
Sit down close beside me, dearest,
Let me clasp your warm strong hand—
Yours that ever has sustained me—
To the borders of the land.

For your God and mine—our Father—
There shall ever lead me on,
Where upon a throne eternal,
Sits his loved and only Son;
I've had visions and been dreaming
O'er the past of joy and pain—
Year by year I've wandered backward,
Till I seemed a child again.

Dreams of girlhood and the moment
When I stood your wife and bride,
How my heart thrill's with love's triumph
In that hour of woman's pride!
Dreams of thee and all the earth-chords
Firmly twined about my heart—
Oh! the bitter, burning anguish,
When I first knew we must part!

It has passed, and God has promised
All thy footsteps to attend,
He that's more than friend or brother—
He'll be with you in the end.
There's no shadow o'er the portal
Leading to my heavenly home—
Christ has promised life immortal,
And it's He who bids me come.

When life's trials wait around thee
And its chilling billows swell,
Tho'lit Heaven thank that I'm spared them,
Thou wil't feel that all is well.
Clasp my hand still closer, dearest,
This the last night of my life,
For to-morrow I shall never Answer when you call me wife.

INFELICE.

By AUGUSTA J. EVANS WILSON

Author of "St. Elmo," "Beulah," "Micaria," etc.

CHAPTER XXXI.

"No, mother—no. Not less, but more beautiful; not so pale as when you hung over me at the convent, baptizing me with hot, fast dripping tears. Oh Mother! Mother! Draw me close, hold me tight. Earth has no peace so holy, as the blessed rest in a mother's clasping arms."

On the carpet at her mother's feet, with her head in her mother's lap, and her arms folded about her wrist, Regina had thrown herself, feasting her eyes with the beauty of the face smiling down upon her.

Of her past, the girl withheld only the acknowledgement of her profound interest in Mr. Palma.

Thus far, no allusion had been hazarded to the long veiled mystery of her parentage, and Mrs. Orme wondered at the exceeding delicacy with which her daughter avoided every reference that might have been construed into an inquiry. As the soft motherly hand passed caressingly over the forehead resting so contentedly on her knee, Regina continued:—

"In all the splendid imagery that makes 'Aurora Leigh' deathless, nothing affected me halt so deeply as the portrait of the motherless child; and often when I could not sleep, I have whispered in the wee sma' hours:—

"I felt a mother's want about the world,
And still went seeking like a bleating lamb
Left out at night, in shutting up the fold,
As restless as a nest-deserted bird,
Grown chill through something being away, though what—
It knows not. So mothers have God's license to be missed."

My guardians were noble, kind, high-toned, honorable gentlemen, and I owe them thanks, but ah! a girl should be ward only to those who gave her being; and mother—brown-eyed mother, sweet and holy, it would have been better for your child had she shared her past with none but you. Do I weary you with my babble? If so, lay your hand upon my mouth, and I will watch your dear face and be silent."

"Mother-kisses, the sweetest relic of Eden that followed Eve into a world of pain. All these dreary years I have kept your memory like a white angel-image, set it up for worship, offered it the best part of myself; and I know I have grown jealously exacting where you are concerned. The day I came—how long ago? (for I am in a delicious dream, have been eating the lucious lotos of realized hope)—the day I came and saw a new, glorious sun shining from my mother's eyes, you ran to meet me. I hear you again, 'My baby! my baby!' as you rushed across the floor. You opened your arms, and when you clasped me to your bosom, you bent my head back and gazed at me—oh! how eagerly, hungrily; and I saw your face turn ghastly white, and a great agony sweep across it, and the lips that kissed me were cold and quivering. To me it was all sweet as heaven; but the cup of delight I drained had bitter drops for you. Mother, tell me, were you disappointed in your daughter?"

"No, darling, no. The little blue-eyed child has grown into a woman of whom the haughtiest mother in the land might be proud. My darling is all I wish her."

"Ah mother! the flattery is inexpressibly sweet, falling like dew on parched leaves; but the eyes of your idolatrous baby have grown very keen, and I know that the sight of me brings you a terrible pain you cannot hide. Last night, when Mrs. Waul made me shake out my hair, to show its length, and praised it and my eyebrows, you dropped my hand and walked away; and in the mirror on the wall I saw your countenance shaken with grief. What is it? We have been apart so long, do take me into your heart fully; tell me why you look at me, and turn aside and shiver?"

Her clasping arms tightened about her mother's waist, and after a short silence Mrs. Orme exclaimed:

"It is true. It has always been so. From the hour when you were born, and your little round head, black with silky locks was first laid on my arm, your face stabbed me like a dagger, and your eyes are blue steel that murders my peace. My daughter, my daughter, you are the exact counterpart, the beautiful image of your father! It is because I see in your eyes, so wonderfully blue, the reproduction of his, and about your mouth and brow the graceful lines of his, that I shudder while I look at you. Ah, my darling! Is it not hard that your beauty should sting like a serpent, the mother whose blood filled your veins? The very tones of your voice, the carriage of your head, even the peculiar shape of your fingers and nails are his—all his! Oh my baby! my white lamb! my precious one, if I had not fed you from my bosom cradled you in my arms, realized that you were indeed flesh of my flesh, my own unfortunate, unprotected, disowned baby, I believe I should hate you!"

She bowed her head in her hands and groaned aloud.

"Forgive me, mother. If I had imagined the real cause, I would never have inquired. Let it pass. Tell me nothing that will bring such a storm of grief as this. God knows I wish I resembled you, only."

She covered her mother's hands with kisses, and tears gathered in her eyes.

"No—God knew best, and in His wisdom, His mercy for widowhood and orphanage, He stamped your father's unmistakable likeness indelibly upon you. No jury ever empanelled can see you side by side with your father and dare to doubt that you were his child! No, bitter as are the memories your countenance recalls, I hold it the keenest weapon in the armory of my revenge."

"Let us talk of something that grieves and agitates you less. May I sing you a song, always associated with your portrait, an invocation sacred to my lovely mother?"

"No—sometime you must know the history I have carefully hidden from all but Mr. Palma and your dead guardian; and now that the bitter waves are already roaring over me, why should I delay the narration? It was not my purpose to tell you this, I thought it would too completely unnerve me, and I wrote the story of my life in the form of a drama, and called it Infelice! But the recital is in Mr. Chesley's hands for perusal, and I shall feel stronger, less oppressed when I have talked freely with you. Kiss me, my pure darling, my own little nameless treasure, my fatherless baby, for indeed I need the elixir of my daughter's love to keep me human, when I dwell upon the past."

"One moment, mother. I want to know why my heart is drawn so steadily and so powerfully toward Mr. Chesley, and why something in his face reminds me tenderly of you? Are you quite willing to tell me why he seems so deeply interested in me?"

"Regina, have you never guessed? Orme Chesley is my uncle, my mother's only brother."

"Oh, how rejoiced I am! I hoped he was in some mysterious way related to us, but I feared to lean too much on the pleasant thought, lest it proved a disappointment. My own uncle? What a blessing! Does Mr. Palma know it?"

"Mr. Palma first suspected and traced the relationship, and it was from him that Uncle Orme learned of my existance, for it appears, he believed me dead. Mr. Palma has long held all the tangled threads of my miserable history in his skilful hands, and to his prudent, patient care, you and I shall owe our salvation. For years he has been to me the truest, wisest, kindest friend a deserted and helpless woman ever found.

Regina sank her head upon the chair, afraid that her radiant face might betray the joy his praises kindled; and while she walked Mrs. Orme began her recital.

WOOD FLOUR.

An extract from a recent issue of the Chicago Times inclines one to the belief that American inventive genius, which has overcome many obstacles in reducing nature's forest growth to meet the requirements of the human race, has at last succeeded in utilizing these products for the very deceptive and discreditable purpose of adulterating the staff of life. The Times says the making of wood flour, which is similar to wood pulp, is the chief industry in the Catskill Mountains, New York, and it bids fair to demoralize the forests. It was first manufactured in the Catskills about nine years ago, and now over 20 mills are in full blast. Any soft wood tree—poplar is the favorite—is felled and drawn to the mill. The bark and boughs are removed and the trunk put in a machine, which is nothing but a led-pencil sharpener on a larger scale, with four or more knives instead of one. On starting the machine the pencil-sharpener revolves with great swiftness, and in a few minutes converts the log into a hundred miles of fine, clean shaving. These are ground and bolted exactly as in a flour mill. The product is a fine, yellowish white flour, similar in appearance to a very well ground corn meal. It possesses a slight woody smell, and is almost tasteless. It is put in large bags, and then is dispatched, unmarked, to the buyer. The inclination to believe that this product is used for other purposes than paper making comes principally from reading the last sentence, which says it is dispatched "unmarked" to the buyer. If it is used only for legitimate purposes, why not brand it as every other product is branded. Sugar is adulterated with white clay, coffee also with the same material, and why not suspect that this product of the Catskills is used to mix with genuine flour as an adulteration. The Times should dispatch corps of reporters on an investigating tour to the Catskills with instructions to probe this matter to the bottom. Perhaps it may unearth the fact that one or more of the presidential candidates are stockholders in the gigantic scheme. Let no guilty man escape.—Lumberman's Gazette.

THE NUTMEG TREE.

This is a native of the East Indies, but has been introduced and cultivated in the West Indies and in other warm countries; it forms a medium sized tree and is grown in orchards; a nutmeg plantation and a peach orchard closely resemble each other.

Nutmeg culture was at one time confined to the Banda Islands, and strong efforts were made to monopolize the production, a scheme which failed, it is stated, on account of birds carrying the seeds and dropping them beyond the assigned limits, and thus spreading the tree over the whole islands the Malayan Archipelago, from the Moluccas to New Guinea.

The tree is cultivated to a limited extent in Jamacia, where it succeeds best in a deep, rich, friable soil, which is drained. Undulating ground is preferred in order to assist the running off all superfluous water, as around its roots, although in order to thrive well it requires an atmosphere of the most humid kind. Young plants are readily raised from fresh seeds. The fruit requires nine months of tropical weather to mature.

A Brave Man.

"There goes a brave man," said a citizen, pointing to a passer-by. "He is one of the bravest men I have ever seen."

"Was he in the army?" some one asked.

"I don't know."

"Then I suppose you have known him to distinguish himself in personal encounters?"

"Not particularly."

"Why then do you regard him a brave man?"

"Well, you see, some time ago I got a divorce from my wife."

"Yes."

"That man married her."

Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint.

The Crops are Excellent

And there is no danger of their being seriously interfered with as things look now. People are at present buying cautiously, which is a good sign, and there are some complaints about the difficulty of getting money in. And although we believe that trade all over is duller than it was at this time last year, business keeps good right straight along at the CITY CLOTHING STORE, because we are selling our Goods LOWER than we did last year. We aim at making business keep righting itself. So far as the year's business is concerned we are better off than last year, while the good harvest now being taken in brightens things materially, and we feel satisfied that we will do a Good Fall Trade.

INVALUABLE TO EVERY LADY.
"MAY DEW"
The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubborn ly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any address on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

MONDAY, AUGUST 24, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Town Council.

A special meeting of the Town Council has been called to be held at 7.30 o'clock this evening.

Changes.

In consequence of the vacancy in the REVIEW staff caused by the departure of Mr. Arnold Haultain, Mr. S. R. Armstrong will fill his place, while Mr. A. P. Choate will become our local reporter.

The Lacrosse Tournament.

The Checkers, of Beaverton, have entered for the competition for the Idyl-Wild Championship Cup, presented by Mr. Calcutt, and they will contest with the Peterboroughs for that trophy to-morrow afternoon.

The Monaghan Assault Case.

In a report of the assault case of John Dundas against Robert Allister in Saturday's issue, we omitted to state that Mr. Allister was admitted to bail, the Magistrate settling the same at $200, which was readily filled by Mr. Wm. Collins, License Inspector.

Fall Show Abandoned.

At a meeting of the Directors of the West Peterborough Agricultural Association, held on Saturday afternoon, it was resolved not to have a fall show this year in consequence of the burning of the fence, preventing the use of the drill shed grounds for that purpose.

The Central Park.

The persons who purchased the fence and sheds which surrounded the Central Park are having them removed, and a number of men are also at work cleaning up the grounds. They have effected quite a transformation already, and when the work is completed the park will present a very different appearance.

Before They Go.

Previous to the departure of the Fire Brigade Band for the competition at Bowmanville, on Wednesday morning, they will give a grand promenade concert in the drill shed on Tuesday evening, when the competition pieces, together with a number of other fine selections, will be rendered. The grounds will be watered and there will be seating capacity for all. The public should turn out en masse and encourage the members of the band, for the reason that they have always, both at home and abroad, acquitted themselves in a highly creditable manner, carrying off prizes that is monumental evidence of their high standing as a band. The tickets are placed at the usual small fare and there is no reason why the shed should not be filled. Doors open at 7.30.

A Lost Boy.

On Monday last, just one week ago, a young son of Mr. Wm. Chamberlain left his home and has not since returned. He has been seen, so it is stated, in Orillia, but Mr. Chamberlain has telegraphed without any result. He has probably taken a notion in his head to have a trip on the cars, and, with this end in view, got aboard one of the many trains leaving this town daily, and travelled until he reached Orillia. It is not definitely known that he is in the above place, as rumour is the only authority for the belief. The little boy is generally known in Peterborough, and he is not altogether a stranger in the city of Toronto, and if this paragraph should meet the eye of any person who has seen him, Mr. Chamberlain will feel thankful for any information concerning his whereabouts.

Young man, don't be deceived in the purchase of your Furnishings. Come to the Premier Furnishing House of Peterborough, where you are always sure of procuring the very latest tips. Andrew McNeil's.

KINGAN'S HARDWARE STORE BURNED.

Messrs. Griffin and Harris Forced out of their Premises—An Incendiary's Work.

This morning a short time before four o'clock Mr. William Wrighton, while lying awake in bed at his residence on Brock street, heard the tramp of hurried footsteps on the sidewalk. He arose and looked out of his bedroom window, which faces southward. He saw a faint glimmering at the intersection of Hunter and Chambers streets. Quickly dressing himself he hurried to the spot. When he arrived the the flames had already reached the roof of the storehouse in the rear of Mr. Kingan's hardware store, the fire having evidently been set inside the clapboards. An alarm was rung and the hose reel was soon on the spot. The hose was laid to the creek, but it was soon discovered that the stores of Messrs. Adam Hall and J. D. Tully were in immediate danger. A length of hose was attached to one of the George street hydrants and water was at once brought te bear on the places which were in peril. The fire rapidly spread to the boot and shoe store of Mr. J. Griffin, and from there to the store occupied by Mr. Charles Harris as a second hand store, but the brick wall of the next building held the flames in abeyance. The upper part of the building occupied by Messrs. Griffin and Harris was burned. A considerable amount of goods was saved out of each building and put in places of safety. Several bicycles which were stored in the warerooms of Mr. Kingan's hardware store were destroyed and the only trysicle was also burned. Mr. Joseph Griffin saved most of his stock, but some valuable machinery which was on the second flat was totally destroyed. Mr. Charles Harris' stock was nearly all pulled out and piled on the opposite sidewalk. The goods in the front part of Mr. Kingan's store was almost entirely saved, including a large safe. Mr. J. Griffin's safe was also saved.

Mr. Kingan's store and fixtures were insured in the Western Insurance Company for $1,000. The buildings occupied by Messrs. Griffin and Harris and owned by the Hall estate were insured in the Lanceshire Insurance Company for $1,500. Mr. Kingan's stock was insured in the Royal for $2,500 and in the Lanceshire for $2,000. Mr. J. Griffin's stock was insured for $3,000 in the Citizens Insurance Company. Mr. Harris had no insurance on his stock. He states that his loss will amount to $600. Mr. Frank Kingan had an insurance of $300 on bicycles and the tricycle. Mr. Kingan has removed the remainder of his stock of hardware to the store next door east of Hall, Innes & Co's dry goods establishment.

This fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary. An attempt had been made about a week before to fire the store, but it was discovered and extinguished. Mrs. Thos. Darcy, who was up with a sick child just before the fire was discovered this morning, states that she went to a window facing Hunter street and saw a man in a crouching posture beside Mr. Kingan's store, on Chambers street. Immediately after the flames shot up and the man ran quickly up Chambers street, leading to Brock street. Mrs. Darcy says that while the man was crouching, the back part of the store house was already in flames, and that, in her opinion, some inflammable substance must have been used to aid the flames.

New Fall Wheat Flour.

Mr. Denne, of the city mills, has been grinding a quantity of new fall wheat flour. He reports the new wheat to be of a fine plump specimen.

Personal.

We had the pleasure of a call this forenoon from Mr. James Stewart, who has returned from a visit to the Old Country.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin, of the Lindsay Post, and Mrs. Dobbin, are visiting friends in town.

Decoration.

It is not probable that our readers have forgotten that Mr. Arnold Haultain, M. A., will deliver a lecture this evening in the school room of St. John's Church, on "Decoration." The subject is one that should awaken interest, and as Mr. Haultain's ability to deal with it is undoubted, no doubt there will be a large attendance. The lecture is given for the benefit of Dr. Barnardo's Home.

An Eight Foot Fall.

On Saturday at 12 o'clock, Mr. John Duncan chief miller at the City Mills, was engaged in putting a belt on a pully which was near the ceiling he slipped and fell to the floor, a distance of about eight feet. While falling he came in contact with some revolving gearing but fortunately was not caught. His right arm shows the marks of the cogs and his side is considerably bruised. He is however at his post in the mill as usual.

Revolvers Drawn.

On Saturday night about 10 o'clock some boys threw a quantity of dirt and sand into a George Street north grocery. The proprietor came out to chastise the boys, but in so doing was arrested in the act by a rather large sized champion of the boys. The champion drew a revolver and the grocery man responded in a like manner. Loud talk was indulged in, but no blood spilled. The inhabitants in that vicinity complain of the numerous disturbances which have occurred in the north end during the present summer. It would be a good idea to have some of the residents sworn in as constables.

More Burglars.

On Saturday night, or rather Sunday morning at 3 o'clock, Mr. R. Sailsbury, who sleeps in a room in the rear of his bookstore, was suddenly awakened by someone attempting to open the window from the outside. He raised himself quietly up, placed his chin in hand, his elbow on the bed, and with interest watched the operations of the nocturnal pilferers, of which there were two. Having eyed them sufficiently long consistent with safety, Mr. Sailsbury remarked: "Is there anything here you need more than I do?" The marauders in short order made off, and Mr. Sailsbury says that the next burglar who sticks his head through that window will receive a gentle hint, through the medium of a base ball club, to depart.

Hoping to hear and see most of my friends to-morrow, I remain

Respectfully yours,
C. B. SMITH.

FARM CLEANING.

BARN CATS should rarely be allowed to come to the house, and never be fed there. All that they need is plenty of milk; compel them to get the rest of their living, and they will find it about the barn, granaries, crib, sheds, and in the fields.

HOW MANY of our farmers are enjoying the various small fruits of the season this summer? Not so many as should; for, with everything requisite at their command, soil, fertilizers and implements, their is no reason why the farmer's table should not have upon it strawberries, currants, raspberries and blackberries in abundance.

AT THIS SEASON the troughs where stock are watered should be well cleaned, at least once a week. Leaves and sediment rapidly decay in warm weather, and there will be consequent damage to the health of stock and the purity of milk given by cows. So large a portion of pure milk is water that the quality of water which cows have to drink becomes very important.

FRUIT DRYERS AND "EVAPORATORS."—Those who have hot-bed ashes can dry fruit by the heat of the sun in a manner vastly superior to the ordinary method. A box should be made like a hot-bed frame, but with a bottom, and it should have legs to raise it a few inches from the ground. The sashes should fit closely to keep out dust and insects. In the front of the box, at the bottom, make openings under the middle of each sash, and at the rear make similar openings at the top. We do not recollect the exact size we used, but probably twelve inches long by three wide will answer. These openings should be covered with wire cloth, though in its absence mosquito netting or a similar stuff will answer. The fruit, or other article to be dried, should be upon trays or frames covered with some coarse fabric, and raised a few inches from the bottom of the box. The sash being so placed as to catch the full beat of the sun, the drying will go on in a surprising manner. The air passing in at the lower openings will become quickly heated, and going out at the upper openings a current will be established, carrying off the moisture from the fruit, etc., in the most satisfactory manner. The product will not be so white as when dried by artificial heat, but for home use just as good, and it will be free from dust and soiling by insects. We have dried the finest sweet corn imaginable with a contrivance like this, and have no doubt of its efficacy in drying fruit.—American Agriculturist.

Salvation Army Riots.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Salvation Army riots occurred yesterday at Worthing, Sussex. The Riot Act was read and the dragoons dispersed the assailants of the army.

If it Were Possible

To get the testimony of the multitude who have used the Shaker Blood Syrup for spring debility, languor, lassitude, and that general feeling of stupidity, weariness and exhaustion which everyone feels during this season, we should be able to present to our readers such an overwhelming mass of commendatory messages, that the few who have not tried it would do so at once. It is a positive fact, and has been so effectually demonstrated that no one to-day denies it, that the Shaker Blood Syrup contains more real medical value than any article now before the public. Hundreds, in spite of their prejudices, are taking the Shaker Blood Syrup, and now honestly declare it to be the best medicine ever offered to the public; and they are quite right, and this sentiment must and will extend just as far as the people will allow themselves to be influenced by facts and by the testimony of those who have tried it and know whereof they speak. In presenting the Shaker Blood Syrup to the public we suffer, because people have been so often humbugged by the week decoctions with which the country is filled. It is often difficult to make the people believe what an advertisement says, because of the evil influence produced by those unreliable, worthless preparations. It is true that honest people are constantly suffering from the effects of dishonesty, and this will probably always be so, but it does not require any remarkable ability to see how the real worth of Shaker Blood Syrup impresses itself upon people. Our reputation rests upon the value of this medicine, and we are proud of the record it is making.

A SEARCH WARRANT.—If there is any lurking taint of scrofula in the system, Burdock Blood Bitters are warranted to search it out.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. SO MODEST A VIRTUE

AS

GOODNESS

Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

An Old Soldier's EXPERIENCE.

"Calvert, Texas, May 3, 1882.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. WHITLEY."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, AUGUST 26, 1884.

A PEST HOLE.

THOUGH there has been an abundance of local criticisms of Spaulding's Bay, with its unsavory and pestiferous associations, they have produced little effect. Now, however, that a Government official and expert in sanitary science from a distance has condemned this breeding place for disease, his strictures may have more satisfactory results.

That such a nuisance should exist in our town is a disgrace to Peterborough, and all the more because it is the property of the municipality. It is most strongly to be condemned that the corporation should set such a bad example to private property-holders by maintaining this cause of disease in its immediate neighborhood, with prejudicial influence upon the health even of more distant portions of our town.

As long as Spaulding's Bay remains what it is, we have also the disgrace as a community of lying under the imputation of having obtained possession of it and the rest of the town reserve by false pretences. There was a clear understanding when the town applied for the grant of this property that it was largely with the view of abating this nuisance by filling up Spaulding's Bay, yet this has not been accomplished. The town has exercised its beneficial rights by selling the valuable portion of the land, but it has hitherto neglected the accompanying duty of filling up the malarious hollow.

We hope that now attention has been authoritatively called to this direliction of duty, some steps will be promptly taken to remedy the evil. Indeed we cannot see how the authorities can call upon smaller offenders to mitigate nuisances, as long as the town is the complacent owner of the greatest nuisance of all.

AN ILL BIRD.

Within the last day or two we have been assured by two Canadians who have just returned from visits to different parts of England, that an incalculable amount of harm is being done to Canada in the mother country by the ceaseless slanders of our Dominion by the Toronto Globe. Of course the effects of these unpatriotic attacks are already well known, but it makes a more vivid impression upon the mind to learn by word of mouth, from those who have been actually upon the spot to witness it, the result of these disgraceful falsehoods. These gentlemen assure us that there is in Great Britain a growing interest in regard to Canada, and a more widely diffused knowledge of our Dominion, but that these benefits are being, to a great extent, neutralized by the wicked slanders of the Globe. To statements as to the advantages of our country it is, they inform us, too often objected that the accounts of the Dominion given by one of the leading papers of Canada are far from being so favorable, being in fact fair warning to all interested not to take up their abode in such a wretched country. To those critics, not being thoroughly acquainted with the methods of the Globe, it is almost vain to allege that its attacks are without any other foundation than political animosity, and the rancour of disappointed place-hunters, for such wicked want of patriotism is to them incredible. Even when assured of the hollowness and falsehood of the Globe's denunciations of its own country and of the majority of its people, the remark is too often made that even admitting this view to be correct, there is nothing very attractive in the aspect of a community where political rancour is carried to such diabolical extremes as to lead the chief organ of a discredited party to vent its spleen upon their own country by seeking to injure it. They aver that a house thus divided against itself cannot be expected to stand.

Fortunately this evil cannot last forever without a check. The falsifications of the Globe are so gross as to call forth indignant refutations from all sides, and a very slight acquaintance with the facts as to Canada will serve as a corrective to the poisonous effusions of the slanderer. In fact the Globe has gone too far even for its own villainous object. It is not only that the independent press denounce its slanders, that the commercial journals plainly deny its calumnies, but even Reform organs are constrained to expose the falsehoods of the Globe in regard to their own localities. Meanwhile much evil is unfortunately being done that cannot be contradicted.

A RHETORICAL FIGURE HEAD.

Under a real leader Mr. Edgar would not have been put forward until it was certain that the constituency would accept him. But Mr. Blake is not a real leader—he is a rhetorical figure-head.—Toronto News (Indep.)

GO ON AND BUILD.

The Winnipeg Times talks back with some force to those who accuse the Canadian Pacific railway of preventing southern Manitoba from getting the additional railways wanted. It points out that though several charters have been granted for new railways in the district referred to, yet in not one case have the promoters done anything towards actual building. These charters have not been disallowed, they remain in full force and virtue, yet the roads are not built, or even the first sod turned. "Go on and build," is what the Times says to the railway promoters.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

WEST ONTARIO.

Mr. Edgar is member of West Ontario for the remaining two sessions of this parliament by virtue of purchase of the seat from the late member, Mr. Wheler. If Mr. Blake thinks this will strengthen his position he is welcome to the thought.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

A THRIVING GRIT INDUSTRY.

There seems to be absolutely no end to these Lieutenant-Governor rumours.—Globe.

DEPENDS ON CIRCUMSTANCES.

When it suits Mr. Blake to have his say, he will have it, and when it doesn't, he will be restrained by a sense of the delicacy of his position.—Toronto News (Indep.)

THE UNPATRIOTIC PARTY.

They (the Reformers) try in every possible way to injure the business and credit of Canada, and were especially active in that work at the very moment the Finance Minister was negotiating a new loan. There is no doubt that they were successful in causing a loss to the country of hundreds of thousands of dollars. Is it any wonder that the Reform party of Canada is looked upon as an unpatriotic party, or that the people are unwilling to entrust it with power.—Hamilton Spectator.

SKILL, ENERGY AND SUCCESS.

That the work on the C. P. R., has been done with extraordinary rapidity, and at the same time substantially and well, is admitted on all hands: the difficulties are immense, but they have been so far encountered with skill, energy and success. The commercial prospects of the stockholders are their own affair; but it is impossible that the Company can at once have shamefully overreached the public and make a bad barain for itself: that its coffers can be empty and at the same time filled with the money of the plundered State.—Goldwin Smith in The Week.

LINDSAY.

FIRE.—Thursday night a fire was discovered in a shed belonging to Mr. W. Fee, and adjoining the house in which lived Mrs. G. A. Gibson. The shed and contents, consisting of some agricultural implements and traps, were burned. The house was also consumed, but most of Mrs. Gibson's furniture was saved, though in a damaged condition. The property was partly insured. How the fire occurred is not known.

NEARLY DROWNED.—While a little son of Mr. Primeau was playing on the river bank he got in a boat and was shoved out by one of his companions. Instead of keeping to the boat he jumped out and would have been drowned had it not been for assistance given by G. McFadden, who jumped into the water and rescued him.

A RANGE SECURED.—Capt. Wallace, Lieuts. Graham and Bucknel, and the other members of the working committee of the county Rifle Association have bestirred themselves to such good purpose that an excellent range for rifle practice has been secured on the farm of Mr. Jas. Twohey, just outside the town limits and near the R. C. cemetery.

A CLOSE CALL.—A case of carelessness in leaving rat poison within reach of children nearly resulted fatally on Wednesday. Two little boys, sons of Mrs. Hetherman, of the east ward, got hold of strychnine mixed with oatmeal which had been left on a cupboard. The children ate of the mixture and presently were taken with pains in the stomach and violent sickness. Finding out what had happened to the children, medical assistance was called in and an antidote given. The boys are nearly well, but they had a close call.

A BIG DAY'S THRESHING.—This is the identical season for accounts of large work done in harvesting. A case in point is given us that Mr. T. J. Graham, of West Ops, threshed for Mr. Johnston Ellis, of lot 18, con. 2, Ops, on Wednesday, 13th, 500 bushels of barley in two hours with a Paragon steam thresher, made by John Abell, of Woodbridge, threshing, separating and cleaning superior to any other. On the same day was threshed thirty-seven acres of wheat and barley in eight hours. The above work can be said to be the largest ever done during the same time in Canada. On the day following was threshed for Mr. John Graham, 2nd con., 1,100 bushels of wheat and barley.—Post.

FISH STORY.—The following fish story we take from the Independent of last week. As Rev. Mr. Emsley and Rev. Mr. Punshon can testify to its truthfulness as far as the actual catching of the fish, we copy this story without the usual qualms of conscience felt by all newspapers when relating the average fishing incidents of fishing parties, especially when told by Mr. Smiff, the gentleman who writes the leading articles for the Independent, and who is so fond of diluting the pure water of Pigeon lake with lemon and sugar while on such excursions. Here it is and it happened only recently: The great event of the season is now to be noted. It is no less than the capture of a maskinonge weighing 37 lbs. Perhaps it is better to put the weight in words, rather than figures,—thirty-seven pounds. It was weighed in the presence of the Rev. Mr. Emsley. The tail and bed hung out over the scales even at thirty-seven pounds. —Warder.

FENELON FALLS.

THE CUT.—By last Saturday's mail Mr. McDonald, the canal contractor, received instructions to go on with the cut or mill race as soon as possible, and he of course will do so. The necessary preliminaries will not take long, and we are glad to learn that active operations will probably be commenced by the 1st of September.

Fluid Lightning

WIFE.—What's the matter now John?

HUSBAND.—Oh, that neuralgia and toothache nearly kills me.

WIFE.—Why don't you go to John McKee's Drug Store and get a bottle of Fluid Lightning, you know it cures all such things as toothache, neuralgia, headache, lumbago, earache, sore throat etc. It gives instant relief.

CHOLERA IN FRANCE.

MARSEILLES, Aug. 25.—Cholera deaths in the southern departments during the last 24 hours: Herault, 7; Aude, 1; Eastern Pyrenees, 21. There were two deaths from cholera here last night, and five at Toulon. The panic has revived at Toulon, and the return of fugitives has been checked.

IN THE HANDS OF THE REBELS.

CAIRO, Aug. 25.—Soldiers from Berber report that 636 Egyptian officers and soldiers are in the hands of the rebels, who treat them as slaves. The rebels pray for the Mehdi instead of the Sultan, and declare that the Turks are heathens, to be killed or expelled.

BRITISH WHEAT TRADE.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Returns show the average yield of grain in England per acre is:—Wheat, 33 bushels; barley, 33; oats, 29; beans, 26; peas, 25. The rates for wheat are declining. Finest red commands 34 to 36 shillings, and white, 38 shillings per quarter. Such prices never occurred before in this country, and they will probably decline still more.

The French papers are indignant at the statements made by the London Times respecting the bombardment of Foo Chow.

AN HOUR'S ENGAGEMENT.

FOO CHOW, Aug. 25.—The French ironclads entered the mouth of the river this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The White Fort opened fire with Krupp cannon, while the ships were three miles away. After an hour's engagement the French retired. The Chinese fire was good.

THE ARSENAL.

SHANGHI, Aug. 25.—The arsenal at Foo Chow is in ruins. Eighteen hundred workmen are out of employment. The arsenal cost 42,000,000 francs, and the arms and ammunition destroyed are valued at 140,000,000.

FRANCE ANXIOUS FOR WAR.

HONG KONG, Aug. 25.—The Chinese, who are wholly unprepared for war, denounce the malpractices of the provincial governors, and will hold them answerable for any collapses of the national defences. The French are elated at the display of Chinese pugnacity, because it will conduce to protracted hostilities, in which case only the capture of Pekin will effectually end the war. Night traffic on the Canton river is prohibited.

Bees in September.

If a few bees are seen entering the hive, it should be examined. Perhaps for some cause the colony is queenless; and unless proper attention be given, its stores will soon fall a prey to the bee-moths' larvæ, or to robbers. In localities where buck-wheat or other field forage is abundant, bees some-times swarm in the early part of September. By hiving such swarms, giving them sheets of comb foundation or empty combs, and perhaps supplying them a frame or two of brood, they will usually build up fair colonies by winter and will frequently be found among the best the succeeding year. Honey is a luxury. Many people do not go to the grocer expressly to buy honey and only purhase it when seen. Comb honey is usually placed in a side glass case; and extracted honey too frequently is kept out of sight. Bee-keepers would do well to furnish each grocer with a neat stand, upon which to expose his extracted honey for sale. Nearly all extracted honey will soon begin to crystallize or "candy", and it should be placed in vessels in which it is to be stored. The writer markets his honey in small tin pails varying in size from one pint to two quarts. These are filled with honey just as it begins to crystallize, and when solid, the pails have neat labels affixed, stating that crystallization is a good test of purity, and that a gentle heat will soon liquify the honey. The present month is an excellent time to change the stock of bees. The main honey harvest is over and if the colony remains queenless a few days, the loss is not great. The best queens are reared during the hight of the honey season, and can be bought very cheaply. Purchase queens of the nearest reliable breeders, as long journeys by mail often exhaust them of their vitality to an injurious extent.—W. Z. DECORATION.

An Able and Interesting Lecture by Mr. Arnold Haultain, M.A.

There was a good attendance at St. John's Sunday School to hear Mr. Arnold Haultain deliver a lecture on the subject of "Decoration," the proceeds being devoted to the aid of the funds of Dr. Barnardo's Home at Hazelbrae.

The Rev. V. Clementi took the chair, and after a few words in allusion to the object in view, expressed his pleasure at having this opportunity of expressing his sympathy with Dr. Barnardo's Home. Absence had prevented him from attending any of the meetings and therefore he was not fully acquainted with the details of the institution. Alluding to the education of the children, he expressed his conviction that their religious training was not neglected, and this was a great want of this age and this country, since the educational system of Canada was too exclusively secular. Re turning to the subject of the lecture, he said it was one to which the lecturer had given deep study, and he had great pleasure in introducing Mr. Arnold Haultain to the audience.

Mr. Arnold Haultain began his lecture by some remarks as to the wideness of his subject "Decoration," so that he would only be able to discuss some of the most simple and fundamental laws of decorative art—why we decorate, how we should decorate, the distinction between true and false decoration, and what should be the highest aim of the art. It would be impossible to do justice to the lecture in a brief report, for which alone we have space to-day, but we will later give the lecture in full. It must suffice now to say that Mr. Haultain treated his subject in a manner which was very entertaining and lively, though showing his full knowledge of it. He discussed without tedium the principal points connected with the art of decoration, illustrating his remarks by means of practical illustrations and enlivening them with sallies of wit that called forth many a laugh. The great majority of his audience must have taken away with them new ideas on the subject of decorative art, and they only wished the lecture had been longer, as in a brilliant peroration the lecturer, leaving the theme of material decoration, called upon his hearers to decorate their lives with the intellectual and moral graces.

The Rev. V. Clementi expressed the pleasure that he experienced and he was sure the audience had felt on hearing a most interesting subject so ably handled. After an allusion to his own love of art, he referred to the history of Wedgewood, the humble potter, who had thought nothing too common to be beautified, and whose productions were now so highly valued. He conveyed the thanks of the audience to the lecturer.

Mr. Arnold Haultain, in expressing his thanks for the kindly reception of his lecture, suggested that from it other young men, who had received a liberal education, should be encouraged to follow his example. It should not be the sole aim of our life to interchange material commodities, but there should also be exchanges of intellectual ideas.

We must not omit some well deserved words of commendation for the lecturer's pleasing delivery, happy style of address, and careful enunciation, which, with a clear voice, ensures that the audience shall not lose a syllable or feel any difficulty in following the thoughts presented to them. Both in matter and manner Mr. Haultain is evidently well qualified to excel as a lecturer, if he should care to turn his energies in that direction.

BELLEVILLE.

A Sheep Ranch.—Mr. H. E. Filliter of this place is moving in the direction of establishing a sheep ranch near Stirling, having engaged competent parties to take charge. He says there is money in sheep raising, and thinks it can be carried on at home just as well as anywhere else.—Intelligencer.

COBOURG.

A Narrow Escape.—As the excursion train for Harwood was leaving the C. & P. station on Monday morning a woman named Miss Murchy, in her haste to get aboard, missed her footing and fell between the cars. She was rescued from her perilous position by Messrs. Geo. Seo. Stephens and Wm. Pezet.

Big Fish Story.—A number of anglers from Cobourg visited Rice lake recently, and went down to the narrows by the steamer Beaver They returned on Friday with a string of 156 black bass, weighing about 309 pounds. Times

THE ALGOMA ELECTION.

Damning Evidence Produced Against Mr. Lyon.

Sault St. Marie, Aug. 11.—The Algoma election trial commenced here to-day, with Justices Burton and Rose presiding.

Henry Mander was called and examined. He said—I have sold out my interest to Mr. Kenny, my partner in the paper. There is now an application to put me on the service of the Mail newspaper. I first saw Mr. Langtry last winter, a fter the election. It may have been as late as last March. I saw him in the Ocean house; I I did not speak to him. A week ago I saw Mr. Langtry at Mr. Savage's house. This was the first time I spoke to him. I have spoken to Mr. Savage frequently about the election, but not as to what evidence I could give. Ever since the election there was nothing to hide in the matter. I have mentioned it to persons on the side I was working for—Mr. Woodward and dozens of others. On Monday or Tuesday I told Mr. Langtry. This was the first time I told any person opposed to Mr. Lyon. I have never written to any person the effect of my evidence. I went to the hotel to get a drink. Mr. Langtry and I were in the sitting room. He asked me what I knew. I told all I knew. I made a mistake there. I refused to tell him. I said I knew a great deal. I told him I KNEW ENOUGH TO DISQUALIFY LYON.

I refused to give particulars until I was in court. This conversation lasted about two minutes. I saw him again in the evening. I was sitting outside of the hotel. A waiter came and told me I was wanted upstairs. I knew Lantry was there. I knew what I was wanted for. He gave me a subpœna to attend this court and $7. I think Langtry knew all about what I knew, as I had mentioned to several persons who I thought were voters of Lyon's. Since that, until last evening, I had no further communication with Langtry. All I said was, "I know enough to disqualify Lyon." I saw Mr. Meek during the campaign. The first communication I had with him was on Saturday. Mr. Meek sent for me at the commencement of the trial. He was in Plummer's office. His message was, "Would I have any objection to go and see Mr. Meek?" I said "No." I went and told Mr. Meek all I knew. I refused to tell Mr. Langtry what I knew, as I would have a very unpleasant time on the boat, as parties were on board favorable to Lyon. I did not want to say anything about it until I reached here. I can give no other reason for my reticence with Mr. Langtry. A week ago last Tuesday—or rather last Sunday—I was in Mr. Savage's office to make a deed of half my lot. He asked me if I would not like to go to the Sault to give evidence in this case. I said "Yes." Two or three weeks ago, Cameron McCrea showed me some of the charges against Mr. Lyon. I swear I did not tell him there was nothing in my charges. He thought I was a friend of Lyon, as also of others in the boat. I don't think my conduct was manly or right; but it was only in consequence of Mr. Lyon's treatment, by placing me in this position by bribing me. I had other grievances.

I SPENT MONEY FOR MR. LYON

which I could not get returned. I spent in all about $60 for bribing—$5 to Steiner, Tinkass $10, McCrea $20, Kent $10, Kemp $5, Rowing $5, W. Smith $5. Personal expenses, including hiring rigs and attending meetings, $20. My grievance was that I had not been repaid this. On the Tuesday after election I made this memo at Michael's Bay. I asked Mr. Lyon on the Monday and Tuesday for this money. He promised to pay it on Monday and Tuesday. I was stopping at Mr. Lyon's house on Monday night. Mr. Lyon said he would send his son John for the money. The conversation was between Mr. Lyon and myself. No one else was present. I promised to give Mr. Lyon a receipt for his printing bill if he would pay me $80. In honour I think he owed me this $80. Lyon paid me my printing bill. I did not again ask for the $80. I did not think that after the election was over Lyon would consent to pay it. After the election I showed this memo to Woodward. He did not pay it. I never directly or indirectly had any more than the $95 and the $20. There was no talk about Lyon lending me $200 on my house. There was of a loan of $100. I was to pretend to give a mortgage for it, but in reality it was to be for election expenses. I wrote a letter to Mr. Lyon telling him I was going to vote for him. This was after I had seen Mr. Lyon, when I told him I had received a letter from Mr. Plummer stating that he thought he would not run, as business matters would prevent his doing so. I wasn't under the influence of drink when Mr. Lyon called upon me. I did not tell Mr. Lyon that I was under liability to the Post-office Department and that I wanted $50 to relieve me from such liability. I paid Mr. Clark last summer $16 or $17. This was not paid to make up money said to have been abstracted from my post-office. I wasn't arrested or threatened to be arrested for the loss of a letter sent to Mr. Woodward. Mr. Burnham, the post office inspector, was up to my office making enquiry as to the loss of these letters. I was not there during the enquiry. I went to Manitowaning. Mr. Sweetnam and Mr. Burnham were both there. I had a talk with Woodward about his letter. I wrote to the department about this, and received a letter from them saying an enquiry would be instituted. I met Sweetnam and Burnham on the dock. I did not think it extraordinary that I should go to Manitowaning while this investigation was going on. Mr. Woodward and I went down on the same boat, on his return from Toronto, which was after I had returned home; he gave Mr. Burnham a receipt for the letter. I had spent about $70 of the office money; however, I had plenty of funds to pay it with when Mr. Lyon would have paid me his account. I was not behind in June, at the time Mr. Sweetnam was there first. He came round in August to see all the different offices—not to inspect mine alone. The amount of June return was about $60, which I paid. I did not get the money ($50) from Lyon to pay the department.

THE MONEY I GAVE CLARK

was to enclose in a letter to one R. Tilson to Techumah. The money was given by Clark to me to put in a letter to Tilson. This I used for my own purposes. I don't call this stealing. He told me to write a letter to Tilson, telling him what this money was for interest on a note. I told him I would. I did not know or hear that he made a complaint about this. I gave Clark the money in May. Clark spoke to me about it and I then gave it back. After Clark got the money back I did not hear of his having lost a registered letter. Mr. Clark came and told me he was about to be sued. I think it was was wrong to use this money, but I had forgotten the fact from December until May, until Mr. Clark spoke of it. I still stick to it that it was in May. The letter to Woodward was missed in April. I found the letters were all right as stated in the latter bill. Woodward was told by Mr. Phipps that he had registered a letter, and Woodward on his return asked about it. I told him if there was any mistake about it he had better write to the department. At this time the Clark letter had got rumoured about, and Woodward said he did not want to get me into any trouble and he'd rather lose the amount than do so; thereupon I wrote to the department and received the communication I have mentioned. I mean I did not tell Lyon it was to make up this money that I received $50 in order to avoid getting into trouble about these matters. Mr. Springer gave me the money and I gave him a note for it. [The witness subsequently said he did not give a note.] I told some friends that I might give stronger evidence on Monday than I gave on Saturday, that is

MORE INSTANCES OF BRIBERY.

I distinctly say I was bribed. I do not feel that I should feel more ashamed of this than the party who bribed me. Mr. McLean came to me and endeavoured to get me to sell out the paper to him for $600. The parties were to meet me again at 7 o'clock. Meantime I saw Woodward, and told him of the offer, when he urged me to carry out no such arrangement. My wife also urged me not to do so.

To Mr. Falconbridge—The letter that Mr. Woodward complained of being lost came from Manitowaning. It does not appear in the letter bills of that date. All of those bills (now produced) were delivered to him. The letters from Manitowaning are made up at Little Current, the distributing office. When Clarke gave me the money I was just leaving the office, and I placed it in a desk where I kept stamps, envelopes, &c., not cash, that I carried in my pocket. Tinkass is an hotel-keeper at Gore Bay, and supported Lyon. Romilly, Smith, and others were professing to be friends of Lyon. I thought I could not get the $80, so was willing to accept the amount and discharge the printing bill at $62.50. There was no closing of any proposition as to the sale of my paper. In October I wrote to Mr. Lyon, saying I wanted my demand paid, as I had to make up my returns due in the department.

If it Were Possible

To get the testimony of the multitude who have used the Shaker Blood Syrup for spring debility, langnor, lassitude, and that general feeling of stupidity, weariness and exhaustion which everyone feels during this season, we should be able to present to our readers such an overwhelming mass of commendatory messages, that the few who have not tried it would do so at once. It is a positive fact, and has been so effectually demonstrated that no one to-day denies it, that the Shaker Blood Syrup contains more real medical value than any article now before the public. Hundreds, in spite of their prejudices, are taking the Shaker Blood Syrup, and now honestly declare it to be the best medicine ever offered to the public; and they are quite right, and this sentiment must and will extend just as far as the people will allow themselves to be influenced by facts and by the testimony of those who have tried it and know whereof they speak. In presenting the Shaker Blood Syrup to the public we suffer, because people have been so often humbugged by the week decoctions with which the country is filled. It is often difficult to make the people believe what an advertisement says, because of the evil influence produced by those unreliable, worthless preparations. It is true that honest people are constantly suffering from the effects of dishonesty, and this will probably always be so, but it does not require any remarkable ability to see how the real worth of Shaker Blood Syrup impresses itself upon people. Our reputation rests upon the value of this medicine, and we are proud of the record it is making.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING

A MOTION FOR NIGHT WATCHMEN KILLED BY A POINT OF ORDER.

A Deadlock Broken by a Compromise—The Sanitary Matters Discussed-Report from the Finance Committee—The Drill Shed.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening.

PRESENT—Councillors Davidson, Kelly, Yelland, Douglas, Kendry, Menzies, Rutherford, Cahill, Green, Allen, and Hartley.

In the absence of the Mayor, Councillor Rutherford was, on motion, called to the chair.

The CLERK, in reply to Councillor Davidson, said that the meeting had been called by the Mayor.

The CHAIRMAN said that, in view of the incendiary fire in the morning, he advised the Clerk to call a meeting of the Council, and the Mayor had sanctioned the calling of the meeting. He understood that the Mayor had spoken to the Chief Constable to have a night watchman put on, and one of the constables had been on duty at night until the night of this fire.

Mr. JOHNSTON, Chief of Police, said that the Mayor had told him to do so until the Council met. The Council did meet and after that he considered that the order ceased.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Secretary of the Board of Health, submitting the report of the Medical Health Officer in reference to sewerage, saw dust in the river, Spaulding's Bay and the police cells, and the motions passed by the Board in regard to them.—Carried.

From D. Chisholm and others, asking to have a sidewalk raised on Antrim street.—Street and Bridge Committee.

Two accounts from the Board of Health, ($2.30 and $2.50) were ordered to be paid.

SEWERAGE.

The communication from the Board of Health was taken up,

Councillor MENZIES said that the petition of Messrs. Stevenson, Cluxton and others in regard to the Hunter street drain had been granted at the last meeting.

Dr. CLARKE, Medical Health Officer, was called on, and said that the question of constructing a main sewer down George street was an important one in the interest of the health of the public. Slops were thrown into the back yards and bred germs of disease. Besides the more dangerous diseases, such as cholera and typhoid fever, catarrh, consumption, sore throat and other diseases resulted from these germs. It was said that the present sewer on George street was not large enough, but he did not know as to that. It was also said that it leaked, and that was very bad. He recommended a good trunk sewer down George street, to which other branches could be added. This sewer should empty below the locks. He referred to Spaulding's Bay, and said that it should be filled. He had examined the Hunter street drain, and the stench from it was very noisome. It should be cleaned out.

The CHAIRMAN said that the town constructed the Hunter street sewer and were responsible for the nuisance.

Mr. A. MCNEIL, Chairman of the Board of Health, was also called on. He said that Dr. Clarke had covered the ground fully.

Councillor CAHILL said that if the parties interested did not keep the Hunter street drain in a proper sanitary condition, let it be closed. The Board recommended the building of a sewer down George street, and he favored it, and it recommended the filling of Spaulding's Bay, of which he approved, but they had to consider where the money was to come from. They should provide the means before anything was done. No sane man would advocate the building of a sewer to empty below the locks this year.

The CHAIRMAN said that it was not the business of the Board to provide the means for these improvements. They suggested what was necessary to be done, and the Council was expected to carry out the plans.

Councillor KELLY said that when the people on Hunter street asked for a sewer, and were prepared to pay for it by a local tax, they should have it. The Council had not the power to allow the people to put in the drain themselves, and when it was done by the Council the plans would have to be submitted to the Provincial Board of Health.

Councillor KENDRY agreed with Councillor Kelly, that the people should have the sewer.

The CLERK said that he did not think that the petition had a sufficient number of signatures.

The motion passed at the last meeting regarding the Hunter street drain, which was that the petition of the ratepayers be granted and that they put in the drain themselves, was read, and the matter dropped.

AN INVALID BY-LAW.

A communication was read from Mr. E. B. Edwards, stating that the by-law granting Mr. Yelland permission to put in a siding on Bethune street was invalid, because, while the corporation could grant the permission to a railway company, it could not to an individual.—Received.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Councillor DAVIDSON read the following report of the Finance Committee:—

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—The Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts:

James English	$ 2 40
B. Morrow (registry fees re Laplante)	7 55
R. B. Rogers	36 25
Mrs. J. F. Jeffers (J. Mills' board)	18 00
P. Connal & Co.	1 10
C. A. Weller	40 00
H. Best	2 40
H. Rush	34 30
Adam Hall	18 83

All of which is respectfully submitted.

R. S. DAVIDSON,
Chairman.

Peterborough, Aug. 22nd, 1884.

The report was adopted.

NIGHT WATCHMAN.

Councillor KENDRY moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That the Committee on Appointments have power to appoint two night watchmen to be under the charge of the Chief of Police.

Councillor DOUGLAS thought that one night watchman, with one of the present assistant constables, would be sufficient.

Councillor KENDRY said that the assistant constables had enough to to do as constables, sanitary inspectors and in carrying out the by-laws, and two men would be little enough protection at night.

Councillor CAHILL was afraid that the putting on of extra police would not have the desired effect. He referred to other towns which had only two constables.

Councillor HARTLEY said that the appointment of night watchmen was for the purpose of stopping the burglaries and fires.

Councillor KELLY pointed out that, although a man's place was burned he might have insurance, when his goods was stolen it was a total loss. He favoured engaging two extra policemen for night duty.

The CHAIRMAN said that the Council should do something to protect the citizens.

Councillor GREEN said that the Council should take action at once.

Councillor YELLAND said that it was hard to watch rogues, if they were determined to set a fire they would do it.

Councillor KENDRY said that if a fire were started the night watchmen would soon see it and much property would be saved.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved in amendment, seconded by Councillor CAHILL.—That the assistant constables take the duties of night watchmen alternately, their duties to commence at 12 o'clock noon and end at 12 o'clock at night, the same to continue until changed by the Council.

Councillor CAHILL thought that it would not be hard on the constables to watch alternately for a few weeks. Mr. Johnston, who was not busy with street work, would be in the streets during the day and could assist the constables then.

Councillor DOUGLAS moved in amendment to the amendment, seconded by Councillor YELLAND,—That one night watchman be appointed to act with one of the assistant constables.

The amendments moved by Councillors Douglas and Davidson were both put and lost.

Councillor DAVIDSON raised the point of order that the motion involved an expenditure of money and required notice to be given.

The CHAIRMAN said that the point was well taken, and that unless a majority of the whole Council voted to wave the point of order the motion must be ruled out.

A division was taken to ascertain whether the point of order would be sustained, with the following result:—

YEAS.—Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Yelland and Douglas.

NAYS.—Councillors Allen, Kelly, Green, Kendry and Hartley.

The Chairman therefore ruled, that as a majority of the whole Council (seven) did not vote to wave the rule, the motion could not be put.

Motions were then made to reconsider each of the motions, but they were lost.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor CAHILL,—That the matter of appointment of a night watchman be referred to the Committee on Appointments, the assistant constables to perform the duties until the committee report.—Carried.

THE POLICE CELLS.

Councillor ALLEN called attention to the fact that nothing had been done in reference to the lock up.

The matter was referred to the special committee on the town buildings.

THE DRILL SHED.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON.—That the Mayor be requested to communicate with the Minister of Militia for the purpose of obtaining control of the drill shed situated in the Central Park, such control not to interfere in any way with the keeping of accoutrements, etc., in said drill shed as may be required by the militia here.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned until Thursday evening.

THE MODEL FARMER.

He should not buy more land than he can pay for easily, and till to advantage. The hardest thing to raise on a farm is a mortgage. Thirty or forty acres carefully cultivated will prove more profitable than two hundred on which the same care and labor are expended.

He should not have more stock than he can shelter well and keep in good order through all the season. It is poor economy to stint cattle through the winter and expect them to do as well in the coming spring as they would under generous treatment. A man should be merciful to his stock not only because of moral considerations, but because it pays best in the end. Cattle that are stoned by the boys, kicked by the men and worried by dogs, are not likely to thrive in flesh or milk. Such treatment is silly, brutal and every way unprofitable. The occasions are very rare where beasts of burden—horses or oxen—are benefited by the application of the rod. People who wreak their insane fury on helpless dumb animals are at those moments something lower than beasts themselves.

He should keep a careful account of his income and outgoes. No business can prosper that is based on uncertainties. The habit of keeping a close account begets prudence, economy and wisdom in management. If a man can figure out a fair profit as the result of his years labor, it is a source of satisfaction and contentment; if the balance is on the other side he will as certain the the cause of his failures and follow new courses. "Book farming" is no longer despised by intelligent men.

He should make his home and its immediate surroundings as pleasant as his means will permit. He should at least take as much pride in beautifying his home and supplying it with the comforts and conveniences, if not luxuries of life, as he does in having fine or blooded stock and neat and large outbuildings. A proper regard for the happiness of those whose duties lie chiefly within doors would dictate this. The "matters of the house" are of primary importance, for what after all is the chief end of labor but to make the home life happier and better. Half the dulness and monotony of life on the farm, driving the boys and girls to the towns and cities, would be banished if the same pains were taken to make the home beautiful and attractive that are taken by most residents of towns and cities.

The successful farmer will do his work in season. There is no business where regularity is more essential than in farming. The merchant and the manufacturer can cover ground lost by neglect of inattention easier than the farmer. The farmer who is chasing his work all the year around, trying to catch up with it, is doomed to ultimate failure.—N. Y. Observer.

MR. GLADSTONE is spending the Parliamentary recess at his home at Hawarden. He is enjoying good health and is looking stronger than during the session.

RECHERCHE.—Not only the most exquisite thing for the teeth, and breath extant, but Teaberry is a beautiful little ornament and and finish to the toilet.

IT is said that Grand Duke Louis, of Hesse Darmstadt, who was morganatically married to Mme. Kalamine, is seeking the hand of a lady of the Ducal Court of Darmstadt, who is much his inferior in rank.

KILL THE BLUES, eat the best, sleep sound, keep away headache, keep your liver active, digest your food, make good blood, be cheerful all day by keeping a bottle of Zopesa in your room, and take a dose twice a week.

PURELY vegetable and a superior cathartic for family use. A specific for headache. A safe and effectual remedy for all bilious disorders—Flint's Mandrake Pills, sold by J. D. Tully, druggist, Peterborough, price 25 cents.

NOTHING succeeds like success, is as true in medicine as in anything else. By the wonderful effect of Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure in promptly alleviating the sufferings experienced in kidney troubles and producing a permanent cure in these distessing ailments, his fame has been carried over the four quarters of the globe

PHOSPHATINE. Phosphates are the life of the blood, the nutriment that builds up and sustains the living body; they are, in other words, bone, brain, nerve and tissue food. For sale by all druggists.

HONESTY.—It is commonly said that you can not make an honest man believe that white is black and vice versa, but those who have grey hair, by using the Cingalese Hair Renewer, will find that this apparent dificulty is easily overcome. Sold at 50 cents per bottle by J. D. Tully.

ABOUT SICK-HEADACHE.—For years and years the writer had been having sick or nervous headaches after excitement, mental labor, noise or long rides. Zopesa cured me entirely. I now take about two teaspoonfuls about twice a week, enough to operate about twice, and never have a headache. I eat well sleep sound, my system is regular in every way. Zopesa is a grand thing for the liver, dyspepsia and general system. May everybody know it and try it. Ask J. D. Tully.

INVALUABLE TO EVERY LADY.
"MAY DEW"
The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubborn ly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever roduced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any ress on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Correction.

Owing to a typographical error in last night's paper the insurance on Mr. Griffins stock read $3.000 instead of $2.000.

Postponed.

The St. John's Church choir picnic has been unavoidably postponed for one week. The picnic will take place on Thursday, September 4th.

Brushes and Paste.

Forepaugh's advertising car arrived at the Grand Truuk station on Monday, having on board a corps of bill posters. The corps consists of eleven men, and the bill boards are being speedily covered with variegated sheets.

We claim to show in our furnishing window this evening a rang of Ties unequalled in the Province. Andrew McNeil.

Appreciated.

One of our subscribers, Mr. William Morrison, having sent a copy of the WEEKLY REVIEW to his old home near Edinburgh, it came under the notice of the Edinburgh Scotsman, which said editorially, "That it was a credit to North America," and made some other flattering remarks.

Fell into a Cellar.

A few days ago while some little girls were inspecting a house which is being erected on Downie Street for Mr. J. C. T. Lacey, one little miss named Patterson fell through an opening in the floor to the cellar beneath, which is about eight feet deep. The little girl was rather severely bruised, having fallen on a stone.

Put Out in Time.

Last night about twelve o'clock the charred timbers of the ruins of Mr. Kingan's store caught fire and burned with vigor. The wind was springing up and several barrels of coal oil were still in the cellar. Constables Pigeon and Adams and Mr. James English obtained a hose attached to a hydrant and in a short time put out the fire. Had it not been for this timely dousing a serious conflagration might have resulted.

The West Riding Show.

The managers of the Driving Park, in order that the West Riding Agricultural Society may hold an exhibition this fall, have offered the grounds east of the driving park and the track for a live stock show free of charge. Their idea is for the society to use the track to exhibit the horses on, and the eastern grounds for other live stock. This is a generous offer from the Driving Park Company, and shows that they consider the interests of the town and county.

Promenade Concert To-Night.

The public are again reminded of the promenade concert in the drill shed to night by the band of the Peterborough Fire Brigade, previous to their departure to take part in the band tournament in Bowmanville to-morrow. They will render a splendid programme of music, and among the selections they will play the competition music. Perhaps it is safe to say, they are in better condition to play at this competition than they have ever been at any previous one, and those who attend will be amply repaid for their trouble. Apart from this fact the members are deserving of the public patronage, and all who can possibly attend this evening, should do so, and show the band that their efforts are duly appreciated.

Young man, don't be deceived in the purchase of your Furnishings. Come to the Premier Furnishing House of Peterborough, where you are always sure of procuring the very latest tips. Andrew McNeil's.

York Pioneers.

The handsome picture of the York Pioneers presented to the town is now on view at Andrew McNeil's, Habiliment Hall.

Pedestrianism.

Mr. A. Williaminson, of Omemee, is in town, and is training for his race with Hamly, of Port Hope.

Personal.

Mr. A. H. Cobb, of Ottawa, is in town visiting his friends.

Saved Army Picnic.

The Saved Army will hold a monster picnic at Idyl Wild to-morrow. The Peterborough excursionists will go down on the steamer Golden-Eye, and will be met at Idyl-Wild by excursionists from Cobourg, Harwood and other places.

Chemong Lake Regatta.

We learn that an amateur regatta is to be held on Chemong Lake near Bridgenorth on Sept. 11th. There will be given as prizes some very handsome gold and silver medals, for single and double sculls, single and double canoe races, etc. The grounds are beautiful, it is a pleasant drive from town, and spectators as well as competitors should be numerous.

An Exciting Foot Race.

An exciting 100 yards foot race was contested on Water street between Brock and Hunter on Monday evening between a young man named Foley and another named Willis. The former won by about three feet. Quite a crowd gathered to see the fun. Mr. T. McBurney has challenged the winner to another 100 yards race to be run over the same course on Monday morning next at 6 a. m.

The Pioneers' Excursion.

The annual excursion of the York Pioneers was held to Peterborough to-day. The excursion party arrived at the Ontario and Quebec station at noon and were met by the Town Council, Fire Brigade and Fire Brigade Band. A procession was formed which proceeded up to the Park. Fuller particulars of the reception will be given to-morrow. The party numbered about 900. They return this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

POLICE COURT.

TUESDAY, Aug. 26.—Jas. Stevenson, J. P., presided in the Police Court this morning.

WAGES CASE.

Mary Chapman sued George Carton for one month's wages, having worked as his domestic servant for one week, and having left without sufficient cause, as was shown by the evidence of Mrs. Carton. The case was dismissed with costs, the Magistrate directing Mr. Carton to pay for the one week of service rendered W. H. Moore appeared for plaintiff and R. E. Wood for defendant.

Tea Meeting.

A tea meeting was held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Monday evening in aid of the Mark Street Methodist Church. The tables were laden with everything good to eat, and the attendance did ample justice to the edibles. After the tea meeting was concluded the assemblage repaired to the church, where addresses were delivered by the Rev. I Tovell, the Rev. T. Manning, B. A., the Rev. Dr. Carman, and the chairman, Mr. Geo. A. Cox. The expenses of repairing the church were $30, and this expenditure, with the exception of about $130, was defrayed by the reopening services and the tea-meeting. Mr. Geo. A. Cox stated that if a subscription list was circulated for the purpose of building a new parsonage he would pay the deficiency on the church repairs. The offer was accepted and a good round sum raised towards the new parsonage.

A Disappointment.

Mr. Calcutt, as well as the Peterborough lacrosse players and admirers of the game, was disappointed at the non-appearance of the Checkers, of Beaverton, at the lacrosse tournament this afternoon. The following correspondence will explain the situation as far as it is understood here:—

BEAVERTON, 23 Aug.

H. Calcutt, Esq.:

DEAR SIR.—Enter the Checkers Lacrosse Club for the senior Idyl-Wild Champion Cup.

I am, yours,
A. K. CAMERON,
Sec. Checkers L.C.

It was therefore expected from this communication that the Checkers would be present, but this forenoon Mr. Calcutt received the following telegram:—

BEAVERTON, Aug. 26.

H. Calcutt, Esq., Peterborough:

We are unable to come. Some of our team cannot leave.

(Signed.) A. K. CAMERON.

PORT HOPE.

A CHILD BURNED IN A HOUSE.—A more terrible calamity has not taken place in Port Hope for many years than that which on Sunday afternoon befell Mr. Joseph Cooper, in the burning to death of his infant son, aged eight months, and the total destruction of his residence and its contents. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but it is the prevailing opinion that the eldest child of the three left in the house—the rest of the family being for the time absent—set the place ablaze through playing with matches. It being a very pleasant afternoon, and the neighbors for the most part out walking or attending Sabbath meeting, the fire had made great headway, and the premises was almost enveloped in flames before being discovered. So complete was the destruction of Mr. Coopers premises that with the exception of a table and one or two chairs secured by the first arrivals on the scene, nothing was saved, the members of the family losing every stich of their clothing save that in which they were dressed at the time. Mrs. Cooper's brother, Mr. Chas. Litbgow, who was a boarder with the family, was also left in the same condition. The grief of the parents for the destruction of their property was nothing in comparison with that expressed over the horrible death of their child, and the family generally feel the loss very keenly. They have the heart-felt sympathy of the entire community in their sore bereavement. The charred trunk of the little unfortunate was subsequently found, after a long search among the ruins, and interred in the Union Cemetery. There was an insurance of five hundred dollars on the dwelling in the North British Insurance Co. but nothing on contents.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE

AS

GOODNESS

Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportuuity, and can use it if you need.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you, SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system.

For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh, CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

ULCEROUS SORES "Hutto, Tex., Sept. 28, 1882. "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore. SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results.

Yours truly, B. F. JOHNSON."

MUSKOKA ELECTION.

The Parry Sound North Star, from the fact that the recent votes in the unorganized districts of Muskoka were not so numerous as those in the election of Mr. Fauquier, argues that a number of illegal imported votes were cast for him. Our contemporary leaves out of the calculation some important facts. Mr. Mowat, in anticipation of this contest and with his antipathy to the popular voice, disfranchised many electors at that session of the Provincial Legislature. He deprived the Indians, for instance, of their votes, because he supposed that the majority of them marked their ballots for the Conservative candidate. He imposed other restrictions upon the franchise with the same end in view. Not only so, but by a most iniquitous piece of legislation he gave to his creatures, the deputy returning officers, power to refuse any votes if they deemed them to be bad, that is, Conservative. By a still more scandalous measure he relieved their predecessors from the legal consequences of their roguery in this respect. It is impossible to estimate closely the effect of these disfranchising clauses in diminishing the total vote, but the disfranchisement of Conservatives must have been large.

The advocates of the Mowat Administration would be wiser if they did not call public attention to the means by which the Muskoka election was carried by them.

THE C. P. R.

THE falsehoods of the Globe in regard to the C. P. R. have been so thoroughly met and refuted by Mr. George Stephen in his manly letters, that Mr. Blake's organ has been obliged to take refuge in silence, and to pretend to the generosity of allowing the last word, because the refutation was unanswerable.

In a subsequent letter to the Mail, Mr. Stephen shows from the public records the enormous amounts that the Company has spent from its own resources, over and above any aid received from the public treasury. He also reveals plainly the motive that influenced the Globe in its attack upon our great national highway.

Our great railway in the hands of its energetic managers is a credit to Canada. The Hon. Alex. Mackenzie has recently added his favourable testimony to that of previous observers. Not only has the progress of the work been phenomenal, but a great public benefit has been rendered by the facilities given for opening the country, and by the aid in introducing settlers, to people what was till lately an almost uninhabited waste.

In such good services the C. P. R. should have had the sympathy and aid of the whole community, but unhappily this has not been the case. The greater the success, so much greater has become the hostility of the unpatriotic "Reform" journals and politicians, frantic with rage at the growth and prosperity of the country under Conservative leadership. Their efforts, however, to check the progress of Canada are fortunately of little avail.

ALTHOUGH the Globe, Mr. Blake, Mr. Mowat and Mr. Wheler did not inform the people of West Ontario what price was paid to Mr. Wheler for that constituency, Mr. J. D. Edgar was forced at a meeting at Pickering, according to the Whitby Gazette, to divulge the secret. The Gazette says:—

"Mr. Edgar then came forward to close the meeting. In answer to a question he said Mr. Wheler was appointed bursar of the Central Prison, salary $1,200 and pickings. The audience then began to leave the hall, and the chairman saying there was nothing more to do closed the meeting."

Thus to secure a seat in the Commons for one of the owners of the Globe, Mr. Mowat pays $1,200 a year "and pickings" to Mr. Wheler, and this amount is paid out of the money belonging to the people of this Province.

REVIEWS.

MRS. HURD'S NIECE.—D. Lothrop & Co., of Boston, the publishers of the "Young Folk's Library," have done well to add to their series a charming work, "Mrs. Hurd's Niece," from the fascinating pen of Ella Farman. The story is interesting, the characters are effectively drawn, and we need not say that the moral influence is admirable. Pure literature for the young people is in itself a great boon, but this little work, and others of the series, have, in addition, the good quality of tending to the moral growth as well as the amusement of their juvenile readers.

That Orillia Match.

The Orillia News-Letter contains an article on the recent match, that is even more gratuitously false and malicious than the letter to the Mail. It is unnecessary to refer to the statements that are similar to those made in the Mail, although the News Letter contradicts that letter sometimes, as when it says that Orillia claimed a game after five minutes play, while the letter gave it as eleven minutes. One or two things, however, need to be referred to. The most serious charge, we take it, is the following:—"Most of the Peterborough men are foundrymen, and all the foundries in Peterborough shut down so that the hands could go up and help the Lacrosse Club thump the Orillia fellows." It is easy to show and prove the entire untruthfulness of this statement. In the first place there was only one foundryman on the team, and in the second place not a foundry was shut down. Peterborough is not that kind of a place. The writer evidently manufactured the story out of whole cloth—at any rate some one did—and three other charges are equally groundless. It may be wondered why the Orillia Lacrosse players wish thus to insult and slander Peterborough. We believe the reason is not far to seek. When the Peterborough Club went to Orillia on July the 24th they were used very roughly on the field, and the Peterborough papers stated so. Now the Orillias wish to retaliate, and to do so they publish these—well, lies is the word that expresses the character of the statements most correctly. We notice that the News Letter states that the ball in the second game struck in front of the goal and was swiped away, while the letter in the Toronto paper stated that it went 20 feet (!) over the goal. The statement that none of the Peterborough's got a scratch in the match is not correct, but they did not foolishly run in when a man was throwing the ball in such a way that they could not fail to be hit, and when they got hit accidently or through careless play they did not lie down on the field to pretend that they were hurt One of them, as a matter of fact, was hurt as bad as any of the Orillia players who are now held up to the gaze of their town as martyrs. The Orillia Club have evidently made up their minds that they cannot win the championship from Peterborough and are therefore trying to do our club all the harm they can. But we believe that they will not succeed in the least degree.

Liberality.

Mr. Watson, who is disposing of a number of handsome oil paintings in Peterborough, had one on exhibition at the drill shed on Tuesday evening. This beautiful painting, which is valued at $50, is to become the property of the Fire Brigade Band, providing they are successful in carrying off first prize at the band tournament in Bowmanville, where they went this morning. Councillor Allen made the announcement amid cheers. This is a very liberal offer for Mr. Watson, who is a perfect stranger in our town, and, if the boys are successful, no doubt they will be proud to have "a scene from the lakes of Muskoka" to adorn their walls. We understand that the sale of oil paintings will be concluded this evening, the public should take advantage of this sale to secure a beautiful and not costly picture.

Exercising the Biceps.

Three of our young bullion dealers, getting weary of pens, ledgers, and the noise and whirl of town, thought they would refresh themselves, mentally and physically, by taking a tour to Stony Lake. They started from town at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon and arrived at Lakefield about 4 o'clock. They procured a canoe and paddled to Burleigh, a distance of about 15 miles, the same evening. On Sunday they enjoyed the scenery of Stony Lake, and at six o'clock in the evening started homeward. They paddled to Lakefield, walked from that place to Peterborough, and arrived here at 12 o'clock, having accomplished the feat in six hours.

P. B. C. Concert.

Arrangements for the concert to take place on Wednesday, the 3rd September, are now complete. A great treat may be anticipated. Miss Nora Clench, the wonderful young violinist, will make her final appearance in Canada prior to her departure for Germany. Warrington, the popular baritone, of Toronto, Miss Howden, soprano, Mr. Porteous, tenor, and Miss Cottingham, contralto, will form a combination of vocalists whom it would be hard to surpass in a concert of this kind. Miss Clench, it is expected, will be present at the illuminated canoe fete to be given on the Little Lake in her honor on the evening before the concert.

THE PETERBOROUGH-ORILLIA MATCH.

A Letter From an Old Lacrosse Player of Orillia—The "Mail" on the Letters.

The Toronto Mail of to-day contains the following regarding the recent Peterborough Orillia lacrosse match:—

"A number of letters, mostly anonymous have been received with regard to the late rough match at Peterborough, for the central district championship. The most intemperate are from Orillia, and just here it may be stated that the extensive 'squeal' which appeared in the Mail from Orillia, under the heading of 'from our own correspondent,' was only published by an oversight. It was a miserable tissue of ex parte statements. No doubt the Peterboroughs were to blame for their share of the rough play that undoubtedly took place, but that is no reason why the referee and umpires of the game should have imputations made against them by outsiders.

"From the only fair letter which has been received, and with which the name of the writer came, some extracts follow. With these the matter will end as far as the Mail is concerned:

To the Sporting Editor of the Mail.

"SIR,— * * * * it being our (Orillia) Civic Holiday, I with many others went to see the match, which was lost by our boys. By the account given by your Orillia correspondent, Peterborough has all the blame for rough play. Now, about a month ago the Peterboro' L. C. came here and played a match and lost by three games to one—I saw that match, and there was some very rough play, the visitors getting the hard end of Orillia's sticks; they took what they got and went home, beaten and sore, but they did not rush to the newspaper as some of our townsfolks have done."

"At Peterborough when the game started both teams were bound to play the best they knew how, and for about ten minutes there was some sharp play on both sides, each having several calls on their flags, and for the first piece of rough play I will give credit to Moore, of Orillia, when he ran upon Yelland, and for the second to Peterborough, when Jupp, of Orillia, was hurt. * * * Then I saw some hard hitting done on both sides, Moore and Armstrong doing their share for Orillia, and after a few minutes Peterboro' got the first game. Now, some Orillia men (non-players) in front of me offered to back our boys, but when called upon to put their money up they would not, causing hard words and bad language from both sides. * * * The second game was won by Peterborough * * * and after this came a squabble, the blackguards of both towns doing a little swearing and the respectable men of both towns trying to keep them quiet, and as for the language used, such as "slug him," "down with him," &c., &c., I had not the swiftness of foot as to be all over the ground—as some people seem to have—I only state what I heard and saw. I will give great credit to our field captain, Mr. Ralston, how he managed his team, and to Messrs. Sanderson and LeBrun, of Peterborough, for keeping the crowd back as they did.

"And in conclusion, I will advise our boys to play give and take, for they gave Peterborough a very rough game at home—as rough as they got—and if not satisfied let some sporting men of both towns put up and equal sum and purchase a cup, and play 2 in 3 or 3 in 5 on mutual grounds before the end of the season.

"Yours, etc.,

"AN OLD PLAYER.

"Orillia, Aug. 25, 1884."

AN AWFUL FATE.

A Father Discovers a Bear Devouring his Daughter near Shrewsbury.

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—A terrible story comes from Shrewsbury, Province of Quebec, which will long be remembered in that village. A short distance from Shrewsbury there resides a farmer named Leblanc, a French Canadian. On leaving home a few mornings ago to work in the woods, he told his wife to send their daughter, who was 12 years old, with his dinner at noon. After waiting until 3 o'clock in the afternoon he concluded to go home, as no dinner had arrived. He shouldered his gun and started, but before he had gone far he noticed an immense bear apparently eating something. He watched it for a moment and fired, missing his mark. While reloading he could see that it was a human being the bear was devouring. He then rushed up to within easy gunshot, discharging his rifle into the bear, which rolled over, to reveal the body of his little daughter, disfigured and almost beyond recognition. The flesh had been torn off her legs and face, while she still held in her little hand the tin can containing her fathers dinner.

Lumber Prospects.

Notwithstanding the numerous failures of the past few months which were apt to affect the general line of trade, there is a firm feeling that the crisis has been tided over and the legitimate channels of business left undisturbed, and that after the accustomed dullness through the summer months business will assume a perfectly satisfactory condition. The approaching presidential election may possibly have a tendency to subdue ventures in business till the question of election is settled, though the hopeful remarks we hear on all hands do not warrant a statement of that nature.—Lumber Trades Journal.

Lots of Logs.

The Pembina Express says: "The third drive of logs this year is on its way down the river. This drive contains 5,000,000 feet, and the last one 8,000,000 feet. It is a pity, to see these logs leaving the country in such a wholesale fashon."

THE PIONEERS OF YORK

REPRESENTATIVES FROM ONTARIO'S BANNER COUNTY VISIT OUR TOWN.

A Large Excursion—The Procession—Addresses Exchanged—Speeches of Welcome Delivered—Places of Interest Visited.

On Tuesday at a quarter past twelve o'clock the first train, consisting of six coaches, containing part of the York Pioneers excursion, accompanied by Toulman's Band, of Toronto, arrived at the Ontario and Quebec Railway station. The Town Council and the Fire Brigade and their band were present to receive the visitors. The second train, consisting of five coaches, arrived at the station at twenty minutes after one o'clock. The excursionists altogether numbered about 900. The officers of the York Pioneers were escorted by members of the Town Council to the various carriages which were waiting to convey them to the Court House Park. A procession, consisting of the Fire Brigade Band, the Fire Brigade, Toulman's Band, and the carriages containing the visitors and some of our leading citizens, passed up George street, the bands playing alternately. The procession moved up as far as Murray street, thence down to Water street and into the Court House Park. The Park was in good condition, and seats, which the tired excursionists appeared to appreciate, were placed under the trees. The carriages entered the Park and their occupants stepped out on the verdant and refreshing (to the eye) turf. Mr. A. Rutherford, Acting Mayor, then led the way to the rotunda and took the chair. The following gentlemen followed and took seats:—Pioneers—Dr. Scadding, President; Mr. Wm. Rennie, 1st Vice-President; Mr. Eli Crawford, 2nd Vice-President; Mr. Doel, Treasurer; Mr. R. Platie, Secretary; Mr. Wm. Lee, Chairman of Excursion Committee. Peterborough citizens—John Burnham, M. P., Councillors Kelly, Allen, Yelland, Green, Kendry, Cahill, Douglas, Davidson and Hartley, and Messrs. J. E. Belcher, J. Walton, John Breakenridge, W. H. Robertson, E. Pearce, Dr. Boucher and Dr. Burritt.

Mr. RUTHERFORD stated that in the unavoidable absence of the Mayor, he, as his representative, wished to warmly welcome the honorable society to the town. He also stated that the Mayor had asked him to tender his sincere regrets on account of his not being able to be present. He then read the following address:—

ADDRESS.

To the President and Members of the York Pioneers.

GENTLEMEN,—Upon this, probably the first visit of many of you to the town of Peterborough, we consider it is but fit that you should be received in a proper and formal manner.

The very word pioneer is dear to many of the residents of this locality, and probably has more real significance to the people of this Canada of ours, than it has to the natives and early residents of any other country on the globe.

Although we cannot boast, like the citizens of Toronto, of having celebrated our semi-centenial, still we feel confident that you will acknowledge that Peterborough stands to-day among the leading towns of the Dominion and we fondly trust that the day is not far distant, when it will be numbered among the cities. In welcoming you to our inland town, we do so with the utmost cordiality and we cannot but express our satisfaction at the feeling of preference you have shown by selecting Peterborough as the place for holding your annual gathering. We bid you a hearty welcome on behalf of our citizens of all classes and nationalities, and we trust that this is but the beginning of many visits that your noted body will pay to this section of the country.

We can truly say that until the last few years Peterborough has been comparatively unknown, to what we may perhaps term the outside world, but now, possessing as we do direct railway communication with the Queen City, by both the Canada Pacific and Grand Trunk railways, the two leading lines of Canada, we flatter ourselves that we are at last becoming known and instead of being in the "backwoods," (that name dear to all real pioneers) we are fully as well, if not better situated than are our competitors on the frontier.

In conclusion we may say that it is with the greatest pleasure that we extend you a cordial welcome and we sincerely hope you will carry away with you such pleasant recollections of our town that you will at an early day again honor us with a visit.

C. D. MCDONALD, Town Clerk. A. RUTHERFORD, Acting Mayor.

The applause was frequent while Mr. Rutherford was reading the above address.

THE REPLY.

DR. SCADDING, President of the York Pioneers, then read the following reply:—

Mr. Rutherford and Gentlemen of the Corporation of Peterborough:

We feel very thankful to you for the kind reception you have given us, and for making our short sojourn with you so pleasant. We shall carry away with us happy recollections of Peterborough and of our journey thither in the year 1884. Our society, as you know, is mostly conversant with the past, but we do not fail to enter into and duly appreciate the present. Knowing so thoroughly, as many of us do know, what was the wild physical condition of the greater part of our country fifty years ago, our amazement never ceases at what our eyes are permitted to behold whenever we go abroad on one of our excursions, let the direction be east, west, north or south. To-day as we neared our destination we passed along, I believe, by or through portions of Cavan, Emily, Ops, Mariposa and Monaghan. These are names which in our early days were as much in the outskirts of civilization as are now the names of townships along the north shore of Lake Huron, and what we do see brought about in only a part of a lifetime! We see here and everywhere, else outspreading before us an open, smiling, prosperous country. Through the hard work and persevering industry of the first settlers and their sons, the clearings have met, and the Province of Ontario throughout its length and breadth presents an appearance approaching in rural beauty and excellence of cultivation that of Old England, Ireland or Scotland.

We pioneers as an association exist, as you know, for the purpose of collecting, treasuring up and from time to time recording all particulars which may be deemed of interest in connection with the beginning of settlements in the County of York as originally defined, and from habit and real fellow feeling we like to dwell so far as we may on the first beginnings of other places where we have occasion to visit outside of our jurisdiction. The long and intricate labyrinth of lakes and rivers on the line of which Peterborough stands is thus invested with a great charm to us and to most students of Canadian history. From time immemorial these series of rivers and lakes formed one of the great watery highways for the aborigines in their traffic to and fro between the east and west between the extremities on one side at least, and the heart of the continent of North America. In particular to the Toronto student of Canadian history is this route of primative travelling interesting, for up the Trent, up the Otonabee and along through the network of the back lakes, was one of the well frequented routes to and from the "place of meeting" the chief rendezvous of the large Huron population around the shores of Lake Simcoe, then known and for the reason just implied, as Lake Toronto, whence the name Toronto afterwards travelled south to the spot where it is now fixed.

Moreover we cannot help associating the chain of interior communication on which Peterborough stands with the name and romantic hiscory of Samuel Champlain, the founder of Quebec. He certainly passed along here, and may have encamped on this very spot in 1613 when advancing from Cohiagueh near Orillia with a large war party of Huron Indians on his ill fated expedition to the Iriquois territory across Lake Ontario.

But memories of a later date than Champlain are started by the places seen and familiar names we heard to-day as we passed along. There are those amongst us who can recall from personal recollection the Hon. Peter Robinson for example who in 1825 or just before brought out ouder the auspices of the Home Government the two thousand settlers from the south of Ireland who peopled the townthe townships around Peterborough. It was in allusion to him, as you know, that Peterborough was so named. Again, the lakes and waters, on the line of which Peterborongh stands, summons up in our memory the noble soldierly form of Sir John Colebourne, who was the first of our Lieut.-Governors to order a scientific survey of the the whole of the back lakes with a view to the establishment of a waterway for vessels of considerable draught from the outlet of the Trent to Lake Huron through Lake Simcoe; a project interrupted by political events, but which, could it have been carried fully into effect, would have been a priceless boon to the naval and military and other families that have taken up land along the line of expected improvement. For some years the County of Peterborough was known as the District of Colebourne.

The names of several writers of considerable literary distinction are associated with Peterborough or its vicinity. Major Strickland and Mrs. Trail have provided books on Canada which have proved works of more than a day. While answering an excellent immediate purpose of furnishing to the people of the British Islands with accurate information with regard to this country at the time of their issue, these works are preserved now on account of their excellence, and are sought after by collectors for the admirable delineation which they contain of Canadian society in the old homely primitive days. Major Strickland's volumes entitled "Twenty Seven Years in Canada West," published by Bently in 1853, thus continue to be very interesting reading and will probably be so regarded for many years to come. Mrs. Trail's "The Backwoods in Canada," first published in Chas. Knights liberary of entertaining knowledge in 1835, is now a classic among connoisseurs of books on the subject of Canada and the United States. Its wood-cut illustrations are permanent mental possessions with many. The concession here opened through pine forests, the log village with the arrival of the stage, the rice grounds and the long stream of the Otonabee, Peter the chief and the Indian papooses will probably be recalled without the aid of the book. The settlers log cabin as depicted in this book that served for a type of a settlers log cabin to artists generally. The little chart showing the interior navigation of the Newcastle District crowded full of minute interesting information will also be remembered.

But I am becoming polix, which I resolved not to be. I will only embody one more recollection which comes into my mind whenever I think of Peterborough. My only visit so this county previous to the present one was in 1844, when I was a guest of the Rev. W. Taylor. I often recall this estimable man. He was a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, an accomplished scholar and a skilful musician. I was indebted to him I remember for an acquaintance with two theological works, which afterwards proved of much value to me. I am sure the warmth and kindness of heart of this clergyman will have kept his memory alive here in some quarters. Another clergyman of this neighborhood also comes to my mind, the Rev. Samuel Armour. Did time permit I should like to dilate on the many sterling traits of one who aforetime was my respected and valued instructor at the old district school at York.

The facilities for locomotion and mutual intercourse so long sighed for in vain by the earlier inhabitants of our country have come to their sons and daughters in a form and with a completeness and speed which the most sanguine amongst us could nothave anticipated. East west, north and south the railway now gives pleasant access to friends and markets. Henceforward railways will be regarded as an especial part of the furniture of civilized communities, and they must extend and grow with the extension and growth of every settlement, and throughout the length and bredth of our Dominion their tendency will surely be largely to help on that most desirable result the binding of us all together as one people.

Messrs. Doel and Lee then made brief speeches, thanking the people for the reception tendered.

A PRESENTATION.

The PRESIDENT then presented to Mr Rutherford a beautifully framed large photograph, with key attached, of the York Pioneers.

Mr. RUTHERFORD in reply expressed, on the part of the town, thanks for the memento. He said the people of Peterborough would look upon the gift with much interest, and that no doubt the photographs of those who many years ago stood up for their country would awaken deep concern. He then called on Mr. John Burnham, M. P. for East Peterborough, to address the assemblage.

Mr. BURNHAM said that it afforded him much pleasure to meet the York Pioneers here to-day. The address just read by Dr. Scadding contained much information which many people in this county did not know before. He then referred to the need of the Trent Valley Canal. Now that the North-West was settling up we required a water way to the seaboard. He understood the York Pioneers to be a Society which kept alive the recollection of the acts of the early settlers of this country, and also stated that it was a matter of importance that such a society existed. He extended a cordial welcome to the excursionists.

Mr. DOEL was very much pleased with their reception. He referred to two previous visits which he had paid to this town, stated that the new railway would be a great convenience to the people of Peterborough, and said that the next time he came here he expected it would be to visit a city.

ANOTHER ADDRESS.

Col. W. N. BUTTON, after a neat and pertinent speech, then presented an address on behalf of the Township of Markham.

Dr. SCADDING replied that the address would be duly perused at the next meeting of the York Pioneers, and that a suitable reply would be forwarded to the Council of the Township of Markham.

The assemblage, after giving cheers for the Queen, York Pioneers, and Peterborough, then dispersed for dinner, and at 3.30 met again at the Oriental Hotel. Some of our prominent citizens and Councillors accompanied some of the foremost men of the York Pioneers in carriages to various places of interest in town and Ashburnham. They first drove up George street and down to Mr. T. G. Hazlitt's lumber mills, then along past the numerous factories, viewing at the same time our magnificent water power. They next went over to Ashburnham, down to the Little Lake and around by the Ontario Canoe Company's factory. They then went via Smith street bridge to Smithtown hill, where they could view the entire town. They then came back into the centre of the town and inspected some of the business houses; thence to the Ontario and Quebec Railway station.

The visitors expressed much surprise at seeing such a large and prosperous town, and they unanimously declared that they would never forget Peterborough and the handsome reception tendered them.

If it Were Possible

To get the testimony of the multitude who have used the Shaker Blood Syrup for spring debility, languor, lassitude, and that general feeling of stupidity, weariness and exhaustion which everyone feels during this season, we should be able to present to our readers such an overwhelming mass of commendatory messages, that the few who have not tried it would do so at once. It is a positive fact, and has been so effectually demonstrated that no one to-day denies it, that the Shaker Blood Syrup contains more real medical value than any article now before the public. Hundreds, in spite of their prejudices, are taking the Shaker Blood Syrup, and now honestly declare it to be the best medicine ever offered to the public; and they are quite right, and this sentiment must and will extend just as far as the people will allow themselves to be influenced by facts and by the testimony of those who have tried it and know whereof they speak. In presenting the Shaker Blood Syrup to the public we suffer, because people have been so often humbugged by the week decoctions with which the country is filled. It is often difficult to make the people believe what an advertisement says, because of the evil influence produced by those unreliable, worthless preparations. It is true that honest people are constantly suffering from the effects of dishonesty, and this will probably always be so, but it does not require any remarkable ability to see how the real worth of Shaker Blood Syrup impresses itself upon people. Our reputation rests upon the value of this medicine, and we are proud of the record it is making.

CHOLERA

—IS—

COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

THE ALGOMA ELECTION.

Damning Evidence Produced Against Mr. Lyon.

On Charges 25, 29 and 30, the following witnesses were called :—

JOSEPH GAMMEY—I reside at Long Bay, and voted at last election between Plummer and Lyon. I saw Mr. Lyon at one of his meetings. I did not talk with him. Some other parties saw me before the election—Bridges, Mr. Smith and others. Smith was intetesting himself in favour of Lyon. Smith and Bridges wanted me to work on their side. They said

THERE WAS SOME MONEY GOING

and I might as well have a share as any others; that I would get it from Woodward; $25 was the sum named; that was for payment of teams, and he did not say that any part would be for myself. Mr. Lyon and I never spoke. Just before the election (a week or two) I saw the parties at Gore Bay; there was a meeting at Long Bay before this at Woodward's office. We went outside. I told him I would use the money in hiring teams. I saw Woodward; he told me to stand at a particular place and that a boy would give me the money. I went and stood there and shortly after a boy handed me a small parcel, which, on opening, I found contained $25. After that I got $35 from Mr. Woodward. A few days before the election I went to Mr. Woodward's offices. I did not ask for any money, he simply took up his cash box and counted out $35, which he handed to me. He said I might get some more if needed. I paid the money to parties for the purpose of

INDUCING THEM TO VOTE.

That was the idea.

CHARLES WOODWARD—I reside at Gore Bay, Kempston; have known Mr. Lyon for six or seven years, not as a particular warm personal friend; have had several transactions together; he has given orders on me. His account is a good one but not the best I have. I was under the impression that there would be an election in June or July. I took no active part in this election from the first. I went to Manitowaning to confer with some of our friends about Mander. I did not see Mander. No arrangement was made as to funds for carrying on the election. I got no money till after election, nor had I any guarantee or promise to recoup me. I saw a person called Smith; did not know him; it was said he had come up with funds and they had run short. Smith told me so. Smith did not tell me who sent him or where he came from. I can't say that I did not hear some one was coming with funds. Lyon I know did not tell me. I think Smith made his appearance one or two weeks before the election. A letter was enclosed to me addressed to "Mr. Preston." I went into the Ocean house and found Preston and Smith there. I had no conversation as to the repayment of money, etc. I keep an account of my expenditure; have not got it now. It may be destroyed. I told Smith I was short of funds. A stranger paid me what I expended, $300 or $400. I went to Toronto and was repaid at the Walker house. Smith told me to go there. I heard him called Smith by persons in Toronto. I paid Gammey $25 and $35. Preston and Smith told me that Gammey had some influence but could not afford to lose his time neglecting his farm work, and should be given money to hire men with to take his place. I never left Gore Bay for canvassing or other purposes. I never told Lyon or had information conveyed to Lyon in any way that I was spending money on his election. I advanced the funds spoken of solely on my own judgment until I had communicated with Smith. I believe all the payments made by me are entered in my day book and I could have made a copy of it had I been aware it was needed on this trial.

To Mr. Bethune—The population on the island is about 10,000, and very sparcely settled, which entails much trouble and expense in reaching the different settlements.

Charges 24 and 95.

WM. W. LUSCOMBE—I reside as the Sault, and have been a merchant. I am now dealing more or less in mercantile matters. I became insolvent about two years ago. I have always supported Mr. Lyon. I saw him last July at the Sault, at Murray's hotel. I think, I had an interview with him. Don't think it lasted over an hour. He had not commenced holding meetings then.

HE WANTED MY SUPPORT

of course, to canvas for him and assist him through his election. Nothing was said about funds. I was to go with him to assist him at his meetings. When it was suggested that I should go through the district with him, he said my expenses would be paid. After we had a meeting here we went to Bruce mines. The first meeting was in first Cora school house. He made no payment to me. Never gave me any money, or promised me me any. He paid my hotel bills. I paid any bills incurred for treating. Mr. Lyon had loaned me $100 before the first election, and after the second election he returned me the note I gave for the sum, as I suppose, some compensation for service on the two elections. I never met the mysterious Mr. Smith, and don't know who he is. Mr. Lyon has never made me any promise of an appointment.

Both these charges were struck out.

At Westbrook's hotel they entered the proprietor's bedroom, taking his revolver from the bed together with $50 in cash and a gold watch worth $150. The house of Esther Forsyth was visited and $400 worth of jewellery carried away. George Lumday's hotel and a store were also visited, but the amount of booty secured could not be ascertained. There is only one constable at London East and his duties cease at 10 p. m.

THERE ARE ACRES of grass lands upon pretty much every farm in the country, that are beyond all hope of giving profitable returns till they have been ploughed, underdrained, and reseeded. The evidences of this are brought out by undue wet, and also by drought. If the preliminaries of drainage, tillage, etc., have received due attention at the outset, and yet a dry spell in summer curtails the yield unduly, then it would appear that manure is needed. This should be put on and spread in the fall—in the early fall if practicable, at any rate in the fall. Yet, if this is not practicable, the winter will certainly afford the necessary leisure from farm work to secure this being done. Better than that it go entirely undone, devote the earliest days of spring to the work, observing that the delay to spring necessities thorough spreading.

Canadian Pacific Matters.

On Monday the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie who with a party of friends, has just passed over the Canadian Papific railway from Port Arthur to the Rocky Mountains, telegraphed George Stephen, Esq., president of the company, as follows:—

MONDAY, Aug. 18.
FOOT OF THE MOUNTAINS, B C.
End of the C. P.R. track.

I heartily congratulate you on the wonderful work accomplished. Our trip has been exceedingly pleasant.

ALEX MACKENZIE

Mr. Mackenzie was the Canadian minister of public works who commenced the construction of the Canadian Pacific railway. He and Sir Charles Tupper are the two public men of Canada who have studied this railway question the most thoroughly of all our politicians. It must be very gratifying, therefore, to the company and reassuring to the public to have Mr. Mackenzie express himself so thoroughly satisfied with what the company has accomplished. Mr. Mackenzie's appreciation of the labors and success of the company is in happy contrast to extraordinary attitude of the Toronto Globe, whose efforts at vilifying the railway, the country through which it passes and the corporation which has pushed the work forward with such energy and enterprize, have disgusted all reasonable Canadians, including large bodies of its liberal friends, who cannot understand why a company that has carefully abstained from participating in party politics should be thus persistently hounded down by a journal claiming to be the leading liberal organ. But one word of appreciation from Mr. Mackenzie will always be regarded as a satisfactory offset to colums of malignant abuse from the Toronto Globe. The public have faith in Mr. Mackenzie's integrity and sound judgment, while they are rapidly losing confidence in a journal which has sold itself to the Grand Trunk.—Montreal Herald (Reform.)

The Saved Army Creed.

At the late session of the Saved Army Coucil of War, in Port Hope last week, the following, relating to the incorporation of the Army and the Creed which its members must profess were agreed upon and confirmed':—

"That it be incorporated as a Society for the purpose of evangelical work; in harmony with all Christian bodies; and that members of the Army are allowed to exercise their own judgment in regard to joining any church, but they are recommended to join some church."

THE ARTICLES OL BELIEF.

"All members of the Army must believe that there is but one living and true God, infinate in power, everlasting, and Maker and Preserver of all things. And also in the unity of the Godhead, Father, Son and Holy Ghost. That He was the all atoning sacrifice and that His blood is efficacious to cleanse from all sin. That the Holy Bible is the inspired Word of God and was given by direct inspiration of God to the Patriarchs, Apostles and Evangelists of old and that it contains all teachings neccessary for a present and full salvation from sin; in resurrection of the dead, and life everlasting. That there is a place of everlasting punishment called hell, prepared for the devil and his angels, and all those who transgress the laws of God and refuse to obey the teachings of God's Holy Word. That God gives a reward to those who serve Him, and that there is an everlasting and eternal place above, called Heaven prepared by Him as a dwelling place for those who have been redeemed by the blood of Jesus and have remained faithful servants to the end."—Cobourg World.

GOOD LUCK
TO THE HARVEST

The Crops are Excellent

And there is no danger of their being seriously interfered with as things look now. People are at present buying cautiously, which is a good sign, and there are some complaints about the difficulty of getting money in. And although we believe that trade all over is duller than it was at this time last year, business keeps good right straight along at the CITY CLOTHING STORE, because we are selling our Goods LOWER than we did last year. We aim at making business keep righting itself. So far as the year's business is concerned we are better off than last year, while the good harvest now being taken in brightens things materially, and we feel satisfied that we will do a Good Fall Trade.

INVALUABLE TO EVERY LADY.
"MAY DEW"
The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubborn ly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any address on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 27, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Taken by Mistake.

The person who took by mistake a Lady's Grey Ulster off the Golden-Eye, on the 14th August, will oblige by leaving it at the REVIEW Office.

St. Paul's Ladies Aid Society.

An important meeting of the above Society will be held in Bradburn's Hall, to-morrow, Thursday, afternoon at 4 o'clock. A large attendance is requested.

The Murray Canal.

Work on the Murray Canal, says the Belleville Intelligencer, is going on as rapidly as possible. There are at present five steam dredges and derricks at work and two steam pumps are emptying the section of the channel where the piers for the swing bridge are to be built.

The Market.

This morning's market was sparsely attended. Very little butter was offered for sale, and what was offered brought from 18c. to 20c. per pound. Eggs sold at 16c. per dozen. Plums were for sale in quantities and sold for 10c. per quart. Various varieties of apples were vended and brought 75c. per bag. Fowl was scarce and sold at high prices.

Challenges.

Mr. G. H. Giroux, secretary of the Peterboro' Lacrosse Club, has received challenges from the Cannington and Ætnas Lacrosse Clubs, of Cannington and Toronto respectively. He has also received an invitation to enter the club in a tournament which will shortly be held at Aurora. As other important matches have been and are being arranged these challenges will be unavoidably laid over until some future time.

Chemong Lake Regatta.

Messrs. J. Mercer and J. E. McIntyre, of Peterborough, and Mr. A. Strickland, of Lakefield, have signified their intention of taking part in the single scull contest in the Chemong lake regatta, which takes place on Sept. 11th. This race alone would doubtless attract large numbers, but we understand that an extensive programme has been arranged, and a successful regatta may be expected.

Saved Army Excursion.

An excursion under the aupices of the Peterborough branch of the Saved Army, moved out in the Golden Eye from the Wolfe Street wharf shortly after eight o'clock this morning, quite a number was on board. Their destination was Idyle Wild, but they did not reach there. The water was so low that the steamer stuck on a beam at the locks, and the excursionists spent the day at Crawford's grove. At noon the steamer had not got free.

An Elegant Barber Shop.

Mr. Fred Potvin, the proprietor of the Grand Central Barber shop, has just placed in position in his already well equipped tonsorial establishment two excellent baths. The bath rooms are on the north side of the shop proper, and in the centre of either room is a heater put in by Mr. McAndrews, who has done his work well. The citizens, by calling on Mr. Potvin, can have a hot or cold bath, a shower bath, a Russian bath, or a salt water bath. This will prove to be a comfort to many, and no doubt will amply repay the pushing proprietor. Tickets are issued for the bath rooms, and Mr. Potvin's many patrons will be pleased to learn that his prices will remain as usual, notwithstanding the heavy expense he has necessarily been put to by establishing this last long felt want in Peterborough. He now employs three first-class tonsorial artists. No waiting, no complaints, but everything in A 1 city style. Give him a call and judge for yourselves.

Come to headquarters for your furnishings. No dead stock all fresh and new at Andrew McNeil's.

THE BREWERY CUP.

The Cobourg Club Successful—They win by Three Games to Peterborough's One.

As previously announced, the second lacrosse tournament for the "Brewers' Cup," presented by Mr. H. Calcutt, came off on the Ashburnham cricket grounds on Tuesday afternoon. Contrary to expectations, the "Checkers" of Beaverton, and the Norwood club did not fyle an appearance although they had previously entered for the match.

The senior twelve of the Peterboroughs were to have crossed sticks with the "Checkers" for the "Idyl-Wild Cup," also presented by Mr. Calcutt, but they too were doomed to disappointment. During the day, Mr. Calcutt received the following telegram which speaks for itself:—

BEAVERTON, Aug. 26.

H. Calcutt, Esq., Peterborough:

We are unable to come. Some of our team cannot leave.

(Signed,) A. K. CAMERON.

It will thus be seen that the seniors were debarred from playing a match, and in consequence, were very much disappointed.

The Norwood twelve who were to compete with the Cobourg club and the second twelve of the Peterboroughs, also failed to come. The reason ascribed is that their captain and one or two others were away from home. This state of things is to be regretted, as Mr. Calcutt has spared no expense in furnishing decidedly handsome trophies for competition in the above claims and if the clubs in the surrounding towns have not sufficient pluck and energy to make an effort to secure one of the prizes, it is not the fault of the philanthropic donor, who, besides offering the cups for competition, also pays the expenses of all visiting clubs.

At three o'clock the clubs and Fire Brigade Band marched into the Ashburnham cricket field. After the teams took up their positions it was noticed that the Cobourg men were much the heavier looking of the two, and this also had the effect of changing the opinion of many as to the result. The following are the names and positions of the players:—

COBOURG.		PETERBOROUGH.
F. Climo	Goal	R. Stevenson
A. Atkinson	Point	J. Coughlin
G. Stephens	Cover Point	G. H. Giroux
W. H. Gillard	Defence Field	J. Canning
T. York	"	J. Shevlin
A. K. Whitelaw	"	R. S. Kelly
H. Bannester	Centre Field	A. Mooney
D. Hooey	Home Field	J. Carveth
C. Kerr	"	J. Henderson
W. Ross	"	R. Begley
J. E. Graham	2nd Home	H. Myers
G. P. Minaker	1st Home	D. Deyell
J. Stevens	Captain	J. Sheehy
W. Wilks	Umpire	Geo. Perks

Referee, W. H. Morley.

The referee tossed up the coin as usual, and Cobourg won the toss. They decided to play down the field, and they did so too, for, after the ball was faced and four minutes' play indulged in, Cobourg received first game.

The second game, was rather stubbornly contested while it lasted, and was of short duration. In this game one would think that the Peterborough players would awake from their lathagy; but, alas, not so; it was not destined that they should win; fate was evidently against them. The Cobourg men, who are not at all scientific lacrossemen, were, nevertheless, Peterborough's superiors in vi et armis, and nine minutes' after the ball had been faced in the second game, Kerr forced the rubber through the flags.

The third game was now commenced, and at this critical period the home club appeared to awaken to the true state of things, and made it good and lively for the visitors. In this game Kelly made a "hit" by his running and numerous bewildering glides, and in some instances his dexterous dodging seemed to complete confound those who were near him. Picking the ball up in centre field, he made a bee line for the Cobourg goal, and did not stop until the rubber was safely through the flags. This gave the third game to the home team in three and a half minutes play.

The fourth and concluding game proved, we may say, somewhat of an easy one for the Cobourg men. The usual tussles and scrimages took place after the facing of the ball, and many were the calls made on either goal, but, as before stated, it was not destined that Peterborough should win, and they lost. In this game Kerr again distinguished himself by good play, and seven minutes after play was commenced, he shot the ball through Peterborough's flags, thus winning the fourth game and the match for the Cobourg club.

The Cobourg team play a fair game, and with practice could, perhaps, successfully compete with some of the senior teams. One thing is certain, they were too much for the Peterborough second twelve on Tuesday. The home club's play, either individually or as a team, was not up to what they did when playing the Norwood and Millbrook clubs, and if they will only make a practice of teaching their defence men to play defence when it is necessary, and not leave the goal-keeper so much hard work to do, a club like Cobourg will not be as successful next time. Until this end is accomplished the second twelve will not gain that notoriety that otherwise they should; and, once more, boys, don't for one moment fancy that any club can rise to eminence unless hard practice every day is indulged in. It is thus that many clubs gain a first-class reputation, and until the Peterborough men can accomplish this, they will always have uphill work.

Rugby Reviving.

There will be a meeting of the Peterborough Foot Ball Club at the Grand Central Hotel this evening at 8 o'clock.

Matrimonial.

Miss Florence Dougan and Mr. D. Merritt were united in marriage on Monday evening at St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham. The Rev. Mr. Bradshaw performed the ceremony, and Dr. George Burnham gave away the bride. Miss A. Dougan acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. T. H. Gale as groomsman. The bride received many handsome and expensive presents. The happy couple departed the same evening on the Ontario and Quebec evening express for Cleveland, Ohio, where they will reside.

Coal Oil.

Owing to a "combination" having been formed among the refiners, coal oil is advancing every week. Consumers therefore should take their cans to "China Hall" at once and have them filled, and thereby save money. China Hall has the best quality of oil in town. Try it once.

Our new Fall Stock of Gent's Furnishings will compare with any first class house in the Province. See our windows. A. McNeil.

Light for All

China Hall has the largest and best assortment of lamps and chandeliers in Peterborough, consisting of 2, 3, and 4 light chandeliers, polished brass and brony, 2 one light hanging lamps, portable kitchen and bedroom lamps at any price. China Hall pays particular attention to the lamp and coal oil part of its trade and will undersell all other dealers. If you desire variety, cheapness, and durability in the above goods, buy at China Hall.

Smith's Market

Is now open and in full blast three doors above his old stand with a fresh and selected stock of Foreign and Domestic Canned Goods; also an extra choice variety of green vegetables such as Californian Squashes, Cucumbers, Tomatoes, (home grown), Cabbage, Beets, Carrots, &c., &c.

FRUIT.—Peaches, Californian Plums, Pears, Grapes, Lemons, Apples, Raspberries, Huckleberries, Lewton Blackberries, (extra large) Water Melons, &c., &c.

All kinds of Nuts and Confectionery.

Fresh Oysters every Wednesday. Fresh Fish of all kinds as usual.

One case of extra fine Red Spanish Onions.

My friends will kindly bear in mind that I have gone to considerable expense in fitting up and putting in new fixtures, &c., and that I am not prepared to extend any credits for a longer period than 30 days, as I am dependent on prompt monthly payments to meet my bills, which will be much larger than heretofore. Hoping to hear and see most of my friends to-morrow, I remain

Respectfully yours,
C. B. SMITH.

Young Men?—Read This.

The Voltaic Belt Co., of Marshall Mich., offer to send their celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and other Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and manhood, and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred as thirty days trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet free.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough It never fails. This explains why more than a million bottle were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's porous plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

The Woman's Physician.

A common sense medical work for ladies only. Fully answers all questions which modesty prevents asking a male physician. Gives causes and symptoms of all diseases of the sex, with positive cure for each in plain language, written by ladies who have made these diseases a life study. A plain talk in delicate languag which every woman, young and old, should read. It is recommended by many eminent lady physicians as a safe guide for the sex. Handsomely bound and illustrated. Sent postpaid for $1.00. Address the ROCHESTER PUBLISHING Co., 32, 33 & 33½ Osburn Block, Rochester, N.Y.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store today were as follows:—

Nine o'clock	66°	29.37
One o'clock	71°	29.34
Three o'clock	68°	29.31

Cheese Market.

The cheese market was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday afternoon. The buyers present were Messrs. Cluxton, Flavelle and Brower. The cheese which was boarded at the market a week previous was again offered, but no business was transacted. The price had lowered a little, the highest bid on Tuesday being a quarter of a cent below the week before, and the salesmen were not inclined to sell. The highest bid was 11 cents for September and October. The Montreal Gazette of August 25th says:—

"The cheese market was dull and mominally unchanged. No one appears inclined to open negotiations until a steadier basis is reached; consequently, trade remains in abeyance. The drift of affairs is decidedly in buyers' favour, and holders are not in a very comfortable position."

Personal.

We had a visit on Tuesday from Mr. W. B. Nicholson, formerly of this town, who was taking advantage of the excursion from Toronto. He says that business is good at his hair dressing parlor at 113½ Queen Street West, where he often sees Peterborough faces, and would be glad to welcome all from his old town.

Col. W. H. Button, of the Markham Cavalry regiment, stayed in town last night. The Colonel is a York Pioneer of distinction, representative of his family having for three successive generations commanded the above regiment. He was a guest of Mr. B. Earl.

Professor Mills, President of the Agricultural College, Guelph, was in town yesterday.

Mr. Kebelle, who in the year 1880 sailed on the same steamer with Mayor Lundy and Mr. W. H. Chamberlain, to witness the Hanlan—Haudon boat race, came to Peterborough with the York Pioneers excursion on Tuesday, and was the guest of Mr. Chamberlain,

"Rough on Rats."

SO MODEST A VIRTUE

AS

GOODNESS

Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

A Good Tent, one of English's Canoes and a complete Fishing Outfit.

A Gun?

Certainly, if you are always careful to avoid accidents, otherwise better leave Lock, Stock and Barrel at home. But hunters' luck is proverbial, it does not always supply the wants of the Inner Man. For this important consideration I offer a full supply of Requisities:—

Canned Goods, in Meats, Soups, Sauces, Pickles, Vegetables and Fruits, and a Luxury in Condensed Milk.

Without which, once enjoyed, a man will leave his tea and coffee untasted.

Go then, by all means, but don't forget the Requisities while securing the Outfit.

Enjoy your trip and be happy.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, AUGUST 28, 1884.

THE FRANCO-CHINESE WAR.

The Loss of Life at the Bombardment—The Forts Holding out.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 27.—The French loss in the bombardment of Foo Choo was 7 killed and 14 wounded. The Chinese loss is estimated at 1,000 killed and 3,000 wounded. The Chinese man-of-war Yangwu, was exploded by a torpedo after it had fired a broadside at a French torpedo-boat. The boiler of the latter was exploded by hand grenades thrown from the Yangwu, after which the boat was sunk by the Volta to prevent the Chinese from capturing it. The French expect to occupy the heights commanding the Pagado anchorage. It is reported that there are 75,000 Chinese troops in the vicinity of Foo Chow. According to reports received at Sontay 80,000 Chinese troops have invaded Tonguin, and had an engagement with the French in which it is asserted the French were annihilated and several thousand Chinese killed.

Admiral Courbet has been engaged in the bombardment of the Wing Pai ports all day. He will probably make an attack in force tomorrow. The fall of the forts is considered certain, as they are so constructed that they cannot reply with the fire directed up stream.

THE FORTS HOLDING OUT,

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Private telegrams report that the Chinese forts on the Min river are holding out well against the French. The French gunboats are still unable to pass. The Chinese authorities are confident of the strength of the forts.

REPRESENTATIONS TO FRANCE,

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The merchants are considering the advisability of presenting a memorial to Lord Granville, urging him to co-operate with America and Germany in representing to France the serious injury which will be inflicted upon trade by interfering with the Chinese treaty.

HANLAN'S DEFEAT.

The Canadian Champion Exhausted—Rowing at a Terrific Rate.

The first despatches giving particulars of the race in Australia are to hand. The race was well contested for two miles, both oarsmen making a desperate struggle for the end. Amid the wildest enthusiasm and tremendous cheering Hanlan for a few seconds appeared to shorten his stroke, and at the same time Beach gained the lead. Hanlan pulled hard and vigorously to close the gap, but Beech, who was rowing in splendid form, appeared to have more strength than the American, and he continued to widen the gap. Hanlan tried all he knew to keep up with Beach, and the pace was terrific for half a mile, when Hanlan showed signs of exhaustion. Beach kept the lead and won easily by 6 lengths. The scene at the finish beggars description. Cheer after cheer came from thousands of throats, flags were waved, and on Beach reaching his boat he was carried to his boathouse amid cheers given for the champion oarsman of the world. Beach is 5 feet 11 inches in height, and weighs 170 pounds. He has made the fastest time ever rowed over the Parramatta championship course (which is three miles 330 yards in length), 20 min. 44 sec. Hanlan was a heavy favourite at 7 to 4, owing to the fact that he had easily defeated Elias C. Laycock since his arrival.

BOATING FATALITY.

A Daughter of Mr. A. F. Wood, M. P. P., Drowned in Moira Lake.

MADOC, Ont., Aug. 27.—About 11 o'clock this morning as Miss Carrie Wood, daughter of Mr. A. F. Wood, M. P. P., and a young lad named Claude Gaugot, were boating on Moira Lake, the boat upset and Miss Wood was drowned. The boy swam to shore and escaped. The body of Miss Wood was recovered this afternoon.

Wyoming Cattle.

A correspondent had an interview with the Premier at Riviere de Loup recently, in which the Premier, referring to Mr. Frewen's scheme for carrying Wyoming cattle through Canada, expressed unqualified condemnation of the project, as detrimental to the best interests of the Dominion, and fraught with the greatest danger to Canadian farmers and cattle raisers, and that therefore it should be opposed in toto.

Attempted Murder and Suicide

A terrible double tradgedy occurred on Monday morning in the public school at Markdale, South Grey. During the eleven o'clock recess, Mr Norris, the head master, made a proposal of marriage to Miss Ford, the second teacher, and on receiving a refusal shot her three times, inflicting wounds from which she now lies in a critical condition. He then shot himself, dying within an hour.

BROOMS AND WHISKS.

How they are Made at the Factories of Messrs. Hamilton and Deacon.

Many of our readers are doubtless unaware of the fact that two factories of considerable importance exist in this vicinity, namely Mr. Wm. M. Hamilton's whisk factory, and Mr. W. S. Deacon's whisk and broom factory. Although a whisk is an article of comparative insignificance, yet when we think of the thousands which are turned out daily by our Canadian factories it is, after all, an article in which some interest is taken. The whisk and broom trade occupies no mean place in the list of our country's manufactures, factory is situated on Concession street, Ashburnham. Mr. Hamilton manufactures exclusively for the whole-sale whisk trade. He does not at present deal in brooms, having sold out the right of manufacturing that line to Mr. Deacon. Mr. Hamilton makes thirteen different kinds of whisks, from the plainly finished yet durable whisk to the most beautiful and highly ornamented one. The prices range from $5 down to $1 per dozen, according to the quality. The capacity of Mr. Hamilton's establishment is 175 whisks per day, and the class of articles which he manufactures will no doubt secure large orders. The first consignment of goods was shipped a few days ago and othert have already followed, their destination being the wholesale houses of Montreal and Toronto. When ready for shipment the whisks are separately encased by handsome pastboard coverings, and according to the magnitude of the orders are shipped in appropriate cases. Another feature about Mr. Hamilton's wares is the handles. He has imported directly from the manufacturers in the United States a number of very elegant whisk handles, which, he says, no other manufacturer in Canada has yet secured. Mr. Hamilton intends shortly to enlarge his premises to twice their present size and doubtles he will have ready sale for all his productions. The factory of Mr. W. S. Deacon is situated on Douro street, Ashburnham. Mr. Deacon some time ago purchased the right from Mr. Hamilton to manufacture whisks and brooms, to be sold in the counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Northumberland and Durham. Mr. Deacon manufactures five kinds of whisks and several kinds of brooms. His brooms are of strong, durable discription, and are a credit to the factory. Mr. Deacon has had control of the local branch of the business only a short time, but he has secured almost the entire local trade. His workmen are kept buisily at work filling his numerous orders, and no surplus stock can be kept on hand. The capacity of Mr. Deacon's factory is 120 brooms and 120 whisks per day.

MR. WM. M. HAMILTON'S

WHISK AND BROOM

THE PROCESS.

As the process of the manufacture of whisks and brooms is almost alike, we give the description of the two together.

The broom corn is grown in the State of Illinois, U.S., on the Mississippi flats. The Mississippi annually overflows its banks in some portions of its course, and the inundated parts of the country are termed "flats." On these flats broom corn grows with rank luxuriance. The broom corn of the Illinois flats is, however, prized the most highly. It is gathered and bought by wholesale merchants in Chicago, and thence it finds its way to the various brush, broom and whisk manufacturers. It comes here in a rough state in bales containing five hundred pounds. It is then placed in a room and undergoes a process of bleeching, burnt brimstone being the agent. The corn comes out of this brimstone bath considerably whiter. Boys now take up the weed and draw it through a hatchel, an instrument consisting of a number of iron spikes driven contiguously into a board. This operation eliminates all seeds and takes out all tangles. The material is now cut the proper length and passed to an operator of the tying machine. The material is now put into form. The corn is tied securely to the handles by wire. The embryo whisk or broom is now given to the pressman, who puts it into a press which moulds it into shape, he, in the meantime, sewing it with the different colored twine. The operation of the sewing is very curious. On each hand the pressman has a leather cuff which encircles the palm. Placed in the cuff immediately over the palm is a round piece of metal which serves as a sort of thimble. There is a point on each end of the needle and the pressman goes on shoving the needle from one side to the other, making a stitch every time. When the pressman is through with it the whisk or broom is in very fair shape, and only requires trimming at the lower extremity. When this is done the whisk or broom is packed in cases and is ready for shipment. The twine is manufactured by the Doon Manufacturing Company, of Doon, Ontario. The whisk handles are obtained from Chicago in barrels containing three thousand each. The broom handles are manufactured in Toronto.

Fire at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Aug. 27.—A most disastrous fire occurred early this morning at the residence of Mrs. John Ferrie, Queen street, at the foot of the mountain, resulting in the complete destruction of the house. The origin of the fire is not known, and was not discovered until it had obtained a strong hold. The fire brigade were of little use owing to the location of the building being outside the city limits and not in reach of the water mains. A small portion of the valuable contents were saved. Mrs. Ferrie and family escaped unhurt. The damage is estimated at $20,000. The house and furniture were insured for $7,000.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, AUGUST 28, 1884.

A WRITER in the Globe suggests that fires should be prepared in every city, town and village and lighted on the night that Mr. Mowat arrives home. In other days beacons were lit on the hills to warn the people of the approach of an enemy, and perhaps he wishes to revive the custom.

THE Port Hope Guide says that "there being a vacancy in a strong Reform riding" Mr. Edgar "at the earnest solicitation of Mr. Blake, backed by the local leaders," accepted the nomination. This is an easy way of putting the purchase of a constituency from the sitting member and of getting over the fact that many local leaders of the party faced Mr. Edgar and kicked vigourously.

THE Bowmanville Statesman innocently tells the secret of the choosing of the date of the Mowat reception by saying:—

"As this reception takes place during the big week of the Industrial Exhibition in Toronto, thousands of farmers and farmers' sons will be able to attend very conveniently."

It was hoped, no doubt, as the Statesman very plainly intimates, that large numbers would be in Toronto that week and that those who would not take the trouble to go to Toronto for that purpose might attend the reception while they were there, and assist to make up the numbers, and thus give the organs a little exercise for big headings.

A REFORM paper states that the amount of the deposits in the Government Savings Bank increases with hard times. Queer ideas some Reform journals have. It is well known that the Government Saving Bank is used principally by young men and workingmen, and the fact that the amount of the deposits has steadily increased from 1881 to 1884, shows that the "hard times" have not prevented them from accumulating a little surplus to put away for a rainy day—or for the time when they would be working on half time or out of employment if the Reformers with free trade ideas should return to power.

OUR CANOEMEN.

IT is not surprising that Lord Wolseley, after his favorable experience of the Canadian canoemen, should be impressed with their usefulness, and seeing the good service they could render in Egypt in the rapids of the Nile, should have secured the services of a number of them for the operations in that country. In his expedition to the Red River he had abundant opportunities of becoming acquainted with their skill, their energy, their pluck, their unfailing good spirits, zeal, fertility of resource, and adaptability to circumstances. That six hundred of our rivermen are to start immediately for Egypt is another tribute to the merits of Canada, and we have no doubt but that by their valuable services they will spread abroad the good repute of our Dominion.

On the far-famed river of the ancients, the historic Nile, the Canadians from this new continent will find and will no doubt surmount the same difficulties as they have been accustomed to face on the still grander waters of the St. Lawrence and its numerous affluents. They will take with them the same skill and energy to the burning skies of Africa as they have so often displayed on the waters of this country, and we look to see them equally successful in this novel application of their abilities.

THE ALGOMA ELECTION.

Damning Evidence Produced Against Mr Lyon.

Charges, 18, 19 and 20.

Mr. LYON recalled — I know Mr. Woodward, I dont know Mr. Smith. I met him once in Manitowaning, in the sitting room. He was introduced as Mr. "Smith." I assumed he was up there on a trip. Mr. Riddell, I think, introduced me to him. I had no reason to expect to meet him. Never heard there was anyone coming here to assist in my election, any member of the Government or others. I was doubtful if any person outside was coming to assist, nor had I any conversation with any of them as to my election. I have never seen Mr. Smith since. He is a short, stout man, with reddish whiskers. I did not know anything of his business there. I know Henry Sullivan of Gore Bay. It it likely I saw him at Gore Bay. I do not know of his doing anything for me or for Mr. Woodward. I don't know where to find Smith, or to whom I would apply to assist me to find him, even to save me from disqualification on this trial. I don't know of any financial agent having paid out any moneys for me—I did not keep any account of it. I only know what I spent by the balance I had in my pocket.

C. W. WOODWARD recalled—I sent Mr. Sullivan with a letter to Colin Campbell. Had not seen or heard of Smith at that time. The man I saw was dark complexioned. Mr. Lyon says he was sandy—he was stout and short.

CAMERON MCCREA recalled—I paid Mr. Reid some money at Gore Bay. When I paid Reid I don't think Mr. Lyon was at Gore Bay. I think it was after we had been to Baraie Island.

At four o'clock the counsel for the petitioners asked for an adjournment till to-morrow with a view of obtaining the attendance of Thompson and Tinkass, mentioned in the course of the evidence.

The court adjourned.

Second Day.

Mr. LYON recalled—I remember the interview spoken of by Mander in April, 1883. I was rouud purchasing timbers and went to Mander for the purpose of getting an advertisement inserted in his paper. I did not transact any business with him. He was not in a fit state. Never spoke about shunish or spondulicks to him. I did not speak to him about supporting me. I had heard he attended a convention at which Mr. Plummer was nominated. I received a letter from Mander and afterwards saw him at Gore Bay, when he said he had made up his mind to support me, and asked me if I could loan him $200 on the security of his house and lot. He was then putting in a new front. The shell of the building was up. I looked at the plan and told him if I succeeded in getting in some moneys due to me I could lend him the money at 8 per cent.

I ASKED HIM TO SUPPORT ME

in his paper. He then accompanied me on my canvass and accompanied me as far as the township of Mills, when he returned home. There was no talk of my paying him $100 for his support. I subsequently ment him at Manitowaning; this was unexpected on my part. He asked me to lend him some money. I said I had none but would see if I could borrow it. This was in order to pay some defalcation to the Post Office Department. He was in a very excited state about it. I asked Springer to let him have $50 and take his note for it. Springer did give him the money, but no note was given. Mander told me that a registered letter had been lost, and he feared getting into trouble about it. I subsequently saw him in June. We came up in the same boat to this place, and he went on. I never mentioned anything to him about voting for me. I never requested him to pay $20 to Camer McCrea. Was never present when such was done. I subsequently learned from Mander that he had given $20 to McCrea. I never know of any money being handed by Mander to Stinson for the purpose of being handed to Tinkass; $10 was paid to Tinkass on account of a lot of land purchased by one of our men from Tinkass, to whom we were in the habit of paying money as the men earned it. We then owed this man $10, probably more. After the election Mander came to me at my residence at Michael's Bay. He

ASKED ME FOR SOME MONEY,

He named no sum. I owed him for printing and told him to make up his bill and send it to me. He did not say what the amount of his bill was. Subsequently he sent me the bill amounting to $62.50, which I paid him after the session or during the sitting of Parliament. I have since paid Springer the $50 advanced by him.

To Mr. Falconbridge—Mr. Springer is at Manitowaning. I did not subpœna him to attend here. I paid him the $50 at our own place shortly after the election. I did not deduct the $50 paid to Springer from Mander's bill. I did not mention the $50 I lent Mander in my examination. I have known Mander for several years, ever since he came to the place. The Guide supported me in my first election in 1878. In 1879 it supported my opponent. I had no reason to expect the support of the paper in the third last election until after I received Mander's letter. When I saw Mander, in April, in bed, I went to see about putting an advertisement in the paper—not about the election. Mander's lot was a fifth of an acre. I fancy it would be worth $400. The buildings, old and new, would be worth $200 more; as a business transaction I should think it good security for $200. There is no trouble in effecting insurance in that part of the country. We have none. The money I expected to get in was due on chattel mortgages—that is not yet paid, nor anything on account of it. I would not let him have the money without mortgage. I did let him have $50 on account of it by transaction with Springer. I knew nothing of his receiving $42 from Woodward, neither he nor Mander ever told me of it. Mander urged me to go and borrow the money for him, as he said he was afraid of being arrested. The $10 paid by Munder to Tinkass was not to be deducted from the loan.

Recalled.—The first I heard of the $50 being considered at part of the $100 said to be promised by me to Mander was when he gave his first evidence here.

Mr. WOODWARD, recalled—I paid Mander $100 for using his paper in Mr. Lyon's interest, $50 in cash and balance in goods. I never told Mr. Lyon of it.

After hearing the arguments of counsel the court intimated that they would deliver judgment at Toronto on Tuesday, the 2nd of Sept. next.—Mail.

St. George's Union.

At the morning session of the convention of the North American St. George's Union, held at Chicago on Aug. 21st, the auditing committee reported, and resolutions of respect to the memory of William Elliot, of Philadelphia, recently deceased, were adopted. Following this came the election of officers for the ensuing year, whose names are as follows:—President, G. S. Beirell, of London, Canada; first vice-president, S. C. Wilson, of Bay City, Mich.; second vice-president, Ald. W. D. Stroud, of Montreal; treasurer, Daniel Bachelor, of Utica, N. Y.; general secretary, Thomas G. Geates, and corresponding secretary, J. B. Cox, of London, Canada. Campbell Fair, D.D., of Baltimore, was elected chaplain, and Prof. Goldwin Smith, of Toronto, and William T. Wilkins, of Philadelphia, as an executive committee. London, Canada, was the place decided upon at which to hold the next annual convention. In the afternoon the members enjoyed an excursion to Pullman.

A Dangerous Dog.

During the past week Mr. Rorison, Reeve o North Crosby, went out to his barn to drive out a cow at which he threw a stone. His dog, a good sized mongrel, was at the barn at the time, and either disposed to take the cow's part, or, thinking the stone was thrown at himself, suddenly sprang upon his master, seized him by the leg and threw him down. A battle of the fiercest kind ensued, and eventually Mr. Rorison compelled the brute to loosen his hold by beating his head with a stone, and thus temporarily stunning him. Mr. Rorison made for his house as speedily as possible and was presently pursued by the dog, but fortunately had time to get his gun and shoot the brute dead as he was preparing to renew his attack.—Brockville Monitor.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

WHY HE DESERVES IT.

Mowat deserves a reception at the hands of the Grits. No man could better have succeeded in perpetuating an inter-provincial difficulty for political purposes than he has done.—Welland Telegraph.

RESULTS OF A BROAD POLICY.

Had the narrow policy of the Mackenzie administration been carried out, a town of the size and importance of Port Arthur would never have arisen on the shores of Lake Superior.—Port Arthur Sentinel.

FOR PARTY, AGAINST COUNTRY.

One of the most extraordinary attempts ever made in the interest of a political party and against the interest of the country is that by which the Toronto Globe has just been distinguishing itself. The dullest portion of the summer season was selected as the fittest time for publishing reports to the effect that Candaian manufactures of all kinds were going to the dogs, and that the country was ruined by the N.P.—Canadian Manufacturer.

WICKED KINGSTON REPORTERS.

The reporters work on Sunday taking down sermons.—Kingston News.

A VEBITABLE DOUBTING THOMAS.

We have not the figures at hand at present to disprove it, but we doubt.—Brockville Recorder.

A CONCIDIENCE.

The Ontario Commissioner of Agriculture is about to buy roots and vegetables in Algoma to be shown at the Dominion exhibition in September. Curiously enough the Commissioner has only come to the conclusion to make these purchases since Mr. Lyon threw up the sponge. It is a one-sided election that does not make the Ontario Government wonderfully liberal in the contituency.—Mail.

A CHALLENGE.

Workingmen's wages are being cut everywhere—London Advertiser. Now this is a characteristic Advertiser or Grit falsehood. We speak for Welland county, at least when we characterize it thus. We will make an offer to the editor of the Advertiser and challenge him to accept it or admit that he lies. We will pay his expenses down to Welland county, give him wages as good as he gets now for one week, and a bonus of a ten dollar bill, if he will come down here and find (1st), wages being cut down—(2nd), worthy men out of employment.—Welland Telegraph.

AN UNSAVOURY MOUTHFUL.

It ill becomes the Globe and other Grit journals to criticise Greely's crew for eating portions of their dead comrades, when the G. and the O. G. j. are swallowing themselves whole, every day.—Hamilton Spectator.

A MALICIOUS ORGAN.

There is such a thing as carrying party malice too far, and this is precisely what the Grit organ has done. The Company (Canada Pacific) is carrying out its contract to the letter, and has in no way interfered with politics, so that there is not the least reason for trying to injure it or for bearing its stock.—Toronto Telegram (Indep.)

HOW THE MANITOBANS LOOK AT IT.

The fact that the Northwest and, for the matter of that, the whole Dominion would go down in the ruin, does not appear to have cost this ancient "bear" a thought. The Globe's course may suit the Reformers of Eastern Canada, but it is universally condemned by the party here.—Winnipeg Sun (Indep. Ref.)

The Congo Country.

LISBON, AUG. 29.—The King of the Congo district, on June 16th, made a formal protest against the treaties entered into by the Palla Bolla Princes with the African International Association. They had, says he, no right to cede territory to the Assocation.

"MAY DEW"

The Great French Lotion for Beautifying the Face.

It conceals the evidence of age. One application will make the most stubbornly red and rough hands beautifully soft and white. Remember that "MAY DEW" is not a paint or powder that fills up the pores of the skin, and that is injurious to the skin, but a new and great discovery, a vegetable liquid, that causes the cheek to glow with health, the neck, arms and hands to rival the Lily in whiteness. Impossible to detect in the beauty it confers any artificial character. It cures Greasy Skin, Freckles, Wrinkles, Pimples, Black Heads, Crow's Feet, Blotches, Face Grubs, Sun Burn, Tan, Ringworms, Chapped Hands, Sore or Chapped Lips, Barber's Itch, Tetter, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes from the injurious effects of powders and cosmetic washes. By its use all redness and roughness are prevented; it beautifies the skin, and will make it soft, smooth and white; imparting a delicious softness, producing a perfectly healthy, natural, and youthful appearance. The best face lotion that the world ever produced. We will send "A LARGE BOTTLE" to any ress on receipt of price $1. When ordering mention this paper.

CHAPTER XXX.

"My grandfather, Hubert Chesley, was from Alsace; my grandmother originally belonged to the French family of Ormes. They had two children, Orme the eldest, and Minetta who, while very young, married a travelling musician from Switzerland, named Leon Merle. A year after she became his wife, her father died, and the family resolved to emigrate to America. On the voyage, which was upon a crowded emigrant ship, I was born; and a few hours after my mother died. They buried her at sea, and would to God I too had been thrown into the waves, for then this tale of misery would never torture innocent ears. But children who have only a heritage of woe, and ought to die, fight for existence, defying adversity, and thrive strangely; so I luckily survived.

"My first recollections are of a pauper quarter in a large city, where my father supported us scantily, by teaching music. Subsequently we removed to several villages, and finally settled in one, where were located a college for young gentlemen, and a seminary for girls. In the latter my father was employed as musical professor, and here we lived very comfortably, until he died, of congestion of the lungs.

"We were very poor, but grandmother was foolishly, inconsistently proud, and though compelled to sew for our daily bread, she dressed me in a style incompatible with our poverty, and contrived to send me to school. Finally her eyes failed, and with destitution staring open-jawed upon us, she reluctantly consented to do the washing and mending for three college boys, and once when she was confined to her bed I was sent to the college to carry the clothes washed and ironed that week. It was the only time I was ever permitted to cross the campus, but it sufficed to wreck my life. On that luckless day I first met Cuthbert Laurance, then only nineteen, while I was not yet fifteen. Think of it, my darling; three years younger than you are now, and you a mere child still! While he paid me the money due, he looked at and talked to me. Oh my daughter! my daughter! So courteous, so winning, so chivalric, so indescribably handsome did he seem to my admiring eyes. I was young, pretty, an innocent, ignorant, foolish child, and I yielded to the fascination he exerted.

"Day by day the charm deepened, and he sought numerous opportunities of seeing me again; gave me books, brought me flowers, became the king of my waking thoughts, the god of my dreams. In a cottage near us lived a widow, Mrs. Peterson, whose only child Peleg, a rough overgrown lad, was a journeyman carpenter, and quite skilful in carving figures. We had grown up together, and he seemed particularly fond of and kind to me, rendering me many little services which a stalwart man can perform for a delicate petted young creature such as I then was.

"As grandmother's infirmity increased, and her strict supervision relaxed, I met Cuthbert more frequently, but as yet without her knowledge; and gradually he won my childish heart completely. His father, General Rene Laurance, was a haughty, wealthy planter living in one of the Middle States, and Cuthbert was his only child, the pride of his heart and home. Those happy days seem a misty dream to me now, I have so utterly outgrown the faith that lent a glory to that early time. Cuthbert assured me of his affection, swore undying allegiance to me; and like many other silly, trusting, inexperienced, doomed young fools, I believed every syllable that he whispered in my ears.

"One Sabbath when grandmother supposed I was saying my prayers in church, which I had left home to attend, I stole away to our trysting place in a neighbouring wood that bordered a small stream. Oh the bitter fruits of that filial disobedience! Peleg, having heard all that passed, waited till evening, and finding me in the little garden attached to our house, he savagely upbraided me for preferring Cuthbert's society to his; claimed me as his, by right of devotion, and when I spurned him indignantly, and forebade him to speak to me in future, he became infuriated, rushed into the cottage, and disclosed all that he had discovered."

"I knew it! I felt assured you must always have loathed him!" exclaimed Regina, with kindling eyes, and catching her mother's dress as she passed beside her.

"Why, my darling?"

"Because he was coarse, brutal! When he dared to call you 'Minnie'—if I had been a man, I would have strangled him!"

Her mother kissed her, and answered sadly: "And yet, he loved me infinitely better than the man for whom I repulsed, nay, insulted him. He was poor, unpolished, but at that time he would have died to defend me from harm. It was reserved for his courtly, high-bred, elegant rival to betray the trust he won! Cuthbert came one day and asked to see me. Grandmother was obdurate, but unfortunately I ventured in, and seizing me in his arms, he swore that all the world should not separate us. To her he explained that his father desired him to marry an heiress who lived not far from the paternal mansion; and possessed immense estates, upon which the covetous eyes of the Laurances had long been fixed; but until he completed his collegiate course, matters must be delayed. He protested that he could love no one but me, and solemnly vowed that as soon as freed by his majority from parental control, he would make me his wife. I was sufficiently insane to believe it all, but grandmother was wiser, and sternly interdicted his visits.

"A month went by, during which Peleg persecuted me with professions of love, and offers of marriage. How I detested him; and, by contrast, how godlike appeared my refined, polished, proud young lover! At length Cuthbert wrote to me, entrusting the letter to a college chum, Gerbert Audre; but Peleg's argus scrutiny could not be baffled, and again I was detected.

"Meantime grandmother's strength was evidently failing, and Uncle Orme was far away in Western wilds; who would save me from my own rash folly if she should die, and leave me unprotected? Our union would be concealed rigidly until Cuthbert had left college and attained his majority, which was then nearly two years distant; at which time he would enter upon the possession of a certain amount of property left by his mother. An approaching recess of several days, which would enable him to absent himself without exciting suspicion, was selected as an auspicious occasion for the consummation we all so ardently desired, and very quietly the preliminary steps were taken.

"By what stratagem or fraud a license was obtained, I never learned, and was too ignorant and unsuspicious to question or understand the forms essential to legality. One stormy night we were driven across the country to a railway station, hurried aboard the train, and next morning reached the town of V——. At the parsonage you know so well, we found Mr. Hargrove, who appeared very reluctant to accede to our wishes. I was only fifteen, a simple hearted child, and Cuthbert, though well grown, was too youthful to assume the duties of the position for which he presented himself as candidate. The faithful, prudent pastor expostulated, and declared himself unwilling to bind a pair of children by ties so solemn and indissoluble; but the license was triumphantly exhibited as a release from ministerial responsibility, and my grandmother urged in extenuation, that in the event of her death I would be thrown helpless upon the world, and as she was my sole surviving protector and guardian, desired to see me entitled to a husband's care and shelter.

"At last, with an earnest protest, the consciousness man consented, and standing before him that sunny morning, in the presence of God, and of grandmother and Mr. Audre, Cuthbert Laurance and Minnie Merle, were solemnly married! Oh, my daughter! when I think of that day and its violated vows, when I remember what I was, and contrast the Minnie Merle of my girlhood with the blasted, wretched ruin that I am, my brain reels, my veins run fire!"

She clasped her palms across her forehead, and moaned, as the deluge of bitter recollections overflowed her.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—The new church is progressing very well at present, but still a few more bricklayers would not be out of place. The Rev. Mr. Andrews is at present away, and there will not be service in the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning.

METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The Sunday School meets at 9.30 a. m. This school is reviving and the officers expect a large increase in the attendance before long. Dr. Harrison has presented the school with a new library, and more books will be added shortly. The entertainment, which will be held on Sept. 20th, promises to be a grand success, as there are several features which are new to this place.

CROPS.—The hail storm on Saturday last destroyed a very large amount of grain north and east of this place, by threshing it in the fields. Peas and oats suffered most.

CATTLE. — Messrs. Elmhirst and Webber shipped two cars of cattle this week from this township.

SAVED ARMY.—Miss McCormack's attack on this place has been severly censured. Report says that services will only be held in Lang on Sunday evenings.

THE MANLY ART.—A set of gloves have been procured and now our young men are enjoying themselves. One man has been seen on the streets with a cloth over one eye, and others ought to have theirs covered in like manner.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Mr. Lang's residence is fast approaching completion and promises to look very well.

THE WEIGH SCALES.—Mr. Malcolm Campbell has had the weigh scales overhauled and fixed up generally.

RIFLE MATCH.—A rifle match is expected to come off at the Keene ranges on Saturday next between the Keene and Hastings companies of the 57thr. The team for Keene will likely be selected from the following:—Capt. Birdsall, Sergts. R. B. McIntyre and P. McFarlaen, Ptes. Millar, Wedlock and Laundreville.

PERSONAL.—Rev. Mr. Sexsmith, the new minister at Hiawater, is well liked. He preaches every Sunday morning in the Methodist church here.

We are about to part from our genial miller, Mr. Slatterly, who intends to try living under the Stars and Stripes. We wish him success wherever his lot may be cast.

MINDEN.

BRIDGE REPAIRS.—The bridge crossing the Gull River on Main street has been repaired, and looks as if it could withstand a good deal of hard usage for some time to come. It is certainly a great improvement on the dilapidated structure which graced the spot a few weeks ago, as far as looks go.

IN DAKOTA.—Mr. S. S. Peck, our stipendiary magistrate, together with Mrs. Peck and Miss Minnie Hartell, is away on a visit to his farm in Dakota. The party is expected to return about the middle of September.

A NEW STEAM SAW MILL.—Mr. James Bryant is about erecting and equipping a steam saw mill in Lutterworth township. With Mr. Bryant's energy there can scarcely be an impediment to the success of the enterprise.

COMPLIMENTARY PICNIC.—A picnic was held on Gull Lake on Thursday last in celebration of the return for a short visit to Minden of Mr. Whiteside, late stipendiary magistrate here and now holding a position in the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice in Toronto. Notwithstanding the intense heat and the busy season, a goodly number of citizens attended the picnic, which speaks well for the estimation in which Mr. Whiteside was held during his official incumbency here, and the esteem in which Mrs. Whiteside was also held. The holiday was very much enjoyed by the participants. Mr. and Mrs. Whiteside took their departure for Toronto on Monday.—Echo, Aug. 21.

BELLEVILLE.

SPECIAL MISSION TO THE JEWS.—Rev. Mr. Schuster has gone to Montreal for a few days to gather information regarding facts upon which to work in organizing a special mission to the Jews. He hopes to secure the interest and aid of many of the members of the British Association, now meeting at Montreal. He evidently believes that religion and science should go hand in hand.

HOSPITAL AND HOME.—The first sod of the Hospital and Home has been turned by Mrs. Jones, President of the Women's Christian Association, a number of those who have actively interested themselves in the work being present. Mrs. Jones, in turning the sod, said:—"In the name of the Women's Christian Association, with deep gratitude to God, I turn this first sod of the Hospital and Home." May the work be continued with vigor until our hopes and desires are crowned by the erection of such a Hospital and Home as will be a credit to Belleville and productive of a great good to the country at large.—Intelligencs

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Personal.

Miss Jennie Butcher, daughter of the Rev. J. W. Butcher, has accepted the position of teacher in the Ladies' College, Oshawa.

Board of Health.

On account of a meeting of the Town Council there will be no meeting of the Board of Health this evening.

Lively and Beautiful.

The Mail says that the York Pioneers' excursion was "to the beautiful town of Peterborough," and the Globe speaks of this place in the same connection as "the lively town of Peterborough."

Waterworks.

Water pipes are at present being laid along Charlotte street. The workmen have to labor under difficulties. When the trench is sunk about five feet deep little springs are met with which speedily flood the bottom. A man has to be constantly pumping out the water to make it tolerable for the workmen to do their duty.

Where There's a Will There's a Way.

"Necessity is the mother of invention." Anyone who does not believe the adage needs only to visit Ashburnham and see the village urchins play a parody on lacrosse. A buckled leather strap serves as a ball and straight sticks serve as lacrosses. The juvenile population take as much fun and excitement out of this game as our 'crossmen take out of the original.

Base Ball Notes.

A return match will take place next week between the Silver Star and Peterborough base ball clubs. After this match it is probable that the clubs will amalgamate. Another match is being arranged between the Silver Stars and the cricketers. It is proposed that a strong team be sent to participate in the Lindsay base ball tournament which takes place in that town on the 16th and 17th of September.

A New Cutter at the City Clothing Store.

Our genial friend LeBrun, at the above popular establishment, has secured the services of Mr. R. G. Kilpatrick, as cutter, and is, as usual, ready with a complete new stock of Fall Goods, which he will be pleased to make up in the finest styles for all those desirous of wearing nothing but elegant and neat-fitting clothing. Call and leave your measure and get the latest cut.

More Features and More Entries.

The latest feature in the Chemong Lake regatta is the sailing race. As some of our local sailors wished to take part in the regatta, Mr. Fobert very magnanimously ordered suitable medals for that event. The canoe race promises to be one of the most interesting. We understand no less than five champions intend putting in an appearance, namely, Messrs. Weller, Adams and Fitzgerald, of Peterborough, Mr. Nichols, of Smith, and Mr. Cochrane, of Lakefield.

Journalistic.

We have received a copy of the first issue of the Echo, a new paper which has made its appearance in Minden, being published by Messrs. Brown & Small. The Echo is not small, being a four page paper, each page containing seven columns, and cannot be called brown, as it is bright and lively. The publishers' ideas, rather than their names, evidently effect the new journal. It is well supplied with local news and interesting general reading matter. Typographically it presents a good appearance, and the Echo, to all appearances, will probably catch up and waft the news of Minden and Haliburton to its readers for a long time.

We claim to show in our furnishing window this evening a rang of Ties unequalled in the Province. Andrew McNeil.

Opening of the Driving Park.

The Peterbrorugh Driving Park will be opened on Thursday, September 4th, by having a series of races. An excellent programme has been arranged. We will give fuller particulars in a later issue.

The Weather.

The readings of the Thermometer and Barometer in Mr. G. W. Morgan's drug store today were as follows:—

	Thermometer.	Barometer.
Nine o'clock	61°	29.15
One o'clock	79°	29.10
Three o'clock.	80°	29.08

A Large Egg.

Mr. O-way Carver, of North Monaghan, left with us this morning an egg of more than ordinary proportions. The egg was the production of a Black Spanish hen; it had two yolks, and it weighed 4¼ oz. If the time comes when eggs will be sold by weight no doubt this specimen of poultry will be kept with profit.

Band Competition.

The members of the Fire Brigade Band have returned from Bowmanville. The band played in the competition there which had been arranged by the band of the Dominion Organ & Paino Company. There were four entries and the Waterloo band took first prize, Preston second, and the Fire Brigade Band third. The Waterloo band had the advantage of having reed instruments, but the members of the Peterborough band express disatisfaction with the award in in regard to the second prize. The judges were Messrs. W. Cary, Kingston; Geo. Robinson, bandmaster 13th battalion, Hamilton, and St. John Hyttenbranch, Alma College, London.

An Enjoyable Picnic.

On Wednesday morning the Golden-Eye moved out from her wharf with a goodly number of Saved Army votaries on board. They intended to go down the river and picnic at Idyl Wild. When the locks was reached the boat, on account of the low water, grounded on a beam and it was found impossible to proceed further with the steamer. Mr. Sproule called on all who wished to return and refunded them their money, and the rest of the excursionists proceeced down the river on a scow. The experience was indeed novel, and everyone seemed to enjoy the fun. Crawford's Grove was reached and the day was pleasantly spent in the usual picnic way. 'Busses were engaged from town and the picnickers conveyed home, arriving at half-past seven. All unite in saying that it was one of the most pleasant picnics they ever attended

Resolutions of Thanks.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the St. Andrews Society, held in their Committee room on 25th instant, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted, viz.:—

Moved by JOHN ESKINE Esq., 1st V. P. seconded by J. NOBLE, That the thanks of the Society are due and are hereby tendered to the Mayor and Council of the town, for the use of the Drill Shed and grounds, and the Court House Park—on the occasion of the excursion from Toronto of the Sons of Scotland.

Moved by W. CUMMING, seconded by ARCHIBALD MOFFAT,—That the thanks of the society are due and are hereby tendered to the Trustees of the Separate School Board for having granted the "Sons of Scotland" the free use of their School grounds on the occasion of the excursion from Toronto.

Moved by JOHN PATTERSON, seconded by W. H. ROBERTSON,—That the thanks of the Society are specially due and are hereby tendered to the merchants and others who displayed bunting &c. &c., and the public generally who so largely contributed to the comfort and pleasure of the Sons of Scotland on the occasion of their excursion.

Twenty-Five Performing Elephants.

This famous collection of Hippodrome, Menagerie, Circus, Trained Animals, etc., is to exhibit here on Monday, Sept. 15. The present is the twentieth annual tour of the establishment. A sensational feature of the show is a troupe of Twenty-five Peforming Elephants: they all appear in the arena at the same time and execute an elephantine dance, form pyramids, play upon musical instruments, and engage in a series of military evolutions. Among the myriad of attractions in the triple circus and hippodrome is the celebrated equestrienne, Miss Lizzie Deacon, whose romantic career with the Empress of Austria renders her such a great curiosity. All the riding is upon barebacked horses, and the veteran manager claims that he has the largest tented exhibition ever seen in the United States. The hippodrome track is a full half mile in circumference. All the riders are from the Old World, genuine English jockeys, and thoroughbred English race-horses, appear in the different races, as well as a troupe of French female race-riders and chariot-drivers.

Come to headquarters for your furnishings. No dead stock all fresh and new at Andrew McNeil's.

Harvest Home Festival.

A grand excursion, harvest home festival and concert, will be held on Tuesday, September 9th, under the auspices of the South Monaghan Agricultural Society. The Golden-Eye has been chartered and will leave Peterborough at 10 a. m. and proceed to Faucher's Park calling at points along the river. Double carriages have been engaged to drive the excursionists from the park to Centreville during the day free of charge. The festival will be held in the Agricultural Hall at one o'clock, and the following prominent gentlement are expected to address the assemblage:—Messrs. G. Hilliard, M. P.; Geo. A. Cox, Mayor of Peterborough; J. Carnegie, M. P.P.; J. Bertram; J. J. Lundy, ex-Mayor; John Burnham, M.P.; and Thos. Blezard, M. P.P. In the afternoon a lacrosse match will be played between clubs from Millbrook and Peterborough, for a handsome silver cup. In the evening a grand concert will be held in the Agricultural Hall. The O'Brey Anglo-Musical and Humerous Entertainment Company has been engaged for the occasion. Vocalists from Peterborough and other places are expected to be present. The boat will leave Faucher's Park at 9 p.m. Tickets for the round trip 50 cents; tickets for the festival 25 cents; tickets for the concert 25 cents; to be had at the REVIEW office or at the wharf. Any information regarding the festival may be had by corresponding with Mr. Thos. M. Willan, South Monaghan.

HARVEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NAVIGATION RE-OPENED.—The steamer Maple Leaf, Mr. Parker Davis, owner, is now plying the waters between Bobcaygeon and Bridgenorth four days during the week—on Mondays, Friday's and Saturdays. This is very convenient for the farmers of Harvey district bordering on Pigeon Lake, as they can go to Peterborough to trade and return on the same day. We hope Mr. Davis will receive the patronage he so honorably deserves.

PUBLIC OFFENCE.—Some precocious person or persons have been busy in again using the blackboard of the school in section 3 as a playcard. The motive which prompts such an action could only be entertained by those who have lost all self respect as well as the consideration due to another's interests. We hope such will not be committed again.

HO FOR HARVEY.—This is the cry of the peddlers, who are continually travelling through this section on their leaving Peterborough. The feel confident in relying on the good nature of the Harvey people. But now as opposition is working to its highest pitch, they are beginning to dispute each other's right's. One of our first arrivals, who, as we can say, offers a good assortment at moderate prices, is followed by a second party who authorizes himself to act as detective, besides following the peddling profession. The second party is on the "wake" of the poor unfortunate, whom he intends to seize for not acting under a license. Although the said deetetive pretends to have a general store on wheels, his stock asserted to be valued at $1,600, composes of all articles to be found under the sun, yet we wish our old friend with his one horse affair, a happy escape from his rival, who proclaims himself such an important personage, perched on his palatial car.

Bed-Bugs, Flies.

Flies, roaches, ants, bed-bugs, rats, mice, gophers, chipmunks cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c.

The Woman's Physician.

A common sense medical work for ladies only. Fully answers all questions which modesty prevents asking a male physician. Gives causes and symptoms of all diseases of the sex, with positive cure for each in plain language, written by ladies who have made these diseases a life study. A plain talk in delicate language which every woman, young and old, should read. It is recommended by many eminent lady physicians as a safe guide for the sex. Handsomely bound and illustrated. Sent postpaid for $1.00. Address the ROCHESTER PUBLISHING Co., 32, 33 & 33½ Osburn Block, Rochester, N.Y.

GENERAL GORDON'S RESCUE.

Canadian Boatmen Employed to Navigate the Nile Rapids.

OTTAWA, Aug. 25.—Arrangements have been completed here by agents of the British Government for securing the services of six hundred Canadian boatmen, to be employed in the work of navigating vessels through the rapids of the river Nile, in connection with the expedition for the relief of Gordon. Mr. J. T. Lambert, of this city, has undertaken to obtain the men, who will receive an outfit and be paid as high as fifty dollars a month and found. It is expected that this Canadian boat brigade will be collected and equipped, and be ready to leave Quebec by the thirteenth of Septemcer.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts. to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough it never fails. This explains why more than a million bottle were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's porous plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

SO MODEST A VIRTUE
AS
GOODNESS
Runs Through Our Stock From Silks and Broadcloths to Spools and Suspenders.

We combine with this virtue low prices—though people are often more impressed with the latter than the former. But our prices are high enough to make sound business! low enough to make business grow! Isn't this logic? and logic applied to business. Logic alone won't sell the goods, so we combine the goods and the prices, and take our customers' orders.

We're selling everything at fully a third off—in some cases one-half off.

Our goods were not bought to sell so, but they're just the same, in material and work, as when they bring more money.

What we want to make sure of is that you know of the opportunity, and can use it if you need.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you, SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system.

For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh, CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

ULCEROUS SORES "Hutto, Tex., Sept. 28, 1882. "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore.

SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results.

Yours truly, B. F. JOHNSON."
